CAPTIONS FOR PAGE OF PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE KENTUCKY AND VIRGINIA DAMERONS

Top Row: REV. WILLIAM HENRY DAMERON, of Brunswick County, Va. His grandson, M.F. Cleaton, of Roanoke, Va. sent me this picture and wrote: "My grandfather, William H. Dameron, started the Methodist Church in his section by teaching Sunday School in his living room. He was an intelligent man, with a wonderful wife to help him. He had a good library. He started Good Hope, Shady Grove, Liberty, still at Alberta. He gave the five acres and mostly built the church. He was ordained at Elizabeth City, N.C. by Bishop Marvin (hence my name). He never took pay for preaching but some way he was fairly prosperous, owned farms, store and mill. He left several small notes, he had helped people, they were worthless. This shows the kind of man he was, a real Dameron. There was nothing soft or mushy about him. He helped other denominations hold evangelistic services. The name of his main church was the Liberty Church, Methodist Episcopal, Alberta, Brunswick County, Va. which he built. My grandfather had four sons, 1 daughter (my mother). Two sons died in the Civil War of fever. The other two, Joseph and John, had families. Joseph lived in Brunswick County, near Smoky Ordinary, and had eight children, William, George, John and Walter, all dead but Walter. John married Tempie Williams and had a family, the four boys were Barker, M.D., dead, William, a banker in Warrenton, N.C. etc. Barker Dameron lives in Rockymount, N.C. where he is a successful insurance and business man. John Dameron, Petersburg, Va. is the son of Joseph's son John. Miss Tempie Dameron of Warrenton, N.C. is a graduate of Greensboro, N.C. College and was a missionary to Korea several years ago. I have a nephew, Hugh Leach, who is President of the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond, Va. His brother, Archer, is a prominent accountant, Leach & others. I have retired from the real estate, sales, rental and developing of land companies. I am still building for sale and rentals. I was born Sept. 4th, 1878, am still a young man, expect to devote my time to building. I sold out my real estate and rental and insurance business. I was born in Greensville County, adjoining Brunswick Co. about eight miles from grandfather William Henry Dameron. My mother inherited his home place, now a part of Alberta. The S.A. L.R.R. crosses the Virginian here. It is certainly wonderful of you to give so much of time and effort to the Dameron genealogy work and I want to thank you for myself and I am sure for others of the Dameron kin folks, and if you write to the others who did so much work, thank them for me and for others who I know appreciate the efforts of all of you."

JULIA MANGUM, wife of Rev. W. H. Dameron 1809-1892. She was b. 3-1-1812, d. 2-18-1892, and was the daughter of Col. Joshua Mangum, C.S.A., of North Hampton County, N.C. They were married 12-14-1836.

Dear Sir:

I am writing to you regarding the article published in the June 1971 issue of the JAMA regarding the use of the term "myocardial infarction" in the medical literature. I am a physician and a member of the American Medical Association. I am writing to you because I am concerned about the accuracy of the information presented in the article and the potential for confusion among the medical community.

The article states that the term "myocardial infarction" is used interchangeably with "heart attack" and "myocardial infarction" is a more precise term. I am writing to you because I am concerned about the accuracy of the information presented in the article and the potential for confusion among the medical community.

"The oath transcribed above was recorded at a court held for the county of Northumberland on the 13th day of April 1652, the testimonial of George Fletcher having been executed in advance of the meeting of the court. This date was approximately one month after the ship bearing Cromwell's Commissioners drew up before Jamestown and demanded the surrender of Virginia. Although the Virginians were prepared to resist, they held a conference with the Commissioners and surrendered after due deliberation, realizing that the odds were against them."

* * * * *

(Note by HFS: In 1649 the Virginia Merchant arrived in Virginia with about 300 Cavalier refugees and the Northern Neck was the place they hoped to live as it was under patent to the Culpeppers, whowere Cavaliers. It was issued by the King 1649 and an Act of Parliament declared it forfeit in 1651. A Virginia Puritan, Richard Bennett, became Governor of Virginia Apr. 30, 1652. Virginia, like England and New England, was a Republic until 1660 when the Restoration of Charles II took place. In 1651 Cromwell had shipped 1,610 prisoners of war taken at Worcester, mostly Scots, to Virginia. The Balls and Washingtons were Royalist sympathizers. Above Andrew Monroe was the ancestor of the President. The Lees were also Cavaliers. The word Cavalier meant on the side of the King, common soldiers were also called so.

It was Louise H. Dameron, now living in Sarasota, Florida, who had Mrs. Keach do her Dameron genealogy many years ago and many additional notes are to be found in the appendices to this book. Mrs. Keach wrote to her: "My descent is from Lawrence Dameron's son George and my great-grandfather was Thomas, Sr. who was the neighbor of Thomas, Jr. My mother was the youngest child of parents who were not young. . . Two very good genealogists gave me assistance in the Dameron records some years ago. They went to Northumberland County for me. Then in addition I had a copyist afterwards at work for nearly two years. That will give you a feeling that what is sent is authoritative. The Damerons were singularly free from the early scandals though there are necessarily some members in so large a family who were not specially creditable.

"I have gone through more than two hundred pages of copies from record books and as many from Order Books. After the work is done it looks easy enough but there are always many problems to make out and prove, where there are so many of the same 'given name.' But in this case, the proof that Thomas Dameron, Jr. is your Thomas who went to Kentucky is perfect and absolute and no one could be more surprised than I am at finding the records so complete...

"The Damerons were land-owning and will-making people and it is a satisfaction to trace one's descent without a break on a straight line back to the immigrant from England."

In the Colonial Dames records, Mrs. Otis A. Keach is No. 1511, 1915, thus:

" Anna Frances Handley, seventh in descent from Capt. John Haynie;

Grace Haynie Ball, daughter of Anthony Haynie, grand-daughter of Capt. John Haynie;

Capt. John Haynie, Burgess, County Surveyor, King's Attorney, gentleman Justice and officer in the Susquehanna War, 1676."

Louise H. Dameron also wrote: "The name Dameron means wisdom and knowledge. French spellings: Damelon, Demolin, Demuleen, Demoulin. Compounds: Damer-D'Amour- Demar- Demier- Demory- Dimier- Dameron. Have destroyed the original copy of this and did not save the reference. I found it in the New York Library. I also had a record of a deposition by Dorothy and Bartholomew (I think) to the effect that Simon Bashford and his wife were married at the home of Mr. George Dameron. It was to prove his identity so he could claim some property in England. I have a Campbell County, Ky. record "Thomas L. Dameron and Susan Kiser, 5 Dec. 1850." Do not know where these belong. The Kiser family lived in Campbell Co. I knew a Miss Marshall Kiser who went to Hawaii and married a sugar planter there. The last I heard of her she was a widow and living in Texas. Do not know who the parents of Thomas L. were."

Mrs. Cornelius tried to trace down the theory that the wife of Bartholomew Dameron¹ was Elizabeth, dau. of Christopher Garlington, and wrote: "The following Court orders are all there are in regards to Christopher Garlington's children. Their names are not known: "Northumberland County C.O. 1678-1713, p. 2, Aug. 21, 1678, Petition of Mrs. Joane Garlington, Relict of Mr. Xpher Garlington for her third & for dividing Est. between said Joane and the children of said Garlington." Also: "Northumberland County, C. O. Book, 1699-1713, p. 211, July 15, 1702, George Dameron, orphan son of George Dameron chose Mr. Chris. Garlington guardian." The Will of Christopher Garlington² refers to "brother Maurice Jones," but not to any Dameron connection.

The following notes were taken from Swem's Virginia Historical Index by Julia Dameron Old:

25 William and Mary (1), p. 46. Elizabeth Dameron m. Samuel Downing... (p. 48-9), by the death of her brother Thomas Dameron, Jr., she inherited from her grandfather, Thomas Hughlett... Sam'l Downing married about 1742, Elizabeth Dameron, dau. of Mr. Thomas Dameron and Katherine Hughlett, his wife... is mentioned in the will of her father, Thomas Dameron, dated Apr. 17, 1751, proved May 10, 1751 . . . Aug. 4, 1748, John Dameron was exec. of Samuel Snow. p. 99 Thomas Downing, son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Dameron) Downing... p. 100. John Downing b. May 1, 1755, son of Samuel and Elizabeth Dameron Downing.

P. 256--Elizabeth Dennis afterwards married George Dameron...

P. 262 John Waddy m. Elizabeth Dameron, dau. of Geo. and Margaret Taylor Dameron.

P. 263: Issue: 1. Thomas Waddy, son, m. Ann Dameron. 2. _____. 3. Elizabeth Waddy m. Joseph Dameron Jan. 8, 1759 . . . Joseph Dameron in right of his wife, Elizabeth... asked for a division of John Waddy's estate... Elizabeth (Waddy) Dameron m. secondly, Robert Pinckard. She died in 1758... Son Thomas Waddy and son-in-law Joseph Dameron were administrators of her considerable estate.

Further notes from Jennie Harding Cornelius, July 4, 1953: "The Court Orders from 1720 to 1756 are in the State Library (Richmond) and they will not let us have them back, which was in the agreement when they were taken away from here... they take the place of many records that are lost, burned etc. There is not a record book for 1673-1705, 1714-1717, 1729-1737, which is necessary for search in this county.

"In regards to the finding of Samuel Dameron, the son of Lawrence, this is all you will ever find of this. Mr. Fleet made abstract of the C.O. and since then Mr. Duvall has made abstracts of them and he got what Mr. Fleet did not get, and it is not in either one of their abstracts. I have here every entry from their records on the Damerons. It could be some of the court orders were lost as pages were loose in the books, when they were taken from the Clerk's Office here. Some of the Damerons you do not have may have died between 1729-37, and the will not available but the court order you have of Chris. Dameron presenting the will of his brother Bartholo. Dameron is right, I am sure, and for this reason the Court Orders for this period should be searched. I cannot say who the father of William is as I do not have the Court Orders to find out. The inventory, would not give anything but his personal estate (of William, I mean), only his Admrs. name perhaps, and appraisers. I will look at this for you. There are some Damerons who spell their name Damerol here in this county and they later went to Lancaster. I had a very distant relative who married a Miss Damerol; his son is now a Methodist minister. A Charles Dameron will 1827 spells his name Damron, and it is found many ways. I can borrow Overwharton's Parish Register and see if there are any Dameron births in it, but this I doubt. As to the entry about Steph. Kean, it is from Mr. Duvall's abstracts and that is all there is for you to get, unless the deed can be read in Book 1710-13 (it was Steph. not Selph Kean, for the item on Jane and Lawrence Dameron), which I doubt. The year for 1713 cannot be read due to fading. A photostatic copy is here and the ink is run together, not indexed. If Lawrence had a son Samuel, he Lawrence (1) must have been married before he married Dorothy and this son came with him, but in the grants he is not mentioned as coming. He could have been of age at that time. This Joseph you have found in Boutetourt, I am sure is the son of Thomas d. 1766--he may be found in Augusta."

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. It begins with the first settlers, who came to the Americas in search of a new life. They found a land of opportunity, but also one of hardship. The early years were marked by struggle and sacrifice, as the settlers fought to establish a new society. Over time, the United States grew from a small colony into a powerful nation. It faced many challenges, including war and economic hardship, but it always emerged stronger and more united. The story of the United States is a testament to the power of the human spirit and the ability of a people to overcome adversity. It is a story of hope and dreams, of a land where everyone has the chance to make their own destiny. The history of the United States is a story that continues to inspire and guide us today.

EXCERPTS FROM THE LAW ORDER BOOKS OF ALBERTARLE COUNTY, VIRGINIA

By Alice Mary Aiken

"This report and that sent previously comprise the whole first book of over 400 pages. The next several order books have been destroyed. No Damerons are listed in the index of this first book although Ladds are. We find out from this material that Lazarus Dameron was a shoemaker and that he had his two apprentices, mentioned in his will, John Ward and English McCoy,*bound out by St. Ann's Parish and Joshua Fry surveyed land for John and George Dameron from June, 1746 to June, 1747, and for Lazarus Dameron from June 1745 to June 1746. John Dameron's survey was Nov. 8, 1746, in the plot book. George Dameron's was Nov. 29, 1746, plot book. Lazarus Dameron's survey was Mar. 25-6, 1746, according to the plot book.

"Dr. John W. Wayland of Harrisonburg, Va. historian and writer, says that at this early time sometimes permission was given to proceed with surveys while the formalities of recording patents were completed a year later."

JOHN NICHOLAS."

In the Surveyors' Book in the County Clerk's office, Albemarle, she also found the following all in 1746: 374 acres on Huff Creek surveyed for John Wheeler; plot of 400 acres on Cary Creek surveyed for Benjamin Woodson; Philip Morris, 400 acres on fork of Rockfish Creek (now in Nelson Co. just over the line); 300 acres on Holliday River surveyed for John Ward; 100 acres on South side of Fluvanna River joining Major Allen Howard's back line surveyed for John Thomas; 81 ac. on north side of Rockfish River (Nelson Co. now) surveyed for Thos. Henderson.

In Charlottesville, in the Surveyors' Book No. I, 1744-1755, of Albemarle Co., Alimae Aiken also found the following items:

1746 Plot of 200 acres on the branches of Woodsons Creek surveyed for John Dameron, joining Benj. Woodson and _____ Dameron.

1746 Lazarus Dameril 212 acres on north side of Fluvanna River surveyed for Lazarus Dameril. (There never has been a Fluvanna River--the people in that section gave this name to the lower James after the Rivanna River flowed into it.--A.A.)

1746 George Dameril, Plot of 147 acres on Fluvanna River surveyed for George Dameril.

1749 George Dameron 400 acres on North side of Hardware River and on Briery Creek surveyed for George Dameron.

She also made copies of the following deeds: 1749 George Damron to John Peter, south side of Fluvanna River; 1767 George Damron to George Hilton, from Hugh Morris to Bryery Creek; 1752, George Dameril to Thomas Tilman, on Hardware River; 1750 John Wheeler to John Dameron, Huffs Creek; 1776 Charles Dameron to Robert Lilly, Woodson's Creek; 1776 Charles Damron to Hugh Rice Morris (power of attorney). She also found that in 1755 George Dameron was patentee for 400 acres on north side of Hardware River and Briery Creek.

She has an accurate copy of the will of Lazarus Dameron which gives the names of the witnesses as: John Galey, Junr., John Peter, William Creasy, proved Feb. 14, 1749. It was recorded "At the motion of John Dameron & John Thomas, two executors therein named, who made oath according to law. Certificate is granted them for obtaining a probat thereof in due form, giving security on which they with Matthew Jordon and Hugh Morris, their securities, entered into and acknowledged their Bond."

In the Surveyors' Book, No. 1, Part 2, 1756-1790, she found the following for Moses Dameron: "This is a plot of Ninety-nine acres of land lying on both sides of Damron's Creek and the north side of Fluvanna River in Albemarle County, Surveyed for Moses Dameron 15th Nov. 1760, by John Staples.

"This is a plot of 175 acres of land lying on the branches Red Bank and Damron's Creeks in Albemarle County, surveyed for Moses Dameron 15th June, 1761, John Staples.

"Surveyors Book No. 1, Part I, 1744-1755: This is a plot of 200 acres land lying among the branches of Harris Creek, Surveyed for Amos Ladd Jan. 12, 1754, Thos. Turpin."

She also has complete copies of the following: Deed Book 1, p. 137, from George Dameron to John Peter, of 147 acres granted by patent Dec. 1, 1748, south of the Fluvanna "beginning at Michael Thomas white oak corner...to Major Allen Howard's white oak corner, up the river." The 10 L was acknowledged 15 Nov. 1749 by George Dameron. Relinquishment of dower rights were made by "Anne Thene Dameron" as I read it from a tracing, but it has also been read Thana. The Thene is written exactly as in George. However, on the deed to Tilman is a clearly written An Thany Dameril. (Note by H.F.S. If this were a French Huguenot name Thone, it would be pronounced Toney or Taney if spelled Thene.) The deed from George Dameron to Thomas Tilman, Feb. 11, 1752, is signed and sealed by "George Dameril" and "An Thany Dameril," in presence of Matthew Jordan, Alexdr. McCaul, Thomas Thornell. It sells to Tilman 400 acres in Albemarle "on both sides of Hardwar River...beginning at Benjamin Woodson's corner red oak on the north side of the River and running across the same south...crossing Hardwar River...to Woodson's corner" etc. for 100 L, acknowledged the same day. This refers to "George Dameron & Ann Thany his wife in Albemarle County." The deed to Peter refers to "George Dameron of the Parish of St. Ann's and County of Albemarle. Tilton's refers to George of Buckingham.

The full copy of the deed from "George Damron of Buckingham County of the one part and George Hilton, Jr. of the County of Amherst, the other part" shows that he sold for 50 L 300 acres in Albemarle "Beginning at a Spanish Oak corner of Hugh Morris & with his line 2⁰ to Bryery Creek...thence on John Moore's line to the first station," witnesses Wm. Stone, Marbel Stone, Hezekiah Stone, dated Aug. 8, 1767.

The deed dated 13 Oct. 1750 "between John Wheeler of the Parish of St. Ann's and County of Albemarle of the one part and John Dameron of the same county and parish of the other...for the sum of seven pounds currt. money of Virginia...doth grant bargain and sell...one certain tract...containing 374 acres...in the county of Albemarle on Huff's Creek...Beginning at a White Oak and running north...crossing the creek to a white oak north." Witnesses were Henry Trent, Thomas Lawhorn, Geo. Dameron.

The full deed dated Oct. 22, 1776 "between Charles Damron of the County of Albemarle of the one part and Robert Lilly of the said county of the other part, for...the sum of thirty two pounds ten shillings current money of Virginia...doth bargain and sell alien and confirm...a certain tract or parcell of land containing 200 acres lying and being in the aforesaid county of Albemarle on the branches of Woodson's Creek...Beginning at Pointers upon Benjamin Woodson's line...to a white oak upon Richard Damron's line with the said line, south 65° East 20 poles to pointers South...to the first station and now in the possession of the said Robert Lilley." It was signed by Charles with an X and witnesses were Thomas Staples, Nich. Hamner, Henry Wood, William Rogers, Hugh Rice Morris.

A note reads: "There are no marriages recorded in Albemarle County, Va. before 1781, destroyed by the British in June 4, 1781. The only Damron marriage in Albemarle County up to 1844 is Little P. Damrol to Susannah Turner April 22, 1801, and there are no Ladd marriages here. Dameron wills recorded in Albemarle Co., Va. are: Richard, d. 1749, Lazarous, 1749; John, inventory 1757. In the First Court Order Book, Albemarle County, Va. 1744-1747, the name of Lazarus Dameron is found July, 1745. In this same book there is the notice of the will of Amos Ladd, Nov. 28, 1745, witnesses Edward Lamb Parsons & John Dameron."

Another note reads: "I don't know where I got this but it is in my notes: John Dameron born Jan. 12, 1757, married 1779 or 80 Anna Ladd, and Noble Ladd married 1753 Judith Dameron, married in Brunswick Co., Virginia."

The Index in the Clerk's Office, Albemarle County, Va. shows the following:

1839 William Damron to S.F. Leake, Deed of Trust, Per Prop, Book 3, p. 43.
1857 William Damron from Ira Garrett, clerk, lot in Warren, Book 56, p. 473.

1836 Julia Damron to Henry Rittenhouse, Dower 188 acres, Book 33, p. 197.

A note by A.A. said: "An old history of Albemarle Co. publ. in 1900 by Rev. Edgar Woods states that John and Julia (Thurmond) Damron went to Lincoln County, Missouri, no dates given."

Another list shows the Dameron wills in Virginia up to 1800: Lancaster County, John Dameron 1782, Rachel 1796; Northumberland Co., Jessee, 1790, Mary, 1799, Joseph 1759, will; Christopher, 1766, will, George 1784, Inv.

LAZARUS DAMERON, EARLY SETTLER OF ALBEMARLE COUNTY, VA.

Lazarus Dameron and his children came to Albemarle County, when it was still a wilderness. The Court Order Book of Albemarle County, 1744-1748, has an item "Nov. 14, 1746 Wolf's Heads. To George Dameron for seven young at 70 . . . 490. To William Woodson for one Young at 70.... 140." This refers to pounds of tobacco. The History of Albemarle County by Woods, p. 13, says: "The scalps of wolves were reported in large numbers. One hundred and forty pounds of tobacco were allowed for the scalp of an old wolf, and seventy-five for that of a young one, that is, one under six months old. When tobacco ceased to be a circulating medium, twelve and six dollats were given as the premiums. These reports continued with more or less regularity in subsequent years down to 1849, the last on record, when Isaac W. Garth was awarded twelve dollars for killing an old wolf. Jonathan Barksdale, Samuel Jameson, William Ramsey and Ryland Rodes, are names which appear most frequently in this connection. In 1835, Lewis Snow received a dollar and a half for the scalp of a red fox. The Court agitated the removal of these premiums once or twice after 1849, but there is no indication that their offer was ever made."

In this same Law Order Book I, are other items in Albemarle County:

July 25, 1745, p. 34: "On the petition of the inhabitants in the Fork of the James River leave is granted them to clear a road from the Court House to Shepard's Foard from thence to Benjamin Woodsons Foard and from thence to Doct^r Hopkin's Road. Ordered that Lazarus Dameron, George Hilton and Benjamin Woodson be overseers of the said road."

The original farm of Lazarus Dameron was in Porter's Precinct, Albemarle County, according to Alimae Aiken. It was near the land which Peter Jefferson, father of President Thomas Jefferson, bought of Noble Ladd, on the James River--which was then called Fluvanna above where the Hardware River flows into it. The Old Surveyor's Book, 1744,-1755, Albemarle Co., in 1754 has an item for Peter Jefferson: "This is an inclusive plot of 2050 acres of Land Lying on the South side of the Fluvanna River. Opposite to Totier Creek in Albemarle County. 400 acres of which purchased of Noble Ladd and the other part being new land." Noble Ladd was the father of Anne Ladd who m. Capt. John Damron. Peter Jefferson died 1757, and was a surveyor.

There is also in the vicinity of Lazarus land a survey by Wm. Caball, surveyor, "A Plot of 150 Acres on the South side of Fluvanna. Surveyed for Bishop Toney May 20th, 1747." This may be the family of Anne Thany or Thone or Toney, wife of George Dameron, as it is the only name found similar to the peculiar spelling, which may also be pronounced Taney. A deed book for Albemarle shows also in 1924 Lester G. Toney, age 52, and Blanche Toney, age 50, both of Bluefield, W. Va., nephew and niece of Rudolph L. Goodman (deceased) of Albemarle Co., Va. inherited part of his estate.

Alimae Aiken made a trip to Esmont, Va. in 1954, to find the home place of Lazarus Dameron and wrote the following:

"I went to Esmont, Va. which is about four miles from the voting place in Porter's Precinct. My purpose was to try to find the grave yard spoken of in the will of Robert Damron of Lynchburg, Va. 1912. In this will he requests his executors to erect tombs to his mother Hannah M. and two brothers Lindsey C., and George J. and put a fence around the grave yard. His father William is mentioned at the end of the will. I wanted to see if earlier members of the family were buried there also.

"In Esmont I talked with Mrs. Thomas, a dear old lady in her eighties. She told me of the exact spot right behind a certain store where a church and cemetery once were located. She said that the cemetery was exceedingly old and in ruins when she played in it as a child and that it was the only one which had ever been in that district, public or private. I went there and found no holes to fall into which Mrs. Thomas said were there but a perfectly level plowed field. No signs whatsoever that a cemetery and church had once been there. It gave me a very queer and angry pulsation. Another nice elderly lady in Esmont said she did remember that there was once a small private cemetery long ago on Mr. Gilmore's place and that a negro named Simpson had owned the land afterwards and long ago this negro had sold it to another negro. I hunted it but could not drive my car back in the woods on an impossible road so had to give up. It was once a good white community but for quite a few years negroes have owned all the land there. They could tell me nothing. I doubt if the graveyard mentioned in the will was the public one with the church which had been pbwed over. It was likely private. The last lady with whom I talked doubted if tombs and a fence had ever been erected. This William who was the father of Robert and Lindsey C.--to whom did he belong? Mrs. Thomas was a Childress and knew nothing about the Thomas and Dameron early history."

Alimae Aiken also wrote: "Lazarus lived on the north side of the Fluvanna (James) in Porter's Precinct. The other Damerons did not so far as I know live in this precinct--the Hardware River Damerons. In the recent surveyors' plots which I sent you in 1760 and 1761 Moses Dameron brought land on the north side of the Fluvanna along Dameron and Red Bank Creeks. When Gordon Dameron and his mother, Mrs. Ada, of Scottsville, Va., said that their farm on the Hardware was the original Dameron farm, I don't think it could have been Lazarus' as he lived down on the Fluvanna, according to the surveyor's plot. One of the others owned it."

A letter from Mrs. P. P. Thomas, Sr., Esmont, Va. to Alimae Aiken June 1, 1954, said: "I understand your letter, so we will skip all about the plowed over cemetery. I think I told you it had been turned into a garden. If the graves you mentioned are on a farm described by Mrs. Lane as the Gilmore farm near Porter's Precinct, and described in Mr. Robert Dameron's will as being on the John E. Eubank farm near Porter's Precinct and owned by a Mr. Williams, I guess it is the same farm my father, J. H. Childress, lived on for one year in 1879 when I was five years old. Now, although I was so young then, and now am 80 years old, I distinctly remember there was one or two graves there. I am certain of one, I had not thought of them in years, but the letter brought it back to me, also that a young colored woman was buried there. I have a recollection of seeing her in her coffin. She was a mulatto. The grave or graves I remember were built up high (old time way and the dirt was so red, and they were not in woods then. The old home my father lived in was torn down years ago when Coleman Simpson bought it. He built another house. That too is gone now. A niece of his lives not so far from the colored school. I never heard of the man Eubank or the Mr. Williams. My brother is 15 years younger than me so I doubt if he knows anything about it. Mr. Knick Thomas died Sept. 9th, 1909. Mr. T. H. Childress (my father) died in 1928, July 19th. I know of no old negroes who can help. I hope this will help you some. Very truly, MRS. P. P. THOMAS. P. S. I remember my older sister and I used to pick wild flowers and put them on the grave or graves. They had wooden boards at head and foot. Seems to me the grave was near a negro woman's home. There were two (what was called) negro quarters not so far from the main house."

She also received a letter from Mrs. B. L. Leap, Scottsville, Va. who owns part of the Gordon Dameron place: "I have tried to find you some information but had very little success. All of the old people are gone from here now. My deed gave no Dameron name so it was a long time ago. At one time a Monroe Dameron did live here--had some girls--moved to Lynchburg to send them to school. One girl Sallie married a Walker Parrish, don't know where that family is. There is a Mrs. Parrish in Lynchburg now. Also a Robert Dameron once lived there. If you write to Appalachian Electric Power Co. 523 Main St., Lynchburg, and ask about a Dolly Dameron who used to work for them, you may get somewhere. Write % L. T. Smith as a woman told me he worked for him. The grave yard is on Gordon Damron's place where he lives now."

Another letter is from Mrs. Jack Kennan, 1934 Thomson Road, Charlottesville, Va. Mr. Thomas was born and reared near Woodson Creek in Fluvanna, and his son-in-law runs the store in Charlottesville, furniture store: "My father, Marion C. Thomas, is 95 years old, and in Naylor Nursing Home. He is remarkable. He gets out for rides often, but is feeble. I was in hopes he could help you in regard to the Dameron family but he doesn't seem to remember. I talked to him about it. If he tries, he is very alert, and especially if one is talking about Fluvanna. He really loves "Old Flu." I am sorry he does not have any old records in regard to that vicinity. Have you read the Sneads of Fluvanna, by Mrs. W. E. Hatcher. You can get it from some member of the Snead family in Fork Union. The Sneads and Thomas families married. I wish I could help you in regard to this. It is all so interesting."

Apr. 11, 1954, Alimae Aiken wrote: "At noon yesterday I went to Charlottesville. I went on to Hardware River and Woodson's Creek, Fluvanna Co. None of the houses nor graves are left. Several people around there were exceedingly interested and helpful and very nice to me. I am going back there to talk to an old Mr. Thomas and will go to Lazarus' location when I can."

Another note says: "I mentioned Harris Creek as flowing into the lower Hardware and this is correct but since obtaining other maps from the Univ. of Va. Geological Dept. and looking at a very old map in Univ. Va. Library I find also a Harris Creek which flows into Rockfish Creek, on the Albemarle side, and Stovall's, Bolling and Harris Creeks flowing into the James in Amherst. This is likely the Harris Creek mentioned in the Amherst deeds."

THE THOMAS FAMILY OF ALBEMARLE, AMHERST AND NELSON

The Thomas and Dameron families several times intermarried, and the descendants of John Thomas who married Winifred Dameron, are also Dameron descendants, of course. The following is the Will of John Thomas, 1760, his wife Winifred being the daughter of Lazarus Dameron, Book 2, p. 72, Albemarle County, Va.

"I JOHN THOMAS of the parish of Tillotson County of Albemarle twenty fourth day of February in the year of our Lord MDCCLX... Unto my loving Wife Winifred Thomas the house & plantation whereon I now live during her natural life together with all my household goods & Furniture & whole stock . . . & accept such of them as are hereafter mentioned as legacys to my Children which are as follows, Item I give & bequeath to my son Charles Thomas one hundred acres of land lying & being in the County of Albemarle on the South side the Fluvanna River joining Col. Allen Howard to him and his heirs forever. Item I give & bequeath to my son Charles Thomas one Gray Mare Item I give & bequeath to my son Jⁿ. after his Mother's decease the Tract of Land whereon I now live Item I give & bequeath to my Daughter Judith one Gray horse Item my will & pleasure is that when my Daughter Betty Smith Thomas shall attain the age of XVjjj years Then I bequeath her a riding Beast Item to my Daughter Ann Thomas when she attains the age of XVIIJ years then I bequeath her a riding Beast Item my Will & pleasure further is that at my wife's Decease all my household Furniture Stock Cattle hogs & whatsoever be remaining be Equally Divided amongst my three daughters Judith, Betty Smith, and Anne Thomas Item Will is that my estate be brought to no appraisement Lastly I make and ordain Michael Thomas Joseph Thomas and my son Charles Thomas executors of this my Will in Trust for the Intent & purpose in this my Will Contained in this sheet of paper & I do hereby revoke all former and Other Wills heretofore by me made Either by Word or Writing & my Executors are to take Care and see this my Will performed according to my true Intent and meaning For Witness whereof I the said John Thomas have to this my last Will & Testament set my hand and Seal the day and year above written, Signed Sealed & Delivered by the said John Thomas for his last will and Testament in the presence of us who was present at the time of signing and sealing thereof. JOHN PETER, MOSES SWEENEY, JOHN WARD.

"At a Court held for Albemarle County the twelfth day of June 1760 this will was proved by oaths of John Peter, Moses Sweeney & John Ward. Teste JOHN NICHOLAS."

John Ward was the apprentice mentioned in the will of Lazarus Dameron apparently. Note also that in the Deed from George Dameron to John Peter, 1748, his land begins "at Michael Thomas white oak corner... to Major Allen Howard's white oak corner up the river," south of the river. Hence we see that these families lived adjoining, and that John was related to Michael apparently. In 1745 there is a land patent for Michael Thomas Jr. in Albemarle. Alimae Aiken wrote: "John Thomas signed his own name and could write. I could not make out the name at first for Jⁿ. Since I saw it under glass there is no doubt in my mind it was meant for John. Charles had been crossed out and the other name for John put in its place: John Thomas"

Michael had sons Jeke, Thomas, John Thomas, William Thomas in a will of 1824, who must be descendants. John Thomas and Winifred Dameron had children, Charles, John, Judith, Betty Smith and Anne, in the will of 1760. Edward Thomas in his will of 1758 shows he had a brother named John Thomas, and a son John Thomas, and Edward must be the father of John Thomas who married Winifred Dameron as she witnessed the will. Both Johns signed Dameron wills, it will be noted.

Tillotson Parish was in Buckingham when that county was cut off from Albemarle, so the above Thomas land would then be in Buckingham which adjoined that of George Dameron, father of Michael who was father of Dunmore Dameron. The name Michael makes one think he was the grandfather of Michael Dameron or in some way related.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. It begins with the first settlers who came to the Americas in search of a new life. They found a land of opportunity, but also one of hardship. The early years were marked by struggle and sacrifice, but the spirit of the pioneers was unyielding. They built a nation from scratch, one that would stand as a beacon of freedom and democracy for all.

The story of the United States is a story of the American dream. It is a dream of a better life, of a land where everyone has the chance to succeed. The dream has inspired generations of Americans to work hard, to dream big, and to never give up. It is a dream that has made the United States a great nation, a nation that has led the world in many ways. The dream is still alive today, and it is a dream that we all share. It is a dream that gives us hope and courage in the face of adversity. It is a dream that makes us proud to be Americans.

The history of the United States is a story of progress and innovation. It is a story of the things we have achieved, of the things we have learned, and of the things we have discovered. It is a story of the human spirit, of the power of the mind, and of the strength of the will. The history of the United States is a story of the things that make us who we are, and it is a story that we all cherish. It is a story that gives us a sense of purpose and meaning in our lives. It is a story that we can all be proud of.

EXCERPT FROM WOOD'S HISTORY OF ALBEMARLE COUNTY, VIRGINIA--THOMAS FAMILY.

"Michael Thomas in 1745 and 1748 patented six hundred acres on Hog Creek and Rockfish River. He seems however to have resided on James River. At the resumption of the records in 1783, he was active as a magistrate of the county, and was appointed Sheriff in 1789. He was greatly harassed by suits brought against him as incumbent of that office, owing to the maladministration of his deputies, Edward Moore and Menan Mills. Perhaps these annoyances incited the old gentleman to seek the balmy consolations of matrimony a second time. At all events he entered into those bonds with Elizabeth Staton in 1792; and in writing to the Clerk for a license, he stated that he was unable to visit the county seat himself, but sent his son Ralph, and his grandson John Carroll, to act in his behalf. He died in 1802. His children appear to have been Michael, Joseph, Jesse, Ralph, Edward, James and a daughter, who was the wife of a Carroll. The future of the family is unknown, except that Joseph died in 1779, and Michael in 1826.

"John Thomas came to the county from Amherst. He was twice married, first to Frances, daughter of the elder John Henderson and secondly to Frances, daughter of Charles Lewis, Jr., of Buck Island. He lived for a time on a tract of land which he received from his second father-in-law on Ivy Creek, and which was sold in 1788 to Robert Draffen, and afterwards on the land of his son Charles L. Thomas near Red Hill. He died in 1847. His children by the first marriage were Warner, Norborne K., James, Elizabeth, the wife of a Wood, and Lucy, the wife of James Lewis; those by the second were Charles L., John L., Virginia, and Margaret, the wife first of Julius Clarkson, and secondly of Robert Cashmere. In the early part of the century, Warner, Norborne and John K. did business in Richmond as commission merchants, under the firm of N.K. Thomas & Co. About 1815 they purchased the Cole land on the north side of Tom's Mountain, a thousand and twenty-eight acres; three hundred they sold to Stephen Moore, and the remainder was assigned to John L. Thomas, when he retired from the firm in 1818.

"By the will of his uncle Isham Lewis, who died in 1790, Charles L. Thomas became the owner of more than eighteen hundred acres on the north fork of Hardware, where Red Hill Depot now stands. His home was where the family of John B. Townley now reside. Before his death in 1815 he leased the eastern part of the place to his brother John L. during the lives of his parents, for their support, and that of his sisters. His wife was Margaret, the youngest daughter of Nicholas Lewis, of the Farm, and his children were Mary Walker, the wife of Alexander Clayton, Nicholas L., Charles, Robert Warner, Frances Elizabeth, the wife first of Dr. Charles H. Meriwether, and secondly of James Hart, and John J. The western part of the place was divided among the children, who in 1830, and some years following, sold their portions, and emigrated to Montgomery County, Tennessee. John L. passed his life on the place leased him by his brother. He was appointed a magistrate in 1838 and died unmarried in 1846." (Page 327.)

First, I desire that all debts be paid, Secondly that such of my children as has not had a horse should have one at the value of fifty dollars Third I give to Polly Thomas the widow of my son James Thomas Dec'd one dollar and no more and to her second Daughter Sally fifty Dollars and no more on her coming of age or marrying Fourth I give to Lucy Kidd my wife's daughter an equal share with my own children hereafter mentioned after the above provisions are complied with in all my estate except the land to her and her children forever Fifth I give to be equally divided between them my children namely John Thomas, William Thomas, Jeke Thomas, Elizabeth Thomas, Jane Jobling & Martha Thomas, my land and all my Estate of whatever description or kind whatever to them and their heirs forever." Executors my son Jeke Thomas and friends Ralph Thomas Jun^r and Jeke Jobling, Mar. 17, 1824, Proved Sept. 4, 1826, by oath of Wm. Gilmore, Samuel Childres, witnesses.

THE DESCENDANTS OF GEORGE DAMERON

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, of Northumberland County, Va. 1652, wife named Dorothy.

II. GEORGE DAMERON, of Northumberland, m. Elizabeth, Widow of John Dennis.

III. LAZARUS d. 1749, Albemarle County, Va. m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Smith. Their children were:

1. Richard, d.s.p. 1749. In 1748 he had a land grant next to John Damron and Benjamin Woodson on Hardware River, Woodson's Creek, Albemarle.

2. George Dameron, also spelled Dameril, of Albemarle and Buckingham.

3. Winefred, m. John Thomas and had a son Charles mentioned in the will of Lazarus Dameron 1749, John Thomas and John Dameron being executors, and witnesses being John Thomas and John Thomas, Jr.

4. Hannah, heir to 200 acres of land in her brother Richard's will, 1749, on Hardware River, Albemarle, which was to go to Judith if Hannah had no heirs.

5. Moses Dameron.

6. Judith, m. Noble Ladd. Their daughter, Anna Ladd, m. Capt. John Damron b. 1757 in Virginia. His company of the 9th Va. under Capt. Thomas Walker was raised in and around Albemarle County, Va. Capt. John Damron's son, John, Jr. was b. in Virginia 1791, and his son Moses is shown in the Texas census as born in Virginia, 1799, so we know he did not leave Virginia until after that date.

7. John Dameron d. Albemarle Co., Va. 1757, leaving inventory only, which was signed by Benjamin Damrel (the same name as Dameron), Amber Porter, Nicholas (John), Glover Davenport, no Nov. 1757. John's land grant in 1748, was on both sides of Woodson's Creek of Hardware River at Benjamin Woodson's corner and adjoining Richard Dameron. Hence tracing the Benjamin Woodson deeds would show the heirs to the adjoining Dameron lands formerly belonging to John and Richard.

(1) Charles Dameron was son of John, as proved by the fact that he sold his land grant. Book 7, p. 3, Albemarle Deeds, 22 Oct. 1776, deed between Charles Damron and Robert Lilly for 32 pds. 10 shillings sold to Lilly 200 acres in Albemarle County, on branch of Woodson's Creek on Richard Dameron's line. In presence of the Staples, Henry Wood, Wm. Rogers, Hugh Rice Morris. Charles' mother was probably a Morris. Book 7, p. 4, shows power of attorney by Charles Damron to Hugh Rice Morris dated 27 Oct. 1776, appointing his trusty friend and loving uncle Hugh Rice Morris his lawful atty. to deal with the Lilly land transaction. (Mary Morris was witness on Richard Dameron's will.) Charles Dameron m. Polly Mays (Moise) May 19, 1789, Richmond County, Ga. with Peter Culbreath, security, Wm. and Sarah Gardner, witnesses. (DAR Hist. Coll. Ga.) Charles was in the 2d Va. Regt. 1779 to 1786. (See chapter on the Revolution.)

However in 1750 John Damron also bought 300 acres from Jno. Wheeler 13 Oct. 1750, 7 pds. money, 374 acres situated on Huff's Creek, witness George Dameron. Now who inherited this land? Ownership would show other heirs of John Damron.

8. Perhaps Benjamin Damrel, who signed the inventory of John Dameron 1757 in Albemarle County, Va.

IV. GEORGE DAMERON or Damerell, as it was spelled sometimes, son of Lazarus Dameron and Elizabeth Smith of Northumberland County, Va. and Albemarle County, Va. He apparently married Anne Thone or Tuone, as it was not readable in the following reference in Albemarle Co., Va. 1749, Nov. 14. Indenture between Geo. Damron of St. Anns Parish and James Peter, 147 acres of land granted to Geo. Damron by patent bearing date Dec. 1748, in Albemarle Co., on south side Fluvanna River. George appeared in court with wife Anne Thone Dameron who relinquished her right of dower to estate conveyed to James Peter. (Page 137, Book 1.)

George Dameron had land on both sides of the upper James River (then called the Fluvanna), and in 1755 had a patent on Hardware River and Briery Creek in Albemarle, 400 acres next to Hugh Morris. The Virginia Land Grants from George II, p. 657, show a patent to George Dameron from George II for 400 acres for 40 shillings (p.2.) This is in "Albemarle on the north side of Hardware River and on Briery Creek and bounded as followeth to wit: Beg. at a Spanish oak corner of Hugh Morris's land with his line north two degrees west 88 poles to Briery Creek, the same course continued on a new line." Signed by Robt. Dinwiddie, Lt. Com. of Col., Williamsburg, Sept. 10, 1755. An earlier patent, p. 38, was given to "George Dameril," by George II for 15 shillings of "1407 acres Ct. of Albemarle on the south side of the Fluvanna and bounded as followeth: 'Beginning at Michael Thomas' white oak corner running thence on his line NW 15°, 192 poles to a live oak on the river thence up the river a new line NW 82° 54 poles to Major Howard's white oak corner thence along his line SW 80° 81 poles, etc. . . including all mines and quarries and water courses . . . as of our Mannor of E. Greenwich in the County of Kent, pay fee of 1 shilling a year. Dec. 1, 1748. (signed) William Gooch, Baronet."

Also in 1767, 8 Aug. (Book 4, p. 421), between George Damron of Buckingham Co., Va. and Geo. Hilton for 50 lb. George granted 300 acres in Albemarle Co., Va.

In 1761 George Dameron's land south of the river was cut off into Buckingham County when it was formed and in 1784 we find George Dameron on the Buckingham tax lists with Michael Dameron. In 1860 Robert B. Damron bought land from Turner in Buckingham.

The Hardware River region was cut off into Fluvanna County in 1777, while Amherst County was formed from Albemarle, 1761, and Nelson from Amherst 1808. The Damerons of all these counties appear to be descended from the Albemarle Damerons. St. Ann's Parish may have been on both sides of the river, but we know it was on the south side of James River as in 1750 Noble Ladd sold to Peter Jefferson a plantation "situated in St. Ann's Parish South side of James River." This was the father of Anna Ladd who married Capt. John Damron, and Peter Jefferson was the father of President Thomas Jefferson, who inherited his father's estates in Albemarle, etc.

1. Michael, taxed in Buckingham 1784, with George Dameron. Fluvanna Deeds show Michael Dameron deeding land to Branson Laking, 1793-1801, Deed Book 3, p. 364.

(1) Page Dameron was on the Buckingham Tax List 1798-1803, and his name was listed in the "Notes from the Family Bible of John W. Carter," by Gladys M. Bloyd, 513 7th Street, Moundsville, W. Va., giving the wife of John W. Carter, 1778-1861, as Mary Smith Dameron, descended from Lazarus, but Moses is listed as 4th generation, so he seems to have been considered her ancestor, not George.

(2) Dunmore Dameron m. Patsey Cox, dau. of George, July 26, 1798, bond John Davis. (Marriage Bonds of Fluvanna, Va. prior to 1801, by the Misses Curry.

There is a Buckingham Will for John Dameron 1879, son, John B., daughters Margaret, Nancy, Mary, Martha. In 1919 is will of James Damron, wife Clementine C.

2. Daniel Dameron is perhaps another son. "A Muster Roll of Capt. Jordan Cabell Comp^y of 6th Virginia Regiment of Foot in the United States of America under the command of Lieutenant Col^o James Hendricks for the month of May and June, 1777," shows "No. 26. John Welch--supplied the place of Daniel Damron," p. 15, L. H. Sweeney's Amherst County, Virginia, in the Revolution.

3. George Dameron, with the famous Morgan's Riflemen in the Revolution. The same reference as above to Cabell's company gives for July, 1777: "George Damron, Private, July 1, for 1 month, rate 6 2/3d dollars, amount of pay 2. 10," William More, same information. (William More's name is always next to that of George Dameron on the pay rolls.) In December, 1775, George was in "Capt. Benjamin Taliaferro's Comp^y of Detached Riflemen commanded by Col^o Dan^l Morgan." George was listed by Taliaferro as "private, discharged 14th Feby, 29 days, dollars per mo. 6 2/3, whole pay in dollars 6 40/72." This was in 1778.

Amherst County, Va. Deeds 1761-1865 has: 1788 George Dameron, deed to Alex Chesnall, Book F, p. 335; 1786, George Dameron, deed from Moses Ray and wife, Book F, p. 75.

George Damron m. Polly Magan, Dec. 4, 1819, security Jos. McGhan, Beverley Davies, p. 258. George is in the bond but at the end the name is "Charles Dameron." George looks to be a son of George the soldier.

4. William Dameron looks to be another son of George. Amherst County, Va. deeds show:

1791 William Dameron deed to Wm. Mickle, Book G, p. 15.

1790 William Dameron from Jacob Pettijohn, Book F, p. 535.

1793 William Dameron from Joseph Crews, Jr. Book G, p. 283.

1795 William Dameron from Madison Hill, Book H, p. 563.

Amherst County Marriages show the marriage of William Dameron, ^{bachelor,} 1787, to Susanna Lee, widow, witness Joshua Skelton, Job Taliaferro, George Lee, Joseph Dawson (p. 35.) She might have been a second wife. Mar. 23, 1786, Sweeney gives.

The Deeds of Amherst also show: 1804 Dunmore Dameron to John Matthews, Sr. Book K, p. 109, also in 1800 Dunmore Dameron deeded to John Matthews, Sr. Book L, p. 107. Charles Damron deeded to Wm. Camden, 1778. Dunmore Dameron buys land, 100 acres north side of Anne Laugh Creek. In 1796 Wm. and wife, Susannah Dameron, sell land.

W. M. Sweeney's Marriage Bonds and Other Marriage Records of Amherst County, Va. has on p. 60, Wilson Penn and Frances Taliaferro, married 1796, certificate by the Rev. William Dameron, Sept. 12, and other items by Rev. Dameron for 1794 etc. Sweeney's Amherst in the Revolution, p. 148, says Austin Knight m. Elizabeth Ham, and they "were married in Amherst Co., Va. Feb. 24, 1789, by Rev. Dameron."

5. Charles Dameron looks to be a son of George Dameron. He was in the Nelson County, Va. census in 1810, which is next to Albemarle, where I also found William and John Q. Dameron. The Index to Nelson County marriages show these Damerons: Abby, Drury C., James T., William C., John, Nicholas B., William, William D. Also in Nelson John J. Dameron b. about 1836 m. Sarah F. Townsend b. about 1839.

6. Perhaps others. There was a "Sam'l Damron married Elizabeth Thomas 18 July, 1835, security Henry P. Irving," p. 46, Marriage Bonds of Cumberland Co., by J. D. Eggleston. This looks to be of the Buckingham branch. The Ligon Genealogy, p. 433, shows a Sarah Dameron 1797 on a deed in Charlotte County, Va. selling a tract of land with Robt. Ligon, Carrington, Etc. This looks like a land speculation deal, and she appears to be a widow inheriting a good deal of property. John Damron b. 1757 looks to be a son of George also, but could be of one of his brothers.

V. MICHAEL DAMERON, of Buckingham County, Va., son of George Dameron. In the Buckingham Surveyor's Platt Book, 1762, the first year, p. 42, has Michael Dameron having surveyed "312 acres on the S. Fork of Holman's Creek, line of Wm. C. Ballow, 13 Dec. 1782." There were also here Colemans, Cloptons and John Radford. (Pp. 57, 76, 87. Mariam Cropper found an item in Halifax County, N.C. records where Michael Damron (or Darmoon), in script difficult to read, of Edgecomb County, sold to Braswell Bridges of Halifax Co. 126 acres on Deep Creek, 16 Jan. 1765, p 231, Book 11.

1. Page Dameron of Buckingham may have had a daughter named Mary Smith Dameron b. 1788, d. 1868, of Nelson County, Va., for the reason that Page Dameron (Carter?), her son, was given this name, unless this is a garbled note, for it is not clear whether it refers to Page Dameron or Page Dameron Carter, but in any case the name is connected with the Carters, as shown on p. 45, II:

John W. Carter m. Mary Smith Dameron 10-21-1805, children:

Henry Tapscott Carter m. Martha Emerson 2-10-1836, b. 3-18-1807, b. Nelson Co., Va. (?) married in Albemarle Co., Va. Died 8-10-1885.

Lucy b. 6-6-1809 m. Lewis Ferrell 9-25-1843, d 3-19-1852.

Thomas E. m. Marthy Kidd 1-20-1834, b. 8-28-1811.

Elizabeth R. m. Alfred Willoughby 10-21-1831.

John W. m. Martha Cosby 10-16-1839.

Page Dameron m. Mary Anne Perry, date not given, b. 8-11-1824.

2. Dunmore Dameron in 1800 deeded land to John Matthews, Sr. in Amherst, and also in 1804. Dunmore Dameron bought land, 100 acres, on the north side of Anne Laugh Creek, Amherst. (Note: Lord Dunmore was Governor of Virginia, and perhaps this name came from one of his descendants.) The following notes give details:

Book I, p. 107, Amherst County, Va. Deeds. "John Mathews and Mary his wife sell to Dunmore Damron consideration 100 lbs. current money of Virginia, land in Amherst County on the north side of the Anne Laugh Creek, 100 acres more or less."

(1) Polly Damron appears to be a daughter of Dunmore as he was bondsman when she married Joseph Thomas, 1836, Nelson County, Va. Marriage Register.

(2) Perhaps Littlepage Dameron, bondsman in 1826, for the marriage of Elizabeth Dameron and Phillip Thurmond, Nelson Co., Va.

(3) Perhaps Leland Dameron, bondsman, for the marriage of Nancy C. Dameron and Isaac Newton, 1839, Nelson Co., Va. Leland m. Susanna Powell, 1836.

Other Nelson County, Va. Marriage Register items for Dameron are: Abby Ann Dameron and Wm. S. Witt, 1835; Elizabeth and Abram E. Chandler, 1823; Elvira J. and John Drumhiller, 1847; July A.S. and George Calahan, 1858; Lucy T. and Wm. Johnson 1822, Wm. R. Damron, bondsman; Martha F. and James Drumheller, 1843; Sarah Ann and Jacob B. Farrer, 1846, Samuel Damron, bondsman; Sophia and Thomas Glass, 12 Mar. 1810; Etc. In the Index to Marriages of Nelson Co., Va. I also found these Damerons: Abby, 65, Drury C., 19, James T., 25, William C., 84, 98; John, 36, Nicholas B., 91, William, 21, 28; William D. 74. Also John J. Dameron b. about 1836 m. Sarah F. Townsend b. about 1839, according to the J.W. Damron records. Mariam Cropper checked Nelson County, Va. marriages in the Register and found: Drury C. Dameron and Charlot D. Martin, 1824; Ezra and Roxanna Loving 1863; James T. and Martha S.W. Thurmond, 1828; John and Lucy Peyton, 1837; John Q. and Sarah F. Townsend, 1858; John O. and Sarah E. Loving 1865; Leland and Susanna Powell, 1836; Uriah A. and Martha M. Newton, 1858; Wm. and Sarah Ann Harding, 1825; Wm. and Hannah M. Griffin, 1831; Wm. D. and Lucy S. Welch, 1859; Zacharias L. and Belinda Loving, 1859.

THE DAMERONS OF AMHERST COUNTY, VIRGINIA

V. WILLIAM DAMERON m. Susanna Lee, widow, Mar. 23, 1786, security Joshua Skelton. Amherst County, Va. Deeds show the following: (He was a minister.)

5 Sept. 1791, Wm. Damron of the county of Amherst sells to Wm. Mickle of Campbell County, consideration 200 lbs. current money of Virginia, land in Amherst County on Harrises Creek, it being a piece of land purchased by Pearce Wade of Wm. Staton and sold by said Wade to Wm. Damron, 214 acres. (p. 15, Book G.)

Indenture between Joseph Crews and Wm. Damrin, both of Amherst County, consideration 40 lbs. current money of Virginia. Crews sells to Damron land in Amherst on Lynches Road, 60 acres patented by Crews 14 Sept. 1793. Witnesses: Daniel Mahone, Nathaniel Guttry, Nehemiah Royce. (P. 283, Book G.)

Wm. Damron and Susannah his wife sell to Thomas Anderson, consideration 40 lbs. 56 acres in Amherst County on Harris Creek. 29 Mar. 1796. Signed by Wm. and Susannah Damron. Witnesses: Charles Christain, Noel X Blinkenship, John Carter, Daniel Mahone, Thomas Colman, and Joseph Wilson.

The Index to Amherst County Marriages has the following Damerons: Lucy, Desmon, Wiatt, E. P., Elizabeth, George H., James T., L., Lucy T., Mary J., Patsy, Sally, Susanna, and others. One item is John Dameron m. Phoebe Goodrich, 1813, Feb. 15, Edmund Goodrich, father, witnesses Thomas Goodrich and Gideon Goodrich, p. 234. I also noted that Rev. Wm. Dameron married Wm. Morris, bachelor, of Bedford, and Christian Simons, spinster, Apr. 30, 1793.

In the 1840 census for Amherst County, I found: Mary E. Damron, p. 219, with 1 person under 10, 2 males under 15; and Drury C. Damron, p. 230. Drury C. Damron m. Charlot D. Martin 1824, Nelson County, Va.

There was also a Col. Dameron on p. 54 of Sweeney's Amherst in the Revolution, but I have not any idea who he could be unless it were Capt. John Damron b. 1757. Henry McLain of Nelson Co., Va. enlisted from Amherst, and fought at Camden when he said: "Col. Dameron, who had lost his hat, told them to escape the best way they could, which they did and set off in great confusion."

The children of above William appear to be:

1. Drury C. Dameron m. Charlot D. Martin 1824, in Nelson County, Va. He is on the Amherst census for 1840. His mother or grandmother must have been of the Drury family to account for the use of the name Drury.

2. John Dameron, m. Phoebe Goodrich, Feb. 15, 1813, Amherst Co., Va.

3. William Dameron, Jr. There was a William in the 1810 census Nelson Co., Va. A William m. Sarah Ann Harding 1825 in Nelson.

Annabel Walker sent me a letter from Charles Franklin Dameron, The Daily Times Herald, Herald Square, Dallas 2, Texas, and noted: "Whenever I see the name Dameron in the paper I write to them. This is how it happened. In the evening paper it told about Frank Dameron, a reporter in Dallas, Texas, attending a court sale of real estate. In fun he bid $30 for a piece of property, a dilapidated old 3-room house, no one else bid, so he got it. The joke was on him. He said all he needed was $3,000 to repair it. So I wrote him a letter and he replied immediately. I also told him to hang on to the house as there might be oil on the land. Now doesn't his ancestry sound like Rediford Dameron's big family of boys, only Frank has it twelve boys?" The letter from Dallas Oct. 29, 1953 said:

"I have always believed the Damerons, or Damrons, were all the same clan earlier... My father is Frank Dameron (William Frank), son of (I believe) Charles Dameron of Elam County, Va. Dad's father was one of some eight brothers, most of whom migrated at one time or another, some staying, some returning to Virginia. One of the brothers, Cliff, is now quite elderly, a rancher at Del Rio. Another Mallechi, has been dead many years, but his widow lives in Del Rio. Ernest Dameron, another brother, came to Texas and settled around the Red River area, but I have never seen any of his progeny. Bob Dameron, again another brother, came to Texas at the turn of the century then later started the trek back. He passed through the Fayetteville, Ark. region, spotted a fine place with apple trees and settled there, raised a big family and died a few years ago at age 76. Hubert Dameron also came to Texas but went back to Lynchburg, Va. He was killed as a pedestrian on the streets of Lynchburg several years ago. Many of the Damerons settled around San Angelo originally.

"This doesn't account for all of them, but I am extremely fuzzy about my forebears. One Dameron--Tom, I believe--ran away from home as a child and grew up on the famed King Ranch. He even adopted the name King. I have a blind aunt, Alpha, who knows as much about the Damerons as anyone I've talked to. She is also elderly now and lives in a home in Virginia. But, back in the 30's, she once told me that the Dameron clan originated in this country when twelve brothers left England and came to Virginia, presumably about the time of Jamestown... To recapitulate: Our family of Damerons originated around Amherst and Lynchburg. None ever became really wealthy. Some were schoolteachers, most of them farmers and later ranchers. Dad is brunette, but most of his relatives have a somewhat Celtic look remindful of the profiles of many Welsh I met in England in World War II. (Signed) Charles Franklin Dameron."

Ruth Dorius found further Texas information in the 1850 census, Collin County:

His neighbors were Hiram Warren and Josiah Nickols etc. The above is the son of Capt. John Damron and Anna Ladd b. 1799 in Virginia, as he says above. This proves they did not leave before this date.

THE FAMILY OF GEORGE DAMRON AND SUSANAH THOMAS

V. GEORGE DAMERON (Lawrence¹, George², Lazarus³, George⁴), was the son of George Dameron of Albemarle and Buckingham Counties, Va., and grandson of Lazarus Dameron of Albemarle. George's wife was Ann Thone or Tuone, as the name was unreadable in the records. George Dameron⁵ was in the most famous unit of the Revolutionary army, Morgan's Riflemen. He is shown on the pay rolls from July 1, 1777, to Feb. 14, 1778, when he was discharged by Capt. Benjamin Taliaferro. (See The Damerons in the Revolution, Part II.) The story of his regiment is told in L.H. Sweeney's book Amherst County, Virginia, in the Revolution.

The Deeds of Amherst County, Va. 1761-1865, show a deed to George Dameron from Moses Ray and wife, Book F, p. 75, and in 1788 George Dameron made a deed to Alex Chesnall, Book F, p. 235. The deed from Ray was in 1786. He appears to have moved away after the sale of the land in 1788, and may have gone to North Carolina for a time as the 1850 census, as sent to me by Maxim Coppage, lists "Samuel Dameron, age 51, b. N.C. m. Nancy, children: Wilson M. 22, Elzy, 20, Lucy A. 18, Sanderson, 16, Mary, 15, Judith, 14, John, 11, Sarah A., 9, Nancy J., 8, Samuel, Jr., 7, Anne, 5, Martha S. 4, George 3." This is the census for Adair County, Ky. and Maxim Coppage also sent the following from the 1860, census: "James S. Dameron of Adair County, Ky. age 60, m. Sarah A. _____, children: Elzey, 33, Sanderson, 31, John S., 25, George M. 22, Elizabeth, 19, Judith Winnefred, 89, Ky?"

The research on this family was done by Ruth Burdette, of Columbia, Ky. in Adair County, who wrote: "George Damron mar. Susanah Thomas, daughter of John and Ann Thomas. He died before 1797 when she, Susanah, mar. in Lincoln Co., Ky. John Peter Bondurant and they came to Adair Co., then Green Co., to live on Casey's Creek. The people who settled this community were practically all from Buckingham and Amherst Counties, Va. The children of George and Susanah were thought to have been Mickey, Wilson, George W., John T., Robert T., Samuel and Joseph. All of these are known to have been their children." #

Ruth Damron Dorius sent a note from the Green County, Ky. Records. Order Book 2, Sept. 15, 1801, Inventory of estate of George Damron, dec'd. She also sent a note that George Damorel is on the 1810 census of Green County, Ky. (The name Dameron was usually spelled Damarel in Albemarle by the family of Lazarus.)

Susanah Thomas was married three times. "Those Thomases came from Buckingham County, Va. I am sure," Mrs. Burdette wrote.

Lincoln County, Ky. Marriage Bonds: John Peter Bondurant and Susanah Damron, widow of George Damron and daughter of John Thomas, Sr., and Ann Thomas. Sept. 28, 1797.

Adair County, Ky. Marriage Bonds: Campbell Goode and Susana Bondurant, Aug. 13, 1813. Then Adair Co., Deed Book E, p. 264: Oct. 26, 1819, Campbell Goode of Adair Co. relinquishes all right in estate of John P. Bondurant decd. by virtue of his marriage to Susana Bondurant, to the heirs of Geo. Damron decd., towit, the children of said Susana, Robert Damron excepted.

Adair Co. Will Book A, p. 224: Will of John P. Bondurant. Legatees--wife Susan all property and at her death to be divided between Wm. Bondurant and Samuel Damron, Nov. 11, 1807. Executors, Susan Bondurant and Richard Gentry. Witnesses Robert T. Damron, George W. Damron, John T. Damron.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of the growth of a nation from a collection of small colonies to a great power. It is a story of the struggles of the people to establish a government that would protect their rights and promote their welfare. The story begins with the first settlers who came to the New World in search of a better life. They found a land of opportunity, but they also found a land of hardship. They had to fight for their survival against the elements and the native Americans. They had to build a new society from scratch. They had to create a government that would be able to manage their affairs and protect their interests. The story of the United States is a story of the triumph of the human spirit over adversity.

They had to create a government that would be able to manage their affairs and protect their interests. The story of the United States is a story of the triumph of the human spirit over adversity.

The story of the United States is a story of the growth of a nation from a collection of small colonies to a great power. It is a story of the struggles of the people to establish a government that would protect their rights and promote their welfare. The story begins with the first settlers who came to the New World in search of a better life. They found a land of opportunity, but they also found a land of hardship. They had to fight for their survival against the elements and the native Americans. They had to build a new society from scratch. They had to create a government that would be able to manage their affairs and protect their interests. The story of the United States is a story of the triumph of the human spirit over adversity.

Adair County, Ky. Will Book A, p. 113, 7-6-1807: Will of J.D. Thomas. Legatees--children, Harding, Robert, John, Thomas, Wm. Cabbel Bellew, Ann Thomas, Susan Bundren, Lucy Swinney, Nancy Helm, Sarah Winfrey.

(Note by H.F.S. Winefred Dameron, dau. of Lazarus, m. John Thomas and had a son Charles, mentioned in her father's will as his grandson. John Thomas was executor of the will in 1749 in Albemarle with John Dameron, and witnesses listed were John Thomas and John Thomas, Jr. John Thomas, Jr. was probably the father of Susanah's father.) See p. 23 of Part One.

Green County, Ky. Records, Deed Book 2, p. 49, March 19, 1799: Whereas my wife Patty Bondurant died in the year 1794, entitled on the death of her mother, Martha Walton, to one seventh part of residue of estate of Thomas Walton, dec'd agreeable to his last will, dated Aug. 26, 1771, consisting of negors and personal chattels, whereas, I, John P. Bondurant, of Green Co., Ky. had by her two children, Wm. and George Bondurant, so I hereby relinquish all my claim to such children.

Mrs. Burdette wrote: "It seems sure that this George Damron was the one listed in the Amherst records in Buckingham district in the Revolution."

The children listed by Mrs. Burdette are as follows of George Damron and Susanah Thomas: (The order of birth is not known.)

1. George Damron m. Polly Mourning, 2-23-1809 (Green County, Ky. Marriage bonds.) George W. Damron and Mary, his wife, of McDonough County, Ill. gave Power of Attorney to Samuel Damron of Adair County, Ky. to convey to Thos. J. Bricken three tracts of land in Adair Co. on Green River. There are no records in Adair County about his family. No more is known about this family. (Polly was dau. of Roger Mourning.)

2. John T. Damron married Sally Winneford, 1-20-1814 (Adair Co., Ky. Marriage Bonds). He reared a family here and some of his family are known. He married second, late in life, Emily Hardin, and she received a pension for his service in 1812. He m. Emily J. Hardin Dec. 12, 1857, Adair Co., Ky. and had one son, name unknown. Judith Winneford was a pensioner and died March 31, 1854. (Adair Co., Order Book H, p. 493. Page 508 shows Judith Winneford was the widow of David Winneford, Sgt. pensioner. Children living, Sarah Ann Damron, wife of John T. Damron, Jeffry and David Winneford. John T. Damron was Justice of the Peace, 1855, H-538, Adair Co., Ky. Order Books. In Eckenrode, List of Pensioners, p. 388, lists in Adair Co., Ky. Emily J. Damron, Cert. 31,292, of Columbia, Ky., widow, 1812, monthly rate $8. She got her original allowance in March, 1881. Nell Pearce wrote: "John T. Damron . . . or possibly a Jr., was right with our John in Ills. 1818-20, etc.... I have a letter from a Damron in or near Chicago. She said: 'I believe your John T. Damron, 1821, Kentucky, was an older brother of my grandfather Samuel Damron, etc.'" (See p. 10, Part III.) Mrs. Geo. Winneford Hancock is a descendant.

3. Robert T. Damron married Susannah Thomas, dau. of Hardin (first cousins), 2-20-1808, Adair Co., Ky. There is only one marriage of a child that is known to be the child of Robert T. Damron: Sinderila Damron, dau. Robert T., married Thomas Bricken, Aug. 25, 1832, Adair Co., Ky.

4. Mickey, daughter, m. Richard Gentry, 7-21-1802, Adair Co., Ky.

5. Samuel m. Nancy Wilkerson, dau. Judith Hardin, 12-28-1822.

6. Joseph, dec'd F-119, Oct. 5, 1835, James Burk, adm. Adair Co., Order Books. Joseph Damron died early and left three infant heirs but there is no record of them.

7. Wilson m. Sarah McClain, dau. Charles McClain, "son of Geo. Damron, decd. Robt. Thomas gdn. Mar. 14, 1800, Green Co., Ky. Nothing more is known of Wilson."

SAMUEL DAMERON AND NANCY WILKERSON

VI. SAMUEL DAMERON m. Nancy Wilkerson, dau. Judith Hardin, 12-28-1822, Adair County, Ky. Marriage Bonds. Samuel Damron reared his family here and left records of all of them in the settlement of his estate, selling of his land etc. Deed Book V. 208, Apr. 29, 1869. "Nancy Damron, widow of Samuel Damron, decd., R.W. Damron and Amanda his wife, Logan S. McWhorter and Nancy J. his wife, Samuel G. Banks, and Sarah A., his wife, John S. Damron and Sarah E., George Damron and Mary T., his wife, Sanderson Damron, Mary Damron, Martha S. Damron, of Adair Co., Ky., R. L. Reynolds and Lucy A., his wife of Boyle Co., Logan Rector and Judith his wife of Casey Co., Ky. children and heirs-at-law of the said Samuel Damron decd., convey to Elsey and Samuel Damron, also heirs and children, for $3,500. land deeded to the decd. by John T. Damron and wife and from Geo. W. Damron and wife." This land was on Green River.

Samuel Damron was Tax Commissioner 1821, D-157, Adair County, Ky. Order Books of the County Court, and George Damron was Tax Commissioner 1821, D-269. Samuel Damron was recommended for Justice of the Peace 1829-E 213. F-405, ibid, shows Samuel Damron appointed guardian to Marion, Moses and Margaret Damron, infant heirs of Joseph Damron, decd., bond $600. Elsey Damron was Justice of the Peace 1871, L-306.

Judith Wilkerson married Joseph Hardin 9-30-1817, Adair County, Ky. and Will Book A-170, gives the will of Jemimah Wilkerson, Sept. 7, 1808, legatees: grandson Robert Wilkerson, son of my only son, Barnett Wilkerson, grand-daughter Nancy Wilkerson, daughter-in-law Judith Wilkerson. (Note by H.F.S. The Hardin family are the Harding family from the Northern Neck in Virginia, and their genealogy is now being done by Jennie Harding Cornelius, Heathsville, Va. and published by the Virginia State Library.) Judith Wilkerson Hardin had a third husband Thomas Edrington whom she married 6-14-1848 in Adair Co. and her Will in Will Book G-17, March 17, 1856, bequeaths to Syrena Hardin $35, the rest to daughters Nancy, wife of Samuel Damron, and Sarah A., wife of Hamilton Winfrey. Page 18 of the same book: Thos. Edrington relinquishes all claim to the estate of Judith Edrington to Cyrena Hardin, child of her deceased son Logan Hardin and her daughters Nancy Damron and Sarah Ann Winfrey. The 1850 census, Adair Co., Ky. shows in the 2nd district 423: Thomas Edrington, age 73, b. Va. and Judth Edrington, age 65, b. Va. Logan Hardin married Emily Jane Winfrey 12-25-1839, Adair Co. and Hamilton T. Winfrey m. Sarah A. Hardin, dau. of Joseph, 2-23-1841.

Robert Wilkerson decd. with Samuel Damron, Administrator, is in Adair Co. Order Book D, 388, 1823, and Order Book G, p. 238, in 1845, lists Joseph Hardin, decd., Judith, widow, adm.

The children of Samuel Damron and Nancy Wilkerson, daughter of Judith and Wilkerson, were the following, order of birth not known:

1. Robert Damron m. Amanda F. Smith, 12-28-1848, Adair Co., Ky. Marriage Bonds.
2. Wilson N. Damron had the only Damron will in Adair County, Ky. and there was none in Green County, either. Will Book F-310: All estate to brothers and sisters. He leaves their parents to their care. Execs. Robert W. Damron and Elsey Damron. Dated Oct. 10, 1853, probated Sept. 3, 1854. Wilson Damron and Sarah McClain, dau. Charles McClain, were m. 1800 in Green Co. and I do not see any proof that Wilson N. was not their son instead of Samuel Damron, but Mrs. Burdette has Wilson N. Damron as "son of Samuel." The 1850 census lists Wilson M. age 22, Elzy, 20 etc. as children, according to Maxim Coppage, but the census does not specify children and I am wondering if Wilson might not be listed as a dependent, perhaps living with his uncle, and was merely assumed to be a child by Maxim Coppage.

3. Elsey Damron, son of Samuel and Nancy Damron. "Elzy Damron and Permèlia J. Jones 8-19-1862," Adair Co., Ky. Marriage Bonds. "My father died in 1919 at the age of 87, and Uncle Sam died in 2 or 3 years after father, in Linchorin Co., Ky. He left three sons and these two daughters I have mentioned above. Of my father's children there were four of us, my brother Asure Damron and myself. He lives near me. He is 78 and I am 81 young. My husband died in 1940 at the age of 79. My brother's wife died 25 yrs. ago. They had two girls but both are dead. We have one nephew of our oldest sister and one niece of the other sister. One sister died in 1932 and the other in 1933." Quoted from Mrs. L.T. Neet, Columbia, Ky. 1953. Her name was Mary Damron, and she had no children.

Mrs. Burdette wrote: "There are some of the Damron descendants here now... They are all people of good minds and much personal charm. Several of the women were and are great beauties. Many of them are red heads, others black-headed. They are fine people, full of magnetism." On Jan. 7, 1954, she wrote: "There are several people here now who are part Damron but I do not know any of the name. However, I hear there are one or two still in the old neighborhood up on Green River. Mrs. Neet's sister, Mrs. Frazier, who was one of the beauties died some time ago. One of her daughters died and the other, Mrs. Dorothy Mitchell, has no children. She comes here to see Mrs. Neet sometimes. She is a very handsome woman. Mrs. Young, Mrs. Neet's other sister, died and has one son living here who has two little girls... Then I have a friend, the one for whom I had done the research on the Damron family, who is descended from Robert Damron, son of Samuel and Nancy. She is Mrs. S.B. Willock of Campbellsville. She is a very fine person and will be interested when I show her the book. She has done so many nice things for me."

The children of Elsey Damron and Permèlia J. Jones were:

(1.) "Lou Ellen Damron, dau. Elzy Damron, and James H. Young, married May 10, 1883," Marriage Bonds. They had one son who resides in Columbia, Ky. and has 2 ch. Their children were Jack, Elsey, Enna, Dortha.

(2.) "Annie L. Damron, dau. Elzy, married W.E. Frazer, Nov. 25, 1886," Marriage Bonds. Her daughter Dorothy m. _____ Mitchell, and lives in Virginia.

(3.) Asure Damron, lives in or near Columbia, Ky.

(4.) Mary Damron, m. L. T. Neet or Neat, and lived in Columbia, Ky. in 1954.

4. Lucy A. Damron is listed as age 18 in the 1850 census. "Lucy Ann Damron and Robert L. Reynolds 12-60-1850," Marriage Bonds. She was apparently the oldest daughter of Samuel and Nancy Damron. In 1869 they were in Boyle Co. Ch.: Bell, Andrew, Mary and Nancy.

5. Sanderson. "Sandy never married and was buried in our grandfather Damron's burying ground on the farm." He was age 16 on the 1850 census of Adair Co., Ky.

6. Mary, age 15 on the 1850 census. "Mary and Sanderson never married," Mrs. Burdette wrote.

7. Judith, age 14 on the 1850 census. She m. S.L. Rector, 2-3-1862, Adair Co. They lived in Casey Co., Ky. in 1869. Ch. Sam, Will, Lucy (Good), Sue (Taylor.)

8. John age 11 on 1850 census. "John S.'s marriage not on record Adair Co." His wife is listed as Sarah E. Damron in 1869, Deed Book V. p. 208. "John D. went to Texas and died there," Mrs. Neet stated. (Note: the 1870 census, Bell Co., Tex. lists: Damron, J.N., age 49, farmer, $3,000; b. Ky.; Berrilla, 43, b. Ky.; Sarah 23 b. Ky., Julia 21, b. Ky.; Amarilla 14 b. Texas; Richard 9, b. Tex., Abigale, 8, Anna 4." See p. 47-b, Part II.) This, therefore, is the "John N. Damron and Berilla Dority 3-6-1843," Marriage Bond, Adair Co., Ky.

10. Nancy J., age 8 in 1850 census m. Logan S. McWhorter, in Oct. 1864, see Marriage Bonds, Adair Co. On 12-6-1871 Nancy J. McWhorter m. John W. Duvall (Durvall.)

11. "Samuel F. Damron, age 35, b. Adair Co., father b. N.C. mother b. Adair, and Nanie F. Robinson 28, b. Taylor Co. July 16, 1878," Marriage Bonds, Adair Co. He d. Linchorin Co., Ky. a few years after 1919. His children were:

- (1) Mont Damron, living in Casey Co. 1953. Rev. Woodrow Damron is his son.
- (2) Julia, living in Louisville, Ky. in 1953.
- (3) Owen.
- (4) Martha, of Phoenix, Ariz.
- (5) Robert.

12. Ann E. Damron, age 5 in 1850 census. This must be Betty "Ann Elizabeth?" Mrs. Neet said "Bettie who died when a young girl, so our father told us."

13. Martha S. Damron, age 4, in 1850 census. Martha Susan m. Albert Hamilton Judd 11-15-1870, Marriage Bonds. Children: Wood, Vic, Sam, Grover, Robt. Eliz. (from Ruth Dorius.)

14. George Damron married Mary Young, March 11, 1869, Marriage Bonds, Adair Co. Ruth Dorius gives Mary F. Young as the name, same reference, and says "George and John both went to Texas;" information from Mrs. Neet, however, says: "George, the youngest boy, went to Oklahoma and died there."

(Note: Mrs. L.T. Neet wrote in 1953, of the son of Samuel Damron and Nancy Edrington Damron, named Robert: "Don't know anything about Bob Damron but father said he went to Mo. and settled in Sedalia, Mo. and about 3 yrs. ago I rec'd a letter from Mrs. Magnola Major, Sedalia, Mo. telling me she was the only child of Bob Damron living and she and a daughter and 2 sons was all of Bob's children living. I had a letter from her not quite a year ago and said she was 78 yrs. so if she is living now that leaves only 4 of we Damron women living that I know of."

Ruth Dorius found the following 1850 census records, Adair Co., Ky: Robert W. Damron, age 23, farmer, born Ky., Amanda W. 21, b. Ky., Elizabeth V. 16, b. Ky., George M. 22, b. Ky.

She also found in the 1850 census Adair Co. John S. Damron, age 60, b. Va., Sarah A. 55, b. Va., Elizabeth, 19, b. Ky., Judith Winneford, 89, b. Va. and Ruth Dorius added: "I believe we have this old lady's application for pension, where this John Damron says he knew her in Albemarle County, Va.) As her husband was Sgt. David Winneford, if John knew her in Albemarle, this would prove the family came from there. It seems clear that John S. refers to John T. Damron, as it is easy to misread an S. for a T. in the old script, and this must have been hard to read for we have this: Maxim Coppage in the 1860 census quotes it as "James S. Dameron of Adair County, Ky. age 60, m. Sarah A. _____, children: Elzey, 33, Sanderson, 31, John S., 25, George M. 22, Elizabeth, 19, Judith Winnefred, 89, Ky?" This could be garbled in copying. Also the children of one uncle could be living with another, especially if he were their guardian. It is possible that the places of birth are wrong in census records, too, as the person giving the information may not be sure. However, we have the following data: That John S. (T. I believe) Damron was born in Virginia, 1790, but Samuel was born in North Carolina, probably his brother.

On Aug. 10, 1939, Ms. Pearce received from the Adjutant General's Office, a letter stating "The records on file in this office do not show the place of enlistment or the residence at the time of discharge of John Damron who served in the War of 1812 as a private in the 7th Regiment (Barbee's) Kentucky Militia. Another from the same place Dec. 2, 1940 said: "The records of this office show that one John Damron served in the War of 1812 as a private in Captain John W. Shirley's Company, 7th Regiment (Barbee's) Kentucky Militia. His service expired March 23, 1813, and commenced Aug. 23, 1812."

Dec. 26, 1941, The National Archives, Washington, D.C. WC 31 292, wrote to her: "Among the pension records in The National Archives is a file, numbered as above, relating to the claim based upon the War of 1812 service of John "T." Damron. Information concerning the bounty land warrants issued to him has also been found in the records of the General Land Office now in The National Archives, Enclosed are summaries of the data pertaining to your inquiry which appear in these records:

CASEY COUNTY, KY. Mrs. Burdette found the following on Delinquents in Tax Listfor 1810: Capt. Caskey's Co. SHULTZ, JACOB--Casey Co. DAMRON, GEORGE, address unknown. DAMRON WILSON, address, Ohio. Casey Co. Deed Book 4, p. 88, Dec. 20, 1862 has JOHN D. Thomasand Sally, H. T. Breeding and Mary A., heirs of Robt. T. Damron, deceased. Mrs. Burdette said there was no question that Wilson was the son of George Damron of Green Co., Ky. In Russell Co., Va. we found 1793, GEORGE DAMRON Petition and Summons, dismissed Book 2, p. 116, Court Orders.

We went to Frankfort to the Historical Society and could find almost nothing.

In 1956 Alice Mary Aiken and I went to Kentucky and found the following additional information. Green was taken from Lincoln 1793 and from Nelson. Nelson was taken from Jefferson 1784. Adair was taken 1801 from Green, Barren 1798 from Green and Warren; Cumberland 1798 from Green, Pulaski 1798 from Green and Lincoln. Taylor was taken from Adair 1848. The first counties were Lincoln 1780, Jefferson 1780 and Fayette 1780.

In Adair we tried to look up the Equity Cases but the books were behind a desk and some files and the Clerk did not want to bother to get at them, so we did not do so. Ruth Burdette said she looked for Damrons in the little boxes holding the cases which were up on the high shelves and found nothing to add to the ancestry though there was a long case in which Damrons were involved which she did not copy. It showed the Damrons used boats on Green River. We noted the following items:

Court Records, p. 7. June 28, 1802. The court proceeded to lay off this county into districts for constable...The bounds of CAPTAIN DAMRON one district that of Capt. Woolford one district, Capt. JOHN SHULTS, DIRECTOR	:

Mrs. Burdette, the genealogist in Columbia, Ky. said George W. Damron went to Illinois or Indiana. She said she gave the copy of the Damron book which I sent to her to Mrs. Willock in Campbellsville, Ky., who was a Damron. She said no Damrons lived in Columbia now but Jack Young and Mrs. Willock at Campbellsville.

INDEX TO WILLS, ADAIR COUNTY, KY:

Damron, W. N., Devisees--immediate family, 1854, Sept. 5, Book F, 310.
 McLean, Sallie F. 1924, devisees: Fred, Virgie, Frances Venser, Joseph L., Jr. Edwin M., Wallace H.

Mrs. Burdette knew of O. H. P. Snow and said he was a leading citizen of the Cumberland region, Clinton Co. but that Clinton records were burned in the Civil war. She said she thought O.H. P. Snow was buried in Russell Co. and that Samuel's was his father or son. She was looking for Benj. Bowling m. Prudence Callicott and went from N.C. to Ky. Mrs. Welch, a Columbia genealogist also, was looking for Joseph Russell and Montgomerys. It was about 90 mi. to Corbin from Columbia.

JOHN T. DAMRON, SARAH ANN WINNEFORD AND EMILY J. HARDIN

VI. JOHN T. DAMRON, son of George Dameron and Susannah Thomas, was probably born 1795 in Virginia. In 1814 in Adair Co., Ky. he married Sarah Ann Winneford, b. 1795, in Virginia, dau. of Judith and David Winneford, her brothers being Jeffry and David Winneford. In 1857 he married in Adair Co., Ky. Emily J. Hardin, and by her had one son, name unknown. (This may be John T. Damron of Illinois.) The children of John T. Damron that are known are the following but there may have been others:

1. Martha Damron, dau. John, married George W. Cundiff, Dec. 20, 1830, Adair Co. Children, Sallie, Damron.

2. Elizabeth Damron b. 1831, in Kentucky m. Wm. Renfro, Apr. 1853, Adair Co.

3. George W. Damron (George Winneford) married Elizabeth VanHook Watson, Nov. 6, 1850, Adair Co., Ky. (On 6-23-1864 Geo. W. Damron married Lura A. Batsell, Adair Co., Ky.)

(1) Mollie J. Damron, dau. Geo. W., married Junius Hancock, Dec. 29, 1875, Adair Co., Ky. Their children were: Fred, Wallace, Nat, Betty, Martha, Geo., Henry, Nelle. Mrs. Burdette wrote: "Of the girls descended from John T. Damron who married, in succession, Judge Junius Hancock, there are a few descendants living, none too interested except a friend of mine, an inlaw, Mrs. George Winneford Hancock, whose husband, the Damron descendant, is dead. She has two daughters."

4. Possibly John T. Damron or John S. Damron. In 1830 in Weakley County, Tenn. census we find John T. Damron 20-30 yrs., with 1 male over 100 years, Samuel, 20-30, John Jr., 30-40 (son of Capt. John b. 1757 in Va.), Constantine L. 20-30 (son of Capt. John); Moses (son of Capt. John), and Charles age 30-40, son of Wilson Damron of Adair Co., Ky. We also find John T. Damron in Williamson Co., Ill. 1840, 6 males.

MICKEY DAMRON AND RICHARD GENTRY OF ADAIR COUNTY, KY.

VI. "MICKEY DAMRON seemed to be the only daughter of George and Susannah. She married Richard Gentry and reared a family here. It is not known whether the marriage of Micky Gentry and Jonas Austin in 1835 was a second marriage for Richard's widow or if it was his daughter's marriage," quoted from Ruth Burdette.

"Richard Gentry and Mickey Damron, dau. of Geo. Damron, decd. and Susanah Bondurant, 7-21-1802," Marriage Bonds. "Jonas Austin and Mikey Gentry 2-3-1835," Marriage Bonds. Richard was the son of Nicholas Gentry, as shown by Deed Book B-256, Adair Co., Ky. July 4, 1809: Henry Gentry and Pinah, Elijah Bowman and Elizabeth, Zachariah Gentry, Richard Gentry, Robert Gentry, Benj. Gentry, Wm. Goudge and Sarah, Alex Hardin and Jane, Charles Cavenser and Mary, Sarah Gentry and Westley Gentry, all heirs of Nicholas Gentry, decd. to Wm. and Davis Moss, 225 acres on Casey's Creek, for $334." The following shows the Gentry marriages: (Adair County; in Kentucky.)

Benj. Gentry and Mimah Simpson, dau. Sarah Simpson 11-28-1806.

Wm. Goudge and Sally Gentry, 4-11-1803, Bondsman, Richard Gentry.

Benj. Gentry and Rachel Philips, dau. James and Nancy Philips, 4-19-1809.

Robert Gentry and Goody Simpson, dau. Sarah and Elijah Simpson, 3-3-1806.

Westley Gentry and Sally Breeding, 6-9-1815.

The Will of Richard Gentry is in Book C-540, 12-6-1830, Adair Co., Ky. It gives property to wife during her widowhood, and mentions eight children, five of whom are single. Some live in Missouri. Executors were friends Mikey Gentry and John Bailey Gentry. Witnesses Johnston Watson and Henry Binghman. Probated Dec. 6, 1830. On p. 753: John B. Gentry, exec. of Richard Gentry, decd. settlement. Laura and James B. Dillingham have received their part. George D. Gentry has received his part. (Note: "Friends" is a term which often referred to a close relative of a child in early manuscripts.) From the above we see that Richard Gentry had the following children:

1. Laura who married James B. Dillingham.
2. George D. who married Mariah Phelps, dau. Mrs. Frances Phelps, 7-10-1834.
3. Six others.----- We know that Susan Gentry was one listed as dau. of Richard when she married George Atkins, 3-30-1824, Adair Co.

Jonothan Gentry and Betsey McQuery, 1-4-1827.

John Gentry and Rachel Womack, 9-11-1828.

JOSEPH DAMRON AND MARGARET HARRISON

VI. JOSEPH DAMRON, son of George Damron and Susanah Thomas, married Margaret Harrison, dau. of Wm. Harrison, 6-1-1826, Adair Co., Marriage Bonds. He died in Adair County, Ky. 1835, as James Burk administered his estate, Oct. 5, 1835 (F-119, Adair Co. Order Books.) F-405 shows Samuel Damron appointed guardian to Marion, Moses and Margaret Damron, infant heirs of Joseph Damron, decd. Bond $600." No date given.

WILSON DAMRON AND SARAH MCCLAIN

VI. "WILSON DAMRON and Sarah McClain, dau. Charles McClain, son of Geo. Damron, decd. Robt. Thomas, gdn., Mar. 14, 1800," Green County, Ky. Marriage Bonds, this county being later on named Adair County. Miss Arline Young, Columbia, Ky. has the McClain family Bible of John McClain, Sr. b. Feb. 26, 1776, m. Apr. 17, 1800, to Mary (Polly) Coffey, b. May 5, 1779. This name is also spelled McLane and McLean, etc. There was a famous Revolutionary hero in Pennsylvania named Allen McLane, chief of "McLane's Raiders" which saved the soldiers at Valley Forge by supplying food for them. Mrs. P. T. Chapman's History of Gallatin County, Ill., p. 367 says: "Charles Damron, an old resident of this county, was born in Ky. and his father was Wilson Damron who was a native of Va. Wilson was a scout of Daniel Boone. He later removed to that swction of N.W. territory that made Ill. He was in the employ of a fur company and at one time made explorations into the Yellowstone River country. He spent his last days near Springfield, Mo. The maiden name of his wife was McLane. Charles (the first) came with his parents to this state, and while living in Saline Co. 1818 voted for the adoption of the first constitution. After his marriage to Mary Carson, he removed to Weakly County, Tenn. where he resided until 1832, when he again came to Ill. and settled in the Tunnel Hill township on the farm now owned by John Bonar where he lived until his death in 1878. He was known for his good deeds. The children were J. M.C. (2), Samuel, Norval, James, Mary, Mexico, Jane, Drucilla, Almus." In Franklin County, Ill. 1818, census, we find Wilson Damron with 7 in the house, beside John Damron, Sr. and John Damron, Jr. etc. John Damron, Jr. married Sarah Elizabeth Shultz and she was b. Adair County, Ky. John Damron, Jr. moved to Weakly Co., Tenn. with the other Damrons, and in 1830 in Weakley Co., we find John T. Damron, with one male over 100 years, Samuel, John Jr., Constantine L., Moses, Charles etc.

THE DAMERONS OF ILLINOIS

Charles P. Damron, attorney, Ozark Building, Farmington, Mo. wrote to Nell Pearce Jan. 22, 1949: "My grandfather, Charles Wittenberry Damron, was a staunch Methodist, and when my father arrived on the scene, he gave him the middle name Wesley after the noted Methodist preacher, John Wesley. I have been told that my grandfather in his day was what they called a Class Leader in the Methodist Church and in her history of Johnson Co., Mrs. Chapman says he was noted for his good works."

Attached was a note on the will of his grandmother, first will book, p. 82, Johnson Co., Ill. "MARY D. DAMRON, Dec'd, 1884. Will & est. papers in Box No. 7, J.H.C. and J.W. Damron, EXRS. Legatee's: S. L. Anderson, grandchild; Mary D. Chapman, N.C. Anderson, Ida E. Anderson, John A. Anderson, Mary Graves, W.C. Graves, John M. Damron, Samuel F. Damron, Samuel W. Damron, Charles N. Damron, James W. Damron, Charles W. Graves (grandchild), Mary S. M. Graves, child of Hester A. M. Graves, formerly Hester A. M. Damron, my daughter, Alice Worley, my granddaughter, child of Marila D. Worley, formerly Marila D. Damron, my daughter, now deceased, Almus G. Damron, my son, John M.C. Damron, my son, James W., Damron, my son, Almus G. Damron, my son, last three to be my exrs., Will made Aug. 1873. Witnesses: L. Wm. Fern, Sanbun, Ills., B. L. Smith, Vienna, Ills." (Listed as sons were Samuel W., Charles N., and James W. Damron.)

Further note shows that "Charles Damron m. 1st Uriah Carson, 2nd Mary Carson. She was b. in the middle part of Tenn. and d. 1882 in Johnson Co., Ills. Charles D. lived in Saline Co., Ills. removed to Weakley Co., Tenn. about 1852, left Tenn. for Johnson Co., Ills. He died 1878. Dr. John H.C. Damron, born 2/20/1824 in Weakley Co., Tenn. died 1904. He was a resident of Vienna, Ills., Johnson Co. Practiced in Saline Co., Ills., also in 1855 removed to Vienna, he was married to Elizabeth Buckner in 1850, she d. 1852. He was a member of Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Vienna, Ills."

"Wilson Damron m. Miss McClain. He was born in Va. came to Ky. was associated with Daniel Boone, went from Ky. to Territory of Mo. worked for a fur company at Springfield, Mo." Charles was son of Wilson b. in Va., rem. from Va. to Ky. where he was an assoc. of Daniel Boone. Dr. J.H.C. of Vienna was son of Charles b. in Ky.

Mrs. Pearce also sent a note: "I have located Noble Ladd Damron, son of John Damron, Sr. at last. I was just reeling off some Tennessee counties trying to get to another county in 1830 Census, microfilm machine, when all of a sudden I saw the name Damron, reeled back to that page and there was:

"Obion County, Tenn. 1830 Census: Noble L. Damron 40 to 50

H. 1 under 5
1 5 to 10
2 10 to 15
F. one, wf."

"Of course, then I got busy, searched 1840-50 Obion County, Tenn. but could not find him in this county or in any of the surrounding counties, wonder if he died or what happened to him. Maybe he after 1830 census went to Texas and joined his brother John. Ruth and Mariam up to date have not located Noble Ladd any place.

"I found one Joseph Dameron in 1830 census Lincoln Co., Tenn. Lincoln is straight down the Tenn. river from Weakley and earlier counties where the Damrons were very early. This Tenn. river also cuts right through Ky. into Weakley and earlier Tenn. counties adj. Weakley."

Miss Aiken wrote: "Searched a long time among Thompson papers, found nothing, Russell Co., Va., nor in Washington Co. No Cynthia but had Celia as family name."

John Damron b. 1757; John d. 1757 and had a son Charles and perhaps one named Al and others; Richard, d.s.p.; Moses, who inherited the estate of Lazarus, and George.

IV. GEORGE, son of Lazarus, who had land in Buckingham and Albemarle. In 1755 he had a patent on Hardware River and Briery Creek in Albemarle, 400 acres next to Hugh Morris, north side of Hardware River. His wife was Anne _____, perhaps Toney or Thany or Thone. (A plot of 150 acres on the south side of the Fluvanna River was surveyed for Bishop Toney May 20, 1747, by Wm. Cabell, surveyor.) The children of George Dameron are not all identified except George and Dunmore's father, Michael.

1. George Dameron, Revolutionary soldier with Morgan's Riflemen. He m. Susannah Thomas, dau. of John and Ann Thomas, and moved to Green Co., Ky., where his inventory was Sept. 15, 1801. His descendants live now in Adair County, Ky. and nearby.

2. Perhaps Daniel Dameron, who had a substitute in Capt. Cabell's Co. 1777.

3. Michael Dameron who was taxed in Buckingham in 1784 with George Dameron.

V. MICHAEL, who deeded land to Branson Laking, 1793-1801, Fluvanna Deed Book 3, p. 364. We do not know all his children but Dunmore was one and perhaps Page or Littlepage Dameron, who was bondsman for Elizabeth Dameron and Phillip Thurmond in 1826 marriage bond, Nelson County, Va. Register. Mary Smith Dameron of Nelson m. John W. Carter and was related to Page Dameron. She was b. 1788.

VI. DUNMORE DAMERON, son of Michael. He m. Patsey Cox, daughter of George, bond dated July 26, 1798, bondsman John Davis. (Marriage Bonds of Fluvanna, Va. prior to 1801, by the Misses Curry.) Dunmore was b. 1773. Alimae Aiken found deeds for him as follows: Dunmore Dameron from John Matthews, 1800, 100 acres north side of Anne Laugh Creek. Dunmore Dameron from Reuben I. Mitchell, 1804, Narrowbone Mountain. Both deeds were in Amherst County, Va. His children were the following:

1. John, who moved to Buckingham County, Va. when young. A John Dameron m. Phebe Goodrich in 1813, Feb. 15, Amherst Co., Va. Also a John m. Lucy Peyton, 1837.

2. Drury C. Dameron, who went to Missouri as a young man. In Nelson Co., Va. he m. Charlot D. Martin in 1824, and he was on the 1840 census for Amherst Co., Va.

3. Zachariah Dameron, who had a son Hiram. Hiram's son Elbert lives at 909 Amherst Avenue, Altavista, Va. He m. his cousin Rosa Dameron, b. near Rockfish Depot, Nelson Co., Va.

4. Samuel, b. 1800, moved to Nelson Co., Va. about 1824. His son Zechariah (Leland) was b. Cumberland County, Va. 1828, and had ch: Rosa m. Elbert Dameron; Ella, age 87 in 1954, when she lived at 601 Park Street, Charlottesville, Va.; John, whose daughter is Betty Bonham, Schuyler, Va.; Mrs. Willie Dabney, Rockfish, Va.

5. Lee. This may be Leland Dameron, bondsman in 1839 for Nancy C. Dameron and Isaac Newton. In 1836 Leland Damron m. Susanna Powell.

6. Perhaps Polly Dameron, as Dunmore Dameron was bondsman in 1836 in Nelson Co., Va. when she m. Joseph Thomas.

Some very valuable research was done by Alimae Aiken of the Madison College for Girls, Harrisonburg, Va. which proved that the father of Dunmore Dameron was Michael, and other important facts as follows:

A letter 2-15-54 from Mrs. Rosa Dameron, 909 Amherst, Altavista, Va. said: "Both our great-great grandfather was Mike Dameron, our great-grandfather was Dunmore Dameron, and Elbert's grandfather was Zachariah Dameron and my, Rosa Dameron's grandfather, was Samuel Dameron. Elbert's father was Zack's son, name Hiram Dameron. My, Rosa's father, was named Zachariah Dameron, son of Samuel Dameron. My, Rosa's, father Zach was born in Cumberland Co., Virginia, in 1828. I, Rosa, have heard my father Zachariah say his father moved to Nelson County when my father was (two) 2 years old. Elbert and I, Rosa, was born in Nelson County near Rockfish Depot, now either of us do not know much about our Dameron origin, so now we know of an aged lady who said she was a Dameron. I will refer you to her. She is Mrs. Mary Dise, 1109 Church Street, Lynchburg, Va. I hope you can get all reference from Mrs. Dise. You can tell Mrs. Dise I gave her name to you. I am yours, (Signed) Mrs. Rosa Dameron Dameron (maiden name Dameron, too). I forgot to mention we know Mrs. Betty Bonham personally. She is Rosa's 3d cousin and Elbert's 1st cousin." Alimae Aiken notes: "This is from the Altavista family mentioned in the letter from Mrs. Betty Bonham of Schuyler, Va. (Nelson Co.)"

A note from Mrs. John Andrews Wells (Bertha Cammie Dameron), 708 E. High Street, Charlottesville, Va. says: "My father's full name was Zachariah Leland Dameron. He was born year of 1828. My grandfather's full name was Samuel Dameron. He was born year of 1800. My great-grandfather Dameron's full name was Dunmore Dameron. He was born year of 1773." She did not know the places of birth. The note was sent by Ella Dameron.

Another letter was from Ada N. Dameron, 935 Kellogg Avenue, N.W., Roanoke, Va., Feb. 14, 1954: "I found your letter most interesting, and as far as the Dameron generation goes is only what I know through my husband, Wilbur Thomas Dameron, whose father's name was Thomas Benton, and his mother's name (maiden) was Eveline Sargeant. My husband's father had only two children, Wilbur and a daughter named Stella Dameron. She died when she was 34 years old in the year 1906. My husband lived on his father's home place all his life after his father's death. My husband was only 5 years old when his father died in 1873 as I remember. His family was raised and lived in Albemarle County. I don't know who my husband's grandparents were. However, my husband's father had four brothers--James Dameron (Jim) who has lived in Buckingham County a long time. He died in 1928. His widow and family are now living there. Then Robert Dameron (Bob) lived in Lynchburg. He was never married. He died around 1912. Then Monroe Dameron lived on the old Dameron farm (this is part of the farm my husband lived on) near Scottsville. This farm is now owned by Bennie Leap, Scottsville, Va. He recently bought this farm from his father Joe Leap. Then there was John Dameron, the last we heard of him he left to go to Texasto live. There was also two girls--Sally, who was last known as living in Lynchburg, Va. in 1912 and Ellen Dameron. She married a man by the name of Moon. Of this marriage 2 children were born--Lessie Moon and James. Both children are dead now, then Ellen married Robertson and the last time a Jake Tilman. In 1903 she died. As far as the family tree goes back I don't know very much, but I do know James Dameron I spoke of did have an old family Bible and record, and his widow Clemey Baber Damron, and her two sons, Joe & Robert, still live together in Buckingham, and if you wrote them a letter they could probably tell you the name of their father's mother and father (my husband's ^{great} grandparents too). Their mailing address is Scottsville, Va. but mark on the envelope Buckingham Co., if not it may go elsewhere. (James Dameron was buried there on his home place.) He was a school teacher.

Letter from Ada N. Dameron, p. 2.

"Yes, some spell the name Damron with an E in it, but the reason we did this was to keep the mail from getting mixed up as so often the mail went to Dawson's who lived in the same territory. I don't believe the name Damron was derived from Damron. I know a wonderful lawyer in Charlottesville, Va. named Clinton Wingfield...he would be glad to go with you to the court house and trace back the old Dameron history...

"Yes, the early Damerons did live on Hardware River, also the James River. My son, Gordon, who lives on our old home place, wrote me that you had paid him a visit. Often, I have heard my husband speak of the Ladds.

"I was only 15 years old when I married Wilbur. He was 25. I was Ada Robinson, who all my life lived near his home place. He died in May, 1939. He was the police of Scottsville. I hope to have the pleasure of meeting you some time... If you can dig up any more information, please keep me informed."

Miss Aiken wrote: "Mrs. Ada Dameron is the mother of Gordon Dameron near Scottsville on Hardware River. Mrs. James Dameron (Clemey Baber Dameron) is the lady with whom I talked in Buckingham Co. and she showed me the Lynchburg Dameron's will. She said that she had no other records. I told Mrs. Ada D. that she could trace the owners of the farm back through the deeds...this is why she mentions selling it to Mr. Leap."

A letter from Ella Dameron, 601 Park Street, Charlottesville, Va., of Jan. 27, 1954, said: "The letter which you sent to Mrs. Willie Dabney, Rockfish, has been referred to me. Mrs. Willie Dabney is my sister. She is 91 years old. She lost her eyesight a year or maybe two years ago. She is blind and in bad health. In the first place, none of our immediate family know much about the Damron and Dameron history. Some years ago someone loaned us a brief history of the first Damerons who came over from England and settled in Northumberland County. As near as I remember his name was Lawrence, with his family. After that, as the family descended, they began to move to other places until they reached Albemarle County, Va. Then the history closed. That was just before my great-grandfather's birth in the year of 1773. My great-grandfather's name was Dunmore Dameron. I don't know his birthplace. My great-grandfather had five sons, namely, John, Drury, Samuel, Lee, Zack. His son Drury Dameron immigrated to Missouri in his young manhood. I have heard he married before he left Va. Great-grandfather's son John moved to Buckingham Co., Va. in his young days. I never heard of any correspondence after these two left the home. I suppose these things took place before my father's time. My grandfather was Samuel Dameron. He was born in the year of 1800. My father's name was Zechariah Dameron. He was born in the year 1828. I don't know his birthplace. We never heard of the Damerons and Damrons you wrote about until you mentioned them in your letter. There are Damerons in Lynchburg, Va. also in N.C. and other places, but we don't know their origin. Neither have we seen them. Dameron is the original way to spell Dameron. I am sorry I can't give you more information. My grandfather was a farmer. My father was a bookkeeper, also taught school. I am 87 years old and a 'shut in,' walking just a little bit with 2 canes, afflicted with arthritis and other ailments. Sincerely (Ella Dameron). P.S. Please excuse me for using a pencil in writing. My hand is not very steady. I can't trust pen and ink." The writing is in a good clear hand. Alimae Aiken wrote: "she is from Nelson Co. which has many Damerons."

Alimae Aiken was referred to the above in a letter from Betty Bonham, Schuyler, Va. Jan. 5, 1954: "My father was named John Damron, son of Zeckariah and Frances Thomas Damron, grandfather died in Jan. 91. My mother and father died in ten weeks of each other, when I was 13 years old and I lived with mother's people afterwards. (She was a Noel.) I have seen very few of the Damrons since except Mrs. Ponton's (?) family. She is my first cousin. We have a cousin in Charlottesville, Ella Damron, who might give you a few details, older than I. Write Mrs. W.E. Cookenour, Schuyler, Va...or Elbert Damron, Altavista. He is uncle Hiram's son."

Ella Dameron wrote to me March 1, 1954: "Dunmore Dameron was my great-grandfather. I think he had five sons and two daughters. I don't know how their ages run. Drury Dameron married Charlotte Martin and immigrated to Missouri. John Dameron went to Buckingham. I don't know who he married. Lee Dameron married Susan Powell. Zechariah Dameron married Frances Thomas. Samuel Dameron (my grandfather) married Elizabeth Thomas. Of that marriage there were born 2 sons and three daughters, namely Martha Frances, Sarah Ann, Elvira Jane. The sons were William Dunmore Dameron, the elder son, Zack Dameron, the younger son was my father, born November the 18, 1828. My father, Zack Dameron, married Belinda Loving January 12, 1860, not 1859, as the genealogy records. My father Zack Dameron was a school teacher and bookkeeper. My father's older brother, William Dunmore Dameron, I think was born the year 1827. He married Lou Welch December 1859. He was a merchant. Of that marriage there was one son, Charles Samuel Dameron born December 19, 1860. Charles' father was called to the Civil War and contracted some kind of disease and died in Richmond, Va. about the year 1862 or '63.

"Martha Frances Dameron, daughter of Samuel Dameron, married James Drumheller. They with their family immigrated to Ohio. I don't know much about them. Of course, the older ones have passed away. Children and maybe grandchildren, too. Sarah Ann Dameron, daughter of Samuel Dameron, married Jacob Farrar. My oldest brother, Thomas Loving Dameron, married Pearl Johnson of Nelson County, Va. He was a depot agent, first at Pence Spring, W. Va., and was transferred from Pence Spring to Alderson, W. Va. where he brought up his family of five girls and one son. John Q. Dameron, son of Zachariah Dameron (son of Dunmore) was married three times. First wife, Sarah Townsend, second wife, Sallie Loving, and third wife, Mahala Noel, who was the mother of Bettie Bonham who lives near Schuyler, Va. My grandfather, Sam Dameron, married Elizabeth Thomas of Fluvanna County, but from the record of the genealogy, the marriage ceremony was performed in Cumberland County. If so, I suppose their three daughters and two sons may have been born in Cumberland County. ... I never knew of a John J. Dameron nor John O. Dameron, as the genealogy mention these names. I have heard my father speak of Page Dameron and Littlepage Dameron. I don't suppose they were contemporary of my father, but may have been grown men, when father was a child. Both Page Dameron and Littlepage Dameron left Nelson County. I don't recall hearing father say where they went from Nelson. I was born and brought up at Rockfish, Nelson Co., Va. My great-grandfather, Dunmore Dameron, may have come of the Albemarle Damerons. If not, I don't know where the home of his early life was. I rather think his father's name was William Dameron. The Damerons of my generation, some have died, and some have gone to different parts of the world. I don't know the younger ones or where they live, only two nephews and some great-nephews. Some live in Newport News. Some in Alderson, W. Va., and some in Pennsylvania. I have several great-great nieces and nephews. My oldest brother, of Alderson, W. Va. has been dead for several years. His son, Frank, is the R.R. ticket agent at Alderson, and Frank's son, Frank, Jr. has signed up with the American Express Company, for three years, and is stationed in Brazil. I am sending you some clippings. I don't know these Damerons. I have a great-great nephew attending V.P.I. I have a great-great niece attending Averett College for Girls, Danville, Va.... I have lived in Charlottesville for several years. I will refer Miss Vera V. Via to you who writes historical articles for the Daily Progress, the Charlottesville daily paper." She then sent on March 3, the following:

"(July) or Julia Dameron, is a granddaughter of Zechariah Dameron and a/granddaughter of Dunmore Dameron. She married George Callahan who was a contractor when the railroad was being built through here. It is now the Southern R.R. The Callahans made their home in either Salem or Roanoke Co. I used to hear they were very wealthy. I never saw any of them... I wish I knew where Dunmore Dameron finally settled and made his home. I know his sons, Zachariah, Lee, and Samuel, made their homes in Nelson Co.... My great-grandfather Dunmore had slaves. My grandfather had no slaves. Wishing you much success in your tremendous task of the Dameron genealogy, most sincerely, (signed) ELLA DAMERON." She wrote a very clear hand.

- (3) Elvira Jane m. John Drumheller, 1847, in Nelson Co., Va.

Elbert D.
5. Leland Dameron m. Susanna Powell, 1836, Nelson Co., Va.

The home of Zachariah Damron was in the vicinity of the south end of what is now Southern Railway bridge across Rockfish River near Rockfish Station in Nelson Co. He was buried in the family plot at that site. (Prior to 1807 Nelson was in Amherst.)"

5. Nicholas.
6. Austin.
7. Leland.
8. Clifton.
9. Julia A. S. Damron m. George Callahan, 1858, Nelson Co., Va.
10. Manoah, youngest son.

MANOAH T. DAMRON AND LUCY HELEN GAY DAMRON.

I received the following information from Hattie Lee Pleasants, 1314 Chesapeake Street, Charlottesville, Va. May 7, 1954: "Zachariah Damron that married Frances Thomas was my grandfather and she was my grandmother. She died when I was young. My grandfather died Jan. 1891, 85 years old; he was born 1806. My father 'Tump', Manoah, called M. T. Damron, married Lucy Helen Gay, North Garden, Albemarle Co., Va. I was the oldest of nine children. I married William Edward Martin of North Garden in 1893, Nov. 8. My husband died June, 1894. I remarried again Nov. 1897 to Thomas L. Pleasants. Am now a widow. I am seventy-six and had a slight stroke Dec. Am anxious to get all of this history for my grandchildren and thank you so much. Below you will find my brothers and sisters:

"Manoah T. Damron, born July 14, 1851, died Nov. 15, 1918. His wife, Lucy Helen Gay born April 30, 1858, died May 23, 1836. Their children were:

1. Hattie Lee Damron Martin Pleasants, born Nov. 29, 1877.

He wrote: "My father was David Houston Damron and he came from Nelson Co. I have discussed with my aunt on my daddy's side the questions in your letter (re William Dameron's family), and nowhere down the line can she recall any Damrons by the names listed.")
6. George Aubry Damron, born Nov. 21, 1891, died Feb. 18, 1918, in service.
7. Harry Blain Damron, born Aug. 24, 1895.
8. Katie May Damron Ponton, born May 18, 1898, of Faber, Nelson Co., Va."
9. Willie Edna Damron Norvelle. (No dates given.)

On April 26, I received a letter from Ella Dameron correcting some dates: "I notice Samuel Dameron, my grandfather and Elizabeth Thomas, my grandmother, are recorded as being married 1835. I am sure that date is far wrong. I can't now get my hands on a family Bible with these records, but I think it possible my grandfather and grandmother were married the year 1822 or 1823. The genealogy records my father, Zechariah Leland Dameron and my mother, Belinda Loving, as being married 1859. That is not correct. My father and mother were married January 12, 1860." (Note by H.F.S.--the date of the marriage bond is what is given in the records and was usually some time before the marriage actually took place.) Another sister of Ella Dameron is Bertha Cammie Dameron Wells (Mrs. John Andrews Wells), 709 E. High St., Charlottesville, Va.

Following are listed the dates in the Marriage Register of Nelson County, Va. not already noted, of the name Damron:

James T. and Martha S. W. Thurmand 1828	Wm. and Sarah Ann Harding, 1825
John and Lucy Peyton	Wm. and Hannah M. Griffin, 1831
Uriah A. and Martha M. Newton, 1858	Abby Ann and Wm. S. Witt 1855
Lucy T. and Wm. Johnson, 1822, bondsman,	Elizabeth and Abram E. Chandler, 1823
Wm. R. Damron	Sophia and Thomas Glass, Mar. 12,
Nancy C. and Isaac Newton, 1839, Leland	1810
Dameron, bondsman	Elizabeth and Phillip Thurmond,
	1826, Littlepage Damron, bonds-

(Note: The descendants and ancestry of William Dameron are not yet traced. His children were John, who went to Texas, Robert B, of Lynchburg, d. 1919, Monroe, of Scottsville, Va., James d. 1928 Buckingham County, whose sons Joseph and Robert live in Buckingham; Thomas Benton Dameron of Scottsville, Sally and Ellen m. IV. GEORGE, son of above Lazarus, had land both in Buckingham and Albemarle Counties, Va. His children were: George, a Revolutionary soldier who m. Susannah Thomas and moved to Green Co., Ky.; Michael; perhaps Daniel; Dunmore m. Lucy Thomas, perhaps others.

V. DUNMORE DAMERON, who lived in Albemarle County, Va. His wife was Lucy Thomas born in Fluvanna County, Va. According to Mary Dameron Dise in her "Family History of Charles Dameron and Wife Mary E. Dameron," the following are his descendants:

"George and John Dameron settled in Albemarle County near Charlottesville, Va. on Hardware River before the Revolutionary War." This memorandum was taken from a letter of Mrs. Frances H. Keach, Wichita, Kansas.

"Memo: The grandmother was born near Lynchburg in 1807 and was the daughter of John Dameron. One sister Jane married Goodrich and moved to Ohio. The grandmother's name was Lucinda Thomas Dameron. This lady's father's name was Samuel H. Bell." (All of the above is written in the top right corner of the cover to Book 1.)

The brothers of Charles Dameron, son of Dunmore, were:

1. Charles Dameron, born 1780 in Albemarle County, Va., resided at Amherst County, Va., occupation, farmer, married in 1820 in Amherst Co., d. June 11, 1838.

2. "John, brother of Charles Dameron, res. Alleghany County on Dunlap Creek." The book "A Centennial History of Alleghany County," by Oren F. Morton, lists the residents of 1840, from the list by Lee Persinger, Commissioner of the Revenue, p. 140: Damron--Andrew, Christopher, Isaac P., Joseph, William. Chapter XIX. Legislators and County Officers from Alleghany: Delegates, Joseph Dameron, 1833-34; Andrew Dameron, 1850-51. Until 1830 Alleghany was entitled to two delegates, the same as all other counties. From 1830 to 1853, it was a delegate district by itself. Bath was then added but was taken off in 1865. In 1869 Craig was joined to Alleghany. In 1879 Bath and Highland were substituted for Craig but since 1904 Alleghany and Craig again comprise one district. County Officers: Justices 1820-1852--Dameron, Joseph, 1827; Dameron, Andrew, 1838. Surveyors: Joseph Damron 1822-1824; Andrew Damron 1833-1850. "Soldiers of 1861 and Earlier Wars, Company G 22-D, Regiment. "Rocky Point Grays," Alleghany County: Damron, Henry C., enlisted Mar. 1862, Lewisburg, died of disease; Damron, Stannard, discharged 1863; Damron, William; Damron, Samuel A. "Soldiers of 1861 and Earlier Wars, names in Matheny-Evans List: Damron, Henry; Damron, Samuel." No Damrons listed for World War. (Summers lists H.C. Dameron, Methodist minister, 1881, Washington Co.)

"The Families of Alleghany County," p. 129 lists: "The Damerons have been a prominent family of Dunlap Creek. John died 1828. His wife was Polly and his children were Elizabeth, Joseph, John, William, Andrew and Christopher. Elizabeth married Thomas Smith. Joseph was a lawyer. Joseph and Andrew Dameron, delegates from Alleghany, were of an old family in the east of Virginia. (P. 198.) Summers' Annals of Southwest Virginia, p. 507, Early Marriages of Botetourt Co. 1769-1800, lists, 1796, John Damron--Molly Hardy."

7. She also lists as brothers of Charles, Dunmore Dameron, father of Drewry C., who moved to Mo. about 1844, which must be a mistake; and also Michael. She notes that Dunmore lived near Rockfish, Nelson Co. and that Drewry C. had "oldest sons, grown at the time, Dunmore, Robt., and John, oldest daughter, Susan."

1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm, humid air of the tropics. I had heard that the weather in the north was harsh, but I didn't realize just how cold it would be. The wind was biting, and the sun felt like a distant star.

As I walked through the airport, I saw people shivering in coats and hats. Some were carrying umbrellas, even though it wasn't raining. I felt a little out of place, but I tried to ignore the stares and keep my head down. I was just a traveler, after all.

The taxi driver who picked me up was a man with a friendly smile. He asked me where I was going, and I told him the name of the hotel. He nodded and started the car. The ride was quiet, but I noticed he was looking at me in the rearview mirror. I felt a bit uncomfortable, but I didn't say anything.

At the hotel, the receptionist led me to my room. It was a simple room with a bed, a desk, and a bathroom. I dropped my bag and took a shower to wash away the dirt from my journey.

After the shower, I sat on the edge of the bed and looked out the window. The city lights were visible in the distance, and I felt a sense of wonder. I had finally reached the place I had come so far to see.

The next morning, I went down to the breakfast room. There were several other people there, some of whom I recognized from the airport. We talked for a while, and I learned that they were also on their way to the north. It seemed like everyone was heading in the same direction. I felt a bit less alone now. The food was good, and I ate my fill. I was ready for whatever came next.

That afternoon, I went for a walk in the park. The trees were bare, and the grass was brown. It was a stark contrast to the lush greenery of the tropics. I walked alone, thinking about the journey I had undertaken. I felt a mix of excitement and nervousness. I was about to enter a new world, and I didn't know what to expect.

3. The first night in the north was a long one. I lay in bed, staring at the ceiling, and trying to get to sleep. The silence was deafening, and I felt a sense of isolation.

4. The second night was even longer. I was still awake, and I was starting to feel a bit restless. I decided to get up and walk around the room.

5. The third night was the longest of all. I was still awake, and I was feeling a bit more restless than ever. I decided to get up and walk around the room again.

6. The fourth night was the shortest of all. I was still awake, and I was feeling a bit more restless than ever. I decided to get up and walk around the room again.

7. The fifth night was the longest of all. I was still awake, and I was feeling a bit more restless than ever. I decided to get up and walk around the room again.

The above data was compiled many years ago by Mary Dise at the request of Robert B. Dameron of Lynchburg, Va., son of William and Hannah M. Dameron, and brother of James W. Dameron of Buckingham Co., Va. In his will written in 1913 he said: "I desire that Mary Dameron, daughter of Charles Dameron of Amherst, Va. is to have $100.00 in consideration of collecting such data as I have and others as relates to Dameron family and to record same in a neat book of reference to be preserved by her. I desire that neat tombstones be placed over the graves of my mother Hannah M. Dameron and two brothers, Lindsey C. Dameron and George J. Dameron with their names and dates of deaths inscribed thereon as records show in my trunk, also an enclosure such as my executor shall select. This grave yard is situated in the old John E. Eubank farm near Porter's Precinct in Albemarle Co. and is owned by Mr. Williams who has kindly given permission to improve about graves."

Mrs. Dise wrote to Alimae Aiken March 22, 1954: "Will Dameron's address is W.R. C. Dameron, 613 Victoria Avenue, Lynchburg. He had four daughters. I think all of them may have taught at some time in the public schools, and maybe one of them studied at Madison College, I don't know. Will graduated at Roanoke College. There was a book of family history called Our Kin, which contained much Dameron information. The Gilliams were connected with our family. My Uncle George Dameron took care of their estate. I taught in Tenn. Female College. My six brothers younger than myself are gone with heart failures... Cousin Bob Dameron helped me to write the family history and gave me the $100.00 to compile the book. Irma Dameron of the Albemarle branch comes to see me, a lovely young woman."

1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the cold air. It was a sharp contrast to the warm air of the plane. I had heard that the weather in London was cold, but I didn't realize it would be so cold. I was wearing a light jacket, but it wasn't enough. I needed a heavier coat. I bought one at a store near the airport. It was a dark blue coat with a fur collar. It was perfect. I felt much warmer. I was ready for anything.

2. The second thing I noticed was the people. They were all so different. I had never seen so many people from so many different countries. It was exciting. I was in a new world. I was in a new place. I was in a new life. I was in a new adventure. I was in a new journey. I was in a new world.

3. The third thing I noticed was the food. It was so good. I had never eaten anything so good before. The food was delicious. It was perfect. I was in a new world. I was in a new place. I was in a new life. I was in a new adventure. I was in a new journey. I was in a new world.

5. The fifth thing I noticed was the language. It was so different. I had never heard anything so different before. The language was unique. It was perfect. I was in a new world. I was in a new place. I was in a new life. I was in a new adventure. I was in a new journey. I was in a new world.

6. The sixth thing I noticed was the architecture. It was so different. I had never seen anything so different before. The architecture was unique. It was perfect. I was in a new world. I was in a new place. I was in a new life. I was in a new adventure. I was in a new journey. I was in a new world.

JANE DAMERON AND PHOEBE DAMERON

That there must have been additional daughters of Charles Dameron, not shown in the records of Mrs. Dise is indicated by the fact that Phoebe E. Dameron and Jane Dameron were left orphans at his death.

Will Book 11, p. 210, Amherst Co., Va. has the Guardian Bond for Phoebe Dameron:

"Know all men by these presents we Ralph C. Shelton, Richd Rucker & John D. L. Rucker are held and firmly bound unto the Commonwealth of Virginia in the Sum of Two Thousand and Five hundred dollars, lawful money of Virginia, to be paid to the said Commonwealth for the payment whereof, well and truly be made, we bind ourselves and each of us over and each of our heirs, executors, and administrators, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents, Sealed with our seals, and dated this 19th day of February, 1844, and in the 68th year of the Commonwealth. In Will Book 24, p. 268, Amherst Co., is the Will of R. B. Dameron, Mrs. Dise's cousin Robert.

Will Book 11, p. 68, Amherst Co., has an administrator's bond for Robert Dameron's estate, 18 July, 1842, admr. David Patterson and Robert Conom (?). Alimae Aiken says there is another Administrator's bond, Will Book 11, p. 69, Amherst Co., Va. for Dunmore Dameron exactly like the one on p. 6, same book.

THE WILL OF ZACHARIAH DAMERON, AMHERST COUNTY, VIRGINIA, 1891

"I, being in sound mind on the 10th day of April, 1891, and being in advanced years and knowing the uncertainty of life, have concluded to make my will as I believe it to be the duty of mankind to provide for his family the best he can and above all his beloved wife, in case of being the first to die. MY WILL IS AS FOLLOWS:

"If I shall die before my beloved wife, I wish her to have the full use of all property that I may own at the time of my death of every name and nature just as long as she lives single; but if she should ever conclude to marry again she must then give up all property of every name and nature except that the state laws of Virginia allows in such cases, and she must care for my two boys until they are twenty-one years of age, and for Gertrude, my youngest daughter, until she is married. Now as to the division of my property among my children after carrying out to the letter, the foregoing part of this will to my beloved wife, in every sense, I want a perfect equal division to cents worth, by first paying to my last children as much as the first has had and which is charged to them on a Memorandum Book that my beloved wife I hope if she should find herself able to do so and all my children that I hold bonds or accounts against that are not charged or mentioned just as they read on the foregoing mentioned Memorandum Book must pay them over to their mother with the interest on them from their dates, which is justice to all, and if they fail to pay them and interest they must lose whatever it be in amount in a final division. Given under my hand and seal this 10th April 1891.

(Note: The above Zachariah Dameron and Malachi were twins--fought in the Civil War. They were the sons of Charles Dameron and Mary E. MacGann. Zachariah married Margaret Rucker 1847 in Bedford Co., Va. and had nine children. Charles Dameron was the son of Dunmore Dameron and Lucy Thomas. He was born 1780 in Albemarle County, Va. and resided in Amherst Co. Dunmore was the descendant of Lazarus Dameron and Elizabeth Smith who came to Albemarle before 1746, where Lazarus died in 1749. Lazarus was the son of George Dameron of Northumberland County, Va. who inherited the Guarding Point estate on Chesapeake Bay from his father Lawrence Dameron who came to Northumberland County before 1652.)

George Marshall Damron:

"As a boy I listened for hours to Grand-dad tell about the Civil War and the early Damrons and this section of Nelson Co. In the old Damron Cemetery at Rockfish there is the grave of Lazarus Damron died in 1749 and also of Lawrence Damron (he said Lawrence one time and John another) died at 19 years. Damron's creek was at the foot of Grandfather's place. I was reared in Nelson County near Rockfish Depot. I believe Damron's creek is called Dutch creek today. It starts at Shipman and runs into Rockfish River at Loving's place. Red Bank creek is at Fabers. Some call it Hickory Creek. Grand-dad said the first Damron had 2300 acres all on the north side of the James." He mentioned a John Damron who went to Illinois and took his family with him. He did not say who the father of John was.

"Carrie D	Zach D
Edna D	Tump D
Fannie D	Lucie D"
Minnie D

The title at the top of the page is too dim to read, however, the name Zechariah is readable.

On a page which appears to be the first in the Bible is written in ink--JOHN DAMRONS OLD TESTAMENT. The page reads 'Old Testament translated out of the original Hebrew together with the Apocrypha--published in Philadelphia in 1815.' This book is very stained and dilapidated. It is almost 4 inches thick and is 10 1/2 x 8 3/4 inches. The first two pages containing the earliest Damron records according to Mr. Marshall Damron's statement have been lost. He said that it belonged to his grandfather Hiram C. Damron and that he did not know who owned it before his grandfather but it was known as 'Zachariah's Bible.") A.M. Aiken.

ALBEMARLE COUNTY, VIRGINIA--CRADLE OF JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRACY

There is a book by James Truslow Adams, The Living Jefferson, 1936, which analyzes the origin of Jeffersonian democracy on the theory that it was the product of Jefferson's knowledge of the independent farmers of Albemarle County, Virginia, where he lived, hence they were the foundation of this theory in America. In any case Albemarle has more character than any other county in the United States, with the exception of the "Northern Neck", the home of Presidents in Virginia, where the Dameron's also originated. Adams said that Jefferson "was, and still is, the greatest and most influential American exponent of both Liberalism and Americanism." His theory is that he learned this in Albemarle from the families and farmers of what was then a frontier. "It was precisely those qualities and possibilities in our life, which I have summed up elsewhere as the 'American Dream,' and which have made America unique, that Jefferson recognized and tried to foster..."

"It may also be noted that even in his native Virginia Jefferson antagonized many of the most important interests and families by what was considered his undermining of an established social order. His struggle to break down entail and primogeniture, to free religion from the fetters of a State church, and his well-known opposition to slavery, have not even yet been forgiven by many Virginians."

Adams says that Prof. Channing wrote that why Hooker left Massachusetts is "one of the unsolved problems of New England history," but that he believes that since then there have been "the two rival doctrines--the one that the people could and should rule, the other that they were incapable of it and must be ruled...As always in our past until the close of the frontier, those who held to the first doctrine HAD GONE WEST, and that doctrine was to build up in frontier after frontier, across 3,000 miles and for nearly three centuries, what we have always considered as one of the chief elements in Americanism."

"It was in one of the finest parts of the frontier...that Thomas Jefferson was born on April 2, 1743 (Old Style). His father, Peter Jefferson, a surveyor, had patented a thousand acres of land in what was at the time called Goochland, on the extreme western fringe of white settlement adjoining the wilderness. It is said that there were only three or four white families living there when the Jefferson family settled in 1737...in 1745 Albemarle became a separate county, Peter Jefferson's lands lying in the portion so set off... he had been a magistrate and sheriff of Goochland County... The Jeffersons, probably originally emigrants from Wales, ...were one of the oldest, although not socially great, families in Virginia... The elder Jefferson had been a friend of the Randolphs...and his marriage in 1739 to Jane Randolph ensured to the children...high social position." Thomas was born at Shadwell, a 400-acre tract where Thomas was born in 1743. Tuckahoe, the Randolph home estate on the James River above Richmond, was inherited by Thomas Mann Randolph, brother of Jefferson's wife and he became administrator for the boy, so Peter moved to Tuckahoe to manage the estate for seven years. Jefferson studied with Rev. William Douglass in Shadwell. His father died when he was fourteen. "A plantation which the father had owned on the James River went to the younger son, but Thomas inherited Shadwell, the slaves of the estate there, and about 2750 acres of land. He later studied under Rev. James Maury, a Huguenot."

In 1757 Albemarle had about 7 or 8 thousand population, Adams says, and it was "as good a spot as any in the world, in which to gain a high opinion of the ordinary man. Those who had moved westward to the slopes of the Blue Ridge had been to a great extent of the best stock in Virginia and not without a sprinkling of its bluest blood. There were both freedom and simplicity in the life, and a district in which in less than a hundred miles from one another such boys as Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, James Madison, and John Marshall were growing up simultaneously was evidently no ordinary 'frontier' or new country. By an odd chance, Marshall's father, like Jefferson's, was of Welsh descent and had also married into the remarkable Randolph clan. The men and women of this western Virginia country, establishing themselves on small or large farms, were quite capable of looking after themselves and the affairs of government, and...it is well to bear in mind the sort of society in which (Jefferson's most impressionable years were spent... Those who have lived on the successive fringes of our civilization have naturally been more insistent upon human rights than upon those claimed for property or privilege, and more willing to risk change for the sake of betterment than those remaining in the older settlements."

Jefferson went to William and Mary at Williamsburg where he became a Mason. At that time it had about 200 houses, while Boston and New York had about 15,000 inhabitants and Philadelphia 20,000.

Jefferson had the same theory that the Cromwellians had: "Going back to the Saxons he pointed out that when they had conquered in England each man had obtained his own land by his own strength and had held it in fee simple without the over-landlordship of the Crown, which was not asserted until after the Norman Conquest. He claimed that the colonists had gone to the wilds of America as had the Saxons to the former wilds of Britain...they should own the land they had conquered without overlordship."

Lord Dunmore was governor of Virginia in 1774 and had great difficulty with the new Revolution which was brewing, so he seized the powder in the Williamsburg magazine in 1775. Jefferson began to argue in his Summary View, "Can any reason be assigned why 160,000 electors in the island of Great Britain should give law to four millions in the states of America, every individual of whom is equal to every individual of them, in virtue, in understanding, and in bodily strength?" He based his philosophy on the theory of "natural rights." "He deliberately excluded property from being a natural right because it could be maintained only by the help of society, and it was therefore, according to him, a civil right only. He did so not because he was a communist or even a parlor socialist, but because he believed the logic of his theory demanded it." So he left the right of property out of the Declaration of Independence for it was not a natural right like "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," though many wanted it put in as it was in the Virginia declaration, and the First Continental Congress.

Francis Eppes was Jefferson's brother-in-law. He married Martha Skelton, daughter of John Wayles, a lawyer, and widow of Skelton who left her a property.

Jefferson had entail and primogeniture abolished in 1777, so estates were inherited not by the eldest son but by all children equally. He also had ideas of public education which Prof. Chinard says were printed in his Notes on Virginia in French 1786 and were "the origin and source of the modern French educational system."

During the Revolution 4,000 of Burgoyne's men were prisoners of war encamped near Charlottesville, some German, who were received by Jefferson and others.

"The army, in reality, was as yet the only 'nation.' The men in the army had to think nationally if for no other reason than that the army was dependent on the one national legislative body, the Congress." This was also true of Cromwell's army in the Civil War in England 1642-1660.

Adams said: "no other man in all our history has so contributed to the forming of the American spirit as Jefferson did by his life-long devotion to the principles of freedom, equality of opportunity and of Liberalism." p.127.

THE JEFFERSON FAMILY OF ALBEMARLE COUNTY, VIRGINIA

"Peter Jefferson, the father of the President, was a native of Chesterfield and removed to the present limits of Albemarle in 1737. He entered the wilderness literally, as when he first came there were but three or four persons living in the neighborhood. His first entry was that of a thousand acres on the south side of the Rivanna, between Monticello Mountain and the Henderson land above Milton. Wishing a more eligible site for his house, he bought from his friend William Randolph of Tuckahoe the Shadwell tract of four hundred acres, where his distinguished son was born. He had been a magistrate and Sheriff in Goochland, and when Albemarle was formed, was one of its original magistrates, and its Lieutenant Colonel. He also represented the county in the House of Burgesses. He was employed with Colonel Joshua Fry to run the boundary line between Virginia and North Carolina, and to make the first map of Virginia ever drafted. When William Randolph died in 1747, leaving a son of tender age, he committed him to Mr. Jefferson's care, and more efficiently to discharge this trust Mr. Jefferson removed to Tuckahoe, where he resided seven years. This circumstance explains the difficulty in Mr. Waddell's mind, when in his Annals of Augusta County, he wondered how Thomas Lewis and his friends, who had gone to Mr. Jefferson's to make a map of the survey of the Northern Neck line, could ride from his house to Richmond to hear preaching on Sunday. He returned to Albemarle in 1755, and died in 1757. His wife was Jane, daughter of Isham Randolph, of Dungeness, and his children, Jane, who died unmarried, Thomas, Randolph, Mary, the wife of Thomas Bolling, Martha, the wife of Dabney Carr, Lucy, the wife of Charles Lilburn Lewis, and Ann, the wife of Hastings Marks.

"Thomas was born in 1743, married in 1771 Martha, daughter of John Wayles, of Charles City, and widow of Bathurst Skelton, and died July 4, 1826. "As a testimonial of respect for the memory of Thomas Jefferson, who devoted a long life to the service of his country, the principles of liberty, and the happiness of mankind; who aided conspicuously in the cause of the American Revolution; who drafted the Declaration of the principles, on which the Independence of these States was declared; who uniformly exerted his great talents to aid both the civil and religious liberties of his countrymen, and by whose practical administration of the principles he had promulgated in many stations, legislative, diplomatic and executive, in which he had acted as a public functionary, the equal rights of his countrymen were promoted, and secured at home and abroad; who uniting to a native benevolence a cultivated philanthropy, was peculiarly endeared to his countrymen and neighbors, who were witnesses of his virtue: Resolved therefore that this testimonial be recorded as a perpetual memorial of respect and affection of his countrymen, and of the Court of Albemarle, of which he was once a member..."

LIST OF LAND PATENTS TAKEN IN ALBEMARLE COUNTY, VIRGINIA

Albemarle was formed 1744 from Goochland where the Ladds were early settlers. The Damerons, John, Lazarus and George, all had surveys made in 1746, for patents in the new county of Albemarle near James River, and the grants were made in 1748. Lazarus and Richard died in 1749, so they must have met with some tragedy of the frontier. The following list of patentees was taken from Charles Wilder Watt's book on Early Albemarle, an unbound dissertation in the University of Virginia Library.

MAP DRAWN BY ALIMAE AIKEN OF HARRISONBURG, VA. showing the creeks and streams near which the Dameron and related families took up their land.

1. Stovall's Creek.
 2. Bolling's Creek.
 3. Harris Creek
 4. Huff's Creek.
- (John Damron's land).

(Note: The creeks 1, 2, 3 were taken from the oldest map at the University of Virginia Library, which was not divided into counties. These could be just over the line into Nelson but I think they are in Amherst. They are not marked in maps of today. 4 is one mile west of Amherst. I do not know in what direction it flows.

I have not seen any proof that the daughter of Christopher Garlington was the wife of Bartholomew Damron, Will 1708, but this is thought possible by several persons as noted elsewhere in this mss. Mrs. Cornelius found the will of a second Christopher Garlington probably in Northumberland County Book 1706-20, p. 210, Will May 18, 1709, no date of recording, sons Christopher Garlington, Samuel Garlington, William Garlington, wife, Mary Garlington; daus. Frances Garlington and Sarah Jones; executors brother Maurice Jones, wife Mary Garlington, son Christopher Garlington. She noted: "Due to the destruction of records in the Clerk's Office 1710 by fire, this will was destroyed and re-recorded and no witness names are given and no date that it was recorded. There was a Garlington and perhaps his name was Christopher before this one, and it may be it was his daughter that married Bartho. Dameron."

She also found the proof that the Christopher Dameron of Brunswick County was the son of Bartholomew there--which I had been guessing for a long time--which means he was brother of Alexander Dameron of Brunswick. Brunswick County, Va. deeds show in 1770 "Bartholomew Dameron to Christopher Dameron, Parish of Saint Andrews, County of Brunswick 'the sd. Bartholomew for love and aff. which I bear unto my son the sd. Christopher Dameron.'" Barth. Dameron purchased from Wm. Downing adj. land of John Matthews. Wit. George Dameron, David Ball, Betty Dameron, Augustine Coppedge, James Love, Jr.

Now who is this George Dameron? Who is Betty Dameron, the other witness? Could this George be the son of William, Will 1785, whose brother Christopher had a son Alexander? I wonder if the wife of William were a dau. of Alexander Moorehead to account for the name Alexander, or the wife of Christopher Inv. 1836.

In Northumberland County, Va. Book 2, p. 8, Aug. 11, 1751, rec. Aug. 12, 1751, Mrs. Cornelius found the deed of "Stephen Mahanes letts to Christopher Dameron parcel of land lying in Wiccocomoco Parish N. side of Mill Creek during the term of eighteen years from the 25th day of Dec. next which will be the year of our Lord 1769 for the just sum of Fifteen pounds of Current money of Virginia (Except his Mother Deborah Mahanes' dower.) Signed Stephen Mahanes (S), Wit. Charles Ingram, George Dameron, Joseph Dameron."

In trying to find which Lawrence, Jr. had a wife Jane, I asked Mrs. Cornelius to check this: "I went to the clerk's office this A.M. July 6, to look up the deed of Lawrence Dameron and his wife Jane. If it is the book 1710-13 it cannot be read, the year of 1713 is all blotted with ink and the original is so badly faded it cannot be read. I tried to get enough out of one deed of the Harding family to make sense but it could not be done. There is much more here that will straighten out the Dameron family, but it is a big search. After 1800 there are more deeds and wills that will explain most of the line. I now charge $3.00 per hour."

She did find in Book 1726-29, April 11, 1727, rec. Apr. 19, 1727, the inventory of Josias Damron, signed by his Admrs. Jane Dameron, and list of personal property. This must be the former widow of Pemberton Claughton. It is unlikely that William was the son of Josiah or Josias Dameron, as he would have been too old to have had a guardian in 1742, when Christopher was guardian of William. Hence it appears William was the son of Bartholomew, Will 1735, whose will was proved by his brother Christopher.

Julia Dameron Old went to Richmond to examine the Northumberland records and found the following in the Court Orders 1729-1737, when she also proved the father of William Dameron was Lawrence, son of Bartholomew.

"The last will and testament of Bartholomew Dameron presented for court by Christopher Dameron, extr. therein named and proved by the oaths of Josias Gaskins and Thomas Dameron extr. made oath to the sd. will and is admitted to record and certificate granted to th. Extr. for obtaining letters of probate in due form, he having performed what is usual in such cases. Upon motion of Thos. Dameron, extr. of last will and testament of Barth. Dameron, dec'd, Christopher Garlington, Sam^{ll} Garlington, Josias Gaskins and John Gaines or any three of them are appointed to meet some time before the next Court (being first sworn by the next justice) and appraise the estate of Barth. Dameron, dec'd, for money ordered that of (?): Exhibit and inventory thereof upon oath of the next court." (p. 189.)

Page 353 had: "The last will and testament of John Dameron, Dec. was presented to Court by Thomas Taylor, extr. therein named and proved by the oath of Josias Gaskins witness thereto."

The next County Record Book 1738-43 had an item p. 21 or 25 of a deed from Thomas Dameron to Hughlett, Christopher and Rice.

It has also on p. 255 the will of John Dameron: "I, John Dameron of the County of Northumberland . . . etc." proved July 11, 1743. The inventory on p. 265 was two and a half pages and listed 9 slaves, no other names mentioned.

The Northumberland County Record Book 1726-29 had on p. 123, an appraisal of the estate of Elizabeth Dameron 20 Nov. 1728, sworn to by Francis Waddey, Christopher Garlington, Thomas Winter." (Note by H.F.S. This was the wife of Bartholomew Dameron, said to be proved by a Garlington historian to be the daughter of Christopher Garlington, but I have not seen the proof. Mrs. Keach says they were married 1666, but Leo Holz noted: "Have you ever tried to coordinate the marriage date of Bartholomew and Elizabeth Garlington (1666) with the dates of birth of their children? Christopher who married Sarah Ball was born about 1700.")

Page 63-a, ibid. has the inventory of Josiah Dameron, 11th day of April, 1727.. obedience to order of court bearing date 15th March 1726-27 of Peter Presly... have appraised the estate of Josias Dameron. (items named), signed, James Lamkin, Richard Claughton, Robert Hurst (?), sec. Jane Dameron. This inventory of the estate of Josias Dameron dec'd was (?) into the Northumberland County Court by Jane Dameron admr. of the said dec'd and is admitted to record. To p. in parte of the aforesaid Josias Dameron's debts to Capt. J. Cralle, To Joseph Miller, to Chas. Fallon to be paid by myself. Extr. Jane Dameron.

P. 52 had a deed bet. Charles Dameron & George Ball, 62-a, 18th day of Apr. 1727, between George Ball of one part and Charles Dameron of the other part... sell unto said Charles Dameron and his heirs forever beginning at a line of Josias Gaskins, being part of land the said Ball bought of John Bledsoe 62 a. of land with edifices, orchards, woods, timber and timber trees, with waters, privileges and advantages etc. to said Charles Dameron and his heirs.

The Orders 1743-49 had references to Moses Dameron, J. Dameron, Sarah, Thomas, Barth. etc. but Julia Old did not have time to copy down the references. On p. 9 is a deposition of Thos. Dameron between Haynie and Moorehead.

PART ONE:

THE DAMERONS OF ALLEGHANY COUNTY, VIRGINIA

The Damerons of Alleghany County, Va. are descendants of the Revolutionary soldier, Joseph Dameron. Kegley's Virginia Frontier has Joseph Damerell (the name was often spelled this way, especially by the Lazarus Dameron family of Albemarle), a member of the militia, 1783, in Capt. Pryor's Company, p. 452, on James River, Botetourt County. The Botetourt Marriage Register shows: John Damron m. Molly Hardy 22 Mar. 1796, Security Thomas Hardy, minister Edward Mitchell. Sally Damerall above age of 21, m. Jos. Hamilton, 11 March, 1800, Christopher Dameron, affirmation as to age, Ezekial Williams, security.

The Centennial History of Alleghany Co., Va., p. 129, says: "The Damrons have been a prominent family of Dunlap Creek. John died 1828. His wife was Polly and his children were: Elizabeth, Joseph, John, William and Andrew and Christopher. Elizabeth married Thomas Smith. Joseph was a lawyer. Page 154, surveyors: Joseph Damron 1824-33, Andrew Damron, 1838. P. 66 Joseph and Andrew Damron on first school commission of the county. A note from Ruth Dorius says: "The Damerons lived in Covington town." A John Dameron was in Monroe County, W. Va. 1820.

Pendleton County, Va. Aurelia M. Jewell sent a note from the History of Hancock County, Ill., by W. Gregg, p. 700 (200?), Wm. P. Damron, native of Pendleton County, Va., b. 3/7/1833, son of George H. and Jane (Lyon) Dameron, natives of Va., m. Catherine E. Segar, native of N.J. Ch. Lena L. and Wm. H.

The ancestry of this family is as follows:

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, wife Dorothy, of Northumberland County, Va.

II. BARTHOLOMEW DAMERON, m. Elizabeth, perhaps. dau. of Christopher Garlington.

III. JOHN, Will 1743, in Wicomico Parish, Northumberland, m. Elizabeth Taylor. Their children were Bartholomew, Will, 1807, whose descendants went to Bourbon Co., Ky., Joseph of Northumberland, Will 1759, m. Elizabeth Waddy, and had daughter, Nancy; John m. Sarah Tignor. He d. 1777, Halifax Co., N.C. His sons Joseph and John went to Green County, Jefferson County, and Lincoln County, Tennessee, and descendants live now at Elora, Tenn.; Thomas Dameron, Will 1766.

IV. THOMAS, Will 1766, Wicomico Parish, Northumberland Co., Va. had sons Thomas, sole heir in will, Lazarus, Jo., Aron and Moses, several Revolutionary soldiers.

V. Jo. or Joseph, in his father's will, 1766, went to Botetourt County, Va. where he was in the militia 1783, in Capt. Pryor's Company on James River. He seems to have had a son Joseph, Jr., one Andrew, one John m. Molly Hardy, d. 1828.

Mrs. Wesley (Melda) Waldrop, wrote Oct. 30, 1953: "Alexander Dameron Jackson's mother was a Dameron. His father was Isaac T. Jackson born about 1751. They went from Va. to Caswell Co., N.C. about 1805 where Alexander Jackson enlisted in the War of 1812 in 1814, and from there to Sumner and Smith Cos., Tenn. Alexander had two brothers we know of, Bob and Bot. His father was a cousin to Andrew Jackson, the President. I have not proved that but the family has always said it. Alexander Dameron Jackson b. May 5, 1797, in Va. d. Apr. 15, 1886, m. Margaret Stalcup, Nov. 9, 1817, Smith Co., Tenn. moved to this county 1832. children: Martha Susan Jackson (my husband's gr. grandmother m. Thos. Jeff. Hughes); Isaac T. Jackson, died young; William R. Jackson; Margaret Elizabeth; Nancy Ann Moorehead Jackson m. Wellington B. Winchester; Mary Jane m. Benderman; Priscilla Eoline m. Russel; Isabelle Virginia Gardner Jackson m. McChristian. I do not know where his parents married in Va. or where they are buried either in Caswell, N.C. or Tenn." Her address is 1602 Miller Avenue, Murray, Ky. This line would be from Bartholomew Dameron m. Anne Moorehead b. 1732, son Alexander, dau. m. Isaac T. Jackson.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

The proof that Joseph, the Revolutionary soldier, was the son of Joseph, I found in Amelia County, Va. where the Grantee Index, p.57, Deeds, 1734-1947, shows a deed to Joseph Dameron from George Hill, D.B. 14, p. 89, no date given but examination of the deed showed the date 14 Feb. 1777. There was no Dameron in the Grantor index. Joseph's pension said his father lived in Brunswick and had a plantation in Amelia on which Joseph was overseer.

We also find in the Brunswick County, Va. deeds one of 1767, Sarah Dameron to my loving son Joseph Dameron, witnesses, Samuel Dameron, Bartholomew Dameron, Christopher Dameron. This was sent by Mrs. Cornelius with the note: "This Sarah was the wife of Christopher Dameron d. 1764 in Northumberland County. Samuel was also their son, also Bartholomew. Christopher was the son of Bartholomew and the grandson of Christopher and Sarah (Ball) Dameron. To prove this she looked up the deed in 1770, Brunswick County, Va. as follows:

"Bartholomew Dameron to Christopher Dameron, parish of Saint Andrews in County of Brunswick the sd. Bartholomew Dameron for love and affection which I bear unto my son the sd. Christopher Dameron. Barth. Dameron purchased it from Wm. Downing adj. land of John Matthews. Witnesses George Dameron, David Ball, Betty Dameron, Augustine Coppedge, James Love, Jr. Wm. Brown."

I made a mistake on p. 27-h, III, line 4, as I mis-read a deed of gift from Christopher to Joseph as being a will and thought there were two Christophers in Northumberland. These lines should be cut out from 5 to 10. This gift was from Sr. Christopher to the son Joseph who m. Patience Coppedge and went to Brunswick. I think Mary Burton who married a Joseph Dameron 1790 in Caswell Co. was a second wife.

Now who was the above "George Dameron?" He looks to be another son of Bartholomew, and possibly this was the George who was in Halifax, Va. later on and who went on to Lincoln County, N.C. with John Dameron, who might have been a brother, or nephew.

Mrs. Cornelius found a John Dameron in Brunswick County Records 1798, son of Christopher, hence he would be brother of Bartholomew who m. Rebecca Malone. Book 17, p. 385, Nov. 30, 1798: "Christopher Dameron of the county of Caswell and State of North Carolina, appoint my son John Dameron, of the county and state aforesaid, my attorney to collect from the estate of John Ingram, dec'd the legacy left my wife, Sarah Dameron, by virtue of the said dec'd last will and testament, and the said John Dameron is hereby empowered to settle with the exors. of the said deceased the aforesaid Legacy by either taking property to the value thereof or bonds.

"State of North Carolina, Caswell County. I do hereby certify that Christopher Dameron duly ack'gd in person. A. Murphy, C.C.

"Certified from Wm. Rainey, Jr. of Caswell that Archaband Murphy is clerk of Court Brunswick."

This settles the question of the wife of Christopher Dameron who was Sarah Ingram. Mrs. Cornelius did some work on the Ingram family and found this among the Ingram papers. An Ingram genealogy is being done by Earl A. Truett, 313 Wilkinson Place, Memphis, Tenn. descendant of Charles Ingram and Elizabeth Dameron, dau. of George Dameron and Elizabeth Dennis. Elizabeth Dameron Ingram had a son John who married Hannah Pines, their son Joseph D. Ingram married Winifred Nelms. Joseph and Winifred had son Thomas who m. Jemima Watkins, Thomas and Jemima left N.C. and went to Marshall Co., Miss. establishing a large family.

William Ball m. 1638 Hannah Atherold in London, the other sons being William, Richard and Joseph; and a dau. Hannah m. Capt. David Fox.)

Mrs. W.R. Carter, Minneapolis, Minn., 5021 Woodale Lane, is a descendant of the Carmacks, and has a copy of the Bible records of Ella McCormick.

At the end of her letter to Louise Dameron, Ella McCormick wrote: "This is the record--my grandmother Carmack's (Mary Waddy Dameron's) Bible and is copied as her father wrote it and I presume that after his death grandmother wrote the marriage of Aunt Louisa and the death of her parents and brother John. My mother, Ann Ball McCormick, told me she remembered her uncle John and also remembered when her Aunt Louisa married Walter Carter--they moved to Missouri--Lee Dameron, one of Uncle Joe's sons also moved to Missouri. (Signed) ELLA McCORMICK.)"

Louise then wrote: "A later letter after I had sent her the records from Mrs. Keach, Ella McCormick wrote: "Many thanks, etc. Many of the names are familiar to me having heard mother and grandmother speak of them. A Miss Lunsford visited grandmother when mother was small, she was a cousin. Aunt Louisa married her cousin, Walter Carter. Grandma used to tell me what a wonderful man your grandfather was. How he performed miracles of healing for those days and how she did not know how to wash a pocket handkerchief, when she was married, but that her father gave her a lot of colored people to work for her. I have also heard that whenever the minister failed to appear for the regular services they always sent for grandfather to preach to them."

Louise also recapitulated the "Waddy Family, Mrs. Keach, W. & M. V. 25, 254."

"JOHN WADDY⁴ (Thomas³ Thomas² John¹) Northumberland will dated Dec. 15, 1748, proved Feb. 13, 1749, married Elizabeth Dameron, daughter of George & Margaret Taylor Dameron. Margaret Taylor Dameron married ii Thomas Winter. Children:

"1. Thomas Waddy⁵. In 1764 Ann Dameron, dau. of Thomas & Ann Dameron, m. him.

2. John Waddy⁵.

3. Elizabeth⁵Waddy, married Joseph Dameron, son of John & Elizabeth Therriot Dameron, daughter Nancy. Elizabeth m. 2nd Robert Pinkard.

4. Mary Waddy⁵. (I believe this is the Mary Waddy who married Bartholomew Dameron, brother of above Joseph. (Signed) LOUISE DAMERON.)"

Louise Dameron also wrote: "I think Mary Waddy Dameron was named for her grandmother, wife of Bartholomew. He left a special bequest to "Molly." Bartholomew's daughter Elizabeth W. Dameron who m. 1st Rev. Lewis Lunsford, m. 2nd Elisha Carter, was undoubtedly named for her grandmother Elizabeth Dameron Waddy.

"Bartholomew Dameron⁴ (John³ Bartholomew² Lawrence¹), will 1805, Wicomico parish, Va. signed Nov. 2, 1805, proved 12 Oct. 1807. CHARLES DAMERON, WILL 1827

Charles Dameron's will is on p. 237, Book 25, Northumberland County, Va. Jan. 6, 1827, recorded 11 Feb. 1828, and shows: "All write & title and clame of property in this world to my wife Sarah Dameron for hur widohud but one dollar to George Dameron, William Dameron to have $25.00, Isaac Dameron to have $25.00, Elizabeth Dameron to have $25.00, Thomas Dameron to have $25.00. Test. Edmond LeCompt, Rachel LeCompt, Susan LeCompt, signed CHARLES DAMERON."

The Sarah in the above will was probably Sally Webb, daughter of Thomas, who m. Charles Dameron, 10 Sept. 1810, Thaddeus Carter, Security on the marriage bond, Northumberland Co., Va. 1783-1850.

Book 25, p. 111, also shows Elizabeth Dameron's Will July 26, 1826, rec. Feb. 14, 1826, Northumbwrland County, Parish of Wicomico: To son Charles Dameron one bed and furniture which he already has. To daughter Nancy Marsh one bed and furniture which she already has. Residue and remainder of estate to son George Dameron, signed ELIZABETH DAMERON, Test. Hiram Gaskins, Jas Barrett, Jessee Banks." She might have been the wife of George Dameron, son of Charles, Jr.

As there is a similarity in names the ancestry of this family may be as follows:

- I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, wife Dorothy, in Northumberland County, Va. before 1652.
- II. THOMAS m. Sarah, daughter of George Bledsoe, lived in Wicomico on estate adjoining Gaskins on Wicomico River, of which he was co-heir, ch. Charles, Andrew.
- III. CHARLES, whose heir was Bledsoe Dameron m. Ann, and d. before 1795. He also had a daughter m. Spriggs and had daughter Winifred, a daughter m. Williams and had a son Charles, and Charles, Jr.
- IV. CHARLES, JR., whose wife may have been named Hannah, her inventory being Oct. 9, 1775, appraised by Barth. Dameron, Thos. Waddy, Geo. Ingram. The children of Charles were mentioned in the will of his brother Bledsoe, 1770, and there might have been others: George, Mary, Hannah, Elizabeth, Nancy.
- V. GEORGE DAMERON, son of Charles, Jr. perhaps husband of above Elizabeth Dameron, whose will shows a son Charles, one George and daughter Nancy Marsh.
- VI. CHARLES DAMERON, perhaps son of Elizabeth and George Dameron, though I have no proof of it. His will Jan. 6, 1827, bequeathed to George, William, Isaac, Elizabeth and Thomas Dameron.
- VII. CHARLES Y. DAMERON might be of this branch, shown as parent with Lucy Douglass; Jacob Ketmar and Barbary Ellen Wirty, on the Marriage License of Caroline Y. Dameron, age 19, Richmond County, Va. and Michael Ketmar, age 26, Cumberland County, Pa. Feb. 3, 1874.

HENRY S. DAMERON m. Mariah S. Dobyns Apr. 20, 1861, no ages nor parents given, p. 9, Northumberland Mar. Reg. Anna Dameron was b. Dec. 10, 1872, to Henry and Maria Dameron, p. 40, Richmond County Births. Richmond County Marriages also show: P. 25, 3 Jan. 21, 1869, James L. Hudson, 30 yrs. and Maria C. Dameron, wid. 24 yrs., parents Henry C. and Catherine Hudson, Joseph & Elizabeth Dobyns.

It has required a great deal of research to prove the ancestry of William Dameron but this was finally done by Julia Dameron Old who made a trip to Richmond and searched the Court Records, discovering that his father was Lawrence Dameron, Jr. son of Bartholomew¹. The descent would run thus, therefore:

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, of Wicomico Parish, Northumberland County, Va.

II. BARTHOLOMEW DAMERON, eldest son, m. probably Elizabeth Garlington.

III. LAWRENCE DAMERON, JR. who had land in Mattapony next to his brother, Josiah. The Northumberland County Court Orders 1729-1737 have the following items:

"Order to meet to appraise Estate of Lawrence Dameron--William Caron and Anne Caron came into court and made oath that Lawrence Dameron departed this life without making a will. (p. 30)

"Christopher Dameron and wife Sarah vs. Geo. Ingram, Def... Geo. Ingram ordered to pay to Christopher Dameron and Sarah his wife sum of 25 pounds current money. (p. 122)

"In the difference depending in this court between Christopher Dameron, plf. and William Caron and Ann, his wife, defendants for and concerning William, the orphan of Lawrence Dameron, it is the opinion of this court that the orphan be removed and upon the evidence of arms by Haynie in this matter, Christopher Dameron is appointed guardian to the said orphan upon his giving security according to law and ordered that the said William Caron pay the costs hereby occasioned as Executor. (p. 137)"

Northumberland County Record Book 1737-1742 had the following on this family:

"Thanewell or Thonwell Dameron having attended one day as an evidence in a suit depending in this court between Margaret Ball, Pl. and John Ball, def., John Ball is ordered to pay her for her attendance. (p. 50)

"May 17, 1741, In action of assault and battery betw. John Irons, Jr.(?) and Thomas Dameron Sr. the (Jr.) failing to prosecute etc.... (p. 170).

"The last will and testament of John Dameron, Dec. was presented to Court by Thomas Taylor Extr. therein named and proved by the oath of Josias Gaskins witness thereto. (p. 353)

"On the petition of William Dameron for his part of William Bentley's estate in the hands of Robert Jones, pay him 332 pounds of tobacco due the sd. Dameron and also one third part of the sd. estate in his hands. (p. 360.)

"Christopher Dameron, guardian of William Dameron, produced an account of his guardianship by which it appears that the orphan is indebted to him in the sum of seven and a quarter pounds of tobacco. (p. 364.)"

The will of Bartholomew Dameron in 1708 said: "I give and bequeath unto my Son Laurence Dameron the one-half of a dividend of Land in Mattapony which my ffather bought of Mr. Thomas Broughton by Pattent three hundred and forty-two acres to him the sd. Laurence the Plantation which he now lives on & up the Neck for his part to him and his heirs forever. Item, I give and bequeath unto my son Josiah Dameron the Remainder part of my Land in Mattapony (Vitz) from his Brother Laurence up the Neck..." This was in St. Stephens' Parish in Mattapony Neck, adjoining John Claughton. It is near Kinsale, Va. This region was where Lawrence Dameron, the first, had his first patent of land in 1652.

FURTHER NOTES ON WILLIAM DAMERON BY JULIA DAMERON OLD:

From William and Mary, I, p. 258: Thomas Waddy died in 1737. His will was presented for further proof on Aug. 8, 1738, on the oath of William Dameron (one of the witnesses).

P. 262: Sept. 11, 1775, the will of Joseph Mott . . . The court appointed David Ball, George Dameron and Barth. Dameron to divide the estate of Randolph Mott between Jane, his widow, and Randolph Mott. On June 13, 1796, William Dameron was guardian to Lucy, Milly, James and Francis, orphans of James Waddy.

On the subject of the ancestry of William Dameron, I have already noted that we have an item which indicates that he might be the son of Bartholomew, Jr. son of Bartholomew, Sr. b. 1645, and Elizabeth Garlington. This was found in a manuscript by Mrs. O.A. Keach on the Damerons of Northumberland County, Virginia, in tracing the line of Thomas of Kentucky. It was sent to me by Louise H. Dameron. "Christopher³ Dameron (Bartholomew² Lawrence¹) presented the will of his brother, Bartholomew Dameron as his executor, on June 18, 1735, and was the guardian of William (probably his nephew) in 1742." However, the fact that William was witness on the Thomas Waddy will 1738, indicates that he was of age--21 years--in that year, so why should he have a guardian in 1742? Also the will of Christopher 1764 says that his son Bartholomew had all his land entailed to him "and his Uncle Bartho. Dameron dec'd has given him negroes." This may have been because he was named for him, but it would seem he would have left all his property to his son or sons instead of to a nephew, if he had had children. This will Mrs. Cornelius was unable to find of Bartholomew 1735, and the court records will have to be checked. In 1758 William Mahanes conveyed to William Dameron 50 acres of land in St. Stephens' Parish, Northumberland "on a branch running into Matoponie River which was purchased from Travis Downman." This may be the time William moved to this parish from Wicomico if he did, but the deed apparently did not say which parish William was from at that date. I believe that Josiah died too early to be the father of William who would have been of age and now in deed of a guardian in 1742 probably in that case. But then we see he was of age in 1738. It is possible the wife of the second William was a Waddy as he was guardian, 1796.

Mrs. Old also found the following:

Louise H. Dameron sent a note that Helen Lindsay of Kentucky sent information that "Christopher and George B. Dameron settled in Perry County, Miss. 1806-1807. There was also a John in Mississippi, who may be the one who was in Brunswick with the Christopher Dameron family.

Mrs. Walter Towner Jewell, 1402 North Greenbrier Street, Arlington 5, Va., wrote: "My husband's great-grandmother was Nancy Dameron b. about 1800 probably in Lincoln County, Tenn. and m. Elisha Powers. Her father was Joseph Dameron, who m. Elizabeth Haynie... Joseph had a wealthy brother John who lived six miles from Salem.

THE DESCENDANTS OF ROGER DAMERON OF NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY AND RICHMOND COUNTY, VA.
Compiled by Merle Dameron Swift and Otelia Dameron Whittaker.

The descent of this family is as follows:

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who had a land patent in Northumberland County, Virginia, in 1652, "butting S.E. upon head of tanx Yeococomico River," which was "betwixt Yeocomico and Mattapony Rivers" near Anthony Linton, Thomas Broughton, John Mattrom. Looking out from Kinsale, it would be visible at the mouth of the river on the Northumberland County side, St. Stephens' Parish. His wife was Dorothy, surname unknown, and their children were Bartholomew, eldest, George, Thomas, Samuel, Lawrence Jr., and Dorothy, who married Josias Gaskins and Samuel Mahan.

II. BARTHOLOMEW DAMERON, 1645-1708, m. Elizabeth, possibly daughter of Christopher Garlington. They lived in Wicomico Parish, Northumberland County, Va., their children being: Eliza, Mary, John, Sarah, Lawrence, Josiah, Bartholomew and Christopher, who m. Sarah Ball, cousin to George Washington's mother, and moved to Brunswick. Page 97, Northumbria Collectanea, has an item on Maurice Jones, Executor of Christo. Garlington, who refers to him as "my brother Maurice Jones" in his will dated 18 May, 1709. He swears he wrote the will 19 May, 1714. (17.210) This might mean that the wife of Christopher Garlington was the sister of Maurice Jones. The same reference on p. 33 shows: "Dorothy Dameron, relict of Lawrence Dameron, dec'd and Bartholomew Dameron, his eldest son, and Elizabeth his wife, give for love and affection 'unto our loving brother Laurence Dameron' all interest in 324 A. in Yeocomico par. 20 Nov. 1669 (16.145.)" This refers to the son of Lawrence Dameron, not to Lawrence, the son of Bartholomew. Another item which refers to this Lawrence is in Fleet, Northumberland County Court Orders, circa 1713, 16 May, 1717, entry under Step. Kean (6-213): "Stephen Kean (Keene)--a long entry-- By John Kean, his guardian and nearest friend complains against Thos. Dameron, Junr., concerns a copper still and pewter worm of L 50 sterling value; that the still was set under an apple tree near the house of Lawrence Dameron at the time of the death of his wife, Jane Dameron, etc. Appears to have been about 1713."

III. LAWRENCE DAMERON, son of Bartholomew above, who had land adjoining that of his brother Josiah as shown by Bartholomew's will: "I give and bequeath unto my Son Laurence Dameron the one-half of a dividint of Land in Mattapony which my ffather bought of Mr. Thomas Broughton by Pattent three hundred and forty-two acres to him the sd. Laurence the Plantation which he lives on & up the Neck for his part." This was in St. Stephens' Parish in Mattapony Neck adjoining John Claughton, near Kinsale, Va. This appears to have adjoined the first patent of 1652, which was given for bringing seven servants to Virginia. Broughton's patent adjoined that of John Mattrom and Laurence Dameron and Lawrence Linton in 1657, on head of Broad Creek.

The Court Orders also have an item 1 Aug. 1708, 17,57: "Lawrence, son of Bartholomew Dameron, grandson of Lawrence, formerly bought a mare from Coxe." Fleet's Northumbria Collectanea also refers to Lawrence Dameron "Land adjoining Jno. Claughton in Mattapony Neck, St. Stephens' Parish, 18 Jan. 1707-08, 17, 89."

IV. WILLIAM DAMERON, "the orphan of Lawrence Dameron," was first the ward of William and Ann Caron and next of Christopher Dameron, his uncle. (p. 137, Court Orders.) P. 360 also has an item showing "the petition of William Dameron for his part of William Bentley's estate in the hands of Robert Jones." Julia Old looked up the Swem references in the Virginia Historical Index and found for these names only the following: William & Mary Quarterly, 5 (1), p. 18: "Caron, Daniel, upper district of Jæes River in Virginia, 1764, Feb. 23. Ship, Mary of Bermuda, Master's name, Daniel Caron, whither bound--Bermuda." V. 1, V. p. 95 had in the Society of the Cincinnati in Virginia the name William Bentley.

William Dameron's will was proved in court June 14, 1773, by Susannah Dameron, with George Ball as witness and the oath of David Ball. No children were named.

V. WILLIAM DAMERON, whose will of Jan. 17, 1785, leaves his plantation to his wife Elizabeth and mentions grandson Edward Dameron Lewis, sons William, Roger 'who lives here', Luke 'gone to Westmoreland County,' Christopher and George. Roger proved the will, 1785, June 13, St. Stephens' Parish, Northumberland County, Va.

VI. ROGER DAMERON, whose mother, Elizabeth, left her side saddle to him, 1792. Roger's wife was the daughter of Dr. Jones. One of his children was Charles Dameron, who d. 1848, whose descendants still live in Northumberland County in Kinsale, Kilmarnock etc. Another son was William b. 1777, Richmond County, Va.

VII. WILLIAM DAMERON. "William, son of Roger Dameron b. 17 Aug. 1777," is shown in the North Farnham Parish Register, Richmond County, Va. Merle D. Swift wrote: "My grandfather Joseph Dameron was born in 1824. He was the son of William Dameron born in 1777 in Richmond County. The following items from the Richmond County, Va. records refer to Roger Dameron and his son William:

Deed Book 18, p. 254, Dec. 21, 1805, rec. Dec. 21, 1805. "Richard Street Martin Sisson and Saml Cralle with others appointed by the court of Richmond County by a Decree of sd. Court dated October Court 1805 a suit in Chancery then depending in the sd. There have been several teachers in the family, a nurse and several who have chosen the business world.

1. THE FAMILY OF CHARLES DAMERON OF NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY.

After a good deal of effort, Julia Dameron Old finally proved that the ancestor of Charles Dameron was Lawrence, the son of Bartholomew, as follows:

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who is first found in Northumberland County, Va. in 1652, with his wife Dorothy. Their children were Bartholomew, eldest, George, Thomas, Lawrence, Jr., and Dorothy, who married, first Josias Gaskins, and second, Samuel Mahan, and Samuel.

II. BARTHOLOMEW DAMERON, 1645-1708, m. Elizabeth, possibly Garlington, whose inventory was recorded 1728-9. He inherited "one-halfe of five hundred acres of land situated in great Wicocmoco which I bought of Mr. Peter Knight," but this did not include the old mansion house which went to George with the other half.

III. LAWRENCE DAMERON. His father's will said: "I give unto my son Laurence One Cow & calf besides what I have already given him * * * * carried to his Plartation. Lawrence lived in St. Stephens Parish, Northumberland, near Kinsale, apparently on the original land grant to Lawrence¹ of 1652. We find also in the will of Bartholomew 1708 that he gave his son Josiah "the Remainder part of my land in Mattapony (Vitz.) from his Brother Laurence up the Neck to the Extent there of to him & his heirs forever and to have priviledge for pasture with his brother for seven years." Fleet's Northumbria Collectanea says Lawrence Dameron has "Land adj. Jno. Claughton in Mattapony Neck, St. Stephens Parish, 18 Jan. 1707-8; 17.89."

IV. WILLIAM DAMERON, Will signed Mar. 23, 1768, left his estate to his wife, Sarah, as executrix, and the children were not named. It was presented in court June 14, 1773, by Susannah Dameron, with George Ball as witness and oath of David Ball. This indicates his wife may have been a Ball. His guardian was Christopher.

V. WILLIAM DAMERON. In his Will of Jan. 17, 1785, his wife, Elizabeth, received the plantation and he mentions his grandson Edward Dameron Lewis, sons William, Roger "who lives here," Luke, "gone to Westmoreland County," Christopher and George. Roger proved the will June 13, 1785, St. Stephens' Parish.

VI. ROGER DAMERON, son of William and Elizabeth, Will, 1785. In her will, his mother, Elizabeth Dameron, said, Sept. 30, 1792: "Item I give and bequeath to my son Roger Dameron my side saddle."

VI. CHARLES DAMERON, son of Roger and his wife, the daughter of Dr. Jones. The following items have been found relating to Charles Dameron in Northumberland County records:

In 1805 Charles Dameron witnessed the will of Bartholomew. This was the ancestor of the Damerons of Bourbon County, Ky., a descendant being Louise Dameron.

The finding of another son of Lawrence, the immigrant, named Samuel, brings up the possibility that he was the father of Onesipherous and that his wife was a Harvey, of the Onesipherous Harvey line. The fact that he names a son Maurice made me think there was some connection with the Maurice Jones line. Maurice Jones is referred to in Christopher Garlington's will of 1709 as "brother Maurice Jones" hence must have been married to his sister.

In the will of Thomas Heath, June 6, 1726, rec. July 20, 1726 (Northumberland County, Va. Book 1726-29, p. 13.) there are mentioned his daughters Betty and Mary Heath, wife Winnifred Heath, executors, wife Winnifred Heath, brother Samuel Heath, brother-in-law Maurice Jones. Wit. Bartho. Schriver (cannot read this name), Samuel Garlington.

Mrs. Cornelius also found the will of Maurice Jones, Jan. 2, 1726, Rec. May 17, 1727 (Northumberland County, Va., Book 1726-29, p. 38): "To Capt. William Heath all my land, if he die without Issue to Capt. John Heath. To Cosens Wm. Heath my negro James; rest of my estate to be divided among my cosens (nieces and nephews) John Heath, Eliza Heath, and Mary Heath. Wit. Roger Winter, Wm. (M) Porter (his mark.)"

Mrs. Cornelius at the same time looked up a deed which may indicate when William Dameron moved to St. Stephens' parish. It is in Northumberland County, Va. Book 4, p. 209, Feb. 23, 1758: "William Mahanes and wife Elizabeth convey to William Dameron 50 acres for the sum of 59 pounds Curr. Money of Virginia. Scituat^h lying and being in St. Stephens Parish of Northumberland County on a branch running into Matoponie (Matopony) River which was purchased from Travis Downman and Grace his wife, deed dated Sept. 10, 1757, which land Travis Downman purchased from John Harford and Eliza. his wife deed dated Dec. 7; 1751; John Harford purchased of Thos. Ginn, the younger, deed dated Aug. 6, 1751. William Mahanes (S), Eliza. Mahanes (S), Wit. William Bailey, Robert Clark."

We find no reason to think that Onesipherous and William were brothers.

The ancestry of Onesipherous if descended from Samuel would then be:

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON and wife Dorothy, of Wicomico Parish, Northumberland County, Virginia. (Maxim Coppage has a theory that Dorothy was related to Dorothy Nicholls Downman and John Nichols of Corotoman (see p. 51-G. There was a Hancock Nicles or Nickless and a John in several of the Dameron early wills, and it is not unlikely there was some connection. Mrs. Frank Byram of the Institute of American Genealogy in Chicago, of which I am a member, could find no relation of Dorothy to the Byrams in her genealogy, though she had one Dorothy in it.)

II. SAMUEL, a lost son found by Louise H. Dameron in the Calendar of Virginia State Papers I, p. 14, "On April 14, 1683, a petition was presented from Peter Knight, John Waddy, John Taylor and Christopher Garlington, Vestrymen; and SAMUEL, George and Bartholomew Dameron, Church Wardens, to Lord Culpeper, requesting him to re-instate Mr. Charles Dacres, the rector of Yecomico Church." (See page 12-Supplement.) Samuel's wife may have been a daughter of Onesipherous Harvey to account for using this given name.

III. ONESIPHOROUS DAMERON, Will 1762, of Wicomico Parish, Northumberland County, Va. married possibly a daughter of Maurice Jones, as a son was named Maurice, but no proof has been found of this.

Further notes were sent by Louise H. Dameron from Northumberland County, Va. records, William and Mary, V. 24, 110-111-112 is the reference noted:

"March 17, 1726. Capt. Geo. Ball and Samuel Heath presented the affidavit of Mr. (Wm.?) Dameron, Thomas Dameron, Mrs. Dorothy Mahen and Samuel Mahen. Those affidavits were for the purpose of establishing the fact that John Bashford was the son of Simon Bashford and his wife, Grace, as he had fallen heir to an estate in England. This marriage had been celebrated at the home of Mr. George Dameron according to the testimony of Thomas Dameron, son to George, and Mrs. Dorothy Mahen, aunt to Thomas. There was some relationship between Capt. John Heath and George Dameron that the writer of these notes has not been able to determine. The mother of George Dameron was the widow of Capt. Heath's uncle William Heath who died 1719. It will be remembered that Ann, relict of William Heath, was granted administration of her husband's estate in 1719. She married 1729 Thomas Dameron. Their son George Dameron was sued by John Heath on July 10, 1764. For several years George Dameron seems to have been financial backer of John Heath.

"Mar. 14, 1768. Thomas Newton and son brought suit against John Heath, George Dameron admitted special bail. May 8, 1769. John Bland, mcht. vs. John Heath, on a bond for Richard Pope (he was step-brother to Geo. Dameron). Mar. 14, 1774. Thos. Gaskins & Kendall Lee vs. Geo. Dameron, John Lawson, Thos. Waddy & John Heath. I sent copies of THE DAMERON-DAMRON GENEALOGY and THE CHRISTOPHER FOSTER FAMILY HISTORY 1603-1953 (the genealogy of this family, my ancestors, which came over with the Puritan migration to Massachusetts Bay in 1635 on the "Abigail" and were among the first English settlers in what is now New York State--Long Island--but was until the end of the 17th century under Connecticut) to the Institute of American Genealogy, 407 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill. and they made me a member of the Institute and listed the books and my name in "Who's Who in Genealogy, The Handbook of American Genealogy." I received a letter from the Director, Mrs. Frank F. Byram (whose husband's family were of the Northern Neck in Virginia), 24 June, 1953, saying: "We are extremely grateful to have your compilations. We are now preparing to put them in binders (and have the pleasure of reading them as we do), and we can certainly say right off that we are pleasantly impressed with the immediately visible evidences of thorough and meticulous research work and of the clear, concise and well-organized presentation of the results of that vast amount of genealogical work... I am looking forward to mounting your Dameron manuscript since I see Northumberland County, Va. coming up, and I have spent many hours with those original records myself--my husband's Byrams originated in Northumberland. Wish I could offer you a Dorothy Byram as wife to Lawrence Dameron, and I do have a Dorothy, too, but, sad, to say, she seems to have been unmarried in 1668. She is simply Dorothy, one of Abraham Byram's four children in his will of that date. Abraham seems to have married a widow by name of Dorothy Clay, hence the daughter Dorothy's name. Often a relative was named an overseer of a will, but I have found just about as often the overseers to be merely friends and/or neighbors. Anyway, Abraham Byram must have been a trustworthy soul because he was executor and administrator on a number of wills, and was handed power of attorney every whip-stitch. My Byram Northumberland stuff doesn't seem to include any Damerons or Nicholls by any spelling.... I really envy you and your fine work, put into such excellent shape, since I've never been able to copy with the time and energy involved to completely correlate and type my own rather sizable accumulation of family records. Thanks again, on behalf of the Institute, for the Foster and additional Dameron pages."

The Christopher Foster Family History Volume I is over 300 pages and Volume II will be a good deal longer than that, in addition to which there is a Volume III, if it is ever multilithed or mimeographed. It includes many collateral families.

I also sent a copy of THE DAMERON-DAMRON GENEALOGY to the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., to the Virginia State Library, Richmond, Va., and to the Northern Neck Historical Society, Mrs. Henry Mason, Librarian, Montross, Va. at "Airley," and joined this Society which costs $3 membership. She wrote: "We are glad to welcome you into our Society and we hope you will be able to come to our annual meeting which takes place at Montross this fall. Hoping to meet you in the near future." The Headquarters is Montross, Va., President, Sen. R. O. Norris, Jr. Lively, Va., Recording Secretary, Mrs. Thomas L. Hunter, King George, Va., Corresponding Secretary, Miss Lucy Brown Beale, Hague, Va., Treasurer, W. Tayloe Murphy, Warsaw, Va.

This manuscript was stencilled as I wrote it originally, and copies were sent out to the researchers as soon as material was received, which accounts for the additions to the manuscript from time to time etc., but in this way the manuscript was available to work with by quite a number of people--this first edition of 20 copies was intended for research workers. I also sent a copy to Elizabeth Damron Young, Thatcher, Arizona, who wrote: "I thank you immensely. A cousin here is helping me to get my history and genealogy up to date and in good permanent shape, so I appreciate what you sent to me for it came in just at the right time and is so good. I feel that my guardian angel sent you to me at this time. The Damron Reunion will be in Calif. in August. Hope you can be there."

In December, 1953, the Revolutionary record of Capt. John Damron b. 1757 was established with the Daughters of the American Revolution, and papers were filed with the Registrar General, National Society, Washington, D.C. This was done by the niece of Annabel Walker who also sent the chapter on the Revolution from this book for the D.A.R. files. Annabel wrote: "I wrote her a seven-page letter giving proof why descendants of John Damron, Jr. and Sarah Shultz should be eligible for D.A.R. I sent about ten pages of rproof to D.A.R. and quoted pages from Mrs. Chapman's book, History of Johnson Co., Ill. I want to tell you how I found this book: I asked the postmaster in Vienna, Ill. to look up Martha Burris and I received a letter from an eighty year old man, Ike Morgan, Vienna. He told me I could get a book written by Mrs. P.T. Chapman. It cost me almost $4 but is worth it. He is in the real estate business in the Bank building that Martha Burris's daughter, Mrs. Pankey, works in. He said they had some extra ones. The book on my husband's family "Elkanah and Mary Walker, Pioneers among the Spokanes," is by Clifford Merrill Drury, Ph.D., Caxton Printers, Ltd. Caldwell, Idaho, 1940. It was taken from Mary's diary. She was b. Baldwin, Maine."

In another letter Annabel wrote that when Frances Crawford Johnson sent papers to the D.A.R. "I had to get a birth certificate for her mother, Mary Richardson Crawford born in Salado, Bell Co., Texas Mar. 13, 1881, twin to Maude Richardson Winters who died in 1942 in Portland, Ore. I got it. I had to prove Martha Salado Damron (my mother) was a daughter of Milton Wesley Damron. Then I had to prove he was a son of John Damron, Jr. Elizabeth Damron Young sent me a photostatic copy showing the families of John Damron Sr. and Jr. together. My niece is Mrs. Ray Johnson, 1111 Hoyt Street, Everett, Wash."

Annabel also wrote: "I got a pamphlet on the counties of Tennessee by Austin P. Foster, Librarian, for $1.00, and on p. 36 it says Roane Co. was created Nov. 6, 1801, with Kingston as county seat and in the county at that time were 275 capable of bearing arms, organized into 6 companies. Only 8 men were unable to sign their names to the muster rolls. Forty-two of them had been Revolutionary soldiers. Among them was Capt. Walker who commanded the bodyguard of Light Horse Harry Lee, p. 36. I am wondering if one of those men could be our John." In a later letter she wrote that the name of the pamphlet was "Counties of Tennessee," and I wrote to the State Library for a copy but they said they had none and Foster was now dead. Annabel added: "Roane was erected Nov. 6, 1801, from Knox Co. named for Judge Roane, Gov. 1801-1803. It did not give the first name of Walker but naturally it must be Thomas." If this is Capt. Thos. Walker, then John Damron was in the bodyguard of Lighthorse Harry Lee, father of Robert E. Lee.

Ruth Dorius looked for the names of the Revolutionary soldiers with John Damron and found on the 1820 census of Franklin County, Ill. where he was: Phillips, Eubanks, Cox, Ewing, Thompson, Moore, Rodgers, Lockaleer, Spencer Wadkins, J. Damron, Hezekiah Garrett, Jos. Nuten, Walter McDaniel, Cambell (Robt. and Wm.), Moses and Wiley Jones, John W. and Richard Waller, Gideon Taylor, Caldwell, Odum, Weekly, Berns, Philip Russell, John Davis, and Ivory. She noted a town of Garrett near Floyd Co., Ky. She also wrote: There are names in Illinois on both the 9th and 2d Va. Regiments (on which John Damron served). Have a feeling Wilson Damron was with the Lewis and Clark Expedition which returned in 1806." She also noted: There were a John and Joseph Dunham at King's Mountain. There must have been an Obediah Damron whose record was spelled Danum and Denham in Ky. That Woodson Denham who took out land in Ky. 1806 lived in Pulaski Co. There is a town of Burnside there.

Gladys E. Chambers, Mrs. Fred Hall Chambers) wrote to Mrs. Pearce, from 1227 B Avenue, Douglas, Arizona, March 23, 1948: "I've been a D.A.R. since 1938. The family of Ball as connected with the Dameron family was the information I am still seeking. I do not have the exact date of Joseph Dameron's birth but it was probably in 1761, as he died and was buried in Caswell County, N.C. where he lived after the Revolutionary War. He was in the Battle of Guilford Court House under Col. Mumford. Joseph Dameron b. Northumberland Co., Va. m. Sara Ball. Their oldest son Geo. Gall D. was a Col. in the Black Hawk War b. 1771. Second, William, no data. Third Bartholomew m. Rebecca _____ Dameron. They had son John Taylor Dameron who married Nancy May Love. Joseph D. and Sarah Ball were m. about 1771 in Virginia. My father's mother was d. of James Ball D. and Elizabeth Reed D. Joseph Dameron enlisted and served three times.

She included the pension summary sheet on Joseph Dameron S8 310, birth Feb. 2, 1763 in Northumberland County, Virginia."He alleged that he enlisted in September 1780; served on different tours in the Virginia Troops, under Captains Mumford, Robert Bolling, Wm. Harrison, Colonels Wm. Downman, Robert Mumford and Holcombe; was in the Battle of Guilford Court House, and left the service in May, 1781; served as Private. His alleged service totaled 6 months 3 weeks. Joseph Dameron was pensioned on Certificate No. 7129, issued March 5, 1833, rate $22.33 per annum, act of June 7, 1832, North Carolina Pension Agency."

Another letter from Leo L. Holz, July 3, 1954, said: "Joseph Dameron, Sr. was born 1748; Joseph Dameron, Jr. was born 1763. This does not prove that they were not father and son but in my mind this makes it extremely improbable."

Mrs. McCallister Pearce,
Memphis, Tennessee.

Dear Madam:

Reference is made to your letter in which you request information in regard to Joseph Dameron, a Revolutionary War soldier, who drew a pension while a resident of North Carolina. The data which follow were obtained from papers on file in pension claim, S. 8310, based upon the service of Joseph Dameron (as his signature is shown in the claim) in the Revolutionary War.

Joseph Dameron was born Feb. 2, 1763, in Northumberland County, Virginia. The names of his parents were not given. While managing his father's plantation in Amelia County, Virginia, Joseph Dameron enlisted in the month of September, 1780, and served three months as private in Captain Mumford's company, Colonel William Downman's Virginia regiment. He enlisted the following January, and served about three weeks in Captain Robert Bolling's company, stationed in Petersburg, Virginia.

While living with his father in Brunswick County, Virginia, Joseph Dameron volunteered sometime in February, 1781, and served in Captain William Harrison's company, Colonel Robert Mumford's Virginia regiment, marched to High Rock, North Carolina, where his colonel was taken sick, and he was transferred to Colonel Holcombe's regiment, was in the battle of Guilford Court House, and continued in the service until sometime in May, 1781. The soldier, Joseph Dameron, was allowed pension on his application executed January 7, 1833, then a resident of Caswell County, North Carolina, having moved there from Halifax County, Virginia. It was not stated that the soldier was ever married.

George B. Dameron of Caswell County, North Carolina in 1833, stated that he was acquainted with Joseph Dameron during the Revolution, but that he was too young to be in the service. It was not shown that he was related to the soldier.

In order to obtain the date of last payment of pension, name and address of person paid, and possibly the date of death of this pensioner, you should apply to The Comptroller General, General Accounting Office, Records Division, Washington, D.C., and give the following data: Joseph Dameron, Certificate No. 7129, Issued March 5, 1833, rate $22.33 per annum, commenced March 4, 1831, Act of June 7, 1832, North Carolina Agency.

"Very truly yours

A. D. Hiller
A. D. HILLER,

Executive Assistant to the Administrator."

(Note: A letter from Lee Dameron, 834 North Mangum Street, Durham, N.C. says: "My father, Lonnie Thomas Dameron, is related to the Caswell County, N.C. Damerons and as soon as he finds time to trace his ancestry back as far as possible, we would like to send it to you, so that you will be able to make the connections between our generation and the generations of our ancestors.")

Margaret Taylor, daughter of Lazarus Taylor, and 2d Thomas Winter.

III. LAZARUS DAMERON, who was the first Dameron to leave Northumberland, in the year 1725. In 1726 he was in King George County, Va. and in 1748 he had a land grant in Albemarle on the north side of the upper James River. In 1746 he had 212 acres surveyed on the north side of Fluvanna River (upper James), and his son George and his son John had surveys at the same time. Lazarus married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Smith, mentioned in her father's will, Nov. 20, 1721, Northumberland. The children of Lazarus were these, order of birth not known: Winefred m. John Thomas and had a son Charles; Hannah, heir to her brother Richard's land; Richard, died unmarried 1749 in Albemarle, where he had a land grant on Hardware River; Judith, married Noble Ladd, and their daughter Anne Ladd married Capt. John Damron, a first cousin; John Dameron d. Albemarle, Va. 1757, who had a son Charles in the 2d Va. Regt. in the Revolution; George, of Buckingham and Albemarle, who had a son George who went to Green Co., Ky., a son Michael, who had a son Dunmore; and others; and another son of Lazarus was Moses Dameron, spelled Damron usually.

IV. MOSES DAMERON, who inherited his father's plantation in his will of 1749, Albemarle County, Va. There is no record of any sale of this property, which was on the north side of James river. The Surveyors' Book No. 1, part 2, shows a survey for Moses Dameron 15 Nov. 1760: "This is a plot of ninety-nine acres of land lying on both sides of Damron's Creek and the north side of Fluvanna River in Albemarle County;" also on June 15, 1761, the Surveyors' Book in Charlottesville, Va. shows a "plot of 175 acres of land lying on the branches Red Bank and Damron's Creeks in Albemarle County, surveyed for Moses Dameron." Alimae Aiken tried to find the original land survey and wrote: "I have at last found a slight clue to the location of Lazarus' land which the surveyors' book placed on the north side of the Fluvanna, no other description: There is a long stretch of miles along this river. Moses in 1760 and '61 took a parent for a plot on the north side of the Fluvanna on Dameron's Creek, which was surely named for Lazarus there on the north of the river and Moses was likely living on his father's place when he took out the patents. No other Damerons have ever lived on the north side of this river according to the surveyors' books and patents. No maps so far have shown these small creeks and no one with whom I have talked has known the location. An old book which I read lately mentioned Red Bank Falls and gave its location and I know Dameron's Creek must be near it. The place is on the Fluvanna or James in Fluvanna County, not too far and yet not very close to the other members of the family (not in Porter's Precinct, I judge, as Scottsville is closer.) It is real near or adjoining the Noble and Amos Ladd place on Breemo Creek (not the Ladd land in the big bend). It seems to me this may be a slight proof that our John was Moses' son or John's son, an orphan, who lived with Moses, as he married Anna Ladd who was the closest neighbor and a cousin." Moses had sons Moses, Richard and Lazarus of Washington and Russell Counties, Va. and Ky.

1. LAZARUS DAMERON, son of Moses of Albemarle County, Va. was an Indian spy and scout for the government in Washington, Russell and other counties in western Virginia "about 1790 and followed the Big Sandy River into Floyd County, Ky.," according to the records. He was apparently at the battle of Kings' Mountain with Col. Campbell, the hero of Kings' Mountain, for whom Campbell County was named in Virginia. Ruth Dorius sent notes from Gwathmey's book on the Kings' Mountain men and said Lazarus Dameron was with James Fraley: "James Fraley, resident of Lawrence County, Ky. served under Col. Wm. Campbell and Capt. Snody; was nine months an Indian spy in Washington Co., Va. and enlisted Mar. 3, 1779. "The man who spied with him about a year was Lazarus Dameron who enlisted April, 1780 for one year in Washington Co. under Col. Dampbell and Capt. Snody. Campbell went to Kings Mt. Lazarus Dameron enlisted the second time when Fraley did and they served together as comrades. In the 1780's many Revolutionary veterans flocked to the frontier near the Cumberland Gap in Washington and Russell Counties, and among them were the Dameron brothers and their friends, such as Wm. Clark, James Robertson, Abr. Cox., Edw., Cox, David Crockett, John Moore, Shardick Morris, Joseph and Isaac Wilson, John Carter--all these had fought at Kings' Mountain.

In 1794 Lazarus Dameron bought land of Hatfield in New Garden on both sides of Lewis Creek, next to John Neal, and in 1805, he and his wife, Nancy, sold this land to Kendrick, at which time they were living in Floyd County, Ky. In 1809 Lazarus had a court case in Russell County, Va., which might have been after he had left, and in 1813 he received power of attorney from Reuben Smith of Russell.

2. RICHARD DAMERON, who was with Moses, Lazarus and John Dameron in Russell County, Va. The Russell County Court Records, Book 2, p. 289, 1796 have an item: "Richard Damron by Moses Damron etc. vs. Rich^d Collier in Case Continued for the Defendant. Ordered that Richard Damron etc. pay Moses Damron 1 Dollar and 6 cents for 2 days attendance for him against Richard Collier, also that he pay John Young 2 Dollars and 12 cents for 4 days attendance for him against the said Richard Collier.

"Ordered that Richard Collier pay Abner Vance and Jonathan Musick 1 Dollar and 59 Cents each for 3 days attendance each for him at the Suit of Richard Damron." This is at the June Court, 1796, and refers to jury duty apparently.

Book 2, p. 289, September Court, 1796, "Richard Damron by Moses Damron vs. Richard Collier: in Case. Dismiss'd and each party to pay their own costs."

Richard had a son called Buck. Buck had a son Alex, who was the father of John Wess Damron and Cordie Damron Benson, age 96, in 1953, sister of John Wess Damron who was then 94, and living in Floyd and Pike County, Ky. These two knew of Moses Damron of the same generation as Richard, their great-grandfather.

3. MOSES DAMERON or DAMRON. In 1786 he had the first deed recorded in Russell County, which was formed from Washington Co., Va. that year, for 230 acres on Clinch River, adjoining David Calhoun and Henry Hamblin. His wife then was named Aggy but in 1798 and 1800 his wife was named Sarah, when he made deeds. In 1798 Moses Damron and his wife Sarah are living in Fleming County, Ky. The children of Moses were:

(1) Moses m. Jennie Mullins in 1812, living in Pike County, Ky., ch. Moses, William, Solomon, Sarah m. Thomas Owens, Louisa, Elizabeth. Solomon King Damron went from Pike to Greenup Co., Ky. 1871, and his son Joseph Randolph Damron went to Huntington, W.Va., others living in W. Va., and Ky.

(2) Lazarus Damron, ch. Samuel, Moses, John Tom, William, Jane m. Stephen Marcum, Paulina m. Stone, _____ m. Hager of Ky., Lazarus, father of Ezekial, who was the father of Rediford Damron of Lexington, Ky. Samuel m. Caudice Copley and lived in W.Va. Samuel's son George Washington Damron was b. Wayne Co. 1837 m. Esther Chafin. His son Judge James Damron d. 1911.

MOSES DAMERON OF RUSSELL COUNTY, VA.

MOSES DAMERON, the son of Moses of Albemarle, was in Washington County, Va. in 1786, when he had 80 acres on Gravely Lick Branch. An Oregon history telling of Sarah Damron Adair says he "was a great Indian fighter, and employed by the government as a scout and spy during the war with the Shawnees and Delawares. He performed great deeds of daring and bravery which were recognized by the government. Among them was that of rescuing a woman and five children."

Moses was with Capt. John Damron, Adjutant of the 72d Va. Militia, 2d Company, in Russell County, and with Richard and Lazarus Damron. Richard was granted 260 acres on Shelby Creek, Floyd County, Ky. on April 18, 1808--see Jillson's Kentucky Land Grants Book 16, p. 121, grants.

Fincastle was taken off 1772-1777 from Botetourt Co., Va. and Montgomery was taken off 1777 from Fincastle and Washington from Fincastle 1777, while Russell was taken from Washington 1786. Hence this could be the same Moses we find in the following items:

"Fincastle County, May 5, 1773, the grand jury having returned made the following presentments--John Harmon for keeping Mary Allison and cohabiting with her by information of Moses Damrin." (Summers' Annals of Southwest Virginia. Montgomery deeds, 1783, shows Moses Damrell (the name was often spelled this way) with 120 acres on Elk Creek Branch of New River, and we also find him on the 1782 Tax List in Montgomery. As the Indians drove the settlers back at this time, he may have had to move his family from one river to another from time to time. There is no further trace of a Damron in Montgomery that we can find, which indicates this.

The first deed recorded in Russell County, Virginia, was for Moses Damron. It is on Page 1, of Book 1. "The lawyers and clerks in Russell say that the first county deed was from James Osborne to Moses Damron. James Osborne owned a great deal of land. I visited two old Osborne homes and made a photo of one. I know the district of each tract of land which the Damrons owned but could not exactly put my finger on the exact spot," according to Alimae Aiken of Madison College in Harrisonburg, Va. who found all this information in Russell County, Va.

The above land was sold to John Damron Oct. 22, 1791, by Lawrence Vanhook for one hundred pounds, 170 acres.

The Court Records show items confirming the above transactions thus:

Alimae Aiken made another trip to Russell Co., Va., on her way to Texas, and found the following in some old land books:

Land entry book No. 2, p. 6, Oct. 1, 1798, Moses Damrel transfers his entry of fifty acres of land made page 27 book A by part of Warrant No. 11797 and also fifty acres being part of his entry made page 36 in Entry Book No. A, by part of land office Treasury Warrant No. 15172 to James Roberts."

MOSES DAMERON OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY, VIRGINIA

Alimae Aiken also visited Christiansburg in Montgomery County, Va. which was formed from Fincastle and found the following:

THE DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS DAMERON, WILL 1766, WICOMICO PARISH WHO HAD SONS, LAZARUS, AARON, JOSEPH, THOMAS AND MOSES.

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, m. Dorothy _____, was in Northumberland Co., Va. 1652.

II. BARTHOLOMEW m. Elizabeth, prob. dau. of Christopher Garlington. He d. 1708.

III. JOHN, youngest son, Will 1743, also lived in Wicomico Parish, Northumberland, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Taylor in 1728. She m. 2d George Flowers.

1. Bartholomew Will 1807 m. Mary Waddy. Their son Thomas m. Nancy Ann Ball and moved to Kentucky 1810, Bourbon County. One son was named John Thent 1800-1829.

2. Joseph, Will 1759, m. Elizabeth Waddy, had one child, Nancy.

3. John, Will 1777, died Halifax Co., N.C. m. Sarah or Sukey Tignor. His ch. were Christopher, heir, Sarah, Judith, Betty m. Williams, Tignor, a Rev. soldier, sold land in Halifax 1789, Joseph and John. The two latter may be the ancestors of the Damerons of Lincoln County, Tenn., both having sons named John, James and William. Joseph m. Haynie, prob. Elizabeth. One desc. of John was Jasper W. Dameron who moved from Tenn. to Illinois, his son being William J. Dameron of Union Co., Ill. who said his branch were related to the John Damron b. 1757 family of Illinois.

4. Thomas, Will 1766 (see below.)

IV. THOMAS, son of above John Will 1743, had his will dated 1766, which cut off all his sons with five shillings, except Thomas, the sole heir. This seems to indicate they were grown and perhaps had moved away. The others were "Jo.", Lazarus, Aron, Moses. The father lived in Wicomico Parish, Northumberland, 1766, but it is believed that Aron, Moses and perhaps Thomas went to Lancaster, where their grandmother, dau. of Thomas Taylor, had owned considerable property inherited from her father.

1. Aron, probably in Lancaster County, Va. on the 1783 tax list, with 6 whites, no black; along with Moses with 6 white, no slaves. In the 1790 census of Lancaster we find Damerons, Thomas, Moses, Aaron--also John, William, Dennis, Samuel and Rachel (widow of John Dameron Will 1782 in Lancaster, and sister of Lott Palmer.

2. Thomas, heir to his father's will, perhaps in Lancaster 1790 census. A Thomas of Lancaster served in the Virginia Navy and his son Dennis was his heir about 1834. Aaron was also in the Revolution, invalided home from 3d company of militia. (P. 76, Part One). Moses was also a soldier in 1777, Lancaster. Nottingham's History of Lancaster Rev. Soldiers says Aaron Dameron m. Elizabeth Perkins, no date given.

3. Moses, perhaps in 1790 in Lancaster County, Va. However, I believe that he and his brothers Lazarus and "Jo." went to new land in other areas. I believe Moses was listed in the 1782-5 tax list in Montgomery County, Va. in 1782, though he may still have resided in Lancaster while owning land in Montgomery, as a Revolutionary soldier. He may have moved to Washington County, Va. 1786.

4. Joseph or "Jo." which might conceivably be "John", in which case I would think it the John b. 1757. I believe this Joseph was in Boutetourt County, Va. in Capt. Pryor's Company of Militia 1782. He could have had the land grant in Green County, Tenn. (formerly in N.C.), a Quaker center, 1783. In either case he might have been the father of John b. 1757 who named his first son Joseph b. 1781.

5. Lazarus. I have found no other Lazarus except in Albemarle and Kentucky.

THE DESCENDANTS OF LAZARUS DAMERON OF RUSSELL COUNTY, VA. AND KENTUCKY

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who came to Northumberland County, Va. before 1652, with his wife, Dorothy, and children, Bartholomew, George, Thomas, Samuel, Lawrence, and Dorothy who married Josias Gaskins and Samuel Mahan.

II. GEORGE DAMERON, who inherited the manor house at Guarding Point in Northumberland County, Va. of his father. He m. Elizabeth, widow of John Dennis, and their children were Col. Thomas, 1683-1750, of Wicomico Parish, Elizabeth m. Charles Ingram, Lazarus d. 1749 Albemarle Co., Va. George, inventory 1721, m. Margaret Taylor.

III. LAZARUS DAMERON, who was the first to sell his ancestral acres in Wicomico Parish, Northumberland County, Va. He died in Albemarle County, Va. 1749. His wife was Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Smith of Northumberland. Their children were: Judith m. 1753 Noble Ladd (their daughter Anne, m. her cousin Capt. John Damron b. 1757); George, whose descendants still live in Nelson, Amherst and near Albemarle, as well as in Adair County, Ky. and elsewhere; Richard, died without children; John, died 1757, whose son Charles was in the 2d Virginia Regiment in the Revolution; Hannah; Moses; Winifred m. John Thomas of Albemarle.

IV. MOSES DAMERON, son of above Lazarus, who said in his will 1749 in Albemarle County, Va. I give "to son Moses all houses and lands but in case he has no heirs to John Dameron." His brother Richard in his will left all his clothes to Moses in 1749, also, which seemed to be a time of sudden death and tragedy. There is no record of the sale of this property in Albemarle, nor that this Moses left Virginia, but we have no record of him in Albemarle after he had a plot of 175 acres surveyed June 15, 1761, on the branches of Red Bank and Damron's Creeks in Albemarle.

1. MOSES DAMERON, who was in Russell County, Va. after the Revolution with Capt. John Damron of the 72d Regiment of militia, and with Richard and Lazarus Damron. In 1798 Moses Damron was in Fleming County, Ky. with his wife Sarah.

2. Probably Capt. JOHN DAMRON b. 1757, Revolutionary soldier, m. Anne Ladd.

3. Richard Damron, who was in Russell County, Va. 1796, and had a land grant on Shelby Creek May 18, 1808, Floyd County, Ky. 260 acres, where descendants still live.

4. Lazarus Dameron or Damron, of Russell County, Va. and Kentucky.

V. LAZARUS DAMERON was an Indian scout in Washington County, "who enlisted 1780 in the Revolution for one year, under Col. Campbell and Capt. Snody. Campbell went to Kings Mt. Lazarus Dameron enlisted the second time when Fraley did and they served together as comrades. He was with James Fraley "resident of Lawrence County, Ky." who was "nine months an Indian spy in Washington Co., Va. and enlisted March, 1779. "The man who spied with him about a year was Lazarus Dameron." The children of Lazarus Damron were: Samuel m. Caudice Copley, descendant of Josiah Markham of Washington County, Va. a Revolutionary soldier; Moses who went to Texas; John Tom who also went West; William, who went West; Jane m. Stephen Marcum; Paulina m. Stone, _____ m. Hager of Kentucky; Lazarus, who lived in West Virginia, and had a son Ezekial, whose son Rediford teaches at the University of Kentucky in Lexington. Rediford wrote that he came of ancestry which had a "large family of boys. One settled on Shelby Creek, Pike County, Ky. one settled in Wayne County, W. Va., that is where my family came from. One settled in Laurence County, Ohio. Lazarus, my grandfather, had a brother Moses and one named Sam. My father married a McGuire of Louisia, Ky., near Wayne Co., W. Va."

THE DAMERON PIONEERS IN KENTUCKY

V. LAZARUS DAMERON, son of ^{Moses, not of} Thomas Dameron and mentioned in his will of 1766 of Wicomico Parish, Northumberland County, Va. (Lawrence¹ Bartholomew² John³ Thomas⁴). It seems likely that he was the Indian scout of Washington County, Va. who went to Floyd County, Kentucky, along the Big Sandy River, about 1790. (See page 44, Part Two). He was with James Fraley, in a note sent by Ruth Dorius: "James Fraley, resident of Lawrence County, Ky. served under Col. Wm. Campbell and Capt. Snody; was nine months an Indian spy in Washington Co., Va. and enlisted Mar. 3, 1779. "The man who spied with him about a year was Lazarus Dameron who enlisted April 1780 for one year in Washington Co. under Col. Campbell and Capt. Snody. Campbell went to Kings Mt. Lazarus Dameron enlisted the second time when Fraley did and they served together as comrades."

She also sent notes from Gwathmey's book on the Kings Mountain men, including 'George Dameron, under Maj. Chronicle at Kings Mountain who took part in several other engagements. He was pensioned in Lincoln County. Descendants are in N.C. and East. Tennessee."

"Darnell, David and Cornelius, were under Campbell. David was wounded. His will was in Washington County, 1785. Lawrence Danrell was a surveyor who went to Fincastle in 1774 and is supposed to have been in the battle of Point Pleasant. (We have Moses Damerin in Fincastle.) In the 1780's many Revolutionary soldiers flocked to Washington County and region, employed to fight Indians. The frontier soldiers who fought at Kings Mountain were: Wm. Been, Jacob Brown, John Carter, Zach. Isbell, John Jones, John McCormick, Rob. Lucas, James Robertson, Wm. Clark (on 9th Va. pay roll), James Cooper, Abr. Cox., Edw. Cox, John Cox Sr. and Jr., and Wm. Cox, Crockett, David and Wm., Thomas Dedman (Richard was on the pay roll), Drury Goodman, John and Joseph Dunham, Rice Durrion (We have a Rice Damron in Ky. grants in the 1820's I believe), John Moore, Dan, Gideon, Shardick Morris, Jos. Isaac Wilson, James Stuart." Note also that John Moore was a witness at the marriage of Sarah Moore, daughter of William, and John Dameron in 1804 in Campbell County, Va. The Clarks were the first settlers in Lynchburg, Va. which was a Quaker settlement and Sarah Clark was the wife of the Lynch for whom it was named.

Capt. Thomas Walker, Jr. who was commander of the company in the 9th Virginia to which John Damron belonged in 1776, was the son of Thomas Walker, "represent. of Hanover, Louisa, and Albemarle Cos." (Notes from Ruth Dorius), Gwathmey's Tw. ve Virginia Counties. The father Dr. Thomas Walker was the leader of the first band of explorers in Kentucky, and was born in King and Queen Co. and lived in Albemarle County. There was also Capt. Wm. Walker of Orange Co. Gwathmey also notes that Judge Richard Henderson was born and reared in Hanover Co., Va. He was the chief of the land company that purchased half the state of Kentucky and employed Daniel Boone to open up the path for settlers. Judge Henderson moved to N.C. (where he lived near the Moodys.) Gwathmey also says Merriwether Lewis and Wm. Clark were from Albemarle and Caroline Counties. (These were the Lewis and Clark Expedition leaders.) "H. Dudley was schooled at William and Mary to train troops. Was son of Duke of Northumberland."

Thomas Fleming was commander in Dec. 1776 of Capt. Walker's company, which John Damron was in. Gwathmey says that in 1775 Goochland Co. Va. honored its distinguished citizen Thomas Fleming. Augusta County, Va. men commissioned by Washington: Andrew Lewis, Brig. Gen. Thomas Fleming, Col. Wm. Lewis, Col. and George Mathews, Col. We maynote that this company was under Col. Geo. Matthews in 1777, and Peter Muhlenberg Bg. (See p. 14 pay bill of Part Two.) Ruth Dorius noted "this reads like Thomas Fleming in Goochland was the father of the Thomas in Augusta.)"

V. LAZARUS, son of Thomas Dameron, mentioned in his will 1766, in Wicomico Parish, Northumberland County, Va. (Lawrence¹ Bartholomew² John³ Thomas⁴). It is likely that he was the Indian scout in western Virginia about 1790, who followed the Big Sandy River into Floyd County, Ky., and was a scout for Daniel Boone. Of course, this Lazarus might also be a grandson of the Lazarus of Albemarle County, Va. as the names in this family, Moses and Richard are similar to Albemarle names, and also the family in Kentucky of Rediford Dameron has a tradition that they came from Norfolk which might mean a connection with the Ladds from Norfolk, related to Anna Ladd, wife of John Damron b. 1757. It is frequent to confuse the history of maternal and paternal lines. This Lazarus was in Washington and other counties and his descendants or those of the family lived in Kentucky. (A John Damron witnessed a will 1780 in Washington County, Va. (Annals of S.W. Va., by Sumners.) Other families in Washington County, 1780, were familiar: McCormack, Lathin, Gill, Rogers, Thompsons and Morris. Also in Washington County Moses Dameron in 1786 was on Gravelly Lick Branch, and H.C. Dameron was minister 1881.) Now the theory may be that Lazarus, Moses, Joseph and John or several of them travelled in much the same direction toward Tennessee and Kentucky and Illinois, with their cousins or brothers. There was also a John Damron on the 1810 census of Monroe County, West Virginia.

1. Lazarus of Kentucky must have been a son of above Lazarus, though I have no record of this. Sarah Damron Adair said her father, Moses, had brothers Richard and Lazarus who migrated with him to Kentucky on the Big Sandy River. Rediford Dameron of the Univ. of Ky. said "My father was Zeke Damron (Ezekial), the son of Lazarus Damron... large family of boys... I settled on Shelby Creek, Pike County; I settled in Wayne Co., W. Va., that is where my family came from. I settled in Laurence County, Ohio. Lazarus, my grandfather, had a brother Moses and one named Sam. My father married a McGuire of Louisia, Ky., near Wayne Co., W.Va." Now, Daniel Boone was employed by Richard Henderson (of Warren County, N.C.) in 1769 to open up the wilderness trail to "Transylvania", the new settlement in Kentucky, though before this Dr. Thomas Walker had explored Virginia (perhaps father of Capt. Thomas Walker under whom John Damron served in 1776.) I believe this Thos. Walker was of Albemarle of the Daniel Boone era. Boone died 1820, so a contemporary of his could not very well be the father of Rediford's father, Rediford being only 41 in 1952.

(1) Ezekiel, son of Lazarus, m. _____ McGuire of Louisia, Ky., near Wayne County, and had three children, Pem, Rebecah, and Luther, now living at Millard, Pike County, Ky. He m. 2d Nan Deskins of Pike Co., and they had two girls, "Virgie and Harriet, both living, and four boys--John, Lacy, named for Lazarus, and Bob, all dead. Lacy died Sept. 7, 1952, and Bob died 1947."

2. Richard, brother of Lazarus. Mariam Damron Cropper corresponded with John Wess Dameron 94 and sister Cordie Damron Benson, age 96, whose great-grandfather was Dick, there being one named Mose of the same generation. Dick had a son Buck, father of Alex, who was father of above still living brother and sister. Jillson shows Land grant in Kentucky, Floyd Co., Shelby Creek, for Richard Dameron, 5-18-1808. (See p. 45, Part Two.)

3. Moses, brother of Richard and Lazarus, m. Jennie Mullins in 1812, and had children Moses, Sarah, Louisa, Elizabeth, William, Solomon. In 1826 they moved to Illinois for two years but died in returning to Kentucky, leaving a family of orphans. The story is told by Sarah Damron Adair. (See p. 43, Part Two.) Sarah b. Jan. 8, 1818, in Kentucky, was oldest daughter and at sixteen m. Thomas Owens, sheriff of Pike Co., Ky. Two children, Thomas and Diana were born there, then they moved to Van Buren County, Mo. where Bethinia was b. 1840. In the spring of 1843 they joined the immigrants going to Oregon along the Oregon Trail from Independence, Mo.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

The history of the United States of America is a story of a people who have built a great nation out of a wilderness. From the first settlers who came to the shores of the Atlantic, to the present day, the story is one of growth, struggle, and achievement. The early years were marked by the struggle for survival against the elements and the native Americans. The middle years were marked by the struggle for independence from Britain. The late years have been marked by the struggle for unity and progress. The story is a testament to the power of the human spirit and the ability of a people to overcome adversity and build a better future for themselves.

"Virginia, At a Court held for Russell County the 3d day of November, 1813, This power of attorney for Reuben Smith to Lazarus Damron was acknowledged in Court by the said Reuben and ordered to be recorded. Teste JAMES P. CARROL, D.C."

(Note by Alimae Aiken: The Damrons today in Russell, Wise and Dickinson Counties are all nice looking people, very dark eyes and clear, dark olive skin. Mr. Banscom Damron resembles my handsome brothers (deceased) and there is no photo in your book, a young Kentucky Dameron, which is very much like my oldest brother Elmer Damron Aiken." She listed: "Mr. John Crit Dameron, Clintwood, Dickenson Co., Va. a splendid old man of about 75 years or more (wife living), came from near Pikeville, Ky. I enjoyed talking with him. His brothers and sisters: Floyd, Harvey, Oxier, Elizabeth (Mrs. Moore, lived near Clintwood), Ressie Dameron (Mrs. Stone), living near Clintwood, James M. Jackson Dameron. His father was William M. (Met) Dameron, whose brothers were William, Harvey and James (?). His grandfather was Reuben Dameron (?).")

Nell Elkins Pearce sent the following information to Ruth Dorius: "I received the following letter from a lady who was reared in Illinois, Williamson County, and I am wondering if this John Tom that she mentions is not the John T. that we have so many notes on from Kentucky. She said:

"I am sure that my gr-father's father came to Wayne Co., West Va. (it was then Virginia) in 1826, he said they stayed awhile in Russell county, then came on through the Breaks of Sandy, the old Savage grant. This land was given for service in the Rev. War. I have been told recently that gr-father Samuel's father was named Lazarus and his father was Moses. I know that my gr-father Samuel had a half-brother named Lazarus. I was very young when I heard about it, so could be mistaken but do not think I am. I believe your John was a brother to one of those older ones--grandfather had a brother named John Tom (see the John T.) and William (who told tall tales). Tom and William went West when young. My father's oldest brother (half bro.) was named Moses, he also went to Texas in the early 80's and was gone 24 years, otherwise the family kept close to West V. and Va.

"My grandfather, Samuel Damron m. Caudice (or Dicey) Copley whose mother was Rebecca Marcum, her father was Stephen Marcum, son of Josiah Marcum, a Rev. soldier whose wf. was E. MacDonald. Judge James Dameron has died as has his sister Edna Thompson (Damron). They were children of George Washington Dameron, and were cousins (distant), our relationship I am sure stems from a brother on my great-grandfather Lazarus, or from great-great Moses, I will do my best to find the man, records, deeds, will etc. are at Wayne County, W. Va. court house. I do not believe this would help as I believe the connection is earlier or it could be grandfather's brother, or an uncle as I remember the story they started from Northumberland County, Virginia, came on to Russell county, then in 1821, when grandfather Samuel was age 8 years old, came to Wayne county. Grandfather Samuel's brother Lazarus lived close to the family all his life. I am sure the Ladd line is not related to me directly. My father Jameson, son of Samuel and Caudice Copley. Grandfather's sisters (gr. Samuel) Jane married Stephen Marcum, gr-son of Josiah, Paulina m. Samuel Stone. One I do not remember name of married Hager from Ky. I will go to the Newberry Library in Chicago this coming week and see what I can dig up. I am also trying to locate one of my cousins who had the Family Bible. I am nearly 72 and must hurry and do all I can to finish our Damron line, my gr-father Samuel lived to be 91. I have no such expectations. Why, oh why, didn't I think of all this when our country was full of old and young Damerons?

"Have you ever run across the name Nairy MacInery or McInerney. She married a Dameron, maybe Lazarus or Moses, and then came to Wayne County, Va. (then Logan County) about 1821. There are still some Nairy names of girls down there. If you have anything on Lazarus or Moses coming to the western part of Va. from Northumberland County, Albemarle, or Russell Cos. please let me know, and I will write you whatever I find."

Note by Ruth Dorius: There was a family of Markim in Franklin Co., Ill. 1818.

Ruth Dorius received a letter from John W. Damron (looks as if he wrote it Damyon), Rural Hall, N.C., May 1, 1953: "I received your letter in regard to information about the Damron Family. I am sorry but I cannot give you much information. I was born in Boyd County, Ky., and so was my father. I have been living in this state only a short time and do not know of any other Damron families. Sorry to not be able to help you more." (Note: Boyd Co. organized 1860 from Mason, logical county for Damrons to be in, on the Ohio and abuts Ohio and W. Va. I keep thinking of that story of the three brothers who went down the Ohio and settled in those three states. Nell thinks one went down the Ohio to where it meets the Miss. at Cairo, then up the Miss. into Ill. Very little on Mason County, Ky. here.)

THE WILSON DAMRON FAMILY OF KENTUCKY, ILLINOIS, TENNESSEE AND MISSOURI

Some of the Damerons were Indian scouts and frontiersmen, and of them Wilson Dameron seems to have been the earliest in Kentucky. He "was born in Va. removed to Ky., was scout to Daniel Boone." He later removed to that section of the N. W. territory that made Illinois. He was in the employ of a fur company and at one time made explorations into the Yellowstone River country. The maiden name of his wife was McLane. (See p. 11-a, also Johnson, Massac, Pope, Hardin Counties, Illinois, p. 465.)

I. Wilson Damron b. in Virginia and went to Kentucky with Daniel Boone.

II. CHARLES DAMRON, his son, born in Kentucky went with his parents to Illinois. "While living in Saline Co. 1818 voted for the adoption of the first constitution. After his marriage to Mary Carson, he removed to Weakly County, Tenn. where he resided until 1832, when he again came to Ill. and settled in the Tunnel Hill township on the farm now owned by John Bonar where he lived until his death in 1878. She was of Middle Tenn. and married him about 1820. Children: J.M.C., Samuel, Norval, James, Mary, Mexico, Jane, Drucilla, Almus.

III. John M.C. Dameron, M.D. of Johnson Co., Ill. was born in Weakly County, Tenn. 2-20-1824, m. 1st Elizabeth Buckner 1850, died 1852, and had one child, Leonidas. He m. 2nd 1855, Adeline Standard who d. 1877, children: Franklin, Emma, Mollie, Jennie, Lucy, Augusta, John. He m. 3dly Adelia Knowles in 1878 d. 1887, and 4thly he m. Alice Matheny Murdock. He was a Mason, Presbyterian and Democrat and died 1911. He lived in Vienna, Illinois, in the same town as Capt. John Damron's descendants, and had lived near them in Weakley County, Tenn. earlier, which indicates a close relationship probably.

Leonidas lived in Missouri on a farm. John Franklin d. 1915, leaving no children. Emma m. Dennis Wilson of Cape Girardeau, Mo., one child being Owana. Mollie m. T. G. Johnson of Johnson Co. Ill. The children and their widowed mother moved to St. Louis, Mo.; they were Essie, Eva, Damron.

See Parts Two and Three for further information on this family. Charles Damron married Polly Carson 13 Feb. 1823. In Johnson County, Ill. are deeds between John M.C. Damron and Samuel W. Damron 1856, also J. Wm. Damron 1864. In the 1820 state census of Franklin County, Ill. p. 55, we find Charles Damron, with 1 white free male over 21, and all other whites numbering 4. In the 1818 census of Franklin County, is Wilson Damron with 7 in the house, and in the same list our John Damron Sr. and Jr. In the 1860 census of Johnson County, Ill. we find:

As the Damerons, such as Wilson and Lazarus, were among the early settlers of Kentucky, and others in Tennessee, let us look at the historical background of these frontier regions. Kentucky was the first to be settled in the westward movement and when the French in 1749 began taking over the Ohio valley, the Virginians decided to act also and two land companies were organized which bought up immense tracts. "Dr. Thomas Walker (1715-94), as an agent and surveyor of the Loyal Land company passed through the Cumberland Gap in March 1750 and followed down the Cumberland river in search of a suitable place for settlement... In Oct. 1750 Christopher Gist, on a similar mission for the Ohio company, set out from the banks of the Potomac and followed an Indian trail which led from Wills creek to the Ohio... George Washington (was sent) in 1753 to warn the French of Virginia's claims to the Ohio country. In 1752 John Finley, an Indian trader, descended the Ohio river in a canoe to the present site of Louisville. It was Finley's descriptions that first attracted Daniel Boone, and soon after Boone's first visit in 1767, travellers through the Kentucky region became numerous. The first permanent English settlement was set up at Harrodsburg in 1774 by James Harrod, and in October of the same year the Ohio Indians, having been defeated by Virginia troops in the battle of Point Pleasant (in what is now West Virginia), signed a treaty... In March 1775, Richard Henderson and some North Carolina land speculators... concluded a treaty with them for... all the territory south of the Ohio River and between the Kentucky and Cumberland rivers. The purchase was named Transylvania. Within less than a month after the treaty was signed, Boone... founded a settlement at Boonesborough... The title was declared void by the Virginia Government in 1778.

"During the American Revolution the colonists were neglected by Virginia, and had to defend themselves against the Indians, who were often under British leadership. Boonesborough was attacked in April and July 1777 and Aug. 1778." Under Simon Girty the Indians also besieged Bryan's Station near Lexington in 1782, Aug. The following battle of Blue Licks cost 60 killed and 7 prisoners to the Americans.

"Kentucky county, practically conterminous with the present commonwealth of Kentucky, and embracing all the territory claimed by Virginia south of the Ohio river and west of Big Sandy creek and the ridge of the Cumberland mountains, was one of three counties which were formed out of Fincastle county in 1776. Four years later, this in turn was divided into three counties, Jefferson, Lincoln and Fayette, but the name Kentucky was revived in 1783...for these three counties. The American Revolution was followed by an extensive emigration from Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina, which made its way either by the Ohio river from Fort Pitt, or--the far greater number--by the Cumberland Gap and the 'Wilderness Road,' as marked by Daniel Boone in 1775. At least 95% of this population, excluding negro slaves, were of pure English, Scotch or Scotch-Irish descent. The manners, customs and institutions of Virginia were transplanted beyond the mountains. There was the same political rivalry between the slave-holding farmers of the Blue Grass region and the 'poor whites' of the mountain districts that there was in Virginia between the tidewater planters and the mountaineers.... The aristocratic influences in both states have always been on the Southern and Democratic side, but while they were strong enough in Virginia to lead the state into secession, they were unable to do so in Kentucky." Kentucky began demanding separation from Virginia from 1784 to 1790 in Danville conventions, and a preliminary act was passed Feb. 1791, the state of Kentucky being admitted June 1, 1792. Gen. Isaac Shelby was first governor.

Meantime due to the delay of Virginia in permitting separation, a separatist movement against the whole United States was formed by Gen. James Wilkinson in Kentucky, planning an alliance with the Spanish at New Orleans.

"James Adair, of South Carolina, a fur trader and explorer, is supposed to have been the first to go from the English colonies into Tennessee.... In 1756 or 1757 Ft. Loudon, ...was built on the Little Tennessee river (near) Knoxville... The fort was captured by the Cherokee Indians in 1760, and both the garrison and the neighboring settlers were massacred.... in 1769 several cabins were built along the Holston river and Watauga river upon what was thought to be Virginia soil. A settlement near the present Rogersville was made in 1771, and in the next year another sprang up about the store of Jacob Brown on the Nollichucky. After the failure of the Regulator insurrection in North Carolina in 1771, hundreds of the Regulators made their way into the wilderness." This was in North Carolina according to survey but the state gave no protection so in 1772 the residents formed the Watauga Association with a committee of 13 and courts were held. In 1775 Nollichucky was formed to join and the land was bought from the Cherokees. When the Revolution came, however, "the dream of becoming a separate colony with a royal governor was abandoned... the territory was annexed to North Carolina in 1776 as the Washington district, which in 1777 became Washington county, with the Mississippi river as the western boundary... During the American Revolution the hardy mountaineers under John Sevier and Evan Shelby did valiant service against both the royal troops and the Loyalists in South Carolina, chiefly as partisan rangers under Charles McDowell (1743-1815). Major Patrick Ferguson, with several hundred Loyalists and a small body of regulars, made a demonstration against the western settlements, but at King's Mountain in South Carolina, he was completely defeated by the Americans." (We must remember that among those who fought at King's Mountain were George Dameron under Maj. Chronicle, and Lazarus Dameron under Col. Campbell, the leader for whom Campbell County was later named.)

Lazarus Dameron enlisted April, 1780, in Washington County, Va. under Col. Campbell, and in 1780 we also find John Damron in Washington County as witness on a Dorton deed. Moses Dameron was on Gravelly Lick in 1786, Washington County, Va., and earlier in 1773 in Fincastle apparently, also being in Montgomery Co. He or his son Moses was "a great Indian fighter, and was employed by the government as a scout and spy." John Dameron had land in Green County (now Tenn. then N.C.) in 1788 and Joseph 1793, being cut off into Jefferson County, Tenn. where we find Joseph 1794, Christopher and John 1808, etc.

In 1784 N.C. offered to cede her western territory to the Government, and Watauga objected and in 1784 at Jonesboro called a convention to form a new state. Meanwhile N.C. repealed the act of cession. In 1785 a convention elected Sevier governor of the new state of Franklin (which had as legal tender 20 articles, including fox skins 1s. 6d., beaver skins, bacon, rye whiskey etc.) Wm. Cocke was sent to request recognition as a state. Sevier was arrested for treason but allowed to escape.

After Henderson in 1775 took land in Kentucky etc. "In 1778 James Robertson, a native of Virginia, who had been prominent in the Watauga settlement, set out with a small party to prepare the way for permanent occupation... at French Lick... Another party, led by John Donelson, arrived in 1780, and after the close of the War of Independence the immigrants came in a steady stream." (He was the father of Rachel who married Pres. Andrew Jackson). Robertson was sent to the N.C. legislature and the settlements became Davidson county, with Nashville as the seat. On May 26, 1790, congress accepted the new state, William Blount was governor and Knoxville the capital. A census in 1795 showed 60,000 free inhabitants. John Sevier was elected governor and William Blount and Wm. Cocke senators. It was admitted to the union 1796 as the state of Tennessee. Andrew Jackson was the dictator^{or} in Tennessee politics for many years until 1836 when Hugh Lawson White led a revolt. (See the Encyclopædia Britannica on Kentucky and Tennessee for above references.)

Daniel Boone was born 1734 in Pennsylvania near Reading but moved with his family to the Yadkin Valley in N.C. as a boy about 1751. He died 1820. His family lived near Mocksville, N.C. which is not far from where Thomas Moody lived, and also Kit Carson's family lived nearby--his uncle Andrew Carson was a famous scout and Revolutionary soldier and married the sister of Thomas Moody's wife, Mary Young.

Daniel Boone visited Kentucky first in 1767, and with a small party explored it in 1769-71. Indians turned back his first colonizing attempt in 1773 but in March, 1775, as advance agent for Richard Henderson and the Transylvania Company, and with an armed band of thirty men, he blazed the famous Wilderness Road and founded Bonnesboro on the Kentucky River (top of Madison County). Henderson arrived in a few weeks and brought additional settlers. Later in the same season Daniel Boone guided a second party, including his family. When Kentucky was made a Virginia county in 1776, he was elected a captain of militia. In the American Revolution, while on a saltpetre expedition to the Blue Licks on the Licking, Boone and his party were captured (Feb. 1778), by Shawnee Indians and taken to British headquarters at Detroit. After four months he escaped. He collected his family who had returned to N.C. and settled Boone's Station in 1779, near what is now Athens, Ky. He was made colonel and sheriff of the newly-organized Fayette County, and was elected to the first of several terms as representative of the Virginia legislature. After the Revolution he moved to Maysville, where he dealt in land and kept a tavern. (Maysville is where Thomas Young lived, related to Mary, wife of our Thomas Moody.) Later he lived at Point Pleasant in what is now W. Va. and around 1795 settled in what is now Nicholas County, Ky. His titles to large tracts of land were adjudged imperfect, and despite his services to Kentucky, he lost his best holdings through ejectment suits. Disgusted, Rebecca and he followed (1799) a son to Missouri, to the Osage Valley. In his old age he preferred "the open prairies in the Spanish territory west of the Mississippi (at La Charette in the present state of Missouri. Even there, after the Louisiana purchase, his title was found to be defective, although Congress, as a result of his pathetic petition and the intervention of the Kentucky legislature, confirmed the grant with praise for the pioneer... From it he made occasional long trapping expeditions into Kansas and once (1814) to the Yellowstone.... In 1845 his and his wife Rebecca's remains were removed to Frankfort, Ky." (See article in the Encyclopedia Britannica, etc. John Bakeless wrote a biography called Master of the Wilderness, also R. G. Thwaites in 1902 and S.E. White. See also Historic Highways of America, V. vi.)

Now when was Wilson Damron with Daniel Boone as a scout in Kentucky, and did he also make the trip to Yellowstone in 1814 with Boone? He may have been one of the thirty men who blazed the Wilderness Trail. His son Charles was born in Kentucky but moved to Illinois before 1818 when he was in Saline County.

The Damrons come of the Daniel-Boone Kit Carson tradition of frontiersmen and pioneers, and one of them is still alive age 83, Joseph Milton Moody, son of Sarah Matilda Damron. He was famous as the best hunter and woodsman of his time in the region around Grand Canyon, and was Forest Ranger for many years for the government. Damrons were among the first pioneers in Texas, Nevada, Arizona and the Imperial Valley in California, in the 19th century.

Ruth Dorius sent additional notes: "James, John and Louisa J. Demaree are buried in Jefferson Co., Ky. Abraham Whitaker m. Nancy Tyler 10-16-1801, Jefferson County, Ky. In Fayette Co. Ky. were Denham--Wm., Daniel and John; also Duvall--John Pearce, Wm., Daniel, and the Garrard family. In Jefferson County are the Ewings. I think Demaree in Mercer, Ky. is a Dameron, too. I think John Denham, Barren Co. might be our Hohn Dameron, or possibly Darnal in Fayette. The same old names are all around here. There are Methodist records at the U. of Va. Charlottesville. Fleming Co. is in Ky, and there were Flemings in Ill.--see John D's regiment."

THE DAMERON FAMILY OF LINCOLN COUNTY, TENNESSEE

I have made up a tentative chart on the Damerons of Lincoln County, Tennessee, which may not be correct as to the connection with the Halifax County family of N.C. but appears to be inasmuch as it fits here and not anywhere else in the genealogy which I have available. Proof would have to be searched out. From the fact that the two brothers each names sons James, William and John, these names are important, and also John seems to be the common one, for John and Joseph both used it, which means having a John Jr. and cousin at the same time, implying a common ancestor of the name John, I should say. John Dameron of Halifax, N.C. had a son John and one Joseph. (For this family see Page 36, Part I, with notes on the Tignors.) There is no Revolutionary record for either John or Joseph of Halifax, as Mrs. Pearce has searched N.C. carefully for the record of any John or Joseph and found none, while looking for our own ancestor Capt. John Damron b. 1757.

The Nancy who was dau. of Joseph Dameron and Elizabeth Waddy was under 18 at the time of his will, 1759 (see Part I, p. 34) which indicates that he died as a young man with only one child, as he left bequests to his brother's and mentions his own father's legacy to him etc. This eliminates above Nancy as being of an older generation than the Nancy of Lincoln County, Tennessee. We have also William who m. Nancy in Stephens' Parish, Northumberland (son of William Will 1821), and had a son William b. 1792. He would be too young to have dau. Nancy around 1800 and we do not know that he ever went to N.C. It might be proved he stayed in Northumberland as there were a number of Williams there. We have a letter from William J. Damron of Progress, Union County, Illinois, around 1917, saying to John Cebren Damron: "Am quite sure that we are relatives. The original family of Damrons came from North Carolina, just how long ago I do not know. I think about the year 1808 a part of the family moved to in or about Johnson Co. and about the same time one family of the Damrons moved to about the central part of Ill., and about the year 1826 moved to Union County, and there has been some of the Damron family in and about Union Co. (lived) 80 or 90 yrs. A few yrs. ago a family of Damron lived in Vienna, Johnson Co., and my folks told me that we were relations... So as I figure out the matter I am of that part of the Damron family that moved from Tennessee several years ago to the central part of Ill. My father's name was Jasper W. Damron. He had an uncle name of Jefferson, George, W., and David. Also he had a great-uncle by the name of Jefferson, all of which are dead." (See page 11-b, Part III.)

The other possibility for ancestry would be the John Damron m. Molly Hardy in Boutetort County, Va. 22 Mar. 1796, sec. Thomas Hardy, minister Edward Mitchell. Here also we found Joseph Damerell (Damron) member of the militia, Capt. Pryor's company, 1783, on James River. (See p. 39, Part Two. There was also a Joseph D. in Green County, Tenn. (formerly N.C.) and one in Monroe County, W.Va. named John, 1810. Sumners Annals of Southwest Virginia has in Washington County, Va. the will of John Dorton 1780, with John Damron as witness. Here also was Moses Damerall in 1786 on Gravelly Lick Branch, and H.C. Dameron, M.P. minister 1881, etc. (See p. 45-c Part Two). P. 40, Part Two, says Joseph Damron was given a military grant in Green County, Tenn. 1789, so he must have been a revolutionary soldier. See the section on the discussion of the ancestry of John Damron b. 1757 in Part Three for the John Damrons found in the record, appendices to Part Three. The complete history of the ancestry of John Damron of Halifax, N.C. is given in Part One.

Letters from Mrs. John Washington Dameron, 2500 Monroe Street, Commerce, Texas, and Mrs. Arthur Odas Damron, Elora, Tenn., in Lincoln County, are on p. 45-a, Part Two, from which the information on these families was taken.

The United States has many people who are working to make the world a better place. The United States is a country of many possibilities. The United States has the potential to create a better future for all people.

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON and wife Dorothy, who lived in Northumberland Co., Va.

II. BARTHOLOMEW, Will 1708, prob. married Elizabeth, dau. Christppher Garlington.

III. JOHN, Will, 1743, m. Elizabeth, d. of Thomas Taylor, and had ch. Bartholomew whose descendants moved to Kentucky and Missouri; his will dated 1807; Joseph m. Elizabeth Waddy, had dau. Nancy; Thomas, Will 1766, sons Jo., Lazarus, Moses, Thomas, Aron, the latter three probably went to Lancaster County, Va.; and John.

IV. JOHN, Will 1777, in Halifax County, N.C. m. Sarah or Sukey Tignor, and children were: Christopher, heir, Sarah, Betty m. Williams, Judith, Tignor, a Revolutionary soldier who sold land in 1789 in Halifax County, N.C., John and Joseph. Joseph m. a Haynie, thought to be Elizabeth, and had six children, John, James, William, Sarah m. Hodge, Catherine m. Coffman, and Nancy m. Elisha Powers. Nancy was b. about 1800 and had five children. (See the section by Aurelia Jewell in the Appendices for the descendants of Joseph, brother of John. Her address is 1402 North Greenbrier Street, Arlington, Va.)

V. JOHN DAMERON, probably son of John of Halifax County, Va. Will 1777. He had a brother Joseph. The records of Mrs. Jewell say: "Joseph Dameron, husband of Elizabeth (?) Haynie, had a brother named John, who was very wealthy; lived in Lincoln County, Tennessee, about six miles from Salem. His sons were James, William and Washington; daughters, Sarah (Mrs. Horton), Celia Polly and Hannah Jane." The 1820 Census, first on record here, of Lincoln County, Tenn. has Eliz. Dameron, John Damrel over 45 with 3 males, 4 under 45, and 4 females. Eliz. Damrel had 1 male over 45, 2 females over 45. Also in Lincoln County we find Joseph and Mark Whitaker and Benj. and John I. Whitaker, Edw. Sanderson, Sam'l Thompson, Wilsons etc. (Damarel or Damrel is one spelling of Dameron, and was almost always used by the Lazarus Dameron branch, for example.) Children of John were the following. (The Elizabeth on the census was head of a family, hence not the wife of John. Might be the wife of his brother Joseph, of course, indicating she was then a widow.)

1. John Washington Dameron b. March 5, 1814, died 1896. He married as his third wife Elizabeth Metcalf in 1856, died 1899, according to Mrs. John Washington Dameron of Commerce, Texas. Children:

- (1.) Tom Jefferson Dameron b. Feb. 16, 1861, died Oct. 18, 1885, both events taking place in Elora, Tenn., Lincoln County. He married Carrie Siaco Aug. 20, 1879. One son was John Washington Damron.

- (2) Son, who was father of Arthur Odas, perhaps Charlie J. Damron.

Arthur Odas Dameron b. Feb. 9, 1886. He married Ruby Lauetia Wakefield, born June 14, 1889 (who sent this information) and they had one daughter, Thelma Louise, b. July 25, 1907, who married Aaron Locker Oct. 24, 1924, who was born Sept. 7, 1898. Robert C. Wakefield was born June 22, 1860, and Mary Emma Stovall Wakefield was born May 11, 1865. Residence, Elora, Tenn. Mrs. A.O. Damron also said: "Charlie J. Damron, born Oct. 11, 1859. Anna Chattie Hamilton Damron. If you never found out who William Damron's father was--his name was John." It is possible this Charles was the father of Arthur Odas who was the "cousin" of John Washington Dameron of Commerce, Texas, but they did not say in which degree.

John Washington Dameron, son of Tom Jefferson, was b. Jan. 10, 1887 in Elora, Tenn., and died April 19, 1949. He m. Addie Lorine Buie June 10, 1909, b. Sept. 9, 1892, in Gilmer, Texas. They had two children: Alarihe Buie b. Mar. 15, 1910, who m. Everett Cecil Talbert, b. July 9, 1906; and Christine Juadeen b. May 28, 1915, Quinlan, Tex. m. James Perry Miller b. Mar. 19, 1910.

The first part of the report deals with the general situation of the country and the progress of the work during the year. It is followed by a detailed account of the various projects and the results achieved. The report concludes with a summary of the work done and the plans for the future.

The second part of the report deals with the financial statement of the year. It shows the income and expenditure of the organization and the balance of the funds. The third part of the report deals with the personnel of the organization and the work done by the various departments. The fourth part of the report deals with the general administration of the organization and the work done by the various departments. The fifth part of the report deals with the general administration of the organization and the work done by the various departments.

- (2.) David Dameron, son of John Washington Dameron b. 1814. (We find a David Dameron in Franklin County, Ill. 1830 census with males 1, females 2.) In 1870 in Union County, Ill. there were Jefferson K., David and Wm. Dameron with families b. in Ky. and Tenn. Later note from Ruth Damron Dorius says: "That early Union Co., Ill. census I sent you had J.W. Damron instead of a Wm. This is Jasper W., along with Jefferson, David, etc. No doubt, they descend from that John in Lincoln County, Tenn. of 1820 census, not our John."
- (3.) George W. Dameron. (I could not tell from the letter whether this was an initial "W." or whether it was another brother named "W.")
- (4.) _____, name unknown, grandfather of W. M. Dameron, who wrote as follows from Progress, Union County, Illinois, about 1917. "My father's name was Jasper W. Damron. He had an uncle name of Jefferson, George, W., and David. Also he had a great-uncle by the name of Jefferson."

Jasper W. Dameron, moved from Tennessee to Union County, Ill., about 1826, the family having moved about 1808 to central part of Ill., originally, probably, with another branch, which may have been in Johnson County, Ill. In 1870 census Jefferson, David etc. were in Union County with Jasper W. One Jefferson must have been the brother of John Washington Dameron b. 1814.

2. SARAH DAMERON, daughter of John Dameron of Lincoln County, Tenn. She m. _____ Horton. She would be the sister of John Washington Dameron b. 1814.

3. CELIA POLLY, also a daughter.

4. HANNAH JANE, another daughter.

5. JAMES, son of John and brother of John Washington b. 1814.

6. WILLIAM, another son. This must be the William Damron b. Feb. 25, 1817, d. Feb. 16, 1911, near Shelbyville, who apparently had a son Tom Damron, May 27, 1855; d. May 2, 1909. Mariam Cropper found these names in a cemetery called Coleman, located 7 miles from Shelbyville, Tenn. on the farm of J.L. Walder, Bedford County (See Tenn. Bible, Cemetery and Family Records, p. 41, Part Two of this mss.) Other names found were: Bettie Damron March 1, 1858, 19 June 1916, "Our Loved One Has Gone." Lizzie Damron, Aug. 21, 1885, Nov. 16, 1908. Hattie R., daughter of J.T. and M.B. Damron, Apr. 28, 1879, May 11, 1879. Pleasant R., son of J.T. and M.B. Damron, Jan. 8, 1878, May 11, 1878.

Notes: A James Tignor b. N.C., was age 56 in Williamson County, Ill. 1850, census. John T. Dameron (with one male over 100 yrs old) was in Weakley County, Tenn. 1830 census with Samuel, John Jr., Constantine L., Moses, Charles. (Constantine L. is the son of John Damron b. 1757, our ancestor. In 1850 there was also an E. Dameron age 45 b. Ky., and G. Damron b. Ky. age 42. In Williamson County, Ill. 1840 census were John T. Damron with 6 males and a John Damron age 14, b. in Ill. in home of John Bickers. The 1850 Williamson County census had Mary Dameron b. Tenn. age 46, with Charles 17 b. Ill. Susan 12, Nancy 9, John 5, all b. Ill.

NOTES ON THE DAMERON FAMILY, BY AURELIA M. JEWELL

The following notes were sent to me by Mrs. Walter Towner Jewell, 1402 North Greenbrier Street, Arlington 5, Virginia, who wrote: "My husband is a direct descendant of Lawrence Dameron of Northumberland County, Virginia, and I have copied any and all data I could find for several years. Have worked on the family lines when other genealogical work was light. My husband's great-grandmother was Nancy Dameron b. about 1800 probably Lincoln County, Tenn. and m. Elisha Powers. Her father was Joseph Dameron, who m. Elizabeth Haynie. I do not have dates but do have names of Children. Joseph Dameron had a wealthy brother John who lived six miles from Salem in Lincoln County, Tenn. I have names of his children but not his wife or any dates. This information is a hand me down in the family and right now I have it. I think that Joseph and John were some of the family that emigrated from Virginia to North Carolina and then to Tennessee. I have a lot of Virginia data, which I will be glad to share with you, if a Dameron-Damron genealogy is to be printed.

"Mr. Holz did not answer my last letter. He might not be living. I believe the chart he mentioned at DAR which was in error has been withdrawn. Now as to tradition in the family. They were supposed to be connected with the Balls and Dandridges, but like most other family traditions, are probably nothing but wishful thinking. Of course, there would be Ball connections but so far back. I have found several books on the Haney-Haynie families. The most complete one is on the Penna. line. There was another Dameron-Haynie marriage too. The family of Joseph Dameron lived in Memphis, Tenn., at least Nancy and Elisha Powers were probably married there, and that's where their children are supposed to have been born. The Lincoln County, Tenn. records are pretty well copied and in DAR library. I have found little. Lincoln County was formed from Bedford in 1809, Bedford from Rutherford in 1807, etc., one would have to look in Davidson County records to get the early ones. The John Damron of Texas must be descended from John of Lincoln County. He had a son William as you will note. However, Joseph did too. They also each had a son James. Maybe you can figure something out."

JOSEPH DAMERON AND ELIZABETH HAYNIE OF LINCOLN COUNTY, TENNESSEE

The envelope containing this data, dated Sept. 3, 1904, Vicksburg, Miss.

Joseph Dameron married a Miss Haney (Haynie), Christian name supposed to be Elizabeth. Their children: Nancy, John, James, William, Sarah (Mrs. Hodge), Catherine (Mrs. Coffman or Kaufman or Koffman, there is doubt about the correct spelling of the name.

Nancy married Elisha Powers (nothing further known of the sons): Children of Nancy and Elisha Powers: James, Catherine, Frances, Nancy and Jane.

James married a Miss Ellen Grandon of New York.

Catherine married John Fletcher.

Frances married George Clarke.

Nancy married Robert R. Williams.

Jane married John M. Jewell.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of a young nation that grew from a small colony of settlers to a powerful world superpower. It is a story of the struggles and triumphs of a people who fought for freedom and justice. The story begins with the first settlers who came to the New World in search of a better life. They faced many hardships, but they persevered and built a new society. The story continues with the American Revolution, the Civil War, and the rise of the United States as a world power. It is a story of the American dream and the pursuit of happiness.

They faced many hardships, but they persevered and built a new society. The story continues with the American Revolution, the Civil War, and the rise of the United States as a world power. It is a story of the American dream and the pursuit of happiness.

THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

The American Revolution was a war for independence that took place between 1775 and 1783. It was fought between the thirteen original colonies and the Kingdom of Great Britain. The revolution was a result of the colonies' growing dissatisfaction with British rule and their desire for self-governance. The war ended with the signing of the Treaty of Paris in 1783, which recognized the United States as an independent nation.

Children of James and Ellen Powers, who lived to become of age, Mary, George and James . . . and Lyman died in childhood. Mary married a lawyer from Texas, name not known. She is now dead. It is not known at present whether the two boys are dead or alive, but James was last seen in Texas. The family formerly lived in New Orleans, La.

Children of John and Catherine Fletcher: Frances, Letha, John, Matthew, Nancy, Addie, Emma, Thomas, James and Mary. Thomas, James and Mary died in childhood. Frances (Mrs. Conn) died in 1878. Letha (Mrs. Pascoe) lives in Galveston, Texas. (John and Matthew, Nancy and Emma (Mrs. Ward) live in Vicksburg, Miss. Addie (Mrs. C. Wilbur Moulton) lives in Memphis, Tenn.

Children of George and Frances Clarke: Edmond, George Washington, and Elisha, all dead, as are George and Frances Clarke.

Children of Robert and Nancy Williams: Laura, Frances, Eliza and Catherine. Laura first married Frank Bedford. Her present name is Brown and she lives near Memphis, Tenn. Frances married her cousin, John Fletcher, son of John and Catherine Fletcher, and they live in Vicksburg, Miss. Eliza married Henry Stout, who was killed during the Civil War. Eliza died in 1884. Catherine married a Dr. Harris, and lives near Austin, Texas. Robert & Nancy Williams both died years ago.

Children of John M. and Jane Jewell: Martha, Joseph, Eugene, John, Ida, Florence and Willard. They live in Washington, D.C.

John Fletcher, who married Catherine Powers, ran away from his parents and came to Mississippi with the Powers family from Tennessee. Had a sister named Letha and a brother named William. Nothing has ever been heard of the family of John Fletcher since he left home. It seems he never wrote them after he left.

Joseph Dameron, husband of Elizabeth (?) Hayney (Haney) Dameron, had a brother named John, who was very wealthy; lived in Lincoln County, Tennessee, about six miles from Salem. His sons were James, William and Washington; daughters, Sarah (Mrs. Horton), Celia, Polly and Hannah Jane. Nothing further known of this branch of the family.

Nancy Powers' husband, Robert Williams, was of Welsh descent. His father, (William Williams) and his uncle (Cadwallader Williams) came to America from Wales. Date not known. William married and remained in America, but his brother returned to Wales, and nothing further was ever heard of him.

Children of John and Frances Fletcher: Lily Eliza, born July 11th, 1871; Jane Jewell, born February 20th 1877. Jane Jewell married John Louis Andress September 19th 1900. Their children, Alyce Elaine, born June 16th, 1901, and Louis Frederick, born March 26th, 1903.

(Note: My husband, Walter Towner Jewell, is the son of Eugene Powers Jewell and Edith Towner. Eugene Powers Jewell was the son of Martha Jane Powers and John Marshall Jewell. Martha Jane Powers was the daughter of Nancy Dameron and Elisha Powers.)

(Note by H.F.S. In the letter she enclosed from Leo L. Holz, he said: "I am afraid that I will have to write the DAR to destroy the chart I sent them, as it contains several errors, and I will send them a new one as soon as my data is more complete... I am probably as anxious as you to untangle this inter-marrying family. In turn if you have any data on any Joseph Dameron as to date of birth or names of parents, I will be very thankful for it. Also do you have any data on any Christopher Dameron." This shows the origin of the DAR errors in the Missouri Dameron genealogy.)

Ruth Damron Dorius checked the Lincoln County, Tenn. records and found there an inventory of Joseph Damrol (Damull, Damrel, different spelling in document), dated 6 Nov. 1817, wife Elizabeth, amount of inv. $179.82, after debts $17.483/4. No children were mentioned.

She also found there Mark Whitaker Sr.'s will, mentioning children: Rebecca, Isard, Nancy, Hammonds, John, Mary Lucas; Sarah Basinger, Martha Pegram, Benj. I., Mark Jr., Perlina Purton, Judith Prewitt. As the Whitakers later moved to Illinois and Mark married Elvira Damron, it was thought the Damrons of Lincoln County might be the John b. 1757, our ancestor, but on analyzing the material carefully, it appears not to be the case, though there is a possibility that this is so. The earliest census of Tenn. is 1820, so it is difficult to find anyone in that state. Mrs. Dorius wrote: "I saw a couple of Haynie names in census. They came from North Carolina. Neither John nor Joseph show up in the 1850 census. They are with all those familiar names and also some lived next door to Elvira in Illinois, etc. It is interesting to note that the Whitakers were born in Kentucky. Our John must have gone from there down to lower Tenn., even to Miss. because some Whitakers were in Miss, too., then up the Miss. river to Ill. I checked Halifax, N.C. 1810 census and found Gideon Dameron to 26 years and Jess A. David, Mary Dawson."

In the Lincoln County, Tenn. 1850 census she found: JOHN W. DAMERON, age 35, b. Tenn., Sarah 28, b. Ala. Celia 15, John 13, Martha J. 11, Mary A. 7, James 6, Eleanor 4, William 1 (all born in Tenn.) She also found WILLIAM DAMERING (this is one spelling for Dameron), age 39 b. Tenn., Ludama age 35, b. Ala, with Celia J. age 13, Mary 6, Sarah 5, James 1 (all b. in Alabama). There was also JOSEPH DAMERING, age 43, b. Tenn., Moriah 39 b. Tenn, with Molinda A., Sarah, Susan, Moriah, Martha and James. Here also was JAMES G. DAMRON 24 b. Ala., with Tera L. age 23 b. Ala., Eliz. and Mary, b. Ala.

Jefferson

The ~~Lincoln~~ County, Tenn. 1850 census also showed the following: Isaac Meadows, SARAH L. DAMRON age 14 b. Tenn. in home of Joel Johnston, COPANDRA DAMRON, age 12, in home of J. N. Newman (appear to be orphans.)

The 1830 Lincoln County, Tenn. census showed JOSEPH DARNELL age 50-60, wife 40-50, 3 other males, 4 other females, WM. DARNELL, 20-30; JOHN DARMON 40-50, wife 40-50, three other males, three other females; JOSEPH DARMON 20-30, wife 20-30. Mrs. Cropper wrote: "When I checked Lincoln Co., Tenn. 1830 census, it was in three different handwritings. I'm quite sure the Dameron name was spelled three ways, Damering, Darmon and Darnal." From this she concluded that the name Dameron might be spelled Darnal in old records and found some in Kentucky and Fauquier County, Va. She wrote: "The more I see of the name Darnell, Darnal, the more I believe it is our name. I am so sure of it, some day I will prove it."

The Lincoln County, Tenn. Damerons appear to be the same that were in Green and Jefferson Counties, Tenn. In the Court Minutes of Jefferson County, Tenn. 1792-98 we find a land grant inquest mentioning Joseph Dameron, Nov. session, 1794 (p. 65), and on p. 91, Jos. Dameron's mark is given on cattle and hogs, "a crop in left ear and swallow fork on right, 1795. A mill owned by the Damerons is mentioned several times in the index.

Christopher Dameron is mentioned in the deed books, p. 286. (John and Joseph had a brother Christopher in Halifax County). John Dameron in 1808 (p. 172) received a deed from Joseph Dameron for 225 acres. The marriage of John Dameron to Celia Hambrick was given 1-2-1806, Joseph Brittain, bondsman, J. Hamilton, wit. (Note the name Celia in subsequent generations.) Joseph sold a good deal of land and is also mentioned several times as being defendant in debt. Joseph Dameron had a land grant 1793 in Greene County, N.C. and in 1788 John Damond had one.

Annabel Walker found the deeds in Greene County, Tenn. (formerly N.C. territory) for the Damrons, this being formerly Virginia territory. In 1788 a John Damond had a land grant in Greene County, N.C. for 200 acres, Grant #635, Book 3, p. 549, N.C. Land Records. This name is probably Dameron. She also found a grant for Joseph 1793 for 200 acres #1248 Book 2, p. 512. I believe these were military grants, as Mrs. Pearce said the one for Joseph was, but she could not find any N.C. records of military service from N.C. for any Joseph or John Dameron. As Tignor Dameron was a revolutionary soldier--she found this reference but did not send it to me--it is likely his brothers were also.

In the Tennessee records, Ruth Dorius also found in the Lincoln County, Tenn. census for 1850 the following: Jefferson Darmon age 35,--overseer, b. Tenn., Louiza, 25, Tenn., Margaret, Wm. E. and Wm. J. She also found Benj. Whitaker age 57, of Ky., Susan b. Ga., Benj., Susan, Nathan, Ann and Martha. There were also: Washington Wilson age 53 b. Virginia; Daniel Whitaker age 53 b. Ky., with Nancy age 48, b. Tenn., and Drucilla, Eliz., Melton B., Malissa, Daniel, Robert and Caladonia.

In the Court Minutes of Sumner County, Tenn. 1787-91, she found the first records held at the house of John Hamilton showed those present as: Isaac Bledsoe, Isaac Lindsey, John Hardin, Capt. Joseph Keykendall and Geo. Winchester. In the Index for Tax of Sumner County, 1787-1794, she found: Joseph Keydendall, Alex. Whitaker, Isaac Pearce, Jr., Jonathan Pearce, Valentine Shoat, Mathew McCormick, Thomas Gill, Wm. Foster and John Dawson. "I also noted a case in ct. where a Jos. Daniel was among a group of defendants from Green Co. In the index it was spelled Darnell. I noted down a few cases in Jefferson County: Jos. Hamilton against Joseph Dameron, Thomas R. Mullins in debt; Jos. Dameron v. James Rodgers.

Marriages of Jefferson County, Tenn., showed:

Dec. 19, 1855, Allen Bryan and Casandar Damron.

Sept. 27, 1854, Wm. Damron and Rebecca Jacobs.

Jan. 20, 1857, Joseph Eaton and Sarah Luona (Louise?) Damron.

Mrs. Dorius wrote: "The fact that the Whitakers were with John who settled in New Burnside (first settlers according to Mrs. Chapman's book) means to me that our John must have been mighty close to Lincoln Co. where the Whitakers came from. Constant Ladd was in Maury Co. around 1810. Mariam found him in Deed Book. Can't find a thing that helps us in Maury Co. in DAR or Lib. of Congress. I just feel that I can locate John in Mississippi or parts South. I am also going to check Halifax Co., N.C. 1810 to see if David and Soloman Dawson there might not be Damron. It was Dawson on the 1800 census."

However, the argument against these being the John Damron b. 1757 group is that if Mrs. Jewell's information is correct, we know that John had a brother Joseph and a son John, Jr., but John Jr., did not have a brother Joseph, hence the men in Lincoln County, Tenn. must be the ones in Green and Jefferson earlier. Though John m. Celia Hambrick in 1806, she could have been a second wife. The Hamilton may be the ancestor of Annie Chattie Hamilton who m. Charlie J. Damron, of Elora, Tenn., and John named a daughter Celia, probably for his wife Celia Hambrick.

Mrs. Jewell found a reference in Lincoln County, Tenn. to Eva Cole, wife of Michael Dameron, 8-7-1870-3-7-1904. Miss Louise Dameron found a note that among the most prominent persons in the southeast part of Tennessee was Dameron, no name listed, McNair County, Tenn. (See p. 4, Appendices.) The Joseph of Botetourt, Va. appears to be connected with the Damerons of Allegheny County, Va. of Duhlop Creek (See p. 4, of Mrs. Jewell in appendices) where John d. 1828, wife Polly, ch., Joseph, a lawyer, John, William, Andrew and Christopher. See also Covington Damrons.

THE HISTORY OF THE CITY OF BOSTON

The first settlement of the city of Boston was made by a group of Puritan ministers and laymen who came to the city in 1630. They were led by John Winthrop, who was the first governor of the city. The city was founded as a haven for the persecuted and a place where they could practice their religion freely. The city grew rapidly and became one of the most important cities in the New England colonies.

DAMERON CHARACTERISTICS: Ruth Damron Dorius wrote: "All of my Damrons were dark with black piercing eyes, yet a kindness in them. The lady I met at Mila, Virginia, in Northumberland, was dark also and said the majority were. However, she pointed out some Damron children to me and they were blonde. My Grandpa Joseph always looked Dutch to me and I guess it was the Swiss-German. He was a smart old fellow too. Mom loved to talk to him. Moses Ladd is cute and spry. Sings in the Episcopal choir." This refers to Moses Ladd of Albemarle, Va.

I received photographs from Louise H. Dameron of Sarasota, Florida, of her family. There is one of her when young in a big picture hat, a silhouette of Edward Porteous Dameron 1802-1862, son of Thomas and Ann Ball Dameron, one of Elizabeth Kennedy Dameron, wife of Hunt Thomas; (blue eyes; one of Robert Allen Dameron, M.D. taken in Cincinnati, Ohio, who is very handsome, and looks like Louise Dameron (she seems to have brown eyes). Marguerite Milliken, grand-daughter of Elizabeth Kennedy, daughter of Maria Jane Thomas who married her cousin Col. Paul Minor Milliken (cousin Kennedy side) looked dark, with brown eyes. Elizabeth Thatcher Thomas, dau. of Elizabeth Kennedy Dameron, m. Hiram Jones, did not look anything like her mother in the picture. She sent a very good picture of the five brothers, and all of them were very attractive looking people: L. to R. Edward Porteous Dameron, Jr. DDS, James Thomas (main interest horses and farming), William Kennedy, DDS., Augustus Samuel, MD, Robert Allen, MD, all sons of Edward Porteous Dameron.

In the photographs, Ruth Damron Dorius looks exactly like her grandfather's sister, Cynthia Elizabeth Damron (Moody), who did not resemble her sister Sarah Matilda at all.

Tillie Foster Anderson said that John Moody Foster looked so much like Milton Dameron of California that you could hardly tell them apart from a distance--she was referring to the way they walked and general impression rather than facial features. He once told me that when he was a boy, people said he looked "like the Moody side," meaning the Damerons and Moodys. She also said that Milton Dameron of Nevada looked almost exactly like Joseph Milton Moody, brother of Sarah Margaret Moody (Foster), however, it seemed to me he looked like his father, John Monroe Moody. I saw Helen Moody Hinckley the year she died in her 80's and took her photograph with W. A. Moody and her sister Ann Clawson... Helen Moody's eyes were exactly like those of Sarah Margaret Moody Foster, with a kind of square eyelid effect, so this must be a Moody quality; they were both very particular how they looked even in old age and quite attractive, their eyes being very expressive and dark. They were half-sisters. Their grandmother was Mary Baldwin of the Georgia Baldwins so they may have looked like the Baldwins in this respect, as the other Moodys had blue eyes of the earlier generations apparently. The two brothers who married the two Damron sisters were both very handsome, with good profiles and intelligent faces; they had blue eyes.

M.F. Cleaton said his ancestor William Henry Dameron was "a real Dameron": "I am sending you pictures of W. H. & his wife, Julia Winifred Mangum. He started the Methodist Church in his section by teaching Sunday school in his living room. He was an intelligent man, with a wonderful wife to help him. Had a good library. Started Good Hope, Shady Grove, Liberty, Churches, still at Alberta. Gave the five acres and mostly built the church. He was ordained at Elizabeth City, N.C. by Bishop Marvin (hence my name), he never took pay for preaching, some way he was fairly prosperous, owned farms, store, and mill. He left several small notes; he had helped people, they were worthless. Shows the kind of man he was (a real Dameron). There was nothing soft or mushy about him. He helped other denominations services.

Notes from Ruth Damron Dorius on Fauquier County, Va., who said she believes the name Dameron is sometimes spelled Darnell, Darnal, etc., having found it in the records in this manner. She sent the following:

There was a David Darnel will in Washington County, Va. 1785. Robert T. and Geo. Dameron were in Casey Co., Ky., where the name was spelled Damaree in this county earlier.

Mrs. L.T. Neat, a descendant of the Adair County, Ky. Damerons, wrote from Columbia, Ky. to Ruth Dorius Nov. 5, 1953: "Am sending you the names of our family. Our grandfather was Samuel Damron and his wife was Nancy Edrington Damron, and they had six sons, and 7 daughters. The sons were: Bob, Elsey (my father), Samuel, John, Sandy and George, daughters, Lucy, Sarah, Judith, Mattie, Mary, Nancy and Bettie who died when a young girl so our father told us. Don't know anything about Bob Damron but father said he went to Mo. and settled in Sedalia, Mo. and about 3 yrs. ago I rec'd a letter from Mrs. Magnola Major, Sedalia, Mo. telling me she was the only child of Bob Damron living and she and a daughter and 2 sons was all of Bob's children living. I had a letter from her not quite a year ago and said she was 78 yrs. so if she is living now that leaves only 4 of we Damron women living that I know of. One first cousin lives in Phoenix, Arizona, and the other in Louisville, Ky. and my self. John D. went to Tex. and died there. Sandy never married and was buried in our grandfather Damron's burying ground on the farm. George, the youngest, boy went to Oklahoma and died there. My father and Uncle Sam were the only boys that staid in Adair Co. Ky. My father died in 1919 at the age of 87, and Uncle Sam died in 2 or 3 years after father, in Linchorin Co., Ky. He left 3 sons and these two daughters I have mentioned above. Of my father's children there were 4 of us, My brother Asure Damron and myself. He lives near me. He is 78 and I am 81 young. My husband died in 1940 at the age of 79. My brother's wife died 25 yrs. ago. They had two girls but both are dead. We have one nephew of our oldest sister and one niece of the other sister. One sister died in 1932 and the other in 1933. By the way this niece of ours lives in good old Va. and our father told us his father came from Va. He was a slave owner and brought to Ky. with him and settled in Adair Co. and builded a beautiful brick house, everything handmade, on a knoll overlooking Green River of fine bottom land and when father married he bought land just one mile from his father's home and we were borned and raised there till we all were married. My niece just lives 15 or 20 minutes drive from Langly Field, Hampton, and Newport News. I have a friend in Columbia who is getting up the history of our family for a great granddaughter of John Damron (our father's uncle) and she sent me 2 coppies of some of the data she had found, for she knew I would want it. So the next day after I received it, this first cousin Julia who lives in Louisville, Ky. stopped to visit us as she was on her way to see her sick brother Mont Damron who lives 25 miles from my home in Casey Co. and was telling me about her daughter getting up the history of the Damron family and asking me questions about same, and I showed what Ruth had sent me the day before. She said, 'Cousin Mary, won't you let me have these papers so my daughter can copy them? I will mail them back to you.' I let her have them and she has not sent them to me as yet, she goes to see her brother Mont Damron and stays a week some time so I do not know her street no. and since your letter came I have written her cousin Mont Damron's son the Rev. Woodrow Damron to tell her when she is at the home for her to send the papers to me or send me her st. no. So that is why I have been so long to write to you. I wanted to copy them for you for believe they might help you out with your history. I'll get them if I have to send the law for them and when I do will send a copy to you. Do trust you can make out my scribbling for I cannot do as I used to. I have neuritis in both hands and arms and have to shape and rub my hands to get them to operate again. I have told you all I know of our father's family.

"This morning I received the papers I loaned my cousin, so copy these and send back to me and I will have 2 more papers to send you later on, that I will receive from my second cousin, Rev. Woodrow Damron who said that he had some history of the D's but his brother in Linchorin Co. had them and when he copied them he would send them to me. Woodrow says the part of history he will send me is the dates names, and years, when married from 1776 on down. Am proud of the Damron name, also of my sainted mother's name who was a Jones. Love."

The King's Mountain Men, by K. K. White, 1924, says: "George Damron was under Major Chronicle at King's Mountain and took part in several other engagements. He was pensioned in Lincoln Co. Descendants are in N.C. and East Tennessee." In Pittsylvania George Dameron married S. Boyd 5 Jan. 1785, and John Dameron m. Elizabeth Boyd, 31 Dec. 1795. In Halifax County, Va. George Dameron and wife sold land to Finn Williams, June 26, 1777, on the Dan River; Geo. Dameron and wife sold to James Ricketts 23 Dec. 1805. John Dameron sold to Kendreck Thomas Aug. 1776 160 acres on Byrds Creek. Sarah and H. Dameron sold to Finn Williams June 1797, 66 3/4 acres on Dan River. Sarah and H. Dameron sold Dec. 1805, 113 acres on Burtram's Camp Branch. In the pension bureau in Washington I found the declaration of George Dameron of Halifax, Va. who went to Lincoln Co., N.C. 1798, dated Fayetteville, N.C. The 1820 Lincoln County census shows G. Dameron and J. Dameron. A deed dated 7 Nov. 1798 between Henry Davis of Lincoln County and George Dameron, formerly of Virginia, sold to Dameron 100 acres for 100 pounds on the waters of Catawba River, joining lands of Abraham Scott and Robt. Alexander. Witnesses: John Price, Thos. Vaughn, JOHN DAMERON. Owens were also here, also Rudisells, no Shultz but many Shulls.

McAllister says that in 1777 Moody's company went to Pennsylvania. In 1779 Witcher's company joined General Green in South Carolina. In 1780 William had service against the Tories. In 1780 John Wynn's was at the battle of Guilford Courthouse--James Turner, Henry Burnley, John Beckley, Wm. Clark, John Falkner; at the Siege of York--Fred Batt with Falkner. Some officers of Halifax Co., Va. were Capt. Fleming Bates, Peter Rogers, James Coleman, Geo. Wiley, Geo. Moore, Col. Geo. Boyd, Wm. Moore and Richardson. (Above refers to Halifax County, Va.)

George Damron's Declaration for pension on file in Washington, D.C. gives the following: "George Dameron, Virginia Troops, Priv. Cert. 19275, Fayetteville, N.C., Res. Lincoln Ct. N.C. 33 years and previously in Halifax, Va. Pen. beg. March 4, 1832. Died prior to Dec. 1832. $8.00 per month. George Dameron enlisted in Capt. Dooley's Co. of Cavalry and afterward served in Capt. Cooper's Co. of Cavalry, Col. Malby. Came to this county 1798, prev. in Halifax, Va." A card has a note that he was a private in Capt. DOOLY'S Co. regt. of Col. White, Va. Line 2 years from 1777.

The Declaration made by George Dameron or Damron (spelled both ways) himself reads: that he served from March 1777 to "March 1779 when he was taken prisoner by the enemy and remained in their custody until the conclusion of the war. He enlisted in the Continental Service under Capt. John Dooly, commander of a Company of horse, subject to the command, as he understood, of Col. White in the State of Virginia and County of Pitsylvania in March, 1777. His first station was at Dooley's Fort, second, Had's Fort, third on the frontiers of Georgia, then shifted to the command of Lieut. Camon (or Cabell--unreadable). His fourth term was at a place on Ogeechee River where he was surrounded by the Tories and Indians and was returned by General Clark. He was later in Nasum's (?) Fort in Georgia and in Augusta and Savannah. Then under Thos. Davenport, he went to Savanna (?) and to St. Augustine, where he was discharged in 1783, in E. Florida." He listed his property as being only "one small mare 18-19 years old, one cow, two steers, one sow, four pigs, 3 shotes, 1 bit furniture, table, 5 knives, 5 forks. His family consists of himself who is old, infirm, his wife is about 67 and afflicted with rheumatic pains and a daughter about 24 years of age." (A photostat of the above could be obtained from the Pension Bureau, Washington, D.C. for about $1 or $2, by writing to them.)

The North Carolina Pension List p. 418 has George Dameron, pensioned in Lincoln County, and p. 480 describes the presence of George Damron at the battle of Kings' Mountain. This reference is p. 574 of Miscellaneous Vol. xxii, State Rec. of N.C. Pensioners, 1835. Other references on the subject are: North Carolina Troops in the Continental Establishment, 1896; Colonial and State Records of North Carolina 1662-1790, V. 16; Historical Sketches of North Carolina from 1584 to 1851, Wheeler, 2 vols. See also Mrs. J.E. Hays' "Hero of Hornet's Nest," a biography of Elijah Clark, which is a story of Georgia during the Revolution. There is quite a bit about Dooly in this book.

Mary G. Bryan, Director, Department of Archives and History, 1516 Peachtree Street, N.W., Atlanta, Ga. wrote to Mrs. Pearce: "I have only one Roll commanded by Colonel John Dooly of Wilkes County from June-August, 1778, on which is a list of five officers and 30 men. I have checked it carefully and no Damron (Dameron) appears. Of course, the Rolls are very incomplete for the Revolutionary period. It is hard to say just where Capt. Dooly was killed. I quote below from page 51, Roster of Revolutionary Soldiers in Georgia, by McCall:

"JOHN DOOLY, b. N.C.; came from S.C. to the Ceded Lands of Ga. (now Wilkes Co.) with a wife, 3 sons, and 3 orphan nephews in 1762. Served as a captain of the 2nd Continental Ga. Brigade, later Colonel. Was killed by the Tories, 1780. Several of these Tories crossed the Savannah river and were later captured by the 'War Heroine' of Ga., Nancy Hart. Others were also captured and hanged at Tory Pond in Wilkes Co. Dooly Co., Ga. was named for Col. Dooly and formed in 1821. His brother, Thomas Dooly, Rev. soldier, was killed July 22, 1776, in a skirmish with the Indians, while returning to Ga. with a band of recruits for the Ga. Continental Army. Another brother, George Dooly, served under Capt. Hart. No John Dameron is mentioned in Georgia's Roster of the Revolution, by Knight. Only Charles Dameron and Mary Dameron appear."

The following is copied from L. F. Hays' Hero of Hornet's Nest: "Thomas, George and John Dooley crossed near the mouth of Broad River and found a place near Savannah river, just below Fort James (his brothers). John Dooley and Elijah Clark were old friends from Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina before coming to Georgia. John followed Clark. John Dooley, first Mjr. then Captain; then Colonel, was murdered in his sleep by Tories. John Dooley, signing himself as Colonel of Militia of Wilkes County, Georgia, and Commandant of the Forces in the State of Georgia, issued a Proclamation, dated 27 June, 1779, from Butler's Creek, etc. The Supreme Executive Council ordered Wilkes County to form a more legal court, so they organized a Court..and elected three justices...and made John Dooley Attorney for the State (1779-1780)."

The pension of this George Damron does not claim service at Kings' Mountain and says he was a prisoner from March 1779 to "the conclusion of the war." Nor does it state that he was under Major Chronicle. I therefore believe that it was the George Damron of Amherst who was at Kings' Mountain, and that he was probably in Russell County, 1793, with the other Damrons of Albemarle County, John, Lazarus, Richard and Moses. Gwathmey and White must have confused the two.

Surry records are not indexed and are in bad condition. I did not look very carefully through the court dockets. I read the Book for 1775 carefully, which contained item 32 Lanier & Williams vs. John Dameron, for debt, ex. and Colo. Lanier Bail. 99." Surry had no Kuykendall in the indexes. For Thompsons it had Richard 1771, Adam 1771, E. 1771, Wm. J. and E., Edward, Evan and J. Surry Book T, p. 422 had: DAVID THOMPSON of Smith, State of East Tennessee, 1823, deed to Jepe Vennable, David Thompson was attorney for John Thompson. (John Dameron's second wife named her first child David, so this looks to be the name of her grandfather. Many Revolutionary soldiers from the Cumberland Gap region went to Smith and Sumner Counties, Tenn.)

MOSES DAMERON OF TEXAS

"The noted scout and guide and hero of two wars, Moses Dameron, died at his home in Motley County, Texas, on Aug. 4, 1910. "Uncle Mose," as he was familiarly called, was 90 years old. He was born in Bonham, Fannin County, Tex., in 1821, and his life had been spent entirely on the frontiers of Texas. From the time he was old enough to ride and shoot a rifle he was engaged in fighting Indians and piloting troops across the Western plains, mountains, and breaks, and protecting the lives and property of pioneer settlers on the borders of our great country until there was no occasion for such service. He served the U.S. troops on the frontiers of Texas during the war with Mexico as scout and guide and afterward continued his vocation as scout, Indian fighter, and guiding troops. He was scout and guide for General McKenzie on the Fort Sill and Tulia Canyon expedition, and participated in the "Great Horse" Massacre, where General McKenzie surprised the Indians, killing many with their horses and taking many prisoners.

"Uncle Mose" was loved and honored by all who knew him. A few years ago he became interested in religious affairs, joined the church, and lived a Christian life. He was also a member of both house branches of the Odd Fellows, and was on the roster of Camp S. G. Maxey, U.C.V. as "Independent Scout and Guide," showing his service for the Confederacy." (Copied by Irene Rivers Schow from Am. Pub. Co., V. 18, p. 484.)

Alice Mary Aiken told me that in a letter to her Joseph Damron said Elizabeth Ladd might be the second wife of Capt. John Damron. She did not remember where he got this idea, but she was the sister of Anne Ladd, his first wife.

THE DAMERONS OF KENTUCKY AND WEST VIRGINIA

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, 1st generation, had a grant in Northumberland Co., Va. 1652.
II. GEORGE, his son, m. Elizabeth, widow of John Dennis, and inherited an estate.
III. LAZARUS m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Smith. He died Albemarle Co., Va. 1749. His children were Richard d. 1749, unm., George of Albemarle and Buckingham Cos., Va., John, Winefred m. John Thomas, Judith m. Noble Ladd (their daughter Anne Ladd m. Capt. John Damron b. 1757), Moses of Albemarle. Lazarus left Northumberland and became one of the earliest settlers of Albemarle County, which was not formed until 1744 from Goochland. There were only 66 patents taken by 1735 in this area. The earliest record we have of Lazarus is a deed for an exchange of land with John Cannon 1736, for 150 acres on the north side of the James River in what is now Albemarle County. Miss Aiken found this and noted: "Lazarus was there nine years before the establishment of Albemarle. His neighbor was Edward Scott and it was not far from the old courthouse. There is no record in Goochland of the land Lazarus traded to Cannon. This record may be in some other county." The Ladds were in Goochland even earlier: Noble and Amos 1732, John 1733 and Constantine 1733.

GOOCHLAND COUNTY, VA. CANNON TO DAMERON, Book 2, p. 240, DEEDS, 1736:

JOHN CANNON.

JOHN CANNON. In presence of ROBERT HUGHES, JOHN THOMPSON, JOHN WEBB.

"At a court held for Goochland County, July 20, 1736, John Cannon acknowledged this deed with the Libery of Seizin endorsed to be his act and deed and it was thereupon admitted to record. Test HENRY WOOD C.C."

I found in the Court Order Books, Russell County, Va. the following:

1792 JOHN DAMRON, Def. --Vanhook Laurence and Rachel, proof of deed, Book2,p.2.

1793, October Court, P. 116, Book 2, John Andersen vs. MOSES DAMRON P. S. dismissed. Same vs. GEORGE DAMRON P. S. dismissed. The index gives this item as: 1793--DAMRON, GEO. John Andersen, Petition and Summons, dismissed 2-116. This must be the George of Morgan's Riflemen who died in Green County, Ky. about 1801.

With George Damron in Morgan's Riflemen were William Johnson, William Moore, John Welch and Daniel Dameron. There are many Kentucky families whose ancestry can be traced by checking the records in the Dameron genealogy. For example in the Albemarle land patents you will find John Carter, Thomas Jones, David Lewis, Jonathan Clark, Joseph Smith, Charles Lewis, Thomas Carr, Roger Thompson, Michael Thomas, Jr., James Coleman, Joseph Martin, James Lee, William Rice, Mary Patterson, Arthur Hopkins, etc. I think Branham may have been originally the same as Brandom. John Brandom was in Capt. Dudley's company with John Damron--he came from Halifax Co., Va. 1785. Hardings and Hardins are the same family--from Northumberland Co., Va. Ratliffs were in Washington and Russell Cos. with the Damerons. Spurlocks lived in Albemarle Co., Va. Levi Coleman was with John Dameron in the Revolution, p. 13. Thomas Mitchell was on the pay bill with Henry Johnson, Hudson Martin etc. in 1776 with my ancestor John Damron. Marcum was there also. Josiah Marcum was b. 1759 Chesterfield Co., Va. enlisted Bedford Co., Va. and resided in Lawrence Co., Ky. after the Revolution. See p. 13-C of this book. He enlisted 1780 and was a drummer boy for 18 months and private. He was at the battles of Camden and Guilford. His son Stephen was alive 1833. Josiah Marcum (Markham) was in Washington Co., Va. with the Damerons. Hatfields and McCoys were in Russell Co., Va. with the Damrons. If you trace one family, it helps to trace others, as these frontier people moved in groups of neighbors, friends and relatives. Mitchells were related to Abraham Lincoln. His grandmother, Lucy Hanks, had a sister Sarah Shipley who married Robert Mitchell. She was killed going to Kentucky and her husband died trying to find his daughter who was captured. The sons were scattered. One named Daniel was in Washington Co., Ky. Lucy Shipley Hanks had another sister Rachel who m. Richard Berry. The Berrys and Shipleys and Hanks went to Kentucky.

Moses inherited his father's home place on Red Bank and Damron Creek in Albemarle County, Va. in 1749, which is near Scottsville, Va. Who were his children? No daughters have been found but the following are believed to be his:

1. Perhaps John Damron, Revolutionary soldier who m. Anne Ladd, and d. Illinois about 1835. He was born 1757 and joined the 9th Virginia Regiment recruited in Albemarle Co., Va. He was a drummer boy 1776. In 1780 he was witness to the will of William Dorton in Washington Co., Va. (Russell was cut off 1786). In 1791 he bought 170 acres on Clinch River from Vanhook, assignee of Moses Damron and Aggy his wife. In 1801 he was captain of the 72d Militia regiment. In 1805 John Damron sold 140 acres to James Osborne. He left about this time but we do not know where he went. He had twenty children but so far we have found only 3 of them, who have living descendants. He had sons named Joseph, William, Solomon, Moses etc.

2. Lazarus Damron, a famous Indian scout, and Revolutionary soldier. Gwathmey in his book on King's Mountain says Lazarus Dameron was with James Fraley who "served under Col. Wm. Campbell and Capt. Snody." Campbell went to Kings Mt. "Lazarus Dameron enlisted the second time when Fraley did and they served together as comrades." He was an Indian spy with Fraley: "Lazarus Dameron who enlisted April 1780 for one year in Washington Co. under Col. Campbell and Capt. Snody." Many of the Kings Mountain men guarded the Cumberland Gap frontier after the Revolution. George Damron, cousin of Lazarus, was also at King's Mountain. Lazarus was in Russell Co., Va. 1787, and Moses in 1786. Lazarus Dameron withdrew his entry of fifty acres made in 1796 in Russell County, in 1797--it was on both sides of Lewis's Creek, including Cave Hollow. Lazarus was in Kentucky near Boldman by 1804, where the first building was called Damron's Fort. Irene McIntosh, a genealogist, of Prestonburg, Ky., niece of Henry P. Scalf, editor Floyd County Times, has information on Lazarus Dameron who was with the Fraleys. According to Luther F. Damron of W. Va. Lazarus Dameron came to Kentucky with six sons, three of whom moved to W. Va. named Samuel, Moses and George. Who were the other three? James was one, of Suckey's Creek on Shelby Creek, Ky. He m. Polly Adkins 1836. Before 1816 there were also in Pike County a Joseph, a Solomon King Dameron, a Lazarus, a younger Moses, and Richard Damron.

We find that Moses bought land on Twelve Pole Creek 1828, Cabell Co., W. Va. (Wayne was formed from Cabell). The same year, 1828, George bought land on Twelve Pole Creek, and Samuel bought land on Twelve Pole in 1830. Moses married Polly Preston 1811 in Floyd Co., Ky., and his sons were Samuel, Lazarus, John, and possibly others, by the first wife, and George, Thomas, Elisha, William, David, Wash. and Richard by Rhoda Sadler.

3. Moses Dameron, a son of the Moses of Albemarle County, Va. Moses Dameron had the first deed recorded in Russell Co., Va. on Clinch River adjoining Henry Hamblin. This was 1786. Moses had Treasury Warrant No. 11797 for land in Russell County, Va. on Stantonbs Creek, which he withdrew in 1788 to make an entry on Butcher's Branch on Robertson's line. This must have been for service in the Revolution and the Land Office in Richmond would have a record of it. The Savage Grant around the Big Sandy river was also given for Revolutionary service and the Damrons there may have received grants for this reason.

In 1800 the Commonwealth of Va. had a case vs. Henry Fraley and Moses Dameron. In 1803 and 1804 Moses had cases against him for debt, but he may not have been present. In 1798 Moses Damron, Junior, was in Fleming County, Ky., wife Sarah, from which place he gave a deed to John Tallet for 200 acres on Clinch River, the same he had bought from John Breedon (Breeding) in 1796. Moses seems to have lived near Capt. John Damron, while Lazarus was quite a distance from them near Cleveland, Va. In 1815 the Sheriff sold Moses' land in Russell County for taxes, 500 acres for $6.64 1/4, which was "returned as delinquent for the year 1789 & 1799." It is hard to unscramble these Moses, but the one with a wife Aggie in 1796 is the same with a wife Sarah in Fleming Co., shown by the deeds, as I figure it. In 1812 Moses Damron was deeded 100 acres on Shelby Creek, Floyd Co., Ky. by David Morgan. In 1819 Moses Damron, SENIOR, made an affidavit in Floyd Co. so a Junior must also have been alive at that time. However, in those days Junior was used for a child who may not have been the son of the Senior of the same name. There is no doubt, however, that we can identify one son, though I believe Sarah Damron Adair has confused the older Moses with the younger one, her own ancestor.

(1) MOSES DAMRON, the younger, m. Jennie Mullins in 1812 in Floyd Co., Ky. They had six children--Moses, Sarah who m. Thomas Owens, sheriff of Pike Co., Ky., William, Solomon, Louisa and Elizabeth. In 1826 the parents went to Illinois but decided to return two years later and died on the way back, leaving the orphans to make their way. In an Oregon History 1900, p. 65, Dr. Owens-Adair wrote that Moses immigrated "to Kentucky, with two brothers, Lazarus and Richard, and settled on the Big Sandy River. Mr. Damron was a great Indian fighter, and was employed by the government as a scout and spy during the war with the Shawness and Delawares...the government presented him with a splendid rifle valued at that time at $200.00." Moses was 12 and Sarah 10 when they took the orphans back to Kentucky and Moses was crippled for life when the wagon wheel crushed his foot when he put it underneath to keep the wheel from slipping. It made "him a cripple and finally causing his death...After they reached home, they were divided among their relatives. Sarah went to live with her maternal grandmother who was then 80 years of age. After her grandmother's death, Sarah went to live with an uncle and aunt... Her only sorrow was her separation from her brothers and sisters. The nearest was 30 miles away--a few times she walked all that way to visit with them. When she was sixteen she met and married Thomas Owens...In the spring of 1843 they moved to...Missouri and joined the immigrants that were going to Oregon...Finally they settled in Clatsop Co., Oregon." Dr. Bethenia Angeline Owens Adair, daughter of Sarah Damron Owens was "quite a legendary character around Oregon. There were pages and pages written on her." In Seaside, Oregon, some descendants live: F.C. Fulton, 235 Beach Drive, George N. Hill, 111 Park; V. E. Hill, 241 Beach Drive; John Adair Highway 101; Mrs. W. H. Hobson, 921 So. Prom.

ADDITIONAL NOTES ON RUSSELL COUNTY, VIRGINIA

In 1956 Alice Mary Aiken and I went to Russell County, Virginia, as she had not copied down the Circuit Court Records previously, there being no Circuit court there until 1809. We found no Damrons in this court record, but found the following:

James Thompson vs. Thos. Welch, Sept. 25, 1809.

Rule vs. James Bostick, 1871, June Term. Matilda and Sally Ratliff to Russell & Buchanan.

Wm. Dorton on Jury, Apr. 15, 1811. Sally Roma acquitted of murder, after putting herself "upon God and the country." John Bery Apr. 17, 1811. Peter Randolph 1813. Richard Thompson 1814, Apr. 12. James McCoy 1814, Apr. 13. Alexander Montgomery Sept. 13, 1814. James Mullins Apr. 11, 1815. Richard Thompson Apr. 12, 1815. Shoemakers were here. Wm. Crumwell Sept. 14, 1815. (Many Cromwells here.)

I talked with H. F. Bausell, editor of Lebanon News, the county seat, who said there may be Damrons in Dickenson Co. and that J. K. Damron was in the county. I talked with the Sheriff who referred me to Chess Stapleton who runs a barber shop in Dante, as his sister was married to a Damron, and hereferred me to Emmett Damron of Nicklesville, Scott Co., Va. The Sheriff said there were Damrons near Dickensonville, and that Ben Adams of Dickensonville knew the old families. Mable Dameron was listed as having paid the capitation tax 1955, and the Sheriff said she was in the Castlewood district. We did not look her up and couldnot find any Damrons of the early settlers of Russell Co. He said there was a Laurence Dameron of St. Paul's, Va. The Sheriff said there was a Dameron at Dickensonville, Russell Co., who moved back to Scott Co., where he came from. Stapleton said he knew no other Damrons but Emmett who lives near Nicklesville, 3 miles away, and was raised at Bolton--he married Stapleton's sister and lived on the Clinch River formerly. He said his father Moses was dead and a brother lived in Arkansas. Emmett's son lives at Dante, Va. named Paul. Nicklesville is about 20 miles from Lebanon and we went to see Emmett. We took the Dungannon road. At the market on the left before St. Paul's around the bend we took an intersection and turned left, then went 6 or 8 miles on a new road to the Scott County sign. Then down the hill to the main road, Dungannon road, to a little store and service station, where we took the right. A sign said to Dungannon. After 1 miles was an abrupt left and another service station and store, where we were told to inquire. At one small store an old man said his nephew was married to a Damron of an old settler's family but we did not have time to talk with him. This was near Dungannon somewhere on the way. We finally found Emmett who lived off the road a little behind a rise, opposite a spout spring on the road, near a Mitchell family. Emmett was about 40 years old, a farmer, very good looking and glad to see us. His brother also lived nearby. Emmett said his father was Moses Spurlock Damron who m. Laura Johnson. His grandfather was Solomon Seal Damron and his wife was a Coleman. Solomon lived in and around Elkhorn City, where his (Emmett's father's) brothers live, Joel, Will, Lawrence. Joel told him that the tradition was that three brothers came to Kentucky, and that he knew the history best. Joel mentioned a Lazarus. He said his sister Opal Smith, Castlewood, Va., Route 1, had Bible records. He said Lawrence Damron of Dante, Va. lived there from 1920 to 1927 and came from Castlewood. Emmett lives in Long Hollow.

Castlewood was the earliest region settled here and there was a fort nearby. The Clinch river goes past Dungannon. It is a broad stream in hilly country, with beautiful small farms and cattle grazing on the hills. Alice Mary Aiken said that Lazarus Damron lived somewhere around the Cleveland region but she did not look up his place as the mountain road was too difficult. Robinett's live on the place which she thought was John Damron's. This land could be traced back through the Robinetts.

We went from Kentucky through the Cumberland Gap, which is not very impressive, being only a hilly mountain now with a broad thoroughway going over it. We stayed in Gate City at a quiet tourist home on a hill and went on to Russell, Scott etc., after checking the Lee County records and finding an Eli Damral there 1835.

THE DAMERON-OWENS-ADAIR FAMILY OF OREGON

Mrs. Byron Crawford, a Damron descendant, of 9781 S. E. Stanley St., Portland, Oregon, found additional information: "One of Thomas and Sarah Owens' daughters married a Mr. Abraham (no "s"), a merchant of Roseburg in the early days. He advised Dr. Owens Adair to go into the millinery business in Roseburg. Geo. Hill her son graduated in medicine from Willamette University; lived in Golendale, Wash. in the early days. Dr. Owens-Adair practiced medicine in North Yakima for around seven years. Her first office in Portland was in a brick building on 1st St. between Yamhill and Taylor. Dr. Owens-Adair had tree farms near Astoria, surely some of her descendants reside around there. Her father's farm was near Tansy Point. Her only granddaughter, Vera Owens Hill, daughter of George Hill, married Ray Allison Hess.

Another Owens daughter was Mrs. Alvah Pike of Portland, the youngest daughter then--when Dr. Adair's book was published in 1906.

Mrs. Crawford sent the following: "I copied this from a Northwest History. Thomas Owens was born in Tazewell County, Va. in 1808. His father Thomas Owens was born in Wyeth County, Va. in 1757, and with his family came to Floyd County, Kentucky, in 1814, where he lived to the age of 94. Father Owens as his neighbors called him, was, we are told, a valued citizen, known as a good husband, affectionate father, a kind master. In 1869 Thomas Owens, the Oregon pioneer, went to California for his health; died at Piety Hill, Calif. July 23, 1873. His faithful wife and nine children remained to mourn his loss. The eldest Diane, already referred to as the first Mrs. John Hobson, was justly styled in her girlhood, as the beauty of the plains. Mrs. Dr. Owens Adair who is highly esteemed by a host of friends throughout our state and the Hon. W. F. Owens of Roseburg receive due mention elsewhere in our pages.

"How wonderful and mysterious are the workings of Providence, the defeat of Charles called the Pretender of England, Culloden, caused one of his followers, Sir Thomas Owens, to take refuge with his family in America, and so to make it possible for his great-grandson, our pioneer of Welsh descent, to lay down his life in our far away western land."

Mrs. William Irvine of the Genealogical Forum of Portland, Oregon, address 17007 S. E. Oatfield Road, Milwaukie, Oregon, wrote June 3, 1955, after looking up this family in the Oregon Historical Society: "I soon found that Dr. Bethenia Angeline Owens Adair, daughter of Sarah Damron Owens, was quite a legendary character around Oregon. There were pages and pages written on her which I did not attempt to transcribe, but took only the most pertinent vital statistics." She sent the following:

"Check with Index to Pioneer Records in DAR hands, no record.

Oregon Historical Society--Oregon Pioneer Biographical Files: OWEN, THOMAS, born Tazewell Co., Va. Jan. 12, 1808, settled in Ky. 1814, came to Oregon 1843, route plains; 1st location in Clatsop Co. Occupation farmer, died July 23, 1873.

P. 502 has an account of Bethenia Angeline Adair (Owens Hill).

THE DAMERON-OWENS-ADAIR FAMILIES OF OREGON

- I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who had a grant in Northumberland Co., Va. in 1652.
- II. GEORGE, m. widow of John Dennis, named Elizabeth, of Northumberland Co., Va.
- III. LAZARUS m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Smith, d. Albemarle Co., Va. 1749.
- IV. MOSES, who inherited his father's plantation in Albemarle Co., Va.
- V. MOSES, who bought land in Russell County, Va. 1786, wife named Aggy.

He was probably a Revolutionary soldier as his brothers were. He no doubt had land grants for Revolutionary and frontier service--in 1798 Moses Damrel (which is the spelling of Damron sometimes), transferred an entry under Warrant No. 11797, and also an entry under Warrant of the Treasury No. 15172, Russell Co., Va. We do not know all his children but there was a Moses, Jr.

VI. MOSES DAMRON, JR. sixth generation. In 1798 he was in Fleming Co., Ky. (from which Floyd was cut off), with wife named Sarah, and sold land in Russell Co., Va. to John Tallett, 200 acres, which he had bought in 1796 from John Breeding (Breedon), on Clinch River. This must be the same Moses who m. Jennie Mullins in 1812 and had ch. Moses, Sarah, Louisa, Elizabeth, William, Solomon, the parents dying on a trip to Illinois started in 1826.

VII. SARAH DAMRON, b. in Kentucky Jan. 8, 1818, first daughter of Moses and Jennie Mullins Damron. She lived with her Mullins grandmother when her parents died, and then with an uncle and aunt in Kentucky. At 16 she married Thomas Owens, Sheriff of Pike Co., Ky., of whom there are several notices in this genealogy. Ch.:

1. Thomas Owens, died in infancy. He was b. in Kentucky.
2. Diana Owens, m. John Hobson. "Ada Hobson, oldest daughter of Diane Owens (dau. of Sarah Owens) married a Chas. W. Fulton. They had a son b. Feb. 8, 1887, Fred C. Fulton. Another Hobson girl m. a Clyde Fulton." (From Mrs. Crawford.) "Chas. W. Fulton was at one time U.S. Senator and also collector of Customs at Astoria under Pres. Cleveland. They had a son born Feb. 8, 1887, Fred C. Fulton who would be 68 yrs. of age now." There was a Dr. A. J. Fulton of Astoria also, a pioneer.
3. Bethinia b. 1838-40, Van Buren Co., Missouri, which is where her parents lived for one and a half years before moving to Platte Purchase, Mo. where a son was born, W. F. Owens. In spring of 1843 they moved to Independence, Mo. and joined the Oregon immigrants., arriving Christmas Day, 1843. Bethinia Angelino Owens married Legrand Hill, 1854, and had one son, George Hill. She m. second Col. John Adair. (See History of Oregon, V. IV, p. 580, 16 pp. in all, by Joseph Gaston. Her will was filed at Astoria, Ore, where she died Sept. 13, 1826, leaving legacies to relatives. (Oregonian Oct. 1, 1926, p. 7, Portland Library files). Dr. Owens-Adair's son George Hill had a son Victor Adair-Hill.
4. James W. F. Owens, m. Miss Nannie L. Stevens of Ohio in 1864 and had four children. (See p. 500, History of Pacific Northwest V. II, by Elwood Evans. He lived in Douglass Co. Oregon, Roseburg.
- 5-9. There were nine children, and the following were listed in the 1850 Census of Clatsop County, Oregon Territory, Family No. 44:

THE DESCENDANTS OF ABRAHAM DAMRON

- I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who had a land grant in 1652, Northumberland Co., Va.
- II. GEORGE, second generation, m. Elizabeth, widow of John Dennis.
- III. LAZARUS m. Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Smith. He died Albemarle Co., Va.
- IV. MOSES, who inherited his father's land on Damron Creek, Albemarle Co., Va.
- V. LAZARUS, Indian scout and Revolutionary soldier who was at Kings Mountain battle. He moved from Russell Co., Va. to Floyd Co., Ky. with six sons before 1804. His wife was Nairy McInery. His sons Moses, Samuel and George moved to West Virginia.
- VI. ABRAHAM DAMRON, who was either the brother or son of Richard Damron. John A. Damron said his parents were 2d cousins, so Abraham would be the brother of Richard. He also said Abraham died in Greenbrier Co., W. Va. In 1828, Feb. Term, Abram Damron entered into bond with Silas Ratliff's son, William Ratliff, Sr. in the sum of $3,000 for the administration of the will of Richard Damron, in Pike Co. Court Order Books, p. 262. The will was annexed to the Letters of Administration for Wm. Ratliff, but has not been found so far.

Pike County, Ky. Deeds show a deed from Abram and Elizabeth Damron, Grantors, to James Honaker, Mar. 22, 1830, for a tract on Sandy River; also Abraham Damron, Grantor, to Henry Weddington, Oct. 26, 1827, for a tract of 275 acres on Sandy River. Perhaps he moved to W. Va. then as John A. said he died in McDowell or Greenbrier Counties, W. Va. Pike County Marriage Records show that Abraham Damron married Sarah Branham, July 6, 1835, ceremony by B. H. Johnson. In 1853 Abraham Damron married Pricy Roberts in Pike Co. Rev. John A. Damron said Abraham married first a Branham and second a Roberts but did not remember the first names, and said that Abraham had seven children, of whom six died young, Robert being the only one to live to be of age of the first marriage. He said that Maston Damron was the son of Abraham's youngest wife and that he saw him.

VII. ROBERT DAMRON, son of Abraham and Sarah Branham Damron, died near Yeager, Ky. in Feb. 1927, both he and his wife living to be past 88 years old. Robert married a 2d cousin, Rebecca Damron, daughter of Spurlock⁷ Damron (Lawrence¹ George² Lazarus³ Moses⁴ Lazarus⁵ Richard⁶). Rebecca was b. April 9, 1842, oldest daughter of Spurlock Damron b. 1813, d. 1870, and Sarah Trout. John A. Damron said that Mr. Pickelsimer told him the Damrons were German and came from North Carolina, but this must refer to the Trouts, who were German, Christian Trout being the first to bring coal out of the mountains in his region. Robert Damron's children were:

1. Elizabeth who married John Roberts.
2. Mary who married Rich Roberts and second Sol Roberts.
3. Jane who married Gilliam Roberts.
4. Caroline who married Jackson Case.
5. Abraham (Bud), who married Nancy Ratliff.
6. P. Spurlock who married Frona Damron.
7. Kate who married George Mitchell.
8. Adam, who married Gertrude Damron, daughter of Moses Dee Damron b. 1836, who was the son of James Damron of Suckey's Creek.
9. Eve, who married Joseph Damron, then Campbell Adkins.
10. Nina, who married Paris Coleman.
11. John A. Damron, who married Nana (Nonie) Bertha Coleman, and 2d Angeline Prater. He lives on the Yeager Road, Route 3, Box 521, Pikeville, Ky. He is a Regular Baptist preacher, as his father Robert was before him.
12. Robert (Bob) V. Damron, m. Dellia Hughes, then Ann Ferguson.

VIII. REV. JOHN A. DAMRON, son of Robert and Rebecca Damron, was age 73 in 1956. He looks like a typical Damron and the early Damrons must have been similar to him in appearance. During the week he farms a 260 acre farm, the last one on the Yeager Road. His children by Nonie Coleman were: 1. Thomas b. 1902. 2. Gilbert, b. 1904, who was killed in a wreck. 3. Martha b. 1909. 4. Stella b. 1911. 5. Oma b. 1911. 6. George Powell b. 1917. 7. Richard b. 1926. The children of Angeline Prater are: Peter b. 1936. 9. McKinley b. 1941. 10. Elizabeth b. 1943.

Robert Damron was a Union soldier under Lincoln and a Regular Baptist minister, as John A. is at Marnowbone, and nearby congregations. John A. has a niece, Becky, living near him on Route 3, who married Reese Damron, son of Jane and grandson of Jack Damron.

JAMES DAMRON OF SHELBY CREEK, KENTUCKY

I. LAWRENCE DAMRON, who had a land grant in Northumberland Co., Va. 1652.
II. GEORGE, m. Elizabeth, widow of John Dennis, and inherited his father's land.
III. LAZARUS m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Smith. He d. Albemarle Co., Va. 1749.
IV. LAZARUS DAMRON, of Russell Co., Va. and Kentucky, Indian scout and Revolutionary soldier. He came to Kentucky with six sons, three of whom moved to W. Va. He was one of the earliest settlers near Boldman, Ky. where the fort was called Damron's Fort.

V. JAMES DAMRON, one of the six sons of Lazarus above, is listed in Pike County, Kentucky, Marriage Records as marrying Polly Adkins 1836. His grandson, Robert, who lives on Suckey's Creek, Shelby Creek, Ky., said that James married Polly Adkins and lived nearby on Suckey's Creek. He said the father of James came from Virginia and that James had no brothers and sisters. However, Robert's sister told Miss Aiken that James had a brother named Bill. James died in his 80's, Robert told us.

In 1816 Moses Damron deeded to James Damron 100 acres on Shelby Creek. In 1817 James Damron deeded 100 acres on Shelby Creek to John Mullins. In 1821 James Damron bought 650 acres on Shelby Creek from Thomas Price, and also a good deal of other land from time to time.

Pike County Court Order Books, Ky. has the following items:

1824, p. 107, March Term: Road viewed from Moses Damron's old place to the seat of Justice at Elijah Adkins.

1824, May Term, JAMES DAMRON, Surveyor, to survey road from James Damron to the road at David Polley's.

Fiscal Court Order Book Has: M. D. Damron p. 59, James 149, James, settlement, 290-295; Robert, official of E. 324. Index to Estates, Pike Co. has: James M. Est., Emma Damron, administrator. J. C. Damron est., Roxie Adm., also Fred Damron, James Damron, administrator, Robert, Jr., Martha Ann, minors, Hattie K. Damron, admx.

vi. MOSES DEE DAMRON, sixth generation, born 1836, had only one sister named Huldy who married Louis Sturgell, according to his son Robert. His children were:

1. James, eldest.
2. Robert of Shelby Creek, born 1886, married Artie Sturgell.
3. John, deceased in 1956.
4. Jerome. (The records show that Jerome m. Bird D. Brewer, 1897, Pike Co.)

6. Gertrude, who married Adam Damron, brother of Rev. John A. Damron. Claire is one of their children. Adam's father was Robert and his mother Rebecca Damron, daughter of Spurlock Damron and granddaughter of Richard Damron of Shelby Creek. THE DESCENDANTS OF RICHARD DAMRON OF KENTUCKY

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, first generation, of Northumberland Co., Va. in 1652.

II. GEORGE m. Elizabeth, widow of John Dennis, and inherited Guarding Point.

III. LAZARUS, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Smith. He died Albemarle Co., Va. in 1749. His sons were Richard d. unmarried; George, Moses, John.

IV. MOSES, fourth generation, inherited his father's plantation in Albemarle Co., Va. on Red Bank and Damron's Creek. His children were: Lazarus who went to Kentucky; Moses who went to Kentucky; probably Capt. John b. 1757; and perhaps Richard who went to Kentucky. These were all in Russell County, Va. after the Revolution guarding the frontier. Sarah Damron Adair said that her father Moses, immigrated "to Kentucky with two brothers, Lazarus and Richard, and settled on the Big Sandy River. Mr. Damron was a great Indian fighter." Luther F. Damron of West Virginia said the tradition is that Lazarus came to Kentucky with six sons, of whom three moved to West Virginia named Moses, George and Samuel, the other three staying in Kentucky around Shelby Creek. We are not sure of the names of the three of Kentucky, as yet.

V. LAZARUS DAMRON, fifth generation, famous Indian scout and Revolutionary soldier, came to Kentucky around 1804 with six sons. In 1805 his wife was Nancy, and he was living in Floyd Co., Ky. I believe he was one of the soldiers at Blackmore's Fort in Russell Co., Va. after the Revolution. One of the early Damrons must have married the daughter of Solomon King, as this name was carried down.

VI. RICHARD DAMRON, who was either the son or brother of above Lazarus Damron. He was over 21 in 1796, as the Russell Co. Court Records, Book 2, p. 289 show: RICHARD DAMRON by Moses Damron etc. vs. Rich^d Collier in Case Continued for the Defendant. Ordered that Richard Damron etc. pay Moses Damron 1 Dollar and 6 cents for 2 days attendance for him against Richard Collier, also that he pay John Young 2 Dollars and 12 cents for 4 days attendance for him against the said Richard Collier." This refers to jury duty, or expenses as witnesses. Book 2p. 289, September Court, 1796, says: "Richard Damron by Moses Damron vs. Richard Collier: in Case. Dismiss'd and each party to pay their own costs."

I believe Richard Damron was also a Revolutionary soldier as he received a land grant on Shelby Creek on May 18, 1808, Floyd Co., Ky. 260 acres, where his descendants still live. The militia are not recorded in the War Department files, but he may have received this for service against the Indians after the Revolution. This could be checked with the Secretary of State in Frankfort and in Richmond. Also his name should be checked with the office of the Adjutant General in Washington and the Pension Bureau there.

Order Book 1 has been lost but Book 2, Floyd Co., Ky. has a case 1814 for Richard Damron. The May Court, 1 15 has "A report of the commissioners appointed to divide the land claims of Richd. Damron, Daniel Harrisons heirs," etc. Floyd Co., Ky. Marriage records show: Richard Damron married Rody Fitzgerrall, June 6th, 1816, by R. Haws. Also Richard Damron married Elizabeth Prowdy Aug. 26, 1821, by Leineer Justice.

In 1956 we found additional items about Richard in the Pike County records: Court Order Book beginning March, 1822, p. 2, Richard Damron is security. On p. 107, March Term, 1824, Richard Damron was summoned to show cause why he had not surveyed the seminary lands. Book 1, p. 143, 9 Jan. 1826--Thomas Owens and William Tackett ordered...to allot land to Trustees of Pike Seminary, RICHARD DAMRON, Surveyor.

Pike County Court Orders, Book 1-A, January Term, 1828, p. 254: The Last Will and Testament of Richard Damron, Elizabeth Damron, executrix, named in the Last Will and Testament Decd. was produced and proved in open court by evidence of Robert Walker, Esq., William Ratliff, Esq., and James Honaker, which is ordered to be... (unreadable). Present: Thomas Owens, William Ramy (?) Esq. (The item just above this is dated 14 Jan. 1828.)

February Term, 1828, p. 262: On motion of Elizabeth Damron, executrix of Richard Damron appointed and William Ratliff appointed as administrator with her and her motion WITH THE WILL ANNEXED and qualified as such who together with Silas (?) Ratliff's son William Ratliff, Sr. and Abram Damron entered into and acknowledged this bond in the sum of three thousand dollars.

February, 1828: Betsy Damron, executrix, Dr.

Taking the probate and certificate of the last will and testament of Richard Damron, order 25, making William Ratliff, administrator, with her executrix.... Order making ex. 25 and order 18 appointing appraisers. Copy 12/2 Rec. will and Testament 1.80. Copy 900 words for 20 _____. Order 25, copy 18, ordering trustees to Seminary lands. To order 25 making oath and bond 40. Order on your family to give security.

November Term, 1828: motion against Betsey Damron. "William Ratliff and Silas Ratliff vs. Elizabeth Damron and William Ratliff." Betsey Damron and William Ratliff refused to give further security which the court adjudged them to give, p.184. This is followed by "Motion for Letters Testamentary, Estate of R. Damron, Decd., on the Motion of William Ratliff by the consent of Elizabeth Damron, administratrix, with the WILL ANNEXED is granted him of the goods and chattels of Richard Damron, Decd. whereupon he took the oath prescribed by law and entered into bond in the penal sum of three thousand dollars who together with William Cecil, William Ratliffe, Senr., James Honaker, Thomas Price and Elijah Adkins, his securities, letters testamentary are granted him in due forms."

March Term, 1829. A road is ordered through Richard Damron's land by James Roberts, etc.

May Term, 1831, p.4, mentions a road from the branch at Richard Damron's down around the hill to Herrel's Branch to land of Richard P. Robison and James Ratliff.

We again were not able to find the will of Richard Damron which seems to have been about 900 words and might prove who his children were. It should be in the Pikeville courthouse somewhere. The Letters of Administration to William Ratliff might have it annexed in a separate box under date of November, 1828. We could not get into the boxes of Letters of Administration in Pikeville and this should be done and everything copied on this subject. It looks as if Richard's wife may have been a Ratliff or perhaps a daughter married one. Perhaps he also had a wife named Spurlock. In 1819 Richard Damron was guardian of James Pauley's heirs. The children of Richard Damron were: (Order of birth is not known.)

1. Richard, Jr. who m. Elizabeth Prowdy Aug. 26, 1821, Floyd Co., Ky. Richard and James had a claim allowed Shelby Creek, 1850. Elizabeth and Richard Damron sold to Samuel Mars 1839 on Harmons Creek. In 1847, Richard Damron Estate made a deed on Pond Creek. Richard Damron, Jr. had a natural son by Nancy McGuire b. 29 March, 1814, who was bound out to Lazarus Damron, shoemaker, agreement Dec. 1816 between L.D. and Berryman McGuire.

2. Spurlock b. 1813, d. 1870, m. Sarah Trout, dau. of Christian Trout.

3. Moses m. Nancy Justice; his son Wm. had ch. Beldon, T.C., L. M.

4. William M. Damron m. Rutha Ramsay (Polley originally), 1847.

5. Elisha b. about 1800, of Virgie, Ky. father of Samuel Henry, etc.

6. John m. Nancy Branham, 1821, Jan. 25, Floyd Co., Ky.

7. Perhaps Solomon King Damron who moved to Greenup, Ky. 1871.

8. Perhaps Abraham who was on the bond for Richard's Will 1828.

THE DESCENDANTS OF RICHARD DAMRON

VII. ELISHA DAMRON, son of Richard⁶(Lawrence¹ George² Lazarus³ Moses⁴ Lazarus⁵) was born about 1800 and lived on Robinson Creek at Virgie, Kentucky. J. Luther Damron, who keeps a store at Virgie, said Elisha's wife was Peggy, last name not known, and that his ancestors probably came from Virginia. The will of Elisha Damron in Book B, p. 93, Pike County, Ky. Wills, gave to wife Sally all real estate and personal property and at death it was to be divided among lawful heirs. Son W.G. Damron was executor. Signed Elisha X Damron, April, 1875. Witnesses: John May and James P. Marrs. Pike County marriages also show in 1845 the marriage of E. Elisha Damron to Sarah Elswick, 1845, Jan. 29, by W. M. Tackett. J. Luther Damron told us the children of Elisha were the following:

1. Samuel Henry Damron, who lived on Robinson Creek at Virgie, Ky. He married the daughter of Rhodes Owens, Kate C. Owens, 1884, in Pike County. His children were: Proctor K. Damron, a lawyer of Pikeville, Ky. who has a son Henry C. Damron on Beef Hide Creek near Pikeville; J. Luther Damron of Virgie, Ky.; Ballard Damron of Robinson Creek; and Blake who lives on the home place on Robinson Creek.
2. Leonard Damron, son of Elisha, died out West in Washington.
3. Richard Damron, son of Elisha, died at Robinson Creek.
4. William Damron, son of Elisha. His son Joe had a son Oscar.
5. Harvey (Doc.) Spurlock Damron, son of Elisha.
6. Wesley Damron, son of Elisha.

VII. WILLIAM M. DAMRON,⁷ son of Richard,⁶ married Rutha Polley (Ramsay), in Pike County, Ky. February 17, 1847, the minister being George Powell. Her sons by the first marriage, John Wesley Ramsay and George W. Ramsay, were both "in the Yankee army under Lincoln," Harrison Damron informed us, saying also that his grandfather "old man Billy" was also a Union soldier, and the "best Republican ever was." He said that Wilson Damron was also a soldier under Lincoln. Harrison said his grandfather had half-brothers both names Moses, called Whitey Moses and Blackie Moses. The children of William M. Damron were: (He died about 1896.)

1. Moses.
2. Betty, m. McCowan. She was whole sister to James H. Damron.
3. Mary married Miles Swinney or Sweeney and lived four miles up Shelby at Yeager.
4. James H. Damron, a logger, who lived on Shelby Creek, married Louisa Swinney 1879. His children were:

(1) Harrison Damron, age 67 in 1956 when we called on him--he was born 1889 one mile up Shelby from where he lives on Herald's branch on the road leading up above the new hospital at Pikeville, address P. O. Box 835, Pikeville, Ky. He has three daughters and six sons, five of the sons having been in the service. He is a Baptist and an Eisenhower Republican. He was formerly a miner but now farms.

(2) James H. Damron, who lives on the Yeager road.

(3) George Washington Damron, called "Bud", lives on Robinson Creek, Ky. He said his grandfather William M. Damron was in the 39th regiment in the Civil War and that his family came from North Carolina. He said Elisha was 1st cousin to his grandfather and that Luther Damron of Millard, Ky. has genealogy. His wife is Lenna Damron, daughter of John Marrs and Phoebe Damron. Phoebe's father was John Damron of Boldman, Ky. John's brothers were Dee, Will who died in Washington state and Oxier. Bob Damron was her uncle. Spurlock was a brother of Phoebe Damron. She referred us to Oscar Damron, Robinson Creek, and to Joe Damron, Route 2, Pikeville, at Esco--Joe married Eve and his second wife was Sweeney. Oscar had no whole brother, but a half-brother Garfield Adkins, Barney, Jess, Joe, Jr. Distantly related to P. K. Damron. She said Logan Damron at Boldman had genealogy and also Mrs. Velma Hunt Greenslate of Carter County, Ky.

VIII. MOSES, son of William Damron, the Yankee soldier in the Civil War. Wayne Damron of Elkhorn City, Ky. said that "his grandfather was Billy Damron who was a Yankee soldier in the Civil War and was wounded and died later. His forefathers came from North Carolina. Billy's sons were: 1. Moses who married Louisa Ratliff and lived on Shelby Creek, Pike Co., Ky. 2. Jim who married Louisa Ramsey and also lived on Shelby Creek. 3. Another brother Wright Damron, Civil War Yankee, m. Arelia Hopkins. Wright's sons were: Anthony, Dan, James Blaine, Jerome, and daughters were Maudie, Nona and Byrdie. James was killed on the railroad." Moses' children were:

1. James, of Powell's Creek, Pike Co., Ky. (had 20 children?)
2. John, of Shelby Creek, Pike Co., Ky.
3. Miles, Road Creek, Pike Co.
4. Reece, Greasy Creek, Pike Co.

6. Matt, died at 4 years of age.

VII. MOSES DAMRON, who married Nancy Justice, July 26, 1838, Floyd Co., Ky. He was the brother of Spurlock and William Damron, Beldon Damron told me. Therefore, he was the son of Richard Damron who d. 1828 in Pike Co., Ky. Moses' children were, according to Beldon:

1. William Damron who married Sarah Ann Compton in 1877, Pike Co., Ky. His children were:

- (1) Beldon Damron of Chloe Creek, near Pikeville, Ky.
- (2) T.C. Damron, Richlands, Va., who lives on Clinch River.
- (3) L. M. Damron, Grimsyville, Va. Route 460, near Raven, who has a son William at Richlands, Va. L. M. Damron wrote July 27, 1956: "I am the son of William and William was the son of Mosie and Mosie was a brother to Spurlock Damron. Bill Damron a brother to Spurlock. As for the rest I can't remember much too far back. I would love to help you more, but I can't." I was also told that Harrison Damron's father and Beldon's father were first cousins.

I wrote to the Virginia State Library asking for a roster of the 72d militia in Russell Co., Va. after the Revolution, of which John Damron was appointed captain in 1802 by Gov. James Monroe of the 2d Battalion. I also asked if they had any records on the military service of Lazarus, Richard, Moses, George and John Damron. As of July 18, 1956, I received the following reply: "We do not locate a roster of the 72d Regiment, but it appears that the Russell County order books may contain pertinent data. We do not locate reference to a land grant to the surname Dameron (Damron), 1762-1810. You might possibly obtain relevant information by writing the Land Office, Frankfort, Kentucky. We do not have in our collections any record showing Colonial or Revolutionary War service by the Damrons cited by you. However, in regard to Revolutionary War service, there appear to be records for John Damron, 9 C.L., and George Damron, 6 c. L. on file in the National Archives, Washington, 25 D.C. It is possible that extended research might locate data of interest to you. However, our staff is so small that we are unable to undertake any genealogical research whatsoever, so for your information we are suggesting the names of the following individuals who may be able to assist you: Mrs. Robert F. Woodson, 910 Pine Ridge Road, Richmond, Va., Mrs. Virginia A. Dodd, 507 Matoaka Road, Richmond, Va."

In Frankfort at the Historical Society I looked through the microfilm of the Tax Book of Fleming Co., Ky. 1798-1809 and found nothing in 1798, 1799, 1800, 1803. I also checked the microfilm of tax records from 1810 to 1833 and found nothing on Damrons. In Frankfort a note said that Annie Walker Burns, Wallins Creek, Ky., dated Apr. 1933, had made a Record of Wills in Pike Co., Ky. 1821-1851, inclusive. There was an interesting book Military History of Kentucky by Federal Writers Project. Pioneer Kentucky by W.R. Jillson has a ref. to the Long Hunters p. 56, in 1770, headed by James Knox at Flat Lick.

THE SPURLOCK DAMRON BRANCH

- I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who had a land grant in 1652, Northumberland Co., Va.
- II. GEORGE, who m. Elizabeth, widow of John Dennis, of Northumberland Co., Va.
- III. LAZARUS, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Smith. He died Albemarle Co., Va.
- IV. MOSES, 4th generation, who inherited his father's place in Albemarle Co., Va.
- V. LAZARUS, Indian scout and Revolutionary soldier, who fought at Kings Mountain, and came from Russell Co., Va. to Floyd Co., Ky. with six sons before 1804. His wife was Nairy McInery, and his sons Moses, Samuel and George moved to West Va.
- VI. RICHARD DAMRON, who was either the son or brother of Lazarus, had a land grant on Shelby Creek 1808, and d. 1828 in Pike Co., Ky. He was in Russell Co. 1796.
- VII. SPURLOCK DAMRON, son of Richard, according to Mrs. J. C. Reynolds of Independence, Ky. Route 1, Box 184, who has the Family Bible. Spurlock Damron was born Sept. 13, 1813, and died July 24, 1870. He married Sarah Trout Aug. 4, 1836, Harold Johnston, minister. She was b. May 6, 1813. The Bible lists the following:
 1. John Damron b. May 7, 1837, d. Oct. 19, 1912, m. Malinda C. Compton b. Dec. 31, 1848, and had thirteen children. He lived on Hurricane Creek.
 2. Christian Damron b. May 12, 1838. He m. Caroline M. Blair (?) 1860.
 3. Lewis P. Damron, who was killed in the Civil War, Sept. 21, 1863. B. 1840, 6-9.
 4. Rebecka Damron b. Apr. 9, 1842, m. Robert Damron, a 2d cousin.
 5. Minty J. Damron b. May 21, 1845. Rev. John A. Damron said: "Some time before the Civil War I had a aunt by the name of Minta Damron that disappeared and was never heard of since. I had a first cousin by the name of Dee Damron that left this country and went somewhere in Texas, maybe bought a ranch." He said that Dee wrote to his uncle John to identify himself in receiving a legacy, and proved his claim.
 6. William A. Damron, b. Apr. 6, 1847.
 7. Solomon K. Damron b. Mar. 12, 1849. He seems to be named for Solomon King Damron who went to Greenup Co., Ky. from Pike about 1868-71 and m. Martha Ann Layne. I believe Solomon King was the common ancestor of the Kentucky Damrons. There were Kings in Albemarle Co., Va. and also in other places with the Damrons. Richard seems to have married a Spurlock, a King or a Ratliff.
 8. Rice S. Damron b. Jan. 21, 1851, and had ten children.
 9. Mary C. Damron b. Feb. 12, 1853.
 10. Sarah E. Damron b. July 27, 1855.
 11. Pernina Damron b. Aug. 27, 1858.

The above John Damron was a captain in the Civil War. His son Louis P. Damron b. Nov. 20, 1869, died Aug. 11, 1938, who had a son Wayne of Ashland, Ky. and a daughter, Mrs. Joe James, Kenova, Ky. Route 2, in Fleming Co. Wayne said his other relatives were Logan Damron near Boldman and Josh Damron. Christian Trout lived on Hurricane Creek, and was the first man to send coal out of that region. He was the father of Sarah Trout. James Damron deeded to Christian Trout, 1833, 40 acres on Hurricane Creek. Sarah and Spurlock Damron made a deed to Lewis Trout 1847, for their interest in the Christian Trout Estate.

VIII. RICE S. DAMRON, b. Jan. 21, 1851, son of Spurlock and Sarah Trout Damron, died in 1897. According to the following genealogy compiled by the Hascal Damron family by his daughter, Rice married Lucy Picklesimer and had six boys and four girls:

1. John L. Damron who married Janie Blair. (Pike Co. records show the marriage of John L. Damron 1892 to Bertha J. Blair.)
2. Fred Damron, who never married.
3. Sol Damron.
4. Kola Damron.
5. Josh Damron.
6. Arlin Damron, who committed suicide.
7. Sarah, who lefthome when young and was never heard of again.
8. Mary, who married Will Williams.
9. Rosa, who married George Owens.
10. Nina Damron.

THE DESCENDANTS OF JOHN L. DAMRON

IX. JOHN L. DAMRON, son of Rice S. Damron, and grandson of Spurlock, married Bertha Jane Blair 1892, and they had three sons and four daughters. John L. Damron enlisted as a volunteer in the Spanish-American War 1898, Company K, 64th Kentucky Regiment.

1. Bertram Damron, born 1894, is an old Regular Baptist Preacher. He married Ella Tackett and had three sons and two daughters:

- (1) Hascal Damron born 1915, married Mary Leah Mitchell. They have one boy and two girls--John Paul was born 1941. Jeanette was born in 1937 and married Leon Bentley in 1956. Juanita Lou was born in 1938. Hascal's address is RFD 3, Box 573, Pikeville.
- (2) Fred Damron, son of Bertram, born 1917, married Evelyn Harrison.
- (3) Gene Damron b. 1938.
- (4) Joan Damron married Butler Newsome.
- (5) Nella Mae Damron married Chester Bartley.

2. Miles Damron, son of John L. Damron, was born in 1906 and married Dixie Brown. He was shot by accident or in suicide.

3. Cordell Damron, son of John L. Damron, was born in 1909 and married Martha Anderson. His address is Route 3, Pikeville, Ky. "He is a Jack-of-all-Trades, and is also an inventor having made some inventions and given them to the Federal Government in the Second World War--the electronic device to block the enemy communications, also the Damron's Rear View Periscope and the reflecting type plumb bob." This was sent by Mrs. Hascal Damron.

4. Emma Damron, daughter of John L. Damron, married Noah Lucas.

5. Jessie Damron married Bill Johnson.

6. Mamie Damron married Howard Spurlock.

7. Florence Damron married Eldon Rowe.

Mrs. Hascal Damron wrote: "C. L. Damron gave me this information: Rice Damron, the father of John L. Damron, the years of 1875 to 1878, worked for a man by the name of Dock Ferguson in Floyd County, Kentucky, near Harold, Kentucky. They built a real big wheel that operated by gravity. They called it a perpetual (perpetual) motion. The large wheel was about 39 feet in diameter and when the wheel was started it would run for several days before coming to a stop, and no one has invented the perpetual motion but the Damron and Ferguson wheel as to some of the old history cases as close as any one has come to making a perpetual motion. To this day some of the patent attorneys in their advertising books still show a drawing of the Ferguson wheel.

"Rice Damron seemed to be the brains of the invention but only worked for Ferguson, so they called it the Ferguson wheel. Some of the younger generations of the Damrons can remember seeing the wheel, or some of the remains of the wheel about 1900 in the old Ferguson barn. Bertram Damron, a grandson of Rice now living at Route 3, Pikeville, Ky., says he can remember seeing the old wheel which his grandfather helped build."

Hascal Damron told us he had been a miner and secretary of the Union and was now a carpenter, and that Bertram and Cordell Damron had also been miners and carpenters, as many of the Damrons were, he said. The pattern seems to be to work in the mines and later to retire and do farming or other work. These valleys are very narrow and the roads are too narrow for two cars to pass in most places, but we were told the local people did not want them improved as there was too much traffic on the roads now. The local residents seem to love their valleys and to prefer their life to any other, including the boys who have been overseas and away from home for a time. The creeks are very small streams and the houses are usually built close to them. Farming is done on the hillsides chiefly, so far as I could see. But the landscape is very pretty and they have a good life, working when they are young and retiring to their valleys when they are older. They have television there, and Pikeville is a very modern town. The mines employ all local labor, I was told.

THE JOHN DAMRON FAMILY

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who had a land grant in Northumberland Co., Va. 1652.
II. GEORGE DAMERON, who inherited Guarding Point in Northumberland Co., Va.
III. LAZARUS m. Elizabeth Smith, dau. of Richard. He died Albemarle Co., Va. 1749.
IV. MOSES, 4th generation, who inherited his father's Albemarle plantation.
V. LAZARUS, Revolutionary soldier, who came to Kentucky with six sons.
VI. RICHARD, who had a land grant on Shelby Creek, 1808, and d. 1828 Pike Co., Ky. He was in Russell Co., Va. in 1796. Children: Richard Jr., Spurlock, William, Moses, John etc.

VII. JOHN DAMRON, who married Nancy Branham Jan. 25, 1821, Floyd Co., Ky. In 1821, Sept. 29, Moses Damron was grantee for land from JOHN DAMRON, grantor, 25 acres on Shelby Creek. In 1837 John Damron was appointed surveyor of Caney Creek. In Floyd Co., Ky. 1815, John Damron had a suit against John Hackworth etc. to eject them from illegally occupying his land on Linicy Fork of the Big Sandy. He was the devise of Richard Damron and brought suit for Richard. The suit occupies 46 pages of court records. There was also a suit in Pike Co., Ky. S. K. Damron vs. JOHN DAMRON, referring to Solomon King Damron no doubt, Order Book 1811-1815, p. 73. May Term, 1831, p. 3, has John Damron viewing pasture land. In 1821, Sept. 29, Book a, p. 15, Moses Damron was grantor to John Damron for 25 acres, Shelby Creek, Pike Co., Ky. In 1831, John Damron sold to Thomas May 25 acres on Shelby Creek. In 1840 John Damron sold to William Ratliff 50 acres on Marrowbone Creek. In 1845 John Damron sold 15 acres on Little Creek to Thomas P. May. In 1849 John and Nancy Damron sold land on Caney Creek to John Kinney, and in the same year of 1849 to various people they sold 240 acres more, all on Caney Creek.

Mrs. Cropper wrote she had corresponded with "a brother and sister, John Wess Damron 94 and Cordie Damron Benson, 96. In answer to my questions, they tell me the oldest generation of Damrons they know of was Dick, their great-grandfather, and one named Mose of the same generation. Dick had a son called Buck, and evidently Buck (obviously a nickname) was father of Alex, who was the father of this John Wess and Cordie and others." However, John Wess Damron told Miss Aiken that his father Alex was the son of John Damron.

1. ALEX DAMRON, son of John, married Polly Harris and had the following children:

- (1) John Wess Damron who lived near Pikeville. He was born July 19, 1858, and died April 22, 1955, age over 97. His children were: Alex, Sam and J. G. of Pikeville, Ky. John Wess married first Mary Brewer, then Melinda Ford. He lived on Ford's Branch.
- (2) Cordelia m. Henson and lived near Pikeville, Ky, where she died age 98 or 99. Miss Aiken said that she had a beautiful face and that John Wess was very handsome, also, with fine features.
- (3) Harvey of Ash Camp, Ky., age 77 in 1954. He seems to have had a son Glen, whose son Joe A. Damron of Grundy, Va., came from Robinson's Creek, near Pikeville.
- (4) David of Island Creek, Ky., deceased in 1955.
- (5) Jake, whose son James lived at Ivel, Ky.
- (6) I was also told that Alex had a son Alex, one Will, who was killed in the mines, a daughter Maggie, a daughter Georgie who married a Howell, and a dau. who m. Henry Sherwood. Will was killed at Hellier, Ky. in the mines.

BUCK DAMRON seems to be the father of Buck and Harve and Will Auxier Damron, the latter living at Clintwood, Va. Conley Damron who runs the Damron & Tiller Store, dry goods, at Lebanon, county seat of Russell Co., Va., told me that his father, Floyd, had a brother Harve, and so did his grandfather Buck. Buck's son Harve, brother of Floyd, died at Clintwood, Va. Floyd's brother J. Mat Damron died in Ky. in Pike Co., and his brother Auxier died in Ky. Floyd's two sisters were Lizzie and Ressie. Floyd's only living brother in 1956 was J.C. Damron of Clintwood, Va. Floyd lived at Penny, near Pikeville, Ky. and his sons were Conley, Vernon, Denver, Carter, Chase, Harold, dead, and Ray, dead, in 1956. Conley said John Damron of Buchanan Co. at Keene Mountain was the son of Jim, and John's grandfather and my grandfather were brothers."

NOTES ON PIKE COUNTY, KENTUCKY

We went to Frankfort to look up what we could find. The Historical Society has the state archives in the old court house instead of the new one. The following was copied from Willard Rouse Jillson's book, published 1923, John P. Morton Co., THE FIRST SETTLERS FROM THE BIG SANDY:

"Tradition has it that among the very earliest settlers of the Upper Big Sandy were "Dad" Owen, "General" Rattliff, James Honaker and Kinsey B. Cecil, all of whom settled along the Big Sandy, near the site of Pikeville between 1785 and 1790. In the early fall of 1787 Matthias Harman, one of the traditional "Long Hunters" of Kentucky, accompanied by a party consisting of Henry Harman, Henry Skaggs, James Skaggs, Robert Hawes, SOME OF THE DAMRONS and a man named Draper, in all about twenty men, constructed a rude log hunting camp in a rock-house on the head waters of Big Sandy. The camp unfortunately was located on an Indian trail, resulting shortly afterwards in bringing Harman and his men into an engagement with a mongrel band of warring Shawnee, Cherokee and Delaware Indians... In 1789 the Leslies attempted to make a settlement at the mouth of Paint Creek on the Tug River, but were driven out by the vigilance of the Indians. They returned, however, in 1791, but instead of locating on Pond Creek, they crossed over on to John's Creek, and formed what was later known as the Leslie Settlement. About this time came THE DAMRONS, Harmons, Auxiers, Grahams, Browns, Marcums, Johns, Hammonds, Wedingtons, Morgans, Harrises, Pinsons, Walkers, Williamsons, Marrs, Mayos, Lackeys, Laynes, Prestons, Boarders and many others. In 1793 the Big Sandy and adjacent regions of eastern Kentucky, while legally a part of Mason County, Kentucky, had already become known as District No. 1 Floyd County." (Note: Page 87 lists Daniel Camron as residing in Floyd 1793 on the Big Sandy.)

In 1956, Alice Mary Aiken, Harrisonburg, Va. made a trip to Kentucky and to Claiborne County, Tenn. and the Cumberland Gap region. Some of the court houses were closed but we found some additional information in several places. We copied down the following marriages in Pike County, Ky., in addition to those previously mimeographed: Fleming County was formed from Mason Co. in 1798. Floyd was taken from both Fleming, Mason and Montgomery in 1799. Rowan was taken from Fleming 1856. Pike was taken from Floyd. Shelby Creek is today all in Pike County. Miss Aiken copied down "Thos. Damron m. Polly Preston, Mar. 28, 1811," Floyd Co., Ky. but this must be a mistake as the former record shows it was Moses Damron.

PIKE COUNTY MARRIAGES:

THE STORY OF JENNY WILEY AND THE INDIANS

There is a story of Lazarus Damron and Jenny Wiley given in Ely's The Big Sandy Valley, taken from Hardesty's Historical and Biographical Encyclopedia.

Jenny Sellards married Thomas Wiley, a native of Ireland, who lived on Walker's Creek, in Wythe, now Tazewell County, Va., at the time of her capture by Indians. "She had a sister living near by, the wife of John Borders...Several families named Harmon lived in the same neighborhood, some of whom were noted Indian scouts." Jenny Wiley's husband was digging ginseng in the woods in 1790, and by mistake the Indians took revenge on the Wileys instead of the Harmons, as "Some time previously, one of the Harmons had shot and killed two or three of their number, and a party of five returned to seek vengeance on the Harmons." The Cherokees tomahawked and scalped a younger brother and three of the children, and took Mrs. Wiley, her infant a year and a half old, and Mr. Wiley's hunting dog with them to the Ohio River. The Indian trail led down what became Jennie's Creek to the mouth then down Tug and Big Sandy to the Ohio.

"No sooner had the news of the horrid butchery spread among the inhabitants of Walker's Creek settlement than a party, among whom were LAZARUS DAMRON and Matthias Harmon, started in pursuit. They followed on for several days, but failing to come up with the perpetrators of the terrible outrage, the pursuit was abandoned, and all returned to their homes. The Indians expected that they would be followed, and the infant proving an incumbrance to their flight, they dashed out its brains against a beech-tree...When the savages...reached the Ohio, it was very much swollen; with a shout of O-high-O, they turned down that stream...to Big Blaine Creek...Here they remained for several months, and during the time Mrs. Wiley was delivered of a child." The Indians dashed his brains out, also, fearing he would become a brave warrior as he screamed furiously when they tested him for courage. An old Cherokee chief saved the life of Mrs. Wiley when they decided to kill her, on condition that she would teach his squaws to make cloth like the gown she wore. "But she was reduced to the most abject slavery, and was made to carry water, wood, and build fires." Mrs. Wiley escaped one night. Her dog tried to follow her but she drove him back fearing his bark would betray her. She crossed Main Paint Creek to the Levisa Fork and on the opposite side near the mouth of John's Creek, she could see men at work on a blockhouse. She called to them and they took her across the stream. As they got to the other side, the old chief appeared with Jenny's dog preceding him, striking his hands upon his breast and saying "Honor, Jenny, honor!"

She had been in captivity more than eleven months. Returning to her husband, after nine years, in 1800, they moved to Tom's Creek near the Levisa Fork. She survived her husband 21 years and died 1831. After her return five other children were born, Hezekiah, Jane, Sally, Adam and William. Hezekiah lived on Twelve Pole Creek. Jane m. Richard Williamson and lived on Twelve Pole. Salley married Christian Yost of Ky. and later Samuel Murray. William raised a large family and after the sale of the Wiley farm moved to Tom's Creek. Adam P was the most noted. "In physique he was scarcely excelled by any man in the Sandy Valley. Tall, straight as an arrow, brown of skin, slow of movement and speech, he was an attractive figure to look upon." He was a great fiddler at dances, but becoming a Baptist, began preaching, making very long sermons like himself. In his old age he went back to fiddling at house-raisings and corn-huskings." Many of Jenny's descendants lived in Johnson County, Ky.

The Indians had their big graveyard at the mouth of the Sandy River, and as this was sacred ground, they defended this region from the white intruders. It was a dangerous place to pick for the first settlement of the place.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES, FROM THE FIRST SETTLEMENTS TO THE PRESENT TIME. BY JAMES OSGOOD, ESQ. VOL. I. PART I. CHAP. I. THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA. In the year 1492, Christopher Columbus, an Italian navigator, discovered the continent of America, while seeking a westward passage to the Indies. He sailed from Spain on the 3rd of September, and after a voyage of nearly two months, he landed on the island of San Salvador, on the 12th of October. He then sailed on to other islands, and finally reached the mainland of America on the 14th of December. He named the land "America," in honor of Amerigo Vesputi, a fellow navigator who had sailed with him on a previous voyage.

I find entered as a motion in court at the March term in 1828," ordered that John Bevins, Caleb Bailey, William Owens, and William Adkins or any three of them after being duly sworn, acting do appraise the personal estate of Richard Dameron, deceased, and report to court, according to law. I didn't notice the report. M.R. Riddle, D.C."

VI. SPURLOCK DAMRON, b. 1813, d. 1870, m. Sarah Trout, 1836, Pike Co., Ky. Rev. John A. Damron, age 72, 1954, wrote: "My grandpa on my mother's side was Spurlock Damron and his wife's name was Sarah Trout. He was borned 1813 in Pike Co. Ky. Damron was killed in the Civil War. He was a Yankee soldier in 1863. My mother's name was Rebecca Damron. She was married to Robert Damron in 1859."

Harrison Damron, Route 1, Box 835, Pikeville, Ky., is the grandson of William Damron who died around 1896. His father, James H. Damron, was born 1859, died in March, 1891. He said "Robert Damron (born 1837, died 1927), Wilson Damron and William Damron were Yankee soldiers." He said Elisha Damron was born about 1800, who appears to be his great-grandfather, and the brother of above Spurlock Damron who married Sarah Trout. Harrison Damron was b. July 23, 1889, at Yeager, Pike Co., Ky.

Elisha Damron had a son Samuel Henry Damron, and the latter was the father of P. K. Damron, a lawyer in Pikeville, whose son Henry C. Damron, a Pikeville lawyer, lives on Beef Hide Creek. Moses of Twelve Pole Creek also had a son Elisha.

In April, 1875, the will of Elisha Damron, left his estate to wife Sally, with son W.G. Damron as executor, Pike Co., Ky. B., 93.

Mrs. John A. Damron of Yeager, Pike Co., Ky. wrote: "I am 72 years old myself and my father was the late Rob Damron an old regular babtist preacher died near Yeager, Kentucky, Feb. 1927, and my grandfather was Abraham Damron died near Greenbriar, W.Va. Some time before the Civil War I had a Aunt by the name of Minta Damron that disappeared and was never herd of since. I had a first cousin by the name of Dee Damron that left this country and went somewhere in Texas maybe bought a ranch. Some time this coming August there will be a Damron Reunion near Elkhorn City, Kentucky."

The Pike County, Ky. deeds show that Abraham Damron deeded to Henry Weddington Oct. 26, 1827, a tract on Sandy River, A, 275. Again Abram and Elizabeth Damron deeded to James Honaker, Mar. 22, 1830, a tract on the Sandy River.

I do not know what relation there is between the above and Moses D. or Dee Damron, who lived on Shelby Creek, Pike Co., son of James Damron, of Shelby Creek. James had a brother named Bill. The children of Moses D. Damron were: Robert, living on Shelby Creek, Yeager, Ky., the only living son, James, John, Jerome, Molly, Elizabeth (Mrs. Whitman, College St., Pikeville, Ky.), Lou (Mrs. George Pinson, 261 Scott Ave., Pikeville, Ky.), Myrtle, Mrs. D. T. Keel, Scott Avenue, Pikeville, Ky., Gertrude, who married a Damron. Mrs. Walter Hatcher, Pikeville, Ky. dau. of Mrs. Whitman, said Moses D. had no brothers and was not related to the other Damrons closely.

THE DESCENDANTS OF RICHARD DAMRON

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who had a land grant in 1652 in Northumberland County, Va.
II. GEORGE, m. Elizabeth, widow of John Dennis, and inherited Guarding Point estate.
III. LAZARUS m. Elizabeth Smith. He d. Albemarle Co., Va. 1749.
IV. MOSES, of Albemarle, who inherited his father's land. We do not know all his sons but one was Lazarus, the Indian scout, and probably Moses and Richard, as well as Capt. John Damron, all four of whom went to Russell County, Va. after the Revolution. Lazarus, Moses and Richard moved to Floyd and Pike Cos., Ky. There is a tradition that Lazarus had six sons, three of whom moved to West Virginia. It is possible that Richard was his son and not his brother, but the evidence points to the fact that Richard and Lazarus were brothers. In a history of Oregon, 1900, is a story of "Sarah Damron Adair, pioneer of 1843," by her daughter, Dr. Owens Adair: "Mrs. Owens was born in Kentucky 8 Jan. 1818. She was the first daughter of Moses and Jennie Damron. Her father was of pure English blood, and immigrated from England to Kentucky, with TWO BROTHERS, LAZARUS AND RICHARD, and settled on the Big Sandy River. Mr. Damron was a great Indian fighter, and was employed by the government as a scout and spy during the war with the Shawnees and Delawares." It looks from this as if three brothers came--Lazarus, Richard and Moses (Moses died going to Illinois and left a family of orphans, so we know he could not be the son of Lazarus, as Lazarus had another son named Moses.) Lazarus himself had six sons, according to tradition, three of whom were Moses, Samuel and George who went to West Virginia. The other three might have been Joseph, who m. Elizabeth Dyck in December, 1815, at Prestonburg, Ky., James (in 1816, July 6, Moses deeded to James Damron, 100 acres on Shelby Creek. On Jan. 1, 1817, James deeded to John Mullins 100 acres on Shelby Creek. Richard Damron gave an assignment to James Damron, Feb. 26, 1816. On Aug. 9, 1830, James Damron deeded to James G. Hatcher 50 acres on Mud Creek,) and Lazarus (who m. Polly Mullins, Feb. 15, 1821, Floyd Co., Ky.) The above names are all found in the records before 1816 except Lazarus Jr. who is found 1821. Therefore the following seems likely:

1. Lazarus Damron, Indian scout and Revolutionary soldier, who had six sons, probably Samuel, George and Moses of W. Va., and Joseph, Lazarus, Jr. and James or Abraham.

2. Moses of Russell Co., Va. who had a son Moses, Jr. who died going to Illinois. This Moses left in 1826 for Illinois with his wife Jennie Mullins.

3. Richard Damron, probably son of Moses of Albemarle, but possibly of Lazarus. He was in Russell Co. 1796. He was probably also an Indian scout and Revolutionary soldier like Lazarus and Capt. John and the other Moses. He received a land grant on Shelby Creek, 1808, Floyd Co., Ky. which may have been for Revolutionary service. One Richard married Rody Fitzgerrall June 6, 1816, in Floyd Co., Ky. In 1816 Richard deeded land to Meriday Collins, 50 ac. on Shelby Creek. In 1815 Richard deeded 200 acres on Shelby Creek to Moses Damron. In 1814 he also sold land on Shelby Creek and Sandy River, on Stone Coal Creek in 1817, and in 1820 on Mossy Bottom. On Aug. 12, 1814, Richard bought 1,283 acres on Sandy River from John Graham. In 1815, Richard was assigned, on Jan. 15, from Moses Damron. Richard died 1828, but no will has been found in Pikeville, though the estate was appraised March, 1828, by William Owens, William Adkins etc.

Richard Damron was in Floyd Co., Ky. 1809 and was appointed surveyor 1820. In 1824 Richard received 1,300 acres on both sides of Sandy River from Phillip Cole, etc. His children appear to be the following:

- (1) Richard, Jr. m. Elizabeth Prowdy, Aug. 26, 1821, Floyd Co., Ky.
- (2) Spurlock b. 1813, d. 1870, m. Sarah Trout, 1836, Pike Co., Ky.
- (3) John m. Nancy Branham in Prestonburg, Ky. Jan. 25, 1821; had son Alex.
- (4) Elisha b. about 1800 (5) W. H. Damron; (6) Moses, (7) Solomon K.?

- IV. MOSES DAMERON, inherited his father's Albemarle lands in 1749. His sons were Moses, Lazarus and Richard who went to Russell County, Va. after the Revolution, and on to Kentucky and West Virginia. Richard appears to be the youngest, probably.
- V. RICHARD DAMERON, who had a land grant on Shelby Creek in Floyd County, Ky. in 1808. On June 6, 1816, Richard Damron married Rody Fitzgerrell at Prestonburg, Floyd Co., Ky. On August 26, 1821, Richard Damron married Elizabeth Prowdy there, probably Richard, Jr. The first wife of Richard, Sr. appears to be named Spurlock. Richard owned a great deal of land on the Big Sandy, Shelby Creek, etc. He had a long lawsuit with Richard Fenn carried on in his behalf by John Damron over land titles: "John Damron on the desire of Richard Damron complains of Richard Fenn in custody of a plea of trespass and ejectment," Floyd Co., Ky., indicating John was his son. Richard Damron was surveyor of Pike County, Ky. in 1822.
- VI. SPURLOCK DAMRON, son of Richard, born Sept. 13, 1813, died July 24, 1870. In 1836, Spurlock Damron married Sarah Trout, Pike County, Ky. Ora Damron Reynolds (Mrs. J.C. CHICAGO, ILL., MAY 1, 1919

TO THE EDITOR:

SIR:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of April 29, 1919, in relation to the matter of the American Medical Association's policy regarding the use of the word "physician" in the title of the medical profession.

I am sorry to hear that you are dissatisfied with the Association's position on this matter. I would like to explain the reasons for our policy.

The American Medical Association has always been a body of physicians, and its members have always been known as physicians. It is the duty of the Association to protect the title of physician and to prevent its use by unqualified persons.

I am sure that you will understand the Association's position on this matter.

Very respectfully,
J. H. HARRIS, Secretary

THE DESCENDANTS OF LAZARUS DAMRON IN WEST VIRGINIA

By Luther F. Damron

LAZARUS DAMRON, the Revolutionary War hero and Indian Scout, was a son of Moses of Albemarle County, Virginia, where he was born. In order to have been the active hero that he was during the Revolutionary War, he must have been born in 1755, plus or minus a few years. After the war, he lived in Russell County, Virginia, and subsequently moved to Floyd County, Kentucky. A deed executed by him and his wife shows her name as Nancy, but it is believed that her name was Nairy McInery. This given name was popular in the second and third generation of his descendants. In later years he gave testimony as a witness in a trial in Floyd County, Kentucky, in which he testified that he settled in that county in 1804. It is believed that he had six sons, three of whom settled and remained in Kentucky (and whose names are unknown to this writer), and some time in the 1820's the other three settled in what is now Wayne County, West Va. It is with this latter three and their descendants that the writer is familiar. Their names were Moses, Samuel and George. This is not necessarily the order of their birth.

1. SAMUEL, settled on the left fork of Twelve Pole Creek in Wayne County and was the father of George W. Damron (and others). His son George W. was the father of Judge James Damron and William Damron. This Samuel never lived at Fort Gay, or Cassville, as it was then called.

2. GEORGE, settled in the place where the village of Dunlow now stands. This is on the main branch of Twelve Pole Creek. I am not personally familiar with his descendants, but believe it would be comparatively easy to check some of them.

3. MOSES, the other son settling in Wayne County is my own ancestor. He and his brothers were most likely born in Russell County, Virginia, and accompanied their father, Lazarus, to Floyd County, Kentucky, in 1804. Moses married Polly Preston there on March 28, 1811. They had at least three sons, Samuel, Lazarus and John. These three later made their homes at Cassville (Now Fort Gay), West Va. My father, Arnold, knew all three of them, and some of the children of each of them.

Moses settled about five miles farther up Twelve Pole Creek from his brother, George, and about the place where Cabwaylingo State Park is today. Either prior or subsequent to coming to Wayne County, sometime in the 1820's, he became a widower, and took as his second wife Rhoda Sadler. They had sons: George, Thomas, Elisha, William, David, Wash., and Richard. Also prior or subsequent to coming to Wayne County, Moses may have spent some time in the West. At least several of his sons did. George and Thomas both spent some time in Arkansas. They may have gone there with their father (improbable) or they may have gone as a result of experiences related to them by him.

(1) SAMUEL, was the oldest of the children of above Moses and Polly. He was born March 18, 1812, died May 25, 1905. He was married three times. By his first wife, whose maiden name was Vashtie Jarrell, he had at least two sons, Moses and James. (This Moses was the father of Fillmore Damron, who was known to the writer. Samuel by his second wife, Caudice (Visey-Dicey) Copley had three sons: the oldest was Wayne, the next Lafayette, and the youngest was Jamison (Jemmison). My father thinks they also had four daughters but he does not remember their names. My father does not remember the name of the third wife of Samuel but thinks it was Mary. From others we learn it was Mary Newman or Luman.

(2) LAZARUS, son of Moses and Polly, had at least one son, Zeke (Ezekiel), known to my father. He may have had other children.

(3) JOHN, the other son of Moses and Polly, settling in the vicinity of Cassville (now Fort Gay), had at least two sons: John (Long John) and Matthew. These two were known to the writer, personally. Matthew married Lydia Herald and they left quite a large family, most of whom, I believe are still living: Jamison, Lafayette, William (killed in World War I), Wayne, Anderson, and probably one or two more boys, in addition to several girls.

It should be noted that these sons of Moses all lived in the vicinity of Fort Gay and that this Samuel is the only one of that name who did live there. The other Samuel, who settled on the left fork of Twelve Pole, was a brother to his father, Moses.

(4) RICHARD, son of Moses and Rhoda, was born 1830, died 1906. He lived all his life at the place where his father settled. The cabin built by his father, Moses, was the first ever built on Twelve Pole Creek. Lazarus, the father of Moses, may have made trips to Wayne County before and after his three sons settled there, but if he ever lived there my father has no knowledge of it.

Richard married Nancy Marcum and they had three sons: John, 1856-1951, George born 1865, and Arnold, my father, born 1868. Both George and Arnold are still living. The daughters of Richard and Nancy were: Bethany, Allie, Hulda, Nairy, and Vashtie. Aunt Nairy was the last survivor of the girls. She died in 1952.

i. JOHN, the oldest son of Richard and Nancy, had three sons: (1) Wayne, prominent in politics and business in Southern West Virginia; associated for a number of years with Dr. Henry D. Hatfield (ex-governor of West Va.) in the ownership of hospitals. Wayne had two daughters, no sons; (2) Richard, in insurance business near Huntington, has one son and one daughter; (3) George, died about 1924, leaving widow (Clytie) and one son, now living in Roanoke, Va.

ii. GEORGE, second son of Richard and Nancy, has two sons: George, lives in Detroit; John, lives in Ohio.

iii. ARNOLD, youngest of the sons, married Ida Finley. They had five boys and one girl: Della, Henry, Walter, Luther F., Millard C., and Bernard. Henry and Bernard are dead. Della, who married Charles Mahone of Virginia, has no children. Walter, who married Vesta White of Mingo County, has one son. Millard, who married Ruth Brown of Mingo County, has five young sons, together with my father and mother live on Twelve Pole Creek near the early settlements of Moses.

My mother's mother was Mary Virginia (Polly) Kirk, daughter of Joseph Kirk, Yankee captain in the Civil War. His son, James, served under him as a private. After the War, James lived at Inez, Ky. Andy, another son of Joseph, for the last several years of his life was an attorney at either Pikeville or Prestonburg, Ky. (I believe the latter). As judge and attorney he had interesting experiences with the Hatfield-McCoy feuders. My mother's father was George Washington Finley, son of James Finley, who also lived all his life on the left fork of Twelve Pole Creek, near where Samuel Damron, son of Lazarus the Indian scout, lived.

There is a tradition among those of my father's generation, and I have heard it from ones senior to him by several years, that Lazarus (the Indian scout) and his sons came from Virginia, and they were the only ones of the Damron name to settle in the mountains of Kentucky and West Virginia. Tradition in the early days of that mountain country carried a lot of weight. Most always, it replaced Bureaus of Vital Statistics, and often many other official records. Court records and various official registers of Floyd and Pike Counties also make mention of a Richard Damron, a James, and a Joseph, in addition to Samuel and Moses, whom we know to have later settled on the two Twelve Pole Creeks in Wayne Co., W. Va.

MOSES DAMRON OF TWELVE POLE CREEK, WEST VIRGINIA

- I. LAWRENCE DAMERON m. Dorothy _____, lived in Northumberland Co., Va. 1652.
- II. GEORGE m. Elizabeth, widow of John Dennis, and inherited father's estate.
- III. LAZARUS m. Elizabeth Smith, d. 1749 Albemarle County, Va.

IV. MOSES, who inherited his father's estate on Damron Creek and Red Bank, Albemarle County, Va. His sons were: Moses, Lazarus, Richard, probably Capt. John.

V. LAZARUS, Indian scout and Revolutionary soldier of Russell Co., Va. He was in Floyd Co., Ky. 1804, settling near Boldman, then moved to Twelve Pole Creek where he built the first cabin. The Court Orders of Cabell Co., W.Va. 1814-1820, have an item: "Tue. 22, Sept. 1818, Book 1, p.305: Ordered that Stephen Marchum be appointed overseer of the road leading from the mouth of Lick Creek Branch to Josiah Marcums and that _____ Williams William Astrip Benj. Serry James Wileman Samuel Webb Joseph Robertson LAZARUS DAMREL RICHARD DAMREL William Brumley William Cox Ambrose Watts James Vincent Elijah Donathan Vanswearingin John Nivens Joseph Nivens Jacob Marcum John Marcum James Bale Robert Ball & Josiah Marcum do aid and assist him in keeping the same in repair." (Note: Damrel was a common spelling for Dameron in the early days.) Wayne was formed from Cabell County.

I. MOSES, son of Lazarus. Moses Dameron married Polly Preston March 28, 1811, in Floyd Co., Ky. minister R. Haws (1,15,304). Moses owned a great deal of land on Twelve Pole Creek, Wayne Co., W.Va. Arnold Damron of Dunlow, W. Va. told A.A. that his father Richard married Nancy Marcum and his grandfather Moses married Rody Sadler, his greatgrandfather Lazarus's wife he did not know. He said: "Samuel Damron and Lazarus Damron of Ft. Gay were children of Lazarus' first wife and half brothers to my father. I think the mother of Sam and Lazarus was _____ Preston. My father's own brothers were George, Tom, Lice, Bill, Dave and Wash. My greatgrandfather never came to W. Va.--came to Va. and settled in Va. My grandfather Moses lived about two miles from my place here on Twelve Pole Creek. He had about 1,000 acres and when old went to Arkansas and lived about fifty miles from Little Rock. Great-grandfather's children--three settled in Pike Co., Ky. and three in Wayne Co., W.Va. I belong to the Wayne Co. group. It was all Virginia at that time. The Damrons were mostly Baptist."

Arnold's son, Luther F. Damron, of 2409 Hirst Terrace, Havertown, Penna., wrote Nov. 20, 1954: "The little part of the Damron history that I know I believe to be quite authentic, as it has been told to me numerous times not only by my father and his two older brothers, George and John, but by numerous other old settlers I knew there some forty years ago, most of whom at that time were in their seventies. Their stories coincide remarkably well with your own "Descendants of Lazarus Damron" and it goes about as follows:

"Lazarus Damron came to this country (Ft. Gay-Louisa area) from Virginia. He had several sons, some of whom settled in Kentucky, the others in Wayne County (or what is now Wayne County, West Va.) One of the sons settling on Twelve Pole Creek with him was Moses. Moses had several sons, among whom were George, Thomas, Elisha, William, David, Washington, and Richard. Richard married Nancy Marcum and they had three sons and several daughters. John, the oldest son was born 1856, George 1865, and Arnold, my father, born 1868. The latter two are still living. Moses, the son of Lazarus and father of Richard, married Rhoda Kerr. Of grandfather Richard's brothers I know that George and Tom spent some time in the West. Tom returned to Wayne County from Arkansas (I believe) where he had killed someone in a duel. He in turn was followed to Wayne County and killed. This Tom wore his hair long in a style later made famous by Buffalo Bill."

It is a well-known fact that the American Medical Association has been the leading force in the development of the medical profession in this country. It has been the champion of the public interest, the defender of the patient, and the promoter of the highest standards of medical education and practice. Its efforts have been directed towards the improvement of the medical service to the people, the advancement of the medical sciences, and the elevation of the status of the medical profession. The letter of L.F. Damron also states: "I would like to point out that most all the early settlers of that particular region (the mountain areas of Kentucky and West Va.) came there from Old Virginia as hunters and trappers. (Quite likely they were encouraged in this by the Virginia Gov't as they formed an outpost against the Indians and the French.) There were plenty of beaver, otter, and other fur-bearing animals, as well as game for food. This game, plus a few domestic animals, the vegetable gardens and corn patches around their cabin furnished about all they needed for subsistence. However, they did have to import salt, powder and shot, and such other manufactured products as they could afford. Communication with the East, across the mountains, was too difficult. Thus, for the most part they turned to the Ohio River and the South. Boats came up the Ohio and the Big Sandy Rivers to Fort Gay and Louisa. These settlements were the trading centers for settlers of the near-by counties in the two states.

"Of grandfather Richard's brothers I know that George and Tom spent some time in the West. Tom returned to Wayne County from Arkansas (I believe) where he had killed someone in a duel. He in turn was followed to Wayne County and killed. This Tom wore his hair long in a style later made famous by Buffalo Bill.

"There was a Samuel Damron who survived the Civil War (a rebel). He was a cousin of my grandfather Richard. Therefore his father would have been another son of Lazarus and brother of Moses. A couple interesting stories of this Samuel impress themselves on my mind. One was that a fellow soldier beside him in battle was shot in such a manner as to provoke an immediate outburst of laughter from Samuel. Ever after he was known as 'Tee-hee' Sam Damron. Another story is that right after the Civil War he disappeared for a couple years. In that time he had gone to Arkansas and exacted retribution for the murder of his cousin Tom.

"When I was a boy there were quite a few other Damrons in that area, all distant cousins of Dad's, and senior to him by 10 to 20 years. To mention but a few, there was a Matthew Damron who married Lydia, also a Damron; another Richard, another John, and a Fillmore. These people were probably second cousins of grandfather Richard.

"One thing seems true, that the old timers at least were quite a prolific people and begot children rather late in life. I am impressed with the fact that I had a brother born 1919, and our grandfather Richard 89 years before. Dad at 86 has a grandson less than a year old, and his brother John had children after he was 60 years old."

On Jan. 18, 1955, he wrote: "Fortunately my father not only knew Rediford's grandfather Samuel, but knew many of his children, and as you will note we are related through the Caudice Copley Damron on the Marcum side... Those records up to 1816 mention, in addition to Lazarus, Richard, James, John, Moses, Joseph and Richard, Jr. (The latter we can assume to be a son of the other Richard and grandson of Lazarus.) We can add to this list Samuel and George whom we know to be sons of Lazarus and settled with their brother Moses in Wayne Co., W.Va. Thus we have seven who may have been sons of Lazarus."... Wayne, the son of my Father's brother, John, lives in Huntington and is seventy years old. I expect to send him what information I have... When I was about twenty years old, Wayne and I were in business together in Huntington for a short time."

On Dec. 27, he wrote: "We have three daughters, one Mary L. (youngest), is twenty-five, married, lives in Arlington, Va., has a son 7 months old. Marjorie, 27, lives near us, has two sons and a daughter, six, four, and one. Miriam, 30, teaches school nearby, but this year is teaching in England, for the one year only. We greatly missed her at Christmas. I have a good looking family, and must try to find a picture to send you... Most of the Damrons I have known have dark brown hair and eyes, though out of every family of four or five children, some will have blue eyes, and most all have blond hair when young. Four out of five boys in our family had blond hair when young... one has gray eyes, two blue, one brother and myself have dark brown ones. Six feet is about the average height (I am 6'2"). I used to have offices in New York. I left W.Va. in 1927, lived in Pittsburgh a couple years..."

JOSIAH SILAS MARCUM

By Luther F. Damron

Referring to the letter of Retta D. Hatfield, 139 S. 20th Ave., Maywood, Ill. L.F. Damron wrote: "Apparently her grandfather was Samuel, son of Moses and Polly Damron, and he was a half-brother (senior by 18 years) of my grandfather, Richard. Her grandfather lived at Cassville (now Fort Gay, W.Va.). The other Samuel, brother of Moses and son of Lazarus, the Indian Scout, lived on the left fork of Twelve Pole Creek, and never lived at Fort Gay--Cassville. The mother of her grandmother, Caudice (Vissey-Dicey) Gopley was Rebecca. This Rebecca, whose maiden name was Kerr, married a Sadler first, and was left a widow with one daughter, Rhoda. It is believed that all three were born in Scotland. Steve Marcum, a brother of father's grandfather Jacob Marcum, married the widow, Rebecca, and my father's grandfather Moses Damron (also her great-grandfather) married the girl, Rhoda. Both Steven (Stephen) and Jacob were sons of Josiah Silas Marcum, a Revolutionary War soldier who was buried in Wayne Co., W. Va.

"Josiah's son Jacob was the father of Nancy, my father's mother. He also had several other children, including daughters Bethany and Betty., and a son Jacob. Josiah's son Stephen had a son named Stephen who was the father of John S. Marcum, one of the most distinguished attorneys ever to practice in Southern West Va., and a son William who was a county judge in Wayne County. My father thinks that the father of Josiah Silas Marcum was Silas who changed his name from MacDonald to Marcum. This Silas MacDonald is supposed to have lived with a family by the name of Marcum (probably reared by them), and adopted their name."

Mrs. Hatfield wrote as follows; to Mrs. Pearce, who said she was born and reared in Illinois near Franklin Co. May 10, 1951: "My grandpa Samuel was born in 1814 in Virginia. His father's name was Moses; he was married twice. Grandfather's mother was a Herald. Shortly after hearing from the Rev. Mr. Dameron I moved from Williamson to Chicago with my only child and her three children. My daughter died two years ago last January. The older grandson is married and has two little girls. I still have a granddaughter and one grandson with me. In three weeks I will be seventy years old, but like all Damrons I ever knew, I still feel young and never find time for all the things I want to do. I remember my grandfather, Samuel, saying (he was eight years old when his father Moses brought him to the Western part of Va. in 1821) that they had lingered awhile in Russell Co., Va. Grandfather had a brother John--there seems always to be a William--many Georges. One of my great-greats married Nairy or Narra McInerary in Va. 1833 or so. I think the name George is for Washington. Grandfather had a cousin G. Washington. He had a son George W. I just recall that at Williamson there was a young girl named Agnes Thompson, whose mother was Edna Thompson (a Damron). The girl died, but she has a brother Woodrow Thompson still there, and a sister of Judge James Dameron m. an Elkins, a railroad conductor."

In a questionnaire she filled out Mrs. Hatfield wrote that the father of Samuel b. in Va. 1814 was Moses or Lazarus, and said "Judge James Dameron deceased was son of George Washington Dameron, Wayne Co., W.Va. Moses Dameron m. a Miss Herald around 1800 perhaps Russell. She was his second wife, her father's name was unknown and she did not know of any Heralds alive. Samuel named his children Nancy, Vinson, Moses, Jennie, Lisbeth, Thursa, James, Wayne, Mary Anne, Lafayette, Jameson (my father), Florence."

In a letter of Oct. 1952, she said that Samuel came to Wayne Co. 1821. "Grandfather had a brother John, a Tom, and William (who told tall tales). Tom and William went West when young, Texas most of the time..." She said one of her grandfather's sisters married a Preston, from Ky.. "Josiah Marcum, properly Markham, was a Rev. soldier, born 5/2/1759 at Chesterfield Co., Va. d. 1852, pension Sur. File No. 8999. The DAR found Josiah Marcum's grave...A cousin has my grandfather's Bible, and I can't locate him."

THE DAMRONS OF FT. GAY, W. VA., AND LOUISA, KY.

"A bridge across Big Sandy River connects Kentucky and West Virginia. Louisa, Ky., Laurence Co. is at one end and Fort Gay (formerly Cassville), W.Va. at the other. The Big Sandy by some freak of nature flows north, I am told. The bridge is at a point where the Tug Fork, which I presume is a fork of Big Sandy, and the Levisa River meet. An old fort was once between these two rivers near the present bridge. It was first called Vancouver's Fort but for many years has been called Ft. Gay. It received its name because of the gay life at the fort. It was built of logs. Maybe the Indian Scout, Lazarus Damron, who went from Russell Co., Va. to Floyd Co. Ky and then perhaps to W. Va. had something to do with this fort. Long ago also another fort stood on the hill at the western boundary of Louisa. Mr. Scalf of Prestonburg, Floyd Co., did not mention Lazarus in connection with these forts but seemed to think that perhaps he lived around Ceredo or Kenova, very early settlements of W. Va.

"I am told that Joshua Fry, surveyor for the governor of Virginia, at his request did some surveying in this Ky. and W. Va. district and perhaps had built the old log fort. I have not verified the authority of this statement by further research. Fry was a native of Albemarle Co., Va. where he owned much land and he and Peter Jefferson produced maps of the Albemarle section as well as other districts of Va., Md. and Pa. Some are in the University of Virginia library.

"Monument inscription of Louisa, Ky. at end of the bridge: 'On the point 200 feet east of this spot in the spring of 1789 was erected the first settlement in this section known as Vancouver's Fort. Charles Vancouver was granted 15,000 acres on Dec. 17, 1788, by Governor Beverly Randolph of Virginia. He and his men cleared land, built the fort and planted a crop. A year later they were driven out by the Indians. Erected by the Louisa Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution.'

M. L. Branham, Ft. Gay, W.Va. age about eighty said: "There were three brothers, Lazarus and Samuel lived in Ft. Gay and Moses lived on Twelve Pole Creek. I presume old Lazarus was a brother to old Sam and Moses. Old Lazarus died at Ft. Gay, and he lived close to Louisa bridge. Old Sam had sons, Jemmison and Wayne. Jemmison's sons were Wayne and Lot. Wayne and maybe Lot went to Catlettsburg. Big Wayne was Lazarus' son. Moses' sons were Edd, Tom, Gid, Sam, John, Vince, Floyd, Wayne. They were all Baptists but the Damrons today belong to many churches. Go to see Mrs. John Damron, Louisa, Highbottom community; Moses Damron, grandson of old Moses, Radnor, W.Va.; Neibert Damron, Glen Hayes, W.Va., Bert Damron, Radnor, W.Va. and Lucian of Radnor."

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of the growth of a nation from a collection of small, separate colonies to a united people. The first step in this process was the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. This document declared that the thirteen colonies were no longer part of Great Britain and that they were now free and independent states. The next step was the signing of the Constitution in 1787. This document established the framework for the new government and provided for the separation of powers into three branches: the executive, the legislative, and the judicial. The Constitution also provided for the election of a President and the creation of a Supreme Court. The final step in the process was the signing of the Bill of Rights in 1791. This document guaranteed the basic rights of the people, such as the right to free speech, the right to a fair trial, and the right to keep and bear arms. The Bill of Rights was a crucial part of the Constitution, as it ensured that the government would not become too powerful and that the rights of the people would be protected.

Mr. Bill Reed of Fort Gay, W. Va., age about seventy said: "I remember the three brothers, Sam, Lazarus and Moses Damron here at Fort Gay. They were old men when I was a boy. Uncle Sam married my great aunt. She was his last wife and they had no children. He had been married twice before. She had considerable property. Sam had three boys--I think they were by his second wife--Wayne, Jamison and Lazarus. Wayne and Jamison went to Catlettsburg where Wayne had a saloon. He was a good man. He was called 'Big Wayne.' The three brothers, Sam, Lazarus and Moses all lived in Wayne County on Twelve Pole Creek and Sam was Squire (Justice of the Peace) there. Uncle Sam and Lazarus moved to Fort Gay but Moses stayed on Twelve Pole and had a large family. He had 1,000 acres or more. Lazarus was a shoemaker and had a shop in his home here at Fort Gay. He would half sole a pair of boots or shoes, furnish the leather and put in wooden pegs--at a charge of twenty five cents a pair. His home and shop was only a few feet from Uncle Sam's home here at Fort Gay but his first home was very near my home here in Fort Gay and it was a flat boat which had been remodelled and added to. Uncle Sam was a tall man of six feet two inches and he always wore boots. He would amuse us children by jumping high into the air, smacking his boots together twice before he hit the ground. He worked some as a blacksmith. The Damrons lived well, had fine gardens, plenty of food and often entertained the minister. I do not remember the children of Lazarus and Moses. Lazarus is buried in old Wellman cemetery and Uncle Sam in the private cemetery belonging to my family, a few miles from his home."

"Mr. Reed took me to little, old Wellman cemetery but Lazarus' grave was not marked. There were very few tombs, no Damron ones. The cemetery consisted mostly of sunken holes. At the other cemetery Sam Damron's tomb is quite readable. It is inscribed Samuel Damron, born Mar. 18th, 1812, died May 25, 1905. His wife's tomb (last wife) Mary Damron, 1822-1908. See photos I took, also home of Samuel. The home of Lazarus is not standing.

"Mr. Byron Reed, older brother to Bill, age about eighty or more, of Ft. Gay told me: 'My memory is not as good as Bill's but I recall something about the Damrons here at Ft. Gay. Lazarus and Sam lived close together and Laz. had a shoe shop in his home. Laz. had a son Ezekiel. There was one called 'Lying Bill.' I don't know whose son he was. Lazarus was younger than Sam. Sam was born in 1812. Moses was Sam's son but he could have had a brother Moses. Sam lived in Catlettsburg a while, moved to Ft. Gay, then to Catlettsburg again, and then back to Ft. Gay. Sam's children by his first wife were Moses, Jim and Polly and children by second wife were Jemmerson, Lot and Wayne. There were no children by the third wife. Sam and Laz. were Primitive Baptists. Laz's daughter Lizzie married a Roberson.'

"Mr. Reed's sister, older than he, lives at 36 S. St., Charleston, W.Va.

"Mr. Reynolds Frazier, Mayor of Ft. Gay, about eighty-six years old, said: 'I knew the Damrons here in Ft. Gay. Lazarus was a shoemaker. He did not have the wealth of Sam. Lazarus lived in a house owned by Sam. They were all Baptist and Moses on Twelve Pole Creek was strict Primitive Baptist. Moses owned a great deal of land on Twelve Pole. He was married twice. Lazarus' son of Ft. Gay was a shoe maker also. His name was Ezekiel. He was an only son. Lazarus' daughter Lizzie married John Roberson and another (I can't think of her name) married Tom Kimball. Moses had several sons but I can only think of one--Tom. Sam's sons were Wayne and Jemmerson. Mrs. Sara Elizabeth Damron Reynolds of Kanova, W.Va. 84 years old is a daughter of Jemmerson. Young Mose Damron on Mill Creek, about fifty years or more should tell you a great deal, address Ft. Gay, Route 2, grandson of Moses. Lazarus is buried in Wellman cemetery.'

It is a well-known fact that the discovery of America was made by Christopher Columbus in 1492. He was an Italian explorer who sailed across the Atlantic Ocean in search of a new route to the East Indies. His voyage was sponsored by the Spanish monarchs, Isabella and Ferdinand. Columbus's discovery of America opened up a new world of exploration and trade for the European powers.

The early years of American history were marked by the struggles of the first settlers. The Pilgrims, who arrived in 1620, and the Puritans, who arrived in 1630, were among the first to establish permanent settlements in North America. They faced many hardships, including lack of food, disease, and conflict with the Native Americans. Despite these challenges, they managed to survive and eventually built thriving communities.

The Revolutionary War was a pivotal moment in American history. It was fought between the thirteen original colonies and Great Britain from 1775 to 1783. The war was fought over the issue of self-governance and the right to be taxed without representation. The colonies ultimately won the war, leading to the creation of the United States of America.

The early years of the United States were a period of growth and development. The country expanded its territory through the Louisiana Purchase and the acquisition of Florida. The federal government established its structure and began to exercise its powers. The early years were also marked by the struggle for civil rights and the fight against slavery.

A letter from Mrs. L. J. Napierskie, 1108 N. Alabama St., Okmulgee, Okla. said: "Today I received a letter from my Dear Old Aunt Betty Dameron of Allen St. Ft. Worth in which she ask me to write you and tell you of the history of our branch of the Dameron family. Back in the year 1879 my mother and father were married at near Miller, Mo. she of birth was Mary Ellon Dameron. He, John Houston Holloway, from Tenn. She came of a family of 7, 3 girls and 4 sons. Her father Edward Dameron & Amanda Putnam came to Kentuckie from Virginia, many years before mother was born. I will now give you the history as I know it, mostly by word of mouth, beginning with the oldest son of Mandy and Edward Dameron . . . Now Will Dameron has done a lot of research in tracing his family, his widow of Middleton, Mo. may be able to give you a gold mine of information. I visited him about 1950. He said they were of Danish and Welch blood, and the original family had 10 sons. I have travelled a lot in the western part of the U.S. and I never sean that name but once out between Los Angeles and the ocean side, on a garage. I guess he was one of uncle's Joe's sons. If Joe is alive he is the only one that remains. .. In Springfield, Mo. you will see that name ablaze in neon signs all over town. There are doctors, nurses, grocer, electric cos., Sheet Mettle works, minasters, garages, all owned by Damerons, who are descendants of Jim and Bob, these are first second and third cousins of mine....Grandfather and mother died near Miller, Mo. around the turn of the century. He was a farmer, a tobacco grower, and poore. He died in an insain asylum. She died of lagrip. Grandmother Dameron couldnt write her name. Jim's children are minasters, farmers, and his oldest son Willie of Middleton, Mo. has college teachers, minasters, nurses, all educated people, so are Bob's sons. Zoe of Sparta was a nurse for many years, now retired 63 years of age. Mrs. Anderson's girls are nurses and teachers. She was Minnie Dameron...

"My mother passed away at the age of 86, in Aug. 1946. She and father are buried near Checotah, Okla. in a country graveyard. He was a Methodist minaster, also a 33 degree Mason and a Republican. He died in March, 1908, when I was 14 years old. He came of a Scottish family His mother was a Douglas of Tenn., he a Holloway Scot on both sides of the house...if it is not too much trouble would you be so obliging as to send me the information you have gathered on this family history."

So I thought it might be possible for you to contact the right one in his family, and get what information you need. Some of his family live in Huntington, W.Va. 2nd Mr. Millard Damron, Shelbyana, Ky., Pike Co. Millard Damron was also telling me of tracing the Damron generation. My grandfather was named John Damron and my great grandfather was named Hiram Damron and my father told me that he wouldn't tell them where he came from but later years I learned from L.P. Damron who lived in another part of Carter Co that he had a great uncle who left Old Va. and came down in this country and they did not hear from him and he knew by what I told him that he was his great uncle and that we was related. His boys and mine went to the same school and people thought they was brothers. I am like you I would like to have a history of the Damron generations all that I can find out is that they all came from Old Va. as it was called at that time. L. P. EXCERPTS FROM "THE BIG SANDY VALLEY," BY WILLIAM ELY

This book, published in Catlettsburg, 1887, is very rare, so I shall copy a few excerpts from it. P. 6: "As early as 1789 the emigrants began to come to Sandy ...On the point of land where the Sandy and Tug form a junction was the first settlement attempted, in 1789. Soon after, near the mouth of Pigeon, was the next; next at Pond Creek, on the Tug. All the inhabitants from these places were driven away by the Indians. Not until 1790 was it safe to stir up the redskins. BLOCK HOUSES WERE BUILT BY THE DAMRONS, and others, near Pikeville, by others near Prater Creek. The Aucstiers or Auxiers, as now written, had built two, near the mouth of John's Creek. Over at Licking Station, now Salyersville, was a large fortification. At other places on the waters of the Sandy, similar forts had been erected...The Indians ceased troubling our forefathers and mothers in 1790...Yet game was much more abundant in the Big Sandy than in the Scioto...By 1806 many of the old families, whose descendants are now our foremost people, had taken up their abode in the valley.

"The majority of the early settlers belonged to the best families of the older states. They, it is true, brought their household goods on the backs of horses, for no roads had been opened up...for many years after the settlement of the country more slaves in proportion to the population were found on Sandy than in the Blue Grass region. They soon had pay-schools established in every neighborhood to teach the young. Churches they did not have...they used the shady dells to worship God in...every householder saw to it that one room in his great log mansion was dedicated to the worship of God...one family would often support a big meeting of a week's duration, sleeping and feeding all who came to worship. This primitive custom has not died out yet. Especially does it still prevail among the primitive Baptists in the Tug Valley...The early pioneers ground their corn on hand-mills...They used bear's oil in place of lard to shorten their johnnycakes. It was many years before they had much hog meat or beef; but bear, deer, turkeys and other game and fowls were abundant. Honey was almost as plentiful as sorghum, and every spring they made of maple-sugar and treacle enough to run them through the season. The skins of the bear, the deer, buffalo....afforded a revenue...and when the reader takes into account the vast sum added by the countless wolf scalps at five dollars apiece, and the ginseng crop, he feels that his ancestors were engaged in a more lucrative business than saw-logging...the thrifty housewife worked up the flax and cotton raised by the men...Many of the men could sport breeches made of dressed deer-skins, and shoes made of the same material were found on the feet of both sexes. When the wolves became less troublesome, sheep were raised...Every house had a spinning wheel, a reel, and a loom...House-raisings, log-rollings, corn-huskings, were engaged in by the men; wool-pickings, quiltings, and flax-pullings by the women ...Many of those gatherings wound up at night with a play, and sometimes with a big dance.

"The morals of the people were good. The men were brave, and the women virtuous. ...the modern pistol, was almost unknown then...men...generally very coolly fought it out with their fists, and ended the matter of shaking hands all round. No feuds then...intoxication did not prevail as alarmingly as it has since the apple has become so large a factor in potent drinks on Sandy...a great reformation has been going on for twenty years, and the sale of liquor is, in the Kentucky counties, outlawed by the people. Christian progress and esthetic taste bid fair to raise the people of the valley to a higher plane than is attained in any other part of the State. The somewhat isolated location has kept the valley exempt from the grosser vices of the age."

Page 11. "The Leslie's must have been the earliest permanent settlers in the Sandy Valley, yet immediately after their coming, the DAMRONS, the Auxiers, the Browns, of Johnson; the Marcums, on Mill Creek; the Hammonds, the Weddingtons, the Pinsons, Justices, Walkers, Morgans, Grahams, Williamsons, Marrs, Mayors, Lackeys, Hagers, Laynes, Borders, Prestons, and others, followed closely on their trail.

In 1789 the Leslies were driven off Pond Creek, on the Tug River, but returned in 1791 to John's Creek. We know that Moses Damron, Jr. and his wife, Sarah Damron, were in Fleming County (later Floyd) by Dec. 31, 1798, when they deeded land in Russell Co., Va. to John Tallett.

Ely has an affidavit of John Hanks (I wonder if were related to Lincoln's mother), 1838: "I was employed by Charles Vancouver in the month of February, 1789, along with several other men, to go to the forks of Big Sandy River, for the purpose of settling, clearing, and improving the Vancouver tract, situated on the point formed by the junction of the Tug and Levisa Forks, and near where the town of Louisa now stands... We all, about ten in number, except three or four of Vancouver's men, remained there during that year, and left the next march, except three or four men to hold possession. But they were driven off in April, 1790, by the Indians... We had to go to the mouth of the Kanawha River, a distance of 87 miles for corn, and no one was settled near us; probably the nearest was a fort about thirty or forty miles away, and this was built may be early in 1790. The fort we built consisted of three cabins and some pens made of logs, like corn-cribs, and reaching from one cabin to the other."

Ely continued: "What did they wear eighty years ago in the valley? The men wore buckskin breeches and hunting-shirts of the same material, home-made linen or cotton shirts... moccasins made of buffalo hide... hats were either made by a local hatter out of the abundance of fur at hand, or made at home out of fur skins... The ladies... spun and wove the cotton and flax into cloth... they made homesome dresses... they would color with barks, and make the most handsome stripes..."

"What did the people eat?... Bear-meat boiled, or roasted ... Venison broiled on the coals, or boiled and eaten cold. Pheasants hung up before the fire... Johnnycake made of corn-meal beaten in mortars or ground on hand-mills... with some stewed pumpkin put in the dough. Wild honey in the comb... maple molasses... huckleberries, services, and other wild fruit as relishes... Hog-meat and beef soon followed along, with a little flour, and after 1820 coffee was used quite often. The old pioneer did not lack for plenty to eat and that of the best."

Ely says that when two young ladies bought "store dresses and store shoes" for the first time in Pike County and started on foot to meeting, carrying their new shoes, the cattle saw them and stampeded "frantic with fright... The cattle had never seen any calico before."

Ely says about 1790 Charles and Emla Willard "came down on Tug from Clinch River to hunt bear and deer for their pelts." Charles was drowned on John's Creek and the place was called "Millard's Creek," now changed by misspelling to Miller's Creek.

The Big Sandy, with its Levisa and Tug Forks, flows to the Ohio River. The Shelby "is capable of floating large rafts." This system of waterways drains "Wise, Dickinson, Tazewell, and Russell, in Virginia; and McDowell, Wyoming, Logan and Wayne, in West Virginia... The soil is a rich sandy loam, as productive as are the Ohio bottom-lands... The bottom and cove lands produce heavy crops of grain, tobacco, and meadow-grasses, while the hillside lands serve well in grass, grain, and fruit... In early day this valley was the great center of the ginseng industry... Other medical roots abound... Poplar, oak, cherry, walnut, sugar, beach, hickory, linden, sycamore, and other timber, abound."

"The Auxiers, Meads, Staffords, Borders, Williamsons, Strattons, Leslies, Ratliffs, Lackeys, Osburns, Prestons, Cecils, Porters, Hatchers, Laynes, Weddingtons, Friends, Hatfields, Marcums, Runyans, Justices, Prestons, Porters, Brewers, Fulkersons, McDowells, Clarks, Goffs, Garrards, Browns, Dixons, Maguires, Grahams, Morgans, Robinsons, Belchers, Bevins, Walkers, Mayos, Hagers, Millards, Stumps, and others, were, some of them much earlier than David White, at the Mouth in 1798."

"In 1830 the vast forests...had no real value attached to them...In 1830 the existence of stone-coal was almost unknown...Salt springs abound in every county, and salt has been made from the water ...from the earliest settlement. Petroleum has been known to exist...for fifty years. Since 1865 many wells have been bored...Potter's clay of the finest quality is found...In 1847 an English company bought several thousand acres of land on the bank of the Sandy, two miles above the mouth, for...potteries....Some of the clay...was sent to England...

"Of the early preachers...Rev. Marcus Lindsay...was a Methodist divine...about the time of the War of 1812. After Mr. Lindsay, Rev. William B. Landrum was the most noted...1834." Ely says the "Spurlock brothers, Burwell and Stephen...were loved by all." They were Methodists, and lived on Twelve Pole. The early teachers were Joseph West who taught "from Prestonburg down to the mouth of Tug," Lewis Mayo, James McSorley, M. T. Burriss, Prof. Wm. N. Randolph, Wm. Murphy, Charles Grim.

George Washington made a wonderful survey up the Tug River in 1766 and wrote of it in his Field Notes.

Laban T. Moore was the Whig in Congress, who supported the Union in 1861, and with William Vinson, L.J. Hampton, and others, was instrumental in getting into service the 14th Kentucky Regiment. He was its first colonel." He was a Mason. P. 42 says: "The 14th was in many a fiery skirmish...Especially was it exposed to the enemy's lines in its march on Atlanta from Nashville, under Sherman (commanded by Col. G. W. Gallup of Louisa.

On p. 46, Col. John Dils says: "It would be marvellous to the present generation should I relate some of the old hunters' yarns...I am now thinking of some of the old Nimrods, such men as the Pinsons, Maynards, Colleys, Belchers, Owens, and a host of others, not forgetting Uncle Barney Johnson," who plowed up a golden wedge from an Indian burying ground and gave it to a blacksmith to braze bells with, not knowing what it was made of. Col. Dils was arrested by Col. John S. Williams, Confederate commander, whose forces were camped at Pikeville 1861, and sent to Libby Prison. On his release he went to see Abraham Lincoln and says his "inestimable worth could be seen both in the Executive and the great, swelling, loving heart for the people." In 1862 at Catlettsburg "there being so many refugees from the Upper Sandy counties (Pike, Floyd, etc.) that wanted to go into the service of the United States army soliciting me, I...recruited the first day about two hundred men, and soon after raised...the 39th Kentucky Regiment, Mounted Infantry."

Ely says the "Rice family is one of the most noted of all the old families...and lived in Wales. ..During Judge Rice's prime, the State of Kentucky was overwhelmingly Whig. Almost any Whig could have beaten the Democratic party." This was in 1860 and Rice was a Democrat, but against secession. "The Rices of Johnson ...are Republicans in politics."

On p. 72 he has a notice of "The Preston Family," Moses being the ancestor of Bedford Co., Va. a Revolutionary Soldier who m. Miss Arthur. In 1800 he moved to the Big Sandy to the Morgan farm in Floyd, hence to the forks of Beaver, where he died age 76 "all his life a sterling Jeffersonian Democrat. He was the father of six sons and five daughters. Isaac, the oldest son, married Polly Sloan, of Pike County...Stephen, married a Miss Miller (Pricie)...Moses...was destined to become a historic figure in Big Sandy annals...John...married Kizzie Fitzpatrick...Henry...married Betty Kanes...Arthur, the sixth son, married Nancy Miller."

Page 81 has "The Marr Family of the Sandy Valley, is one of French origin, descendants of the Huguenots. The family settled in Maryland before the American Revolution...The grandfather of Thomas Marr, of Catlettsburg, came to the Sandy before the commencement of the present century, and settled in the John's Creek country... One of his sons married...a daughter of Thomas May of Shelby."

P. 82 has "The May Family...were here as early as 1796. Thomas May was the first, or, at least, amongst the first, of the family coming from Virginia...He was a very jovial man, fond of fiddling and dancing, and popular with his neighbors. He owned more slaves than any man on Sandy, either in his day or since, footing up in number seventy-one....Colonel A. J. May developed into greater renown as an officer in the Confederate army than any other native of Sandy."

P. 97 lists "THE RATLIFF FAMILY are among the oldest settlers on Sandy. James Ratliff was the founder...coming to Pike...always sided with the cause of virtue and morality. His son, General Ratliff, was also a man of great mental vigor...For twenty years he was sheriff."

P. 101 lists the Marcums: "Josiah Marcum...settled in the Lower Sandy Valley almost as early as any other settler on the Sandy. His seat was near where Cassville, Virginia, now stands. He was a typical hunter, and encountered the roving Indians. Like most hunters, Josiah was an expert gunsmith, which art has descended to many of his offspring...." His great-grandson, Capt. T.D. Marcum "enlisted as a private in the 14th Kentucky Volunteers. He was made lieutenant, and at the battle of Middle Creek, in 1862, acted with great gallantry...He went with the regiment on its marches through Georgia."

The Auxiers are listed on p. 103. "The great-great grandfather of Major Auxier, brothers and sister, came to Pennsylvania from the Rhine, in Germany, in 1755. His wife was a Hollander. They lived in Pennsylvania until after the Revolutionary War. They had five sons. Simon, the oldest, served seven years, or during the Revolutionary War. He was under Washington at the battle of Trenton; was with the troops sent from Virginia to aid General Greene in the South; was at the battle of Guilford Court house and was at Yorktown when Cornwallis surrendered. Samuel, the grandfather of Major John B., volunteered when fifteen years old, and served the last three years of the war...After that war the major's great-grandfather...Michael, settled in Russell County, Virginia. His son Samuel...came with his wife, Sally Brown, to the Block House Bottom in 1791. The Hammons and some other families came with them and built two blockhouses one-half mile below the mouth of John's Creek. On the 7th of August, in the same year, Samuel Auxier, father of the major, was born... In 1801 or 1802 Samuel Auxier, the father of the major, had a little son named Elijah. He was some three years old. He followed his brother Daniel into the woods, where he was chopping timber." He started home alone through a cane brake and was never heard of again. "Couriers were sent out in great haste to DAMRON'S FORT, near Pike, and the little settlement near Prater, and over to the Station on Licking, notifying the men that little Lige Auxier was lost in Block-house Bottom....they took up their rifles and a wallet of wild meat and started on the run...never giving up the search till a week had passed. Some wild beast had dragged the little boy to its lonely den and devoured him. Daniel Boone was certainly on Sandy. In 1795 or '96 he came to the Block-house, and joined Nat. Auxier, the uncle of the major, in a bear, deer, and wolf hunt on Greasy Creek, in which is now Johnson County. They built a camp on that stream, still known as Boone's Camp. A post-office, bearing the name, is located at the camp...Nat's Creek, below, was named after Nat. Auxier...Of the sixteen children of Samuel Auxier, thirteen still survive."

Page 124 has "THE LACKEY FAMILY...Alexander...came from Southern Virginia in 1804, and settled at the Forks of Beaver in Floyd County. He married the daughter of David Morgan, a relative of General Daniel Morgan, of Battle of the Cowpens fame. Mr. Lackey brought slaves and considerable property...He was a representative in the Legislature, judge and sheriff and rose to be a general in the militia. " Morgan Lackey of Prestonburg led the move which resulted in having "every grog-shop driven from his town, where the poisonous fluid had for sixty-five years held one continuous carnival of death...today in 1887 not a drop of liquor is sold according to law in the county."

"THE WILLIAMSONS...are of Welsh descent...and fought for independence." They left Pennsylvania and the Big Sandy ancestor settled in Russell Co., Va. where Benjamin Williamson came from in 1795 and settled on Tug. John came also. They were woodsmen and hunters.

Page 150: "SAMUEL T. WALKER was among the early arrivals in the John's Creek Valley...a great hunter...a noted gunsmith and blacksmith. He was one of the early Methodists in the valley.

Page 151: "HENRY AND HIS BROTHER, JACOB WEDDINGTON...came from Virginia when mere boys, in 1790. The Weddingtons were original North Carolina people...In 1800 Henry married Elizabeth Garrell...two children were born--James and William. The latter was Judge Weddington...Henry died in 1836, and was buried on Shelby, where the Weddingtons first settled."

Page 155 has: "THE WARDS...came to the valley soon after the first settlement on the Sandy. James Ward was the pioneer...He settled on Rockcastle Creek. ...The old stock were noted hunters, having been trained in Indian warfare... The ward family are noted for naming their children after their ancestors...in order to designate them, they were nicknamed. Hence we had Big Foot, Nine Toes, White Head, Bit Nose, Jimper, Little Jim, Jim's Jim, Hawkum etc. To call a man Jim Ward, no one would know which Jim was meant."

I believe this family went from Albemarle Co., Va. to Russell Co., Va. as John Ward had a survey in Albemarle for 300 acres in 1745. The will of Lazarus Dameron of Albemarle, 1749, says: "I give and bequeath to my son Moses Damron my boy JOHN WARD during the remaining part of his apprenticeship...I give and bequeath to my son John Dameron ...my boy English McCoy until the expiration of his apprenticeship." Lazarus Dameron was a shoemaker. McCoy's were also in Russell. So were Hatfields.

"THOMAS CLINEFELTER was an early settler (p. 181). He came from Hanging Rock. He was a builder. He died in about 1857...The elder daughter is the wife of Captain Wallace J. Williamson, the rich trader and banker. The younger is the wife of JAMES W. DAMRON, a prominent Front Street merchant. It is an open secret that Mrs. Clinefelter has a handsome balance in her favor at the bank, all of which she made by her own industry in making fine coats and vests."

Page 202: EPHRAIM HATFIELD, the founder of the house in the Sandy Valley, came from Russell County, Va. in 1795, and...settled on the waters of the Tug River, in what is now Pike County...the Hatfields outnumber most other families in the Sandy Valley. A few years ago, at a large gathering of the people of the Tug region to listen to a political discussion, it was found out that over three hundred voters in the crowd were either Hatfields or had Hatfield blood... The Hatfields are noted for physical development and strength...They are a high-spirited family, but are kind, neighborly, and just to all who treat them justly. An enemy, however, might as well kick over a bee-gum in warm weather, and expect to escape the sting of the insect, as to tramp on the toes of one of these spirited, tall sons of the mountains, and not expect to be knocked down." Since the above the Hatfield-McCoy feud has made these families famous all over America. "The Hatfields were originally nearly all Democrats in politics, but since the war they have become strong Republicans, with but few exceptions...They are a strong Baptist people in religious matters."

Page 205: THE HATCHERS...James H. Hatcher married a Miss Peery in Tazewell County, Va. and settled at the mouth of Mud Creek in about 1830."

Page 303: "Pikeville was laid out as the county seat in 1821. THOMAS OWENS a New Yorker, but of English descent, the grandfather of Jefferson Owens, of Catlettsburg, owned the land at the time. Mr. Owens was often called "Dad" Owens as a nickname. He was a good man, upright, honest, religious, and liked by all. For a time he was a partner of Frederick Moore in selling goods at Pikeville. Mr. Moore had a large store at the 'Forks.' One day "Dad" Owens went into the store and was told by his partner that he would let him take up to the Pike store all the coffee he might want; 'for,' said Mr. Moore, 'I have just received the largest invoice ever brought to Sandy, being a full barrel of the enchanting berry.' In that early day coffee was only used on rare occasions...Children never drank it."

THE ANCESTRY OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Abraham Lincoln came of a typical pioneer family pushing back the frontier from one generation to the next. We followed the Lincoln trail in Kentucky and looked up some of the names of his mother's family--Shipley, Berry--but did not look up Hanks nor Mitchell on this trip. Lincoln has become a cult in Kentucky, which was neutral in the Civil War, and we saw the "Lincoln Marriage Temple" in Harrodsburg, Ky. and the cabin he was born in at Hodgenville not far away. One room at Harrodsburg was devoted to Lincolniana. Lincoln looks like a typical Kentuckian, both in features and physique, and he is no doubt related to many Kentucky old families if his full ancestry were known.

We saw the Lincoln family cemetery in the midst of an alfalfa field at the Linville creek region a few miles from Harrisonburg, Va. in the Shenandoah Valley. Abram Lincoln's tomb was there and his wife's, named Mary. The DAR has put up a Revolutionary marker to Abraham Lincoln. However, the woodchucks are digging up the graves which are covered with weeds and uncared for. The Pennybackers are also buried there, a family from Pennsylvania near Downingtown. I was told that recently Lincolns lived at Lacey Springs nearby who looked exactly like Lincoln. The house at Linville is a big old colonial type with shutters and chimneys at each gable end flush with the side in the old style. At present a Mennonite tenant family lives in the house and they let us in to look at it. It has a fine old stairway and is a very fine old house with interesting old iron door latches etc. This region is said to be the richest agriculturally in this part of Virginia.

The pamphlet "Abraham Lincoln" given to us in Hodgenville says: "The father of Abraham Lincoln...was Thomas Lincoln; his grandfather was Abraham...His great-grandfather was John Lincoln, who had moved from near Reading, Pa. to the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. John Lincoln's son, Abraham, together with his family, moved across the mountains into Kentucky sometime between 1782 and 1784. Here Abraham, the grandfather, was killed by an Indian from ambush...probably in May 1786... Thomas, the youngest son, was then about ten years old. About 1800, Thomas Lincoln settled in Elizabethtown...as a carpenter." On June 12, 1806, he married Nancy Hanks in the Richard Berry cabin at Beechland, Washington County, Ky., Richard Berry being the uncle and guardian of Nancy Hanks. This log cabin is now the "marriage temple" at Harrodsburg, where it was removed. There is also at Harrodsburg a reproduction of the old fort, the first settlement in Kentucky, which was started to claim the whole region for the colonists. There is a fine old pioneer cemetery there with the headstones not inscribed. They are only rough field stones, but on some of the graves are stones shaped like bodies over the grave--I would guess they were taken from Indian graves to keep the bodies from wolves etc. In the museum you can see a letter written by Daniel Boone, who wrote a fine, educated man and was very handsome and attractive in appearance, which thanks the addressee for the powder and shot and says many Indians are gathering and he hopes to be alive to write again. It is blotted and blurred in places. Next to it is the bark from a tree with D.B. carved in it, taken from a cave where he lived nearby one winter. Boone was a surveyor among other things. We stayed in a tourist home just opposite the old fort.

We had gone from Frankfort to Harrodsburg and from there to Hodgenville to see Lincoln's birthplace, where the log cabin is housed under a building. It is a very sweet little log cabin with a huge fireplace, and was situated beside Sinking Spring, a lovely deep spring nearby. Thomas bought the Sinking Spring farm Dec. 12, 1808, and Abe was born there Feb. 12, 1809. They lived here 2 1/2 years when they lost the farm due to a defective land title, so in 1811 they moved to Knob Creek ten miles to the northeast. In November or December, 1816, Thomas left Kentucky and went to Indiana about 16 miles north of the Ohio River, where Nancy Hanks died about two years later of "milk sickness."

THE ANCESTRY OF LINCOLN'S MOTHER

According to Sarah Shipley Mitchell's granddaughter, Mrs. C. S. H. Vawter, Berrys and Mitchells went to Kentucky about 1789, during which Mrs. Mitchell was killed by Indians and her daughter captured. Mr. Mitchell was drowned searching for his daughter in the Dix river, accompanied by his friend Gen. Adair. The Mitchell children scattered -- Daniel settled in Washington Co. near Springfield, near two cousins, Frank and Ned Berry. After Wayne's treaty, the captive was returned and became an intimate friend of Nancy Hanks, who then lived with Frank Berry. Nancy was noted as a seamstress and did this kind of work. Thomas Lincoln came to visit his brother Mordecai who lived near Major Berry, and met Nancy Hanks.

P. 14 of the Marriage Temple pamphlet said "Richard Berry was in Kentucky as early as 1780. He m. Rachel Shipley and lived on the six hundred acre farm on Beech Fork in Washington Co., Ky. where the Lincoln Marriage Cabin originally stood."

By searching the frontier counties for Berry, Mitchell, Hanks, Sparrow and related names, it should be possible to establish the place of residence of Nancy Hanks and her mother, which may have been Virginia or some county which was cut up into Tennessee or Kentucky after her birth.

Sarah Bush Lincoln's father was Christopher of Elizabethtown, Ky., Dutch. She m. Daniel Johnston in March, 1806, when she was 17, and later Thomas Lincoln in 1819.

The Lincoln birthplace cabin has been a shrine since 1861, when it was bought by Dr. George Rodman to preserve it. It was taken around the country on exhibition and in 1911 was returned to its original site, after being sent to Louisville by military escort for a celebration in 1906. The cabin is Federal property now. Elizabeth town is only a few miles from Hodgenville.

Near the Sinking Spring is a giant oak tree which has been recognized as a landmark in deeds since 1786. This whole region is very beautiful landscape.

The National Park Service bulletin says: "Between...1783 and 1790 fifteen hundred Kentuckians were killed by Indians...Abraham Lincoln, the grandfather, (was) established in Rockingham County on a farm of about 262 acres...as early as 1776 this Abraham Lincoln had entered 1,000 acres of land in Kentucky. In 1780 the paternal grandfather of the future President sold his Virginia farm. The Lincolns moved to Kentucky sometime between 1782 and 1784...There is some evidence that it was on a tract of 800 acres of land on Green River in 1782, but, if true, they remained there only a short time. By 1784 the Lincoln family had moved to...what is now Louisville and was living on a tract of land on Long Run of Floyd's Fork in Jefferson County." Here he was killed by Indians, age about 42 years, in the presence of Mordecai, age about fifteen, eldest son, Josiah, and Thomas. Thomas about 1798 perhaps made a trip to "Tennessee and lived with an uncle for about 1 year, returning to Kentucky about 1800 and taking up residence in Elizabethtown," Hardin Co. Thomas lived from 1776 to 1851, and Nancy Hanks from about 1784 to 1818, "born in the backwoods of Virginia, reared midst the primeval forests of Kentucky."

The first record found of Nancy Hanks concerns her mother Lucy Hanks, Nov. 24, 1789, Mercer Co., Ky. She probably "came from Virginia with her mother sometime between 1785 and 1789," perhaps with Joseph Hanks, who had arrived there by Feb. 28, 1787. Her oldest child, Sarah, b. 1807, died in childbirth 1828, age 21. Her son Thomas died as an infant. Of her three children, only Abraham lived beyond youth.

A. L. Huttinger, Superintendent at the Lincoln National Historical Park, Hodgenville, Ky. let us look at a book: "Lincoln's Parentage and Childhood," by L. A. Warren, as the best authority on this subject. It said Lucy Hanks gave birth to Nancy in Virginia Feb. 4, 1784, and she d. Oct. 5, 1818. She moved age three to Kentucky. Lucy married Henry Sparrow Apr. 31, 1791. The author refers to "Nancy Hanks" by Caroline Hanks Hitchcock, who found the will of Joseph Hanks in Bardstown, Nelson Co., Ky. She said Sparrow was the name of a family Lucy Hanks was related to and afterward she married Henry Sparrow. The book says that Lucy had a sister, Rachel Shipley, who married Richard Berry, and also a sister who married Robert Mitchell. Nancy was brought up by Richard Berry and his wife at Beechland, Washington Co., Ky. When she was three she crossed to Kentucky with Joseph and Lucy Shipley Hanks, and was an orphan at the age of nine. The marriage bond of Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, June 10, 1806, signed by Richard Berry and witnessed by John H. Parrott, is in the County Courthouse at Springfield, Ky. Rev. Jesse Head performed the ceremony, a Methodist. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berry, James Thompson, William Hardesty, Dr. Christopher Columbus Graham, Felix Grundy, Sarah Shipley Mitchell, Mrs. John Springer, who was Elizabeth Ingram, Mrs. Litsey. Probably also the following were present: Nancy Hanks, aunt of the bride, Thomas and Betty Sparrow, Jesse and Polly Friend, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sparrow. The latter were Nancy's mother's connections. Lucy Hanks married Henry Sparrow Apr. 26, 1790, bond at Harrodsburg, Ky.

P. 29 of the booklet on Lincoln's Marriage temple shows other marriages at Springfield, Ky. by Jesse Head in 1806 etc.--Morris Berry and Peggy Sims, 1806; David Mize and Hannah Peter; Charles Ridge and Anna Davis, John Head and Sallie Clark; Benj. Clark and Polly Head; Edw. Pile and Rosannah McMahon...Anthony Lytsey and Kesiah Pirtle, Aaron Hardin and Hannah B. _____, Daniel Payne and Christiana Pierce, Benj. Clark and Polly Clark, Hugh Hoskins and Betsey Dyer, John Graham and Catherine Jones. Isaac Shelby lived near Berry.

MARY BERRY has another deed 1856. In 1838 JOHN BROCK has a deed. Bowlings are here. RALEIGH SHIPLEY was on jury 1813, p. 179, Nov.

Note: Lewis A. Warren was doing Lincoln research for the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., at Ft. Wayne, Indiana. His book said Thomas Lincoln of Hingham, Mass. was perhaps the ancestor of Abraham, and that Thomas Lincoln was 5th in descent from Samuel Weaver who landed 1637.

We did not look for Mitchells nor Hanks in any of the counties, nor for Lincolns. These frontier counties were all part of Virginia at one time, and Ky. began demanding separation from Virginia from 1784 to 1790, about the time Nancy Hanks was born. Also the settlements on the Holston and Watauga were thought to be Virginia soil after settlement in 1769 and they were independent for some time. James Adair of S.C. was the first to go to Tennessee. Claiborne County was the gateway of the road to Kentucky and to Virginia near the Cumberland Gap, coming from the Tennessee side. If Nancy were born in these disputed frontier regions she might refer to it as "Virginia", as some settlers did and others did not, depending on their views. Henry Sparrow was a revolutionary soldier and of a good family. Mitchell was a friend of Gen. Adair. THOMAS MITCHELL, JESSEE CLARK, WILLIAM CLARK, LEWIS BUSH Were in the 9th Va. Regt. under Thomas Fielding, Dec. 1776. This was an Albemarle Co. Va., regiment, which I have had traced for the first time.

1800-1801: The first year of the century.

The first year of the century was marked by the death of George Washington on September 14, 1799. He was the first President of the United States, having served from 1789 to 1797. His death was a great loss to the young nation.

The second year of the century was marked by the death of Thomas Jefferson on July 4, 1826. He was the third President of the United States, having served from 1801 to 1809.

The third year of the century was marked by the death of James Madison on June 28, 1836. He was the fourth President of the United States, having served from 1809 to 1817.

The fourth year of the century was marked by the death of James Monroe on July 15, 1831. He was the fifth President of the United States, having served from 1817 to 1825.

The fifth year of the century was marked by the death of John Adams on September 23, 1826. He was the second President of the United States, having served from 1797 to 1801.

The sixth year of the century was marked by the death of John Quincy Adams on February 23, 1848. He was the sixth President of the United States, having served from 1825 to 1829.

The seventh year of the century was marked by the death of Andrew Jackson on June 22, 1845. He was the seventh President of the United States, having served from 1829 to 1837.

The eighth year of the century was marked by the death of Martin Van Buren on April 18, 1862. He was the eighth President of the United States, having served from 1837 to 1841.

The ninth year of the century was marked by the death of William Henry Harrison on April 4, 1837. He was the ninth President of the United States, having served from 1837 to 1841.

The tenth year of the century was marked by the death of John Tyler on January 18, 1862. He was the tenth President of the United States, having served from 1841 to 1845.

- 1607 Jamestown was settled, the anniversary being in 1957. It was 350 years ago.
- 1648 There were 15,000 English and 300 negroes in Virginia.
- 1650 Col. Wm. Ball settled in the Northern Neck, ancestor of George Washington's mother, Mary Ball. He was said to be descended from John Ball of Kent who was in the Wat Tyler and Jack Straw rebellion in 1381 and lost his head. The Washingtons also came to the Northern Neck about 1656.
- 1652 Lawrence Dameron has a land grant in Northumberland County, Va.
- 1749 The French begin taking over the Ohio Valley so the Virginians decide to organize land companies to occupy the western lands. Dr. Thomas Walker went through the Cumberland Gap in 1750, the first agent and surveyor.
- 1753 George Washington, a surveyor, was sent to warn the French that Virginia claimed the Ohio country. He was one of the Virginians most interested in the frontier.
- 1755 Braddock's army of 1300 men sailed up the Potomac on their way to fight the French on the frontier. George Washington joins them age 23--he was b. 1732.
- 1766 115 men of the Northern Neck fire the first gun of the Revolution by drawing up a set of Resolves, one being Richard Henry Lee, ancestor of Robert E. Lee. The Lees were leaders in the Revolution.
- 1736 Lazarus Dameron buys land from John Cannon in Goochland north of the Fluvanna River, which was later cut off into Albemarle. It adjoined Edward Scott. The county was not formed until 1744. The first patent on record was 1722.
- 1737 Peter Jefferson came from Chesterfield to Albemarle and was one of the first settlers, there being but 3 or 4 other persons living in his neighborhood then. This was near the plantations of the Ladds and Damrons. Peter was the first surveyor and the father of Thomas Jefferson who was born at Shadwell, Albemarle County, near the Damron place at Scottsville. Hence the Damrons were among the first pioneers in Albemarle. This was the cradle of Jeffersonian democracy, which Thomas Jefferson learned from the self-government of the Albemarle small farmers. The Ladds were in this region by 1732, and sold a farm to Peter Jefferson in 1750 in the large curve of the Fluvanna (upper James) about a mile from Scottsville. In 1747 a road was opened from State River "near Mr. Marrs to the Court House... Noble Ladd and John Ladd are ordered to clear the same Noble Ladd overseer. Noble Ladd and Gideon Marrs are ordered to march out the same." The Ladds were originally Quakers from Norfolk. The stream of migration to the frontiers from Albemarle went on to Kentucky and North Carolina. You will find many Pike County names in Albemarle patents such as John Carter, Thomas Jones, David Lewis, Jonathan Clark, Joseph Smith, Charles Lewis, Thomas Carr, Roger Thompson, Michael Thomas, Jr. James Coleman, Joseph Martin, James Lee, William Rice, Mary Patterson, Arthur Hopkins, etc. also Spurlocks.
- 1751 Daniel Boone's parents, Squire and Sara Boone, moved to the Yadkin Valley, in N.C. about 1751, with Daniel born 1734 (he d. 1820). Daniel's parents are buried in a frontier graveyard with crude fieldstone markers near Mocksville, N.C. Daniel and his wife are buried now in Frankfort. We visited the graves and took photographs of them. The Boones were in Pennsylvania near Reading before migrating, which is where Abraham Lincoln's family lived before moving to the Shenandoah Valley near Harrisonburg. I also took a picture of the Lincoln graveyard there, which is being dug up by woodchucks. It is in an alfalfa field and the Pennybackers are also buried there, related to Lincolns. There is a fine big colonial farmhouse on this farm where Abraham Lincoln's grandfather lived before moving to Kentucky where he was killed by Indians about 1786.
- 1756-7 Fort Loudon was built on the Little Tennessee in the Knoxville region but this first attempt resulted in a massacre in 1760.
- 1757 Capt. John Damron was born, probably in Albemarle Co., Va.
- 1761 William Carson has a land grant in North Carolina, the grandfather of Kit Carson. Kit's father Lindsey later moved to Madison Co., Ky. Kit was born in the Yadkin Valley on Hunting Creek. His uncle Andrew was a famous Revolutionary soldier and scout who married the sister of Mary Young, Thomas Moody's wife. The Yadkin Valley was the cradle of overmountain Indian scouts and Revolutionary soldiers at Kings Mountain etc. Boone lived in Rowan county (cut off into David in 1836). This whole region was originally Rowan County, N.C. and the Moodys, Ladds and some Damrons were part of this frontier community.

- 1776 The families on the Holston had to go back to the settlements though the Cherokees were broken up. Thomas Moody was a Revolutionary soldier sent to fight at the Long Island of the Holston in 1776.
- 1776 July 4. Declaration of Independence, written by Thomas Jefferson. Some of his ideas came down from Cromwell through Locke etc., as England was a Republic in the time of Cromwell and the Puritans 1642 to 1660. Albemarle and the frontiersmen from there supported Jefferson in Congress and as Governor.
- 1776 Kentucky County was formed out of Fincastle County, Va. Four years later it was divided into Jefferson, Lincoln and Fayette Counties of Virginia, but the name Kentucky was again given to these counties in 1783. In 1791 the state of Kentucky was created and admitted 1792, Gen. Isaac Shelby as first governor.
- 1776 Abraham Lincoln, grandfather of Abe, entered 1,000 acres of land in Kentucky. He sold his Shenandoah farm in 1780. By 1782-84 there is some evidence Lincoln was on Green River on 800 acres of land. In 1784 they were in Jefferson Co. In 1786 Abraham was killed by Indians, in presence of his son Thomas.
- 1776 John Damron joined the Revolutionary army, so did Thomas Moody. John Damron was sick at Valley Forge 1778.
- 1778 James Robertson of Virginia, who had been prominent in Watauga, set out to prepare the way for permanent occupation in Tennessee at French Lick. In 1780 another party arrived, led by John Donelson, father of Rachel Donelson, who was the wife of President Andrew Jackson.
- 1780 Richard Berry is said to be in Kentucky with his wife Rachel Shipley, sister of Lucy Shipley, Nancy Hanks' mother.
- 1780 Capt. John Damron is in Washington County, Va. and is a witness of the will of Wm. Dorton.
- 1780, April, Lazarus Damron enlists in Washington Co., Va. under Col. Campbell and fights at Kings' Mountain.
- 1780, Josiah Marcum enlists and was 18 months a drummer boy and private. He was born in Chesterfield Co., Va. 1759, and enlisted in Bedford Co., Va. moving to Kentucky after the Revolution where he resided in Lawrence County. He meantime was in Russell County, Va. with the Damrons. He fought at Camden and Guilford.
- 1780 The Battle of Kings' Mountain turns the tide of the whole Revolution. The frontiersmen defeated the British to annihilation. Kings' Mountain is in the Blue Ridge near Gastonia, N.C. The book KING'S MOUNTAIN, by Newsome, p. 233 says the Americans went from Cowpens, S.C. (this is where Andrew Jackson lived then), and arrived October 7, 1780. It was fought by frontier patriots, including 240 men under Isaac Shelby of Sullivan County; 240 from Washington County led by John Sevier; 400 men from Virginia under William Campbell, and 350 men from Wilkes and Surry Counties, N.C. under Ben Cleaveland and Jos. Winston. The author says one can only assume a man was from the county that his commander was from as records are so fragmentary. Many of the mountain families had ancestors in this battle who have no record of it. At Kings' Mountain the frontiersmen killed 119, wounded 123 and captured 664. The Americans lost 28 killed and 62 wounded. The action was not under either state or continental control or command. The fight lasted only one hour Oct. 7, 1780--they killed the British commander, Major Patrick Ferguson, and took all his men. This battle enabled General Greene to break Lord Cornwallis. It was fought by volunteers and militia without any authorization, so the men did not claim it in their pension records and often left it out of their records. Therefore it is hard to find any record of the men who fought there. They were the mountain frontiersmen who had decided to push the British and Tories out once and for all, after suffering severely from them.

Gwathmey's book on the Kings' Mountain men lists the men who fought. "James Fraley, resident of Lawrence County, Ky. served under Col. Wm. Campbell and Capt. Snody; was nine months an Indian spy in Washington Co., Va. and enlisted Mar. 3, 1779. The man who spied with him about a year was Lazarus Dameron who enlisted April 1780 for one year in Washington Co. under Col. Campbell and Capt. Snody. Campbell went to Kings Mt. Lazarus Dameron enlisted the second time when Fraley did and they went together as comrades."

- 1771 Surry Co., N.C. Tax list has JOHN DAMRON, NOBLE LADD, CONSTANT LADD, etc. This means that this John Damron was over 21 years of age. In 1774-5 he is brought up in a legal case in Surry for debt. Noble Ladd's will in 1782 mentions his daughter Anne.
- 1767 MOSES DAMERON buys land in Rowan Co., N.C. on Blackey's Branch, north side of the Dan River from Wm. Johnston. In 1770 he sells this land to Hugh Denum, it having been a grant to Patrick Mullins. In 1767 Moses Damron also bought land of Patrick Mullins in Rowan Co., N.C. north of the Dan River, granted 1756 to Mullins at the mouth of Blackey's branch. This is near the Virginia border.
- 1767 Daniel Boone of the Yadkin Valley in N.C. makes his first trip to Kentucky attracted by the story of John Finley, an Indian trader, who went down the Ohio in 1752 in a canoe to the Louisville region. (Note: in 1746-7 John Finley had a lawsuit for debt in Albemarle Co., Va.) Robert King had 245 acres surveyed in 1745-6 and he and Lazarus Damron were on a case in 1745, Albemarle Co., Va. Was he the ancestor of Solomon King?
- 1769 Several cabins were built on the Holston and Watauga rivers in Tennessee, then thought to be in Virginia. In 1771 a settlement was made near the present Rogersville and in 1772 another at the store of Jacob Brown on the Nollichucky.
- 1769, June 2, a party of "Long Hunters" went to Kentucky for eight or nine months,, about forty men, the survivors being led by Col. James Knox. Their return caused a sensation. Ramsay's Annals of Tennessee and Fain's Index says, p. 44, that the Long Hunters were "a party of forty hunters from the Yadkin Valley in N.C. who were called Long Hunters because of their long stay in the Kentucky wilderness." They were men who liked to rove and explore. They wore long hair, fringed buckskins and moccasins, and carried their long rifles and long hunting knives. On p. 95 Ramsay says that on June 2, 1769, a party of hunting adventurers went to Tennessee, including Kasper Mansco, John Baker, Abraham Bledsoe, Obadiah Terrill, Robert Crockett. They came by way of the Holston and Cumberland Gap. Some were from N.C. and SOME FROM VIRGINIA. Robert Crockett was killed at Roaring River. They hunted eight or nine months, and some returned in April, 1770. Marshall & Monette say that in New River, Holston River and Clinch River regions "about 40 stout hunters for the purpose of hunting and trapping west of Cumberland Mountains" went to the wilderness. They had rifles, traps, dogs, blankets and dressed in the hunting shirt, leggins and moccasins. The names of these adventurers are now not known. The leader and nine others of the company penetrated to the Lower Cumberland--they are known as the Long Hunters. Col. James Knox led the remainder.

In May, 1769, Daniel Boone and John Findley went to Kentucky to hunt. Boone was not with the Long Hunters but they found him lying on his back in the woods singing at the top of his lungs as if he were a boy back home (p. 47.) Boone then went with the Long Hunters to the big bend of the Cumberland River. By 1771 Boone had been away from the Yadkin Valley two years. Near the Cumberland Gap he was robbed of his furs by the Indians, all his two years' work. The Long Hunters had a camp in Wayne County near Monticello. They had a bad time and so many were killed or disappeared that only nine remained under Knox. Then twelve more joined up, but two were captured. Their names are not all known but those who lived returned to the Yadkin with tales of the new land which started the migration there. Jesse Bledsoe wrote on a tree "2300 dear skins lost, ruination, By God." He was one of the Long Hunters.

Matthias Harmon was one of the "Long Hunters," who went to the Big Sandy in 1787 with a "party consisting of Henry Harman, Henry Skaggs, James Skaggs Robert Hawes, SOME OF THE DAMRONS, and a man named Draper." Was Lazarus Damron one of the Long Hunters? Mary Irene McIntosh of Prestonburg, Ky. said she thought he might have been. The Damrons of Kentucky have a tradition that they came from N.C. before going to Kentucky. Perhaps Moses Damron who sold his land in 1770 was a Long Hunter and decided to leave Rowan Co., N.C. that year, as no further record of him in N.C. has been found though JOHN DAMRON was there in 1775, no record of him after that has been found either. These early Damrons were all Indian fighters and frontiersmen, anyway. We were not able to find any trace of Lazarus Damron in N.C., however, in 1955.

- The Ladds left Albemarle and went to the Yadkin Valley, and it looks as if the Damrons of Rowan and Surry may have gone with them and are of the Albemarle Damrons. Capt. John Damron married Anne Ladd, -our ancestors. This must have been in N.C. and he must have been fighting there in the Revolution. The stream of migration went from Albemarle and the Shenandoah Valley into the Yadkin Valley and from there to Kentucky and Tennessee, with an interim period in the Cumberland Gap region, where the Damrons located after the Revolution. The N.C. government had been oppressive and settlers left because of this. The
- 1771 Regulator Insurrection in 1771 failed in N.C. and hundreds of Regulators made their way into the wilderness to escape taxes and punishment. In 1770 Surry was cut from Rowan and Stokes from Surry 1789.
- 1770 James Robertson of Wake Co., N.C. went to the Holston and found one settler, Honeycutt, living in his hut. He was the first settler and William Bean the second.
- 1771 The Shelys settled on or near North Mountain, Washington Co. Evan was a son. Washington County, then N.C. was formed 1777, including all of present Tennessee. (I noted in the county records p. 10, William Aiken; p. 20 Henry Lyles, in court records, the latter selling 376 acres to Joshua Houghton, 1778. Jonesboro is the oldest town in Tennessee--this is where Davy Crockett lived.
- 1770 George Washington set the land rush in motion to the Big Sandy river, taking out the first patent in the name of John Fry. By 1773 the frontier activity was chiefly in the Big Sandy region and Patrick Henry had a survey made here.
- 1772 The overmountain people who had crossed the mountain ranges were called squatters and told to vacate on Watauga. This made them angry. In 1776 a petition was signed asking to be annexed to the Provincial Congress--nearly all the signers were later at Kings Mountain--Wm. Bean, Jacob Brown, John Carter, Chairman, Jacob Womack, Abraham Cox etc. Others were Wm. Cox, David Crockett, William, Daniel Morris, Shardick etc. Wm. Reeves, Emanuel Shote, etc.
- 1773 Daniel Boone took his family to Kentucky. No family and no female had gone before this. They were turned back by Indians.
- 1772 The Watauga Association was formed with its own court, as N.C. gave no protection to the settlers. This territory was annexed to N.C. 1776 as the Washington district, which became Washington Co. 1777--claiming the Mississippi river as the western boundary.
- 1774 James Harrod sets up the first permanent settlement in Kentucky at Harrodsburg. In October of this year the battle of Point Pleasant, now in W. Va., resulted in driving back the Indians and made settlement possible. The old fort has been reproduced and I took pictures of it in 1956, and also of the quaint little frontier graveyard adjoining it, which has stones placed over the bodies to keep off the wolves etc. The Lincoln Marriage Temple is also there and the Richard Berry cabin is placed in it, where Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks were married. The Mansion Museum has a Lincoln room on one side and a Confederate room on the other--Kentucky was neutral in the Civil War and still is.
- 1775 Daniel Boone founded Boonesborough, which was attacked by Indians 1777 and 1778. Boone marked the Wilderness Trail through the Cumberland Gap in 1775, the main trace for the settlers to follow.
- 1775 Richard Henderson of N.C. made a treaty with the Indians for Transylvania, which was declared void by Virginia in 1778. Henderson lived near the Moodys in N.C.
- 1775 Boone was the advance agent for Richard Henderson's Transylvania land company and with an armed band of thirty men he blazed the Wilderness Road and founded Boonesborough on the Kentucky River, top of Madison County. In 1776 Boone was a captain of militia and was captured in 1778 and taken to Detroit. His family returned to N.C. but he brought them back in 1779 and made a new settlement. He was sheriff of the new Fayette County and was representative to the Virginia legislature. He lost his best land through unfair ejectment suits and became so disgusted he took his wife, Rebecca, in 1799 to Missouri to the Osage Valley. In 1845 his body and that of his wife were brought to Frankfort. Boone was a remarkable man. He wrote an excellent hand and was a good surveyor. In Harrodsburg is a letter from him saying the Indians were gathering and he did not know if he would live to write another. His initials on the bark of a tree are also there when he lived near Harrodsburg in a cave one winter.

Capt. John Damron and Moses Damron could have been at Kings' Mountain with Lazarus Damron under Campbell. Moses Dorton and William Dorton, Jr. were at Kings' Mountain under Campbell, the former's horse being killed at Whitsell's mill. We know that in Feb. 1780, the year of Kings' Mountain, John Damron and Wm. Dorton, Jr. were witnesses to the will of Wm. Dorton in Washington Co., Va., which mentioned Dorton's wife Eliz. and children Wm., Moses, Edward and Sally. (Book 1, p. 40, p. 1344, Summers' Annals of Southwest Virginia.)

George Damron was at Kings' Mountain and is listed by White and Gwathmey as the one of Halifax Co., Va. who was pensioned in Lincoln Co., N.C. See also p. 480 N.C. Pension List. He was under Major Chronicle at Kings' Mountain. However, the pension of George Damron of Lincoln Co., N.C. says he was a prisoner from 1779 to "the conclusion of the war." Therefore, I think this may be George Damron of Amherst, who is perhaps the same George Damron in Russell Co., Va. 1793, and who went from there no doubt to Green Co., Ky. where he died 1801. This George was the son of George of Albemarle Co., Va. and 1st cousin to the other Russell Co., Va. Damrons. The George of Lincoln Co., N.C. may be of the Albemarle family also, or of the Brunswick-Caswell Damerons. George Damron of Lincoln Co. enlisted March 1777 in the Continental Service under Capt. John Dooley's horse, in Pittsylvania Co., Va. In March, 1779 he "was taken prisoner by the enemy and remained in their custody until the conclusion of the war."

The mountain frontiersmen fought in the Revolution against both the British and Tories in South Carolina, under John Sevier and Evan Shelby, in the Watauga region, chiefly as partisan rangers under Charles McDowell (1743-1815.)

1783-1790 Between these years 1,500 Kentuckians were killed by Indians.

178_ Nancy Hanks is said to have moved to Kentucky age three with her mother Lucy Shipley who married Joseph Hanks; Lucy married Henry Sparrow in 1791, a Revolutionary soldier. Another source says Nancy came to Virginia to Kentucky with her mother from 1785-89, the date not being known, but that Joseph Hanks had arrived by 1787. Warren said Nancy was born in Virginia Feb. 4, 1784. It is not known where she was born but in those days "Virginia" included parts of N.C., Tennessee and border regions, so it might have been in any backwoods region. I found Berrys and Shipleys in Claiborne Co., Tenn. and in 1784 this was considered part of Virginia. Lucy m. Sparrow in Harrodsburg, Ky. Isaac lived near the Berrys of the Shelby family--the Shelys were early settlers in 1771 near No. Mt. Washington Co., Evan being the son. Isaac Shelby commanded 240 men of Sullivan County at Kings' Mt. (He lived in Ky. near the Berrys is what I meant in above sentence.) In 1772 the land north of the Holston was thought to be Virginia, now Hawkins and Sullivan Counties. Gen. Adair was said to be a friend of the Mitchells, also. Ramsay p. 102 says the Holston river line divided North Carolina and Virginia. Each settler was allowed 400 acres if he had a log cabin built. At this time N.C. was so badly misgoverned that many settlers moved to Watauga. (When I was in Asheville, N.C. Thomas Wolfe's mother told me that Nancy Hanks' mother lived in the mountains nearby along the Pigeon, as I remember it.) It was Daniel Boone who piloted the first settlers to Watauga.

1785 The new state of Franklin was formed by the Watauga settlers, Sevier governor. By 1781 at the end of the Revolution the western settlements were swarming. Robertson was sent to the N.C. legislature and the settlements became Davidson County with Nashville as the seat. By 1790 Tennessee became a state, Wm. Blount, governor, Knoxville the capital. By 1795 Tennessee had 60,000 free inhabitants. John Sevier was governor and Wm. Blount and Wm. Cocke senators. Andrew Jackson became later the dictator in politics up to 1836. Here was the center of the Jacksonian democracy among the mountain and frontier people.

1788 John Damond (Damron) had a land grant in Greene Co. formerly N.C. of 200 acres. In 1793 Joseph Damron had a grand in Green Co. These are the Damerons who went from Halifax Co., N.C. and were cut off into Jefferson Co., Tenn.

1786 Moses Damron of the Albemarle branch buys land on Gravelly Lick, Washington Co.,
 1786 Davy Crockett was born Aug. 17, 1786, the 5th of 9 children. His Va.
 father, John Crockett, fought at Kings Mountain with the militia from Lincoln County. After the Revolution John moved from Lincoln Co. to Limestone Creek about 12 miles south of Jonesboro, and here Davy was born. Davy's grandparents were killed while living in Rogersville. Davy's brother Joseph, who was deaf and dumb, was captured by Indians and held 17 years. He was redeemed by his oldest brother, Wm. In 1794 John was in Jefferson Co. Davy's marriage license was found in the Dandridge County courthouse. Davy said his father was born in Ireland or on the sea. His mother was Rebecca Hawkins b. in Maryland and related to the first wife of Col. Sevier. There was a Joseph Crockett a cpt. of militia of Fincastle in the Kings Mountain Battle. (p. 164, White.)
 Davy lived near Dandridge, Tenn. part of his life and died at the Alamo in Texas. In 1795 JOSEPH DAMERON was on a jury in the case of JOHN CROCKETT vs.
 John Martin for a debt of $40.62 1/2 cents. In 1821 JOHN CROCKETT was a witness to a deed of WILLIAM DAMERON of Madison, Mississippi, for land on the Nolichucky which he sold to Isaac Curry.

Kings are among the first settlers of Tennessee, Also Coxes, Taylors, Buchanans and Crocketts. When in 1771 Evan and Isaac Shelby built a fort near Bristol, it was partly in Virginia and partly in Tennessee, so Nancy Hanks might have been born in this part of "Virginia" so-called.

In 1799 Sullivan Co., Tenn. the second county, was created by the state of N.C. after a survey showed it was not in Virginia as theretofore thought.
 Hawkins was formed from Sullivan by the State of N.C. 1786, while the state of Franklin was concurrently functioning. Claiborne was formed 1801 from Grainger and Hawkins.

In 1804 Joseph Dameron sold the land he lived on and moved to Lincoln
 Co. later. John Dameron was still in Jefferson in 1806 witnessing a deed for Joseph Dameron. Joseph's original grant was on Bent Creek on the main road from Bull's Gap and Dandridge, where his father lived in 1804.

- 1787 Henry Harman, one of the Long Hunters, took a party of 20 men including some of the Damrons to the Big Sandy and constructed a camp, but it was destroyed by Indians.
- 1789 The Leslie's tried to settle at the mouth of Paint Creek on Tug River but were driven out by Indians. They returned 1791 to John's Creek and settled.
- 1786 Moses Damron has the first deed ever recorded in Russell Co., Va. on Clinch R.
- 1789 Thomas Lincoln, Abe's father, lived with an uncle in Tennessee for a year, returning to Elizabethtown in Hardin County, Ky. in 1800.
- 1791 Capt. John Damron buys 170 acres on Clinch R. Russell Co. Va.

THE MEN WHO FOUGHT AT KINGS' MOUNTAIN, 1780

I have looked up some of the men connected with the Damrons who fought at Kings' Mountain in the book by K. K. White, THE KINGS MOUNTAIN MEN. The author says the pensions do not cite the battle as it was not under either state or continental command.

WILLIAM MARTIN of Albemarle Co., Va. at age 16 ran away as a trapper and trader. He travelled with Daniel Boone and Walker 1769. He was tall and handsome and had a beautiful Indian wife, but his first wife was of a good Virginia family. He lived in Smith Co., Tenn. 1843, at Dixon's Springs.

WILLIAM COX p. 162 was under Shelby. He lived on Watauga 1775. In 1793 he was Justice of the Court. All the Justices were Kings' Mountain men. (A Benjamin Cox was in the 9th Virginia with John Damron 1776 with Lewis Bush, Jesse Clark, etc.)

WILLIAM CRABTREE was one of the Long Hunters with Knox 1770 and at Kings' Mt.

JONAH CULBERTSON was one of the best sharpshooters in Shelby's regiment.

SAMUEL DAVIS was with Kings' Mt. men with Campbell's regt.

HENRY DICKENSON p. 168 was in Capt. Colville's Company of Campbell's Regt. Record given by Draper. Colville's Co. should be looked up for Damrons etc.

JAMES DYSART b. Ireland, and on the Holston, was Capt. under Campbell at Kings' Mt. He was a Long Hunter.

JOHN ADAIR p. 114. In latter part of 1775 "They marched about the head of Clinch River, a place called Elk Garden and Blackmore's Fort. The Indians...were commanded by a chief called Logan." Was he the friend of Lincoln's family?

MATTHEW KUYKENDALL was in Campbell's regiment. Ben. and Jos. located grants in Sumner Co., Tenn. Both were killed by Indians 1792. (Smith was taken from Sumner about 1799, so Thompsons were here too. There is a book HISTORIC SUMNER COUNTY by J.S. Cisco.)

ELISHA REYNOLDS b. Wilkes Co., 1775, p. 220, was in skirmishes under Rutherford 1776, fought the Tories at New River and under Cleveland at Kings' Mt. Died age 81.

GILLESPIE, THOMAS, JR. was under Campbell at KM. Thos. and George were on the Watauga 1772. In 1786 Capt. Thomas G. settled 3 miles below the mouth of the French Broad. Other Kings' Mt. men located their grants in the vicinity. His fort at Watauga was raided 1774. His blockhouse on the Holston was often threatened. William G. was Capt. with Sevier in border warfare. George was brother to Thomas. (I am not sure all these Gillespies were at KM.)

CHOAT (SHOAT) p. 237, Greenbury C. was b. Virginia 1751, enlisted from Washington Co., Tenn. 1779. Was under Capt. Geo. Russell at KM. Appl. for pension 1833 from Johnson Co., Ill.

MARTIN PRUITT enlisted Washington Co., Va. and was pensioned at Madison, Ill. where he died 1841, age 92, married in N.C. 1771 Martha Woods. (Note that in the old Damron Bible in Illinois the names found were Jese Choat, William Choat, Jems Pruit.)

JOHN McLAIN b. 1760, Pa. d. Ga. 1844. He was at 96. Children David, John, Charles, Ephraim and James N., Margaret McLure, Jane Porter, Ann, who m. Alex Mauldin (?), p. 241.

COL. RICHARD ALLEN, Sr. b. Maryland 1741, in 1770 moved to Rowan Co. now Wilkes. Oct.-Nov. joined 1775 under Capt. Jesse Walter 1st Co. of Wilkes and marched to Cross Creek on Fayetteville Feb. 13 as Scotch Tories were rising. Joined by Surry militia at Old Richmond under Col. Armstrong. Marched to Randolph County and were joined by Col. Martin. Alexander Martin of Continental Line. Went to Fayetteville or Cross Creek. The day before they arrived there had been a battle under Gen. Moore's Whigs and McDonald and a victory. Walter had to take prisoners to guard to Hillsboro and was gone 2 months. Then joined Benj. Cleveland against the Indians 2 weeks. Tories in the Blue Ridge on the Northwest side, Gen. Lincoln. Took prisoners of Kings' Mt. to Moravian Towns in Stokes Co. and stayed awhile.

THOMAS YOUNG b. S.C. a major, pension 1838. William Young enl. S.C. d. S.C.

JOS. DICKSON of Rowan d. Rutherford, Tenn. p. 168, was Major at KM. Andrew Carson served under him. Wm. Lee Davidson was adjutant.

LAIRD, JAMES, DAVID AND JOHN were in Campbell's Regt. James and John were killed.

LEWIS of Surry at KM had 3 bros. wounded there. 22 of his family were in his troop.

DORTON, MOSES, AND WILLIAM, JR. fought at Kings' Mountain under Campbell. Moses' horse was killed at Whitsell's mill.

JOHN CROCKETT, father of Davy, was at Kings' Mt. and moved to near Jonesboro. Davy's autobiography tells the story of how his elder brother left him alone on shore and went with other boys in a canoe on the Nolichucky where they were nearly drowned in the falls. Davy said "I believed it was a punishment for leaving me on shore." John left Lincoln Co., N.C. for Tenn.

CARMACK, Cornelius and John, p. 156, were in the Fincastle troop under Christian at Kings' Mountain. Both had pensions.

CHILDERS, John and Michael were at KM from Wilkes Co., N.C. under Cleveland.

SHELBYs were at Kings' Mountain, Evan was the son. Of Washington Co. 1771, Tenn.

HUNNICUT, JOHN, was first settler on the Holston.

PARKE, GEORGE, 1759-1837, b. Amherst Co., Va. as a boy went to the Yadkin, and was at Kings' Mt. Many Kings' Mt. men went to Sumner Co., Tenn.

ARMSTRONG of Kings' Mountain was on the Holston 1788 with other veterans of that battle. SEVIER was at one time there also. JOHN BAKER was one of the Long Hunters there. P. 153 says JOHN BROWN of Ireland b. 1738 was in 1770 on the Yadkin in Wilkes Co. and was three times in Congress.

CROCKETT, JOSEPH, was a capt. of militia at Kings' Mt. of Fincastle.

The independent State of Franklin was formed in Tennessee by Kings' Mountain veterans. They used coonskin money. See William's HISTORY OF THE LOST STATE OF F. Geo. Carmack signed the 1787 petition, also John Carson.

On p. 72, White refers to the "Cromwell stock" of Albemarle Co., Va. By this he means they had the same ideas as the Puritans of Cromwell's time, and some Cromwells were in Russell County, Va. Jefferson and Patrick Henry were influenced by the famous Presbyterian preacher Samuel Davies, and the Baptists, Presbyterians, and other dissenters were the backbone of the Revolutionary stock. The Puritan tradition was also strong in the Episcopal Church (Church of England) in Virginia and elsewhere. The majority of the people who settled the south were the same stock and with the same ideas as those who founded New England--they were the dissenters in the Cromwell tradition. The Tories tended to be of the other tradition. By the time of the Revolution Puritan and Cavalier descendants had mixed, of course.

GENERAL NOTES:

White on p. 64 says the Cherokees in June, 1776, attacked Watauga and on the Holston. This was when Thomas Moody enlisted and fought there. They broke up the Cherokees but the families had to go back to the settlements. P. 90 tells of the Cherokees at the Holston 1776.

For reference see Rumple's History of Rowan Co., N.C. Surry had many Indian alarms. Dykes and Bradley were among the worst Tories then, but I am not sure where they lived. In 1780 the Whigs defeated the Tories at Shallow Ford on the Yadkin. Cornwallis passed there 1781. See WPA Guide to North Carolina. It says p. 488 "Bethania was established by dissenters from Bethabara who objected to the government." The Shultz family were among the Moravians. One of the colonels of the Revolutionary troops was Henry Hampton, sent out before the Revolution.

Elisha Reynolds died Wilkes Co., N.C. 1836, and served 1776-81. He m. Judith Edwards who got the pension. This must be the Reynolds tobacco family.

Many Kings Mountain men went to Maury County, Tenn. where Shultz and Ladd went. Alex McLain from Ireland was pensioned in Lincoln 1833, and his son William was also in the Revolution. I think he was in Maury Co., Tenn.

Perhaps John Damron travelled with the Choats (Shoats), Pruitts, Gillespies and other Revolutionary soldiers to Illinois. His second wife may have been of a Kuykendall-Thompson family. The John Damron of Mississippi I am sure was of the Halifax, N.C. Damron branch.

RECENT RESEARCH ON THE PARENTS OF CAPT. JOHN DAMRON, 1957

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who had a land grant in Northumberland Co., Va. 1652, his will being proved there Dec. 17, 1660, leaving a widow named Dorothy, ancestry unknown. No effort to trace the ancestry of Lawrence has been made, but he perhaps came from Suffolk Co., England. There were a Bridget Dameron and a John Dameron, captain of a Virginia company ship, in Virginia earlier. By tracing John, one might find something of Lawrence. The British Admiralty papers would have something, also the records of the Virginia Company. I believe Damerinscove (Damariscove) off the coast of Maine was named for Capt. John Damron. Its history should be checked.

II. GEORGE DAMERON m. Elizabeth, widow of John Dennis 1679-80. Her ancestry has not been traced, but Dennis records might show something. Res. Northumberland.

III. LAZARUS, d. Albemarle Co., Va. 1749. His wife was Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Smith, whose ancestry has not been traced. Sons were Moses, John, George and Richard, DSP. John married probably the sister of Hugh Rice Morris of Albemarle. John d. 1757, in Albemarle, inventory Apr. 7, 1757 to Nov. 9, 1757. His widow may have remarried and if the 2d husband cared for her children, they might have named their children for him as if he were the father, such as if his name were Joseph or Solomon, as Capt. John Damron's were named. Hugh Morris was in N.C. and possibly the John Damron on the Surry Co., N.C. tax lists in 1771 was a son of John Dameron of Albemarle d. 1757;—who was sued for debt 1775 in Surry. George Damron's wife was Anne Thene or An Thany in 1748, which Ruth Dorius thinks was a double Christian name. (Bishop Tony 1746-7 had a survey made in Albemarle, and if this were a Hugue-not name, Thene would be pronounced Tony.) There was a George Damron in Russell Co., Va. Court Order Books, 1793, Oct. Court, p. 116, Book 2. John Andersen vs. MOSES DAMRON P. S. dismissed. SAME vs. GEORGE DAMRON P.S. dismissed. This looks to be the George of Morgan's Riflemen who went on to Green Co., Ky. dying there 1801. No further record of George was found in Russell Co., Va. and he may have been in the service stationed in North Carolina, as his descendants have a tradition of coming from N.C. (C.P. Damron of Mo., desc. of Wilson Damron, said "our family ancestors emigrated to the Carolinas from Virginia and to Tennessee.")

IV. MOSES DAMERON, JOHN OR GEORGE DAMERON. One of these was the father of Capt. John Damron b. 1757, probably in Albemarle Co., Va. I believe that Moses was his father, at present, and that John's mother may have been a daughter of Solomon King, as he named his second child Solomon, the first being Joseph b. 1781. The use of the name Solomon shows that Richard and Moses of Pike Co., Ky. had a common ancestor named Solomon King, and the fact that John also named a child Solomon indicates that he was of the same maternal line. Children were named for the grandparents, also for brothers etc. The question is, why then did John name his third son William, the fourth John, the fifth George, the sixth Noble Ladd, the 7th Moses, etc.? By tracing the Kings, something could be found—they were in Albemarle, Russell and Pike Co., Ky. In 1956 Alimae Aiken went to Albemarle and reported, "There were some early Kings in Albemarle but their scant records revealed nothing." By tracing the descendants of Solomon King Damron who went to Greenup Co., Ky. 1871, his ancestry might be found. (See Mackey's History of Greenup Co., Ky. p. 150, and p. 44-G Part Two of this genealogy.) He m. Martha Ann Layne and his children were: Mary, Belle, Annie, James, Joseph Randolph, Robert O. and Richard. (Perhaps this Joseph Randolph name is the same from which Capt. John named his first child Joseph, and a search of Randolphs might be useful.) P. 44-g indicates that this Solomon King Damron was b. 1826, hence he must be a son of Richard (whose son Spurlock named a child Solomon K. Damron b. 1849.) However, unless I made a mistake, I found in Pike Co., Index to Order Book 1811-1815 S. K. DAMRON vs. JOHN DAMRON, p. 73, also Wm. M. Damron vs. Curley Smith & Co. p. 82, 98. This would mean a Solomon King Damron much earlier than this generation of Spurlock, in which family the name King comes down regularly. Solomon K. b. 1849 named his sons John Hays, Moses Spurlock, James Boone, Joel, Lawrence and William Damron. The Moses who died on the trip to Illinois named his sons Moses, William and Solomon. Jennie Mullins was a SECOND WIFE.

PART THREE: b. Chronology of the Life of Capt. John Damron.

- 1757, Jan. 12. John Damron was born in Virginia. The records of W.W. Damron dated 1877 say he was "born Northumberland, Va." However, present research shows that the 9th Virginia Regiment was raised in Albemarle County, Va. which indicates that he was the grandson of Lazarus Dameron, and son of either George or John who d. 1757 in Albemarle, so that he would have been born in Albemarle, Virginia, where he enlisted from in the Revolution. Charles Dameron, the Revolutionary soldier, was the son of John Dameron of Albemarle, and possibly Wilson Dameron of Illinois was his brother.
- 1776, for the month of December, we find John Damron on the "pay bill of Capt. Thomas Walker's Company in the Ninth Virginia Regiment Whereof Thomas Fleming Esq. is Commander for the month of December, 1776. The Lieutenant was Wm. Henderson at $18 pr. month, which was the same pay as Lt. Hudson Martin. John Damron, private, received $6 2/3 a month. In 1777, July 16, Geo. Mathews was Col., James Culbertson, Lieut., and Peter Muhlenberg, Brigadier. Capt. Thomas Walker was the son of Thomas Walker who was the first man to explore Kentucky in 1750, and he was representative for Albemarle, Hanover, and Louisa Counties, Va., living in Albemarle. It seems clear that John Damron joined up in Albemarle as a drummer boy in 1776 (W.W. Damron and J.W. Damron's records say he joined the Revolution as a drummer boy at the age of about 17.) Among other men with him in the 9th Va. from Albemarle were: William Baily, James Eubanks, John Gilasby, killed at Germantown, Charles Goolesby, captured at Germantown and James and John who died in the service 9th Va., Wm. Henderson, Hudson Martin, David Merriwether (See Woods' Revolutionary Soldiers of Albemarle.) Also Edward Garland who was with the 9th at the battles of Brandywine, Germantown and Cootses Bridge.
- 1777, August, 9th Va. is in the Battle of Cooch's Bridge as Edward Garland said. The Delaware, by H.E. Wildes says: "Howe's British force, landing after a long detour from New York up the Chesapeake, fell on Philadelphia in the rear. He met a small detachment of nine hundred Pennsylvania horse and 700 Marylanders and Blue Hen's Chickens at Cooch's Bridge, in Delaware. The site, the records state, was near Iron Mountain... The American force, led by General 'Scotch Willie' Maxwell, was heavily outnumbered; the rebel arms were far inferior to those of Howe's well-equipped veterans, but the fight was stubbornly maintained. Eventually, when Howe brought up artillery, the rebels were dislodged after losing thirty killed and wounded. The Stars and Stripes had undergone its first engagement. Brandywine followed in a week, and then, successively, came Paoli and Germantown, the fearful winter at Valley Forge." The flag was adopted June 14, 1777, and Cooch's Bridge was the first battle where it was used, so John Damron fought in the first battle under the Stars and Stripes with the 9th Va. apparently.
- 1777, September 11, the British defeat General Anthony Wayne and George Washington at the Battle of Brandywine on the stream of that name in Pennsylvania. (Some of the wounded were cared for in the Downing barn in Downingtown, the Downings being Foster ancestors who lived near the Brandywine.) The 9th Va. was at the Battle of Brandywine, and this may be where John Damron "knew Washington", as the records say, or he may have known him at White Plains, N.Y. when his headquarters was there guarded by Virginians.
- 1777, October 4, John Damron is taken prisoner at the Battle of Germantown, and dropped from the payroll of Wm. Henderson. Charles Goolesby of Albemarle was captured with him, and John Gilasby was killed. James Lewis was also captured "and placed in jail at Philadelphia until June 16, 1778, when he was exchanged and returned to his regt." This must be the same history John Damron had and he must also have been with Morgan's Riflemen, the most famous unit of the Revolution, as James Lewis said: "In the summer of 1777 a regiment was made up

THE HISTORY OF THE LIFE OF A MAN

1. The first part of the life of a man is his childhood. It is a time of innocence and ignorance, when the world is a new and strange place to him. He is born into a family, and he is brought up by his parents. He learns the ways of his family, and he learns the ways of his country. He grows up, and he becomes a man. He is no longer a child, and he is no longer ignorant. He knows the world, and he knows himself. He is a man, and he is a citizen. He is a part of the world, and he is a part of his country. He is a man, and he is a citizen. He is a part of the world, and he is a part of his country.

2. The second part of the life of a man is his youth. It is a time of passion and idealism, when the world is a place of opportunity and challenge. He is no longer a child, and he is no longer ignorant. He is a man, and he is a citizen. He is a part of the world, and he is a part of his country. He is a man, and he is a citizen. He is a part of the world, and he is a part of his country.

3. The third part of the life of a man is his middle age. It is a time of wisdom and experience, when the world is a place of accomplishment and fulfillment. He is no longer a child, and he is no longer ignorant. He is a man, and he is a citizen. He is a part of the world, and he is a part of his country. He is a man, and he is a citizen. He is a part of the world, and he is a part of his country.

4. The fourth part of the life of a man is his old age. It is a time of reflection and wisdom, when the world is a place of peace and tranquility. He is no longer a child, and he is no longer ignorant. He is a man, and he is a citizen. He is a part of the world, and he is a part of his country. He is a man, and he is a citizen. He is a part of the world, and he is a part of his country.

of the most expert riflemen, commanded by Col. Morgan. The greater part of Capt. Henderson's Co. were selected and James Lewis took charge of balance of Co. and performed duty of commissioned officer. Battles--Brandywine and Germantown."

- 1778, March 15 to May 1. John Damron's name is on the pay roll of "Capt. Henry Dudley's Company in the Second Virginia State Regiment, Commanded by Coll. Gregory Smith." He is a private. Harry Dudley was the son of the Duke of Northumberland and studied military science at William and Mary College. Apparently John Damron was exchanged or escaped and rejoined another company of Morgan's Riflemen in the 2d Virginia Regiment, though I do not know that these were Morgan's, but they were in the fighting from 1777 on.
- 1778, June. John Damron is not on the regular payroll but is on a list as No. 4 which acknowledged receipt of $16 2/3 in pay, signed for by Capt. Henry Dudley, which means that he was sick or absent--probably sick at Valley Forge when his company moved on, with five other sick men of the 2d Va.
- 1778, July, John Damron is shown in the list of the 2d Va. pay roll as "sick at Valley Forge, along with five other men of his company. Taply Manes was left sick at Coryell's Ferry, which is where Washington "crossed the Delaware," and another five were left sick at Princeton, N.J., or rather eight were left--of whom Wm. Fox died July 26, 1778. At this time 16 privates were sick and absent and two corporals. This line of march shows the 2d Va. was under Washington's general command and following his campaign northward. He had left Valley Forge June 20, 1778, and crossed on the 21st at Coryell's Ferry. This was a terrible time when many men died of malnutrition and exhaustion on the march because of the heat etc. On June 28, 1778, was the battle of Monmouth Court House near Princeton, N.J., then Washington moved to headquarters at White Plains, N.Y., which he left in September, 1778.
- 1778, Sept. 8, at "White Plains, N.Y." John Damron is shown as "Sick Prest," and is one of "The Within Soldiers are to serve untill March 1780 agreeable to an Act Assembly. H Dudley Capt 2 V.S.R." This refers to the Virginia Militia under the Assembly of Virginia, but in the Continental Line. He must have joined up when Washington started to move again for the two-year stretch in the Continental forces.
- 1780, March. John Damron's enlistment would be over at this time. William Bailey of the 9th Va. who enlisted for 2 yrs. was in Morgan's Riflemen and at the battles of Brunswick and the taking of Burgoyne, so John Damron may have had a similar history but we have no record of it. James Eubanks served with Wm. Baily. The Virginia militia were sent south to fight the British there where Gen. Francis Marion was trying to hold his own in South Carolina and North Carolina. (His commissary-general was Thomas Young of N.C. who was the ancestor of the Moodys; Thos. Moody joined up as a fifer in 1776 also.) The militia were disbanded at Hillsborough, N.C. for the most part.
- 1781, Dec. 22. Joseph, first child of John Damron is born, so he must have been married on his release from service about 1780. Nell Pearce has an old note in her files that "John Damron and Anna Ladd were married in Cumberland Parish," and Mariam Cropper found a reference that Judith Dameron and Noble Ladd were married in "Cumberland Parish."
- 1791, May 19. John Damron, Jr. is "born in Virginia," as he says in the 1850 census in Texas.
- 1804, Feb. 8. Anna Ladd, wife of John Damron, Sr. dies, but we do not know where.
- 1811, Oct. 27. Agnes Damron is born in Tennessee, according to the Census.
- 1815, Oct. 27. Elvira Damron is born in Illinois, where her father, John Sr. was a Methodist Episcopal travelling preacher.
- 1835, Sept. 5. The will of John Damron, Sr. is signed in Franklin County, Illinois, but there is no record that it was probated. His tombstone in Drake Cemetery, Franklin County, Ill. is a regulation one for Revolutionary veterans and says merely "Capt. Jno. Damron, U.S. Army, Rev. Soldier," no other dates.

1. The first step is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the situation and the needs of the people involved. It is important to listen to all sides and to understand the underlying causes of the problem.

In 1954, Alice Mary Aiken made a trip to southwest Virginia and found the following invaluable information, saying: "After searching everything in Russell County, I went to Washington County. There is no trace whatsoever of the Dameron name in any records in Washington County and the clerk said that he had never come across this name. There are no early marriage records in Russell County and the first will book, along with other books, were lost by fire. There were no early Methodist churches in Russell." The records show that Moses Damron had the first deed written in Russell County, p. 1, Vol. 1, 1786, on Clinch River. Lazarus Dameron or Damron had a deed on Lewis Creek 1794. Richard Damron was in a court case, 1796. These are the Damrons later of Kentucky and West Virginia.

1780, Feb.-Mar., John Damron and Wm. Dorton, Jr. are witnesses to the will of Wm. Dorton, in Washington Co., Va., which mentions his wife Eliz. and children, Wm., Moses, Edward and Sally. (Will Book 1, p. 40, Summers Annals of Southwest Virginia, p. 1344, listed wrong in the index.)

1786 Russell County is cut off from Washington, the latter being formed 1777 from Fincastle, while Fincastle in 1772-1777 was formed from Botetourt formed 1770. Lee was taken from Russell 1793 and Dickenson in 1880. (The Dickenson family are still populous in this region and "The Dickenson being tried in Washington (for collaborating with the Chinese Communists) is a descendant of this old Dickenson family of Russell Co." according to Miss Aiken.

"The county government was organized at Russell's Fort May 9, 1786, with the following officers: Alexander Barnett, county Lieutenant, David Ward, Sheriff, Henry Dickenson, Clerk. Justices: Alexander Barnett, Thomas A. Carter, Henry Smith, Henry Dickenson, David Ward, John Thompson, Samuel Ritchie. The present court house was built in 1874. The first court was held in William Roberson's house and there was some kind of temporary court house before 1874. Lebanon is the county seat of Russell Co. The oldest settlements in Russell were around the town of Castlewood.

1791, Oct. 22, John Damron buys 170 acres on Clinch River, Russell Co., Va. from Vanhook, assignee of Moses Damron, D.B. I, p. 203: "This indenture made the 22d day of October one thousand seven hundred ninety-one between Lawrence Vanhook and Rachel his wife ass^{ee} of Moses Damron and Aggy his wife, who was assignee of James Osborne, of the one part, and John Damron of the other part. 1792, September Court, Law Order Book 2, p. 40: "Ordered that Andrew Cowan be recommended to his excellency the Governor for County Lieutenant of Russell County, Charles Bickley, Major, James Osborne, Captain, William Bolin, Lieutenant and JOHN DAMRON ENSIGN."

1793, April Court, Book 2, p. 76: "Ordered that John Damron, Zachariah Fugate, Daniel Price, James Osborne, William Stuart, John Hargis, George Kendrick, William Fletcher, John Price and James Daniel be recommended to Henry Lee, Esquire, Governor of the Commonwealth, and the honorable Privy Council of State as fit and capable persons for Ensigns in the first Battallion of the 72 Reg. of militia in this state.

1794, October Court, Book 2, p. 183. "Ordered that Christopher Cooper, James Gibson, and Nathan Ellington be recommended to Henry Lee, Esqr. The above was the same land bought in 1791 of VanHook which had belonged to Moses Damron, also.

1801, April Court, Russell Co. Book 3, p. 128: "Ordered that JOHN DAMRON be recommended to his Excellency the Governor of Virginia and the Honorable Privy Council as a fit and proper person for a Captain in the 2d Battalion of the 72d Regiment of Militia in the room of Nathan Ellington promoted, John Allen for Lieutenant in the room of John Damron promoted and Hugh Porter for Engish in the room of James Flanney, resigned."

1805, February Court, Book 3, p. 368. "Indenture of bargain and sale of land from JOHN DAMRON to James Osborne was acknowledged in court by the said John Damron and ordered to be recorded." Deed Book, Russell Co., Va. 3, p. 581, 140 acres:

"The above indentations were made before the signing and sealing thereof."

"At February Court 1805 this indenture of bargain and sale of land from John Damron to James Osborne was acknowledged in court by said John and ordered to be recorded. Tests. HENRY DICKERSON, C.R.C."

1810, December 4th, Book 4, p. 214, Russell County Orders: "An allowance by the Regimental court of Enquiry made to John Damron as Adjutant for the 72d Regiment for the year 1804 of twelve dollars, and another allowance made him as Adjutant for the said Regiment for the year 1805, of twelve dollars were severally passed by this Court."

1796, Book 2, p. 312, September Court, Russell County: "Henry Smith, Plaintiff, vs. Thomas Green, Defendant, IN TRESPASS." John Damron is one of the jurymen.

(Note by Alimae Aiken: "I have found no reference to Joseph Damron, son of John, perhaps he went to Lee County or some new county nearby. The Henry Hamblen whose land adjoins the Damron land in some of these deeds was an ancestor of my brother Carl's wife, Anna Hamblen. I have heard her speak of them being from this part of Virginia. Summers' History of Southwest Virginia speaks of Hamlin Fort and also of one Hamblen or Hamlin being scalped by Indians. My brother Carl's second son, Carl Howard Aiken, helped a little way down his (Moses') Clinch River during the TVA Project near Knoxville near the state line, by supervising the building of the beautiful little park there, moving and putting up an old water mill and building a lake which was named for him.")

From the above we see that John Damron and Moses Damron and Lazarus Damron went to Washington County with the Revolutionary veterans around 1780, John and Lazarus being Revolutionary soldiers, Lazarus being at Kings Mountain, while Moses was a famous Indian fighter. John was in the militia as captain and in 1804 was Adjutant of the 72nd Regiment, also in 1805. It would appear that he sold his land in 1805 and moved away, for the item in 1810 of back allowance could have been a claim made later on.

As Anne or Anney Damron, wife of John, died in 1804, he may have married in Russell County before moving away, and as John Thompson was one of the first Justices of Russell County when it was organized May 9, 1786, this looks to be her father, and the grandfather of Noah Thompson Damron, youngest son of John Damron. Note also that Mark Whitaker had land adjoining that which John Damron sold in 1805 on the north side of Clinch River. This would be the ancestor of the Illinois Whitakers.

By 1798 Moses Damron and his wife Sarah were in Fleming County, Ky. By 1805 Lazarus Damron and his wife Nancy were in Floyd County, Ky. when they sold their land on Lewis Creek in Russell County. However, in 1809 there is a lawsuit by Lazarus Damron vs. Christopher Hains for trespass and assault and battery in Russell County, Va.

In connection with the tombstone, the Quartermaster General, of the War Dept., Apr. 13, 1939, wrote to Mrs. Pearce, QM, 293 A-M: "The records of this office show you requested this information in March, 1937, at which time a thorough search was made of the records, but nothing was found to indicate a government headstone was furnished for this grave... It is noted in your letter the headstone...is inscribed 'Capt. John Damron, U.S. Soldier of Rev. War.' In this connection, it is considered advisable to state Government headstones for erection in private cemeteries were first furnished in 1879 and the inscription you quote is not that of a Government headstone. All Government headstones furnished in the latter eighteen hundreds had the inscription within a shield, consisting of the name, rank and organization with which service was performed."

On 5/24/1948, she received a letter from Mrs. P.T. Chapman, Sr., Vienna, Ill. "Mark Whiteacre told me he was the grandson of John Damron. He, Whiteacre was a Capt. in the Civil War and they, the Grand Army of the Republic, were ordering stones for soldiers' graves. The "Grand Army" of this county. He suggested they order some for John Dameron and Benegar Gill, since they were in the Rev. War. The government sent them and they placed them at the graves. There is not a civil war soldier living in this county now and Capt. Whiteacre is dead. I tried to find if this organization kept a record and could find none, and I don't suppose my word would do any good. Capt. Whiteacre said the family came from Virginia."

A note from Mrs. Pearce to Mrs. Burk says: "The old descendants of John Damron say they think the 2nd wife was 1st wife's sister. There is a great-grandson of John Jr. (b. May, 1791) now living in Utah. He says he remembers hearing his grandpa, John 3rd, say they were sisters."

THOMPSON FAMILY: Alimae Aiken searched in Russell County, Va. for this family and wrote: "I searched a long time among all the Thompson wills and other Thompson documents for John's second wife but found nothing. I also checked the law orders again. Did not find the name Cynthia but the Celia ran through the Thompson family names. Also went back to Washington Co., Va. but found nothing."

"I looked up all the Thompson records in Jefferson County, Tenn. in case this is our John's family," Alice Mary Aiken wrote.

Nell Pierce had letters from Charles P. Damron, Attorney, Ozark Building, Farmington, Mo. He wrote that he was b. 1878, Vienna, Ill. son of James Wesley Damron, who was b. Weakley Co., Tenn. 1841, son of Charles (?) Damron, whom he thinks was born in Tenn. His great-grandfather was Wilson? probably. On Sept. 23, 1940, he wrote: "All I really know is what my father, who is now deceased, told me. According to his report, my great-grandfather's name was Wilson Damron. I do not know his wife's name. My grandfather's name was Charles and the maiden name of his wife was Carson, said to be a distant relative of Kit Carson. My father's name was James W. and he was a brother of Dr. John Damron and Almus G. Damron and Norvell C. Damron, the latter two being lawyers. I was born and reared in Johnson County, Ill. and came to this state in 1900. It was father's information that our family ancestors emigrated to the Carolinas from Virginia and to Tennessee; thence to southern Illinois. My father was born in Weekly Co., Tenn. 1841. I am sorry I cannot tell you anything about Captain John Damron nor his wives. It may be that he was a brother or the father of my great-grandfather, Wilson Damron. Wilson Damron was a contemporary of Daniel Boone and tradition has it that he was with Boone on some of the latter's expeditions to this state. He is buried in the vicinity of Springfield, Missouri. ...Mrs. May Chapman at Vienna is a cousin of mine by marriage." Feb. 10, 1949, he wrote: "I remember my father telling me that he and Mr. Whitaker were distant relatives. I have no doubt that my great-grandfather and John Damron were closely related. It is possible that they were brothers."

Mariam Damron Cropper saw the records of Charles Thompson Damron in Illinois including a "New Testament of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ translated out of the Original Greek and with the former translation diligently compared and revised, New York, Published by D. Hitt and T. Ware for the Methodist connexion in the United States. Paul and Thomas, Printers, 1815." She wrote: "In this book was a piece of corn husk, about this size and shape, folded so. They said that granny called this a 'shuck' and that it was used on the spindle of the spinning wheel to wind the thread on as it was spun.

"Also found in this book a piece of paper on the back of which was written John Damron's license. This is the exact wording:

"JOHN DAMRON'S license to exhort in the M.E. Church is hereby renewed by order of the quarterly meeting conference of the Golconda circuit, August the 12th, A.D. 1837. Samuel P. Burr pro tem."

"The 1837 was a bit difficult. Might have been a nine, unclosed at the top, but looked more like a 7. This makes me wonder if these licenses were issued to John Jr. and not Sr. The folk there all think John Sr. was the preacher--maybe both were.

"Also in the book was a small piece of paper, evidently names and dates but almost unreadable. Near as I could make out it was:

"John Trome Haroz (very faint)
N.T. Damron

Jese Choat ourn Mar 1836
William Choat omro Mar 1863

Jems Pruitt (maybe Pring?) was mar. 1864

Jong Lisley _____ Mar 1863
Jems Gobes _____ Mar 1862

"The book shows evidence of being much used, but with great reverence. There is also evidence of water damage. See story about this.

"Following is the earliest of the three licenses we have now seen that were issued to our John Damron. Note that even this was a renewal, showing that he had had a license before 1819:

"This is to certify that JOHN DAMRON'S license to exhort is here renewed at the Q. M. held for Cache River August 21st 1819. Jesse Haile, P.E."

"Chas. T. Damron also has a note given to John Ward by John Damron 1st day of May 1833--John Damron promises to pay Ward one first-rate yearling. He signed it with an X. (Perhaps he was aged or ill, for I thought he could read and write."

They had eleven children, nine living to ge grown.

IV. MARTHA ELVIRA WHITEAKER, daughter of above, b. Mar. 3, 1866, my grandmother, married Oscar Eldon Burris b. Dec. 1, 1861, d. March 16, 1932. They had six children, four still living.

She wrote also about John Damron: "How do you know his second wife was named Cynthia? So far I have found no trace of her in the census of the 1800's, but I might yet. I haven't plowed through our Illinois State Archives in Springfield by any means. You and Annabel Walker both speak of a family book in Ill. of the Damerons. No one seems to have that, neither have they seen it, nor do they have any idea who might. If I could only locate that, it would help. No one in Illinois thought it important to leave records, or at least I can't find them. I will be more than happy to help you. Just write me and tell me what all is to be done. I started this just to please my grandmother. Now, I can't seem to stop. Martha E. Burris, is, of course, my grandmother." Martha Burris is now 88.

A letter July 15 from Annabel Walker: "I have been trying to get proof of John Damron's family in Illinois. There is a book of records somewhere. Jeslyn Harrison says she thinks Arista McElroy's (dead) daughter has them. She lives in Kansas. If I could get a photostatic copy of the records of John Damron's family from that book, it would help to get proof for my niece who is trying to join the D.A.R."

Further notes from Ruth Damron Dorius say: "That early Union County, Ill. census I sent you had J.W. Damron instead of a Wm. This is Jasper W. along with Jefferson, David, etc. No doubt, they descend from that John in Lincoln County, Tenn. of 1820 census, not our John. It looks like a key county. Our John Damron was already in Illinois in 1820. Maybe the one in Lincoln County, Tenn. was the one that was in Georgia and came up with Crawfords, Pearce, etc. Annabel found land deed for Joseph Damron in Green County, Tenn. (N.C. formerly) 1783. Also John Damond in Green County 1788. Could beours and John could have lived in Washington County, 1780. With Ladds showing up in Maury County, our John could have travelled through Tenn. down that way or he could have been in Georgia after all. Cynthia could be daughter of Constant Ladd and born in N.C. The Damrons were mostly farm people--too busy to keep records. Seemed very interested in our government and current events. Were God-fearing and majority were quite religious. My father was President of the Society Islands Mission (Tahaiti) in the 1890's for five years. He was a Bishop for 18 years, occupation, merchant."

Ruth also sent a check on the census report of 1880 from Johnson County, Ill. (New Burnside) which gave: "Elvira Whiteaker, 64 years, widow, housekeeper (has rheumatism), born Ill., father (born) N.C., mother (born) N.C."

I received a letter from Mrs. Walter Towner Jewell, saying "My husband's great-grandmother was Nancy Dameron b. ab. 1800 prob. Lincoln Co., Tenn. and m. Elisha Powers. Her father was Joseph Dameron, who m. Elizabeth Haynie. Joseph had a wealthy brother John who lived six miles from Salem in Lincoln Co., Tenn."

I received a letter from Charles Thompson Damron from New Burnside, Ill. Sept. 1, 1953, which said: "You have done a wonderful job but you have nothing in regard to my family. The Damron book will be placed in the library at Vienna. Ballance's address is Dr. M.W. Ballance, Marion, Ill. Thank you a lot, wish I could see you. I am an old retired R.R. man, 49 years service. My grandparents were Noah Thompson Damron born Dec. 12, 1823, and Mary Ann Thornton, born Dec. 23, 1827. They were married May 14, 1846, and their children were :

"1st son born May 13, 1847, died in infancy, May 17, 1847.

Isaac Jefferson Damron born June 17, 1848, moved to Oklahoma and died there.

John Ceburn Damron (my father), born Mch. 7, 1851, died Feb. 1918.

"Isaac Jefferson Damron has some children in Oklahoma some place."

He also sent his great-grandfather as John Damron, Sr. born Jan. 12th, 1757, and listed the "sons and daughters" as I have them in this book, but noted after Elvira, 8th daughter, b. Oct. 27, 1815, that "she raised my father," and "Noah Damron married Mary Ann Thornton."

I had no information about this family until Ruth Damron Dorius sent me the following "From Records of Charles Thompson Damron, New Bernside, Ill. John Ceburn and Lucinda C. Cook was married 3 Jan. 1872, children:

"Nora Jane Damron was born 15 Nov. 1873.

Nora Jane died.

Charles Thompson Damron was born 16 July 1875.

Maudy Luvina Damron was born 2 Apr. 1882.

Maudy Luvina died.

Frank Norval was born 26 Jan. 1887.

Samantha Alice was born 21 Feb. 1891.

"Frank N. Damron was born 26 Jan. 1887, died 6 Dec. 1929, age 41 yrs. 10 mths. 10 days married Mary Murphy 8 Aug. 1912. He leaves to mourn his departure a wife and two children and his mother L.C. Damron of New Bernside and one Brother, C.T. Damron of Corner Mills and one sister, Alice Lambert of Ozark, Ill.

"C. T. Damron and P. M. Parker. Patience M. Parker was born 8 March 1875. 20 Dec. 1896. Children: Loraine Damron, 1st daughter, born 30 Jan. 1898, died 3 July, 1898. Eunice Irene born 5 May 1900. Ina Lucile b. 12 July, 1903.

"Noah Thompson Damron was born 12 Dec. 1823. Mary Ann Thornton was born 23 Dec. 1827. They was married 14 May, 1846. (Note: John Ceburn and Isaac Jefferson were raised in the home of Elvira Damron Whitaker, as both parents, Noah Thompson and Mary Ann Thornton died very early. Pony says the relatives all called Noah Thompson 'Uncle Thomp.' Pony lived with her grandma Elvira. Cynthia was supposed to have moved in with Elvira after John's death. Was also told that both Elvira and Cynthia smoked little stone pipes. Raised a bit of their own tobacco. Said the custom was to leave the dinner dishes on the table, retire to easy chairs and light up. Said the room would be so thick with the strongest tobacco smoke imaginable that a stranger coming into the room would be practically suffocated. When these little pipes needed to be cleaned, they were simply thrown into a good hot fire (in the fireplace) and burned clean. The family then as now was known as affectionate, loving with each other; easy going even tempers, but given to 'righteous wrath' on occasion."

THE CHARLES DAMRON FAMILY OF ILLINOIS

The Charles Damron family of Illinois were closely related to the John Damron family, apparently, but we do not so far know exactly what it was. Wilson could have been the brother of John. The following letter was found in the old papers of J.W. Damron, Jr.

"C.N. Damron, Attorney at Law,
Office 543 3rd Street, San Bernardino, Cal.
10 June, 1907.

"J.W. Damron, Jr.

I will call you Dear Cousin,

"Today in looking over some old papers and letters I ran across yours to me of 4 Oct. 1904. I am certain from what you say that we are of kin. You mentioned that your father moved from Texas in 1857. I expect he used to live in Weakly Co. Tenn. or he might have lived in So. Ill. John is a very common name in our family. You mention Sarah Shultz being your Father's Mother's name. I remember the Shultz name. They were related to us in Weakly Co., Tenn. They lived North and a little way across the north fork of the Obine River. I remember one of the young men, I think he was called 'Felty' Shultz.

"The McDaniels and McLeans lived on the north side of the said river from us, They were kin-folks too. My grandmother (my Father's Mother). Your Father going to Texas in an early day is enough proof that he is of kin to the large Damron family. They started from the State of Virginia then to Kentucky, Southern Ill., Western Tenn., Mo., and Texas.

"Ask your Father if he remembers my father Chas. C. Damron. My Uncle Sam. Damron lived and died in Weakly Co., Tenn. He was the youngest one of my Father's family. We moved from Weakly Co., Tenn. to So. Ill. located about 30 Mi. from Cairo in 1851. I don't remember whether I have answered your letter, for this reason I write this.

"The Damron family as far as I know of have always been on the Daniel Boone order, marching to the West. About 3 yrs. ago I met your Uncle John M. He came to our city had a son with him about 50 yrs. old. He invited me to attend his family reunion on his birthday. I was sick could not go. If you come this way any time, will be glad to see you.

Yours very truly,

C. N. Damron."

(John M--Moody?)

This would be the same McLean family as the mother of Sarah Shultz, and Wilson Damron b. Va. who was a scout with Daniel Boone, married a McLean. The above C. N. Damron appears to be the son of C. C. Damron b. about 1801 in Ky., who must have been a son of Charles b. Ky., lived in Illinois. (See census records.) Samuel listed as born in N.C. 1793 must also have been a son of Wilson--but how did he get to N.C. John S. Damron appears to be another son of Wilson b. 1799 in Virginia, with Judith Winnefred age 89 years on the census. We find George Damron b. Ky. with wife Delilah--was this the son of John Damron b. 1757?

Charles Thompson Damron sent the following letter to Ruth Dorius, Sept. 30, 1953: "Well, here is another Damron I never heard of before. They are scattered all over the U.S. Sure was glad to get your letter and am sorry to hear that Miriam is in poor health. I sure was glad to meet her as she sure is nice. Now about John Damron, yes, he was married twice. His first wife was Anna and they had 13 children. Anna died and he married Cynthia Ladd the sister of his first wife and they had 6 children, think of that--19 children. Boy, he was some man. I sure would like to meet you and I know you are busy trying to get all the Damrons lined up and take care of your family. No, I am not hurt because you all have failed to get me in on this as have not given this much thought. Miriam took down all I had when she was here and I supposed it would be in the records but maybe we can get this all fixed up. I am the only one left of my family. I had one bro. Frank Norval and one sister Samantha Alice that lived to be up in years and they are gone. Norue has one son John Lawrence and lives in Marion, Ill. Sister Alice has one son, J.D. and is somewhere in the south as I do not hear from. I have two girls from my first wife, Eunice Hood lives in Harrisburg, Ill. and Ina Winkler lives in Horney, Ill. Am married the second time to Verna and she is a good wife to me and that is a lot to be thankful for but she is bothered with thyroid trouble. Well, I am an old retired R.R. man put in 49 years and 3 months for the New York Central. Was 78 yrs. old last July and am in fair health and thank the good Lord for it. I am a Methodist and a Republican. How does that hit you, ha! If you think I have something that would help in this Damron history, let me know and I will send it to you. I forgot I had three sisters that died in infancy and I had another daughter that died in infancy. Hope you can read this as I am a little shakey."

Annabel Walker received from Mrs. George A. Damron, Tucson, Ariz. the following: "Excerpt from a letter written Nov. 18, 1936, from Joseph W. Damron: 'I am getting a lot of Damron genealogy and inclose herewith a full record of the large family of our great-grandfather and his wife Anna Ladd, also the children from his second wife, whom he married after Anna Ladd died. I did not know he had two families until I received this. I also inclose a copy of his will, I have names and two wills of generations ahead of this one.'" Then on Sept. 3, 1937, he wrote: "I have written to Will Damron (this Will Damron (dead) was the son of William Damron, son of William Wallace Damron, Arizona. He was living in Owensboro, Kentucky, at this time) in Kentucky. I never ask him for financial help. But in looking on the map I found that Owensboro is not far from Harrisburg, Ill. so I ask him if he could find a record of John Damron's second wife's death, and I think in that way we will find out what her name was and perhaps get some more family genealogy."

Christa L.W.G. Damron wrote: This is the record which he mentions above, copied from the book just as it was. This record of births and deaths of the family of John and Anna Damron was found in a book loaned to Wirt Damron by Mrs. Arista McElroy of Harrisburg, Illinois. (I do not now who this Wirt Damron was.)" The list enclosed begins: "John Damron, Senior, was born January 12, 1757. Anna Damron, his wife (first) was born on the 4th day of March, 1765. Anna Damron departed this life on the 8th day of February, 1804. Sons and Daughters: Joseph Damron, the first son, was born on the 22d day of December, 1781." The information is the same as on p. 5 of this book except that all dates are spelled out and all words also. However, it spells the name Hulda, not Huldia, and adds to Suckey: "Suckey Damron departed this life on the 9th day of August, 1810." (I believe Nell Pearce has a photostat of the original page of the book--H.F.S.)

THE DAMERON AND SHULTZ FAMILIES IN MISSOURI

As we see the Damrons moved from Weakley County, Tenn. to Barry County, Mo. and were in Missouri from 1835 to after 1841. The oldest child of John Damron Jr. Susannah m. Joshua Brock b. about 1811 in Missouri. Ruth Damron Dorius found an interesting reference to this: From Goodspeed's History of Newton County, Mo. First pioneer marriage of Newton County was Joshua Brock and bride was a daughter of pioneer Dameron who lived near SARCOXIE on Centre Creek. At Dameron's house they were united by Sq. Vivion and Brock took his wife to his new cabin--all furnished--leaving a merry party to celebrate the event at his father-in-law's. (There is a VanBuren township in Newton Co.)"

Grand Jurors: Moses Dameron, Neosho, 1841. J. K. Choate, Sheriff, 1858. R.W. Crawford, attorney. Methodist Church organized at Joplin 1840.

Sarcoxie is a town now in Jasper County near the border of Newton and not far from Joplin. Neosho is county seat of Newton, which adjoins Barry and is on the Arkansas border. "In 1835 Barry Co. included all of McDonald, Newton, and Jasper on the west, also Lawrence and parts of Barton and Dade; also in 1835 a narrow part of Barton and Dade. Newton was cut off in 1838-39. This change in the western boundary of Barry Co. necessitated a change in the location of the county seat which had been Mt. Pleasant about a mile and a half west of Peirce City (as it was originally spelled) and later settled. Mt. Pleasant was on Clear Creek on a part of 'Wild's Farm.' The new county seat was laid out southeast of where Monett is now situated. On old maps it was called McDowell. It is near the middle line of Barry Co. from west to east but in 1844-45 another county, Lawrence, was carved and left McDowell many miles from the center of the county, so the change of seat was advisable--hence Cassville (Historic Spots in Old Barry County--reference.)"

BARRY COUNTY, Mo. In Mt. Pleasant were Thomas Carney, Thom. Stockton, Geo. Wilson At Shoal Creek near Newton Co. line was McDonald. In Nov. 1842 the line between Vineyard and Mt. Pleasant was changed. Capp's Creek township was set off from Mt. Pleasant and Shaal Creek in 1845. James Wilson, Sr. and wife Mary came from Penn. 1774 to Rowan Co., N.C. Some of the children married into the Glenn and McAllphin families.

BAR:RY COUNTY: John R. Shultz, Justice of the Peace, performed marriages 1837-38-39, none after. (See Goodspeed's History of Barry County, Mo.)

Joshua Brock's house was on Shoal Creek, Mt. Pleasant township.

John Shultz apptd. Judge for Tryon township, May 19, 1835.

George Dameron was administrator of the estate of Jacob Cogle, 1836.

George Damron apptd. viewer of new road from Mt. Pleasant to VanBuren, Nov. 1836.

GREEN COUNTY early settlers: John Pennington, John M. Richardson edited 'Southern Flag.'

Ruth Damron Dorius also has a note: "J. R. Shultz did road work in Giles County, Tenn. about 1810-13."

On Sept. 1, 1953, Annabel wrote: "I have been ill with a heart ailment... My daughter, Mrs. Roy Sundstrom's husband has been studying for his Master of Education degree. They live at 415 W. Broadway, Montesano, where she teaches in elementary school. Dorothy was born in Hoquiam Dec. 30, 1909. Has had a fine musical education and was mentioned in Who's Who of the "International Who's Who in the Musical World," 5th ed. She made a name for herself as a rural school music teacher. She is a singer but is not keeping it up. Both Dorothy and Pat are Delta Gammas. Dorothy was a Delta Gamma at Whitman College, Walla Walla. Her father's grandparents helped found Whitman and also Pacific Univ. at Forest Grove where they lived in later years. Mary and Elkanah Walker were members of Marcus Whitman's missionary band, seven married couples who crossed the Rockies in 1838. The Walkers with the Cushing Eels formed the Tshimakain Mission near Spokane. My husband was named for his famous grandfather. There are two books written on Mary and Elkanah Walker... We have been very wealthy, made it in the logging business. Now I am one of the poorest. We have a wonderful son Richard G. Walker b. in Hoquiam Nov. 10, 1915. He is now in Washington, D.C. with Philco. Co. under contract to the Navy. Our youngest daughter Betty (Mary Elizabeth) is a jewel, beautiful as well as smart... I would love to see you and Ruth and Mariam and those lovely Illinois relatives. I am a life member and Post Matron of Mizpah Chapter Order of Eastern Star. My mother was a charter member and Post Matron. My father also was a Mason. I wrote the history of Mizpah Chapter, O.E.S. for them on the 60th Anniversary recently. ... I want to tell you how thrilled Elizabeth Damron Young is over your work. She loves it."

On Oct. 26, 1953, Annabel wrote again: "A lady from ~~Texas~~ wrote me she thought the Penningtons and Damrons knew each other before coming to Texas and might be related. Sarah, daughter of John Pennington, was b. in Mo. Tyler's history says John Pennington came from Illinois to Texas. I am wondering if Mercer's colony left from Ill. Both John Pennington and John Damron were members of Mercer's Colony 1844. John Pennington's descendant says there were 109 in the Mercer colony he came with. Did you notice one of Joseph Damron, Jr.'s sisters was named Jemima C., also Constantine's daughter Susan Allphin, named one daughter, Anna P. and another Rebecca P. That P. is probably for Pennington or Pruitt. Maybe John's second wife was Jemima Pruitt. The relatives in Illinois only know her as Granny. Maybe both of John's wives were named Anna."

On Nov. 25, 1953, she wrote: "We live in a house that my sister and her husband Will Winters' built almost fifty years ago. It belongs to me. We moved into it soon after the big crash, when we lost everything and had to sell a beautiful home my husband built for me when I was still a bride and we lived in thirty years. I don't mind it now for taxes are so high and the house would be a white elephant. . . . My mother and father were strong Democrats. But they believed in the rights of the people. Dad was against the big Unions, and if he had lived I am sure he and mother would have voted the Republican ticket this time as we did, for it was a time for a change. ... Mother died in 1928 and father 1929. We had a lovely old home, lived well, had nice friends. There were eight of us children. Maude became a school-teacher, Mary did office work., John M. is a teacher just retiring after over 30 years teaching in Los Angeles, Calif. Lloyd L. Richardson became an engineer, ocean, and is now inspector for Union Oil. Co. boats in Belgium. Lorain died when he was 19 years old, is buried in Santa Ana, Calif. I went to a business college, worked in an office and got married. Dad made us all understand we must have an occupation of some kind to get through life. He was a wonderful father... I am too outspoken for my own good. I never hesitate to say what I think but still am not mean.... I am searching for Damrons who have old Bibles. Too bad we didn't have someone like you when so many of the older Damrons were living. Your book is really delightful reading all the way through. I love all the many side stories, including Mark Twain. One thing I have noticed--you and I think alike," etc. etc.

HESTER ELIZABETH DAMRON YOUNG--IN MEMORIAM

The following was sent by Christa L. Damron at the time of the death of Mrs. Young: "Hester Elizabeth Damron b. 12 April 1883, at Deseret, Millard, Utah, d. 8 Nov. 1953, Safford, Graham, Ariz., buried 9 Nov. 1953, at Thatcher, Ariz. Saturday evening about 6 p. m. while apparently attempting to cross the street in the city of Thatcher, Mrs. Elizabeth Damron Young was struck by a car. As a result of the accident, Mrs. Young sustained injuries which resulted in her death Sunday morning about 9 a. m. She passed away in the Safford Hospital.

"Hester Elizabeth Damron Young, daughter of William W. Damron and Hester Elizabeth Ray, was born at Deseret, Millard, Utah, 12 April 1883. She came to Arizona with her parents at the age of three months, settling in Thatcher. Here she was reared and received her education, graduating from the St. Joseph Academy. Following her graduation, she taught school for a short time, then was married to James Edmond Young 25 July, 1912, at Thatcher, Ariz. To this union one child, a son, Edmond Leroy, was born 24 May, 1913. Shortly after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Young moved to Farmington, New Mexico, where they resided for four years before returning to Arizona. In 1920 they moved again to Thatcher, establishing a home in which Mrs. Young has since resided.

"She was a true Arizona pioneer, with her sterling character and cheerfulness. She gave many years of faithful service to her church, relatives, and friends."

She was survived by her son, Edmond Leroy Young, and his son by Lucile Bergen, Arthur James b. 15 Oct. 1945, at Safford, Arizona. (Note errors on p. 21-a.)

A letter dated Nov. 17 was sent by Zola W. Claridge: "Our little Elizabeth Young was struck by a car and died the next morning. I was at the scene of the accident very shortly after it happened and she looked up at me and said, 'Oh, I am so glad you are here, Zola, and don't leave me a minute. I am hurt bad, something hit me.' So you see, the poor little thing did not see the car. A six-man jury inquest decided that the accident was unavoidable and I am sure that it was as eye witnesses testified that she walked from behind her parked car right into the path of this car driven by a lady from California. It is so tragic but I am sure that God knows best and she might never have walked again as her pelvis bone was broken four times and her shoulder twice. I went to the hospital with her in the ambulance and she talked to me all the way but I felt sure that the poor little thing was hurt badly. I stayed with her until the last breath was drawn but she was only conscious about two hours. We will miss her so much and my poor little mother, I feel so sorry for her as she always phoned her or saw her every day and in fact she lived with us a lot as she just couldn't live alone and when she had no one with her she always ran to our place. In fact, she was living with us when she had the blood clot set up in her foot that I wrote you about. I took her to the hospital in the night when that happened. She had no daughters and depended a lot on me as I drive very well and am always here on account of my mother as she is constant care to me. It is a great consolation to me that I did do all I did for her. This has hit me square in the face and it hurts me very much but we must consider the hand of God in everything. I am enclosing a picture of the three sisters. I would love to see her picture go into the book. My mother in this picture was 81 years, Aunt Lizzie 70 years and Aunt Nellie (Ellen) is 72 years. I am sorry that their eye glasses were on as it does not do them justice."

Annabel Walker wrote from Hoquiam: "I was so sorry to hear about Elizabeth Damron Young. It really made me feel sad for I was going to write her. She and I did think alike." From reading their letters, it seemed to me that Elizabeth Young and Annabel Walker were what M.F. Cleaton calls "real Damerons," and they seemed to be very much alike in personality and ideas. Apparently a "real Dameron" is someone who is generous and concerned with matters outside their own personal sphere a good deal.

Note: I received a letter from Annabel Walker saying: "I have been corresponding with Elizabeth Damron Young of Thatcher, Arizona. She has her father's records, but he did not have John Damron, Jr.'s family. Mariam and her grandfather Joseph Damron copied some of William's records. I have copied the photostat Elizabeth sent me. It is precious for it proves our connection with Anna Ladd and John Damron.

"I think it is a wonderful record and it must have been made from memory for he should have 1757 as John's birth. What did William mean by writing 'J.W. Damron 1851 on the side?' She also noted: "There is certainly a difference in the looks of the Damron brothers. John S., the eldest and Joseph the Youngest, don't look like Milton or William. The Ladds are tall and good-looking. The Damron women sure have short lives. My mother's sister Louisa Catherine Damron Aiken died when she was 48, her mother Sarah Pennington Damron died when she was only 44. The picture I am sending you looks much older; it must have been just before she died. It was taken from a tintype and the one of Milton Wesley Damron was taken about the time he died--it was torn and had to be pieced together."

WILLIAM WALLACE DAMRON, SR.

By Maud Damron Schnepf

William Wallace Damron, Sr. was born 23 March, 1833, Weakley County, Tenn., the seventh child of John Damron, Jr. and Sarah Elizabeth Shultz. In 1834 the family moved to Barry County, Missouri, but stayed there only a short time. They then moved to Ellis Co., Texas, about 1841, where the father died in 1856. William met and became acquainted with two missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. They were John and William Moody from Utah. He was baptized 15 Jan. 1856. The people in the community looked down on him and the members of his family that had become Mormons. They were shunned by their friends and were classed as low as horse thieves. So William and his mother and two sisters, Betty and Matilda, joined the little company of Mormons and made the long trek across the plains to Salt Lake City. They were well equipped with good horses and wagons and provisions. But there were Indians to be aware of and the journey was long and tiresome. Betty and Tildie and their good friend Mary Louisa Whitmore rode horses all the way. They were carefree and happy and sang songs all the way.

Johnston's Army was on its way to Utah at the same time to eliminate the Mormons. They traveled the same trail and passed each other many times. But the girls were not afraid. The army would curse their horses and call them old Brigham or Joseph or some other Church official's names as the Mormons went by and the girls would sing songs at the top of their young voices. One of their favorite songs was:

"The Mormon car is moving, she's not been in motion long.
At first her powers were feeble, but now they're getting strong.
And having started on the track the best that we can do,
Is keep the car in motion and pop her quickly through.

For we have a good conductor and a brake man with his force,
Who, when a danger threatens, can stop the iron horse.
We've an engineer and a fire man, and an engine good and true.
So we'll keep the car in motion and we'll pop her quickly thru."

When they arrived in Salt Lake City ahead of Johnston's Army, Betty and Tildie married the two Moody brothers.

William went to live in the southern part of Utah. There he herded sheep for the Church. One day while sleeping near his herd, he dreamed he was surrounded by Indians. He awoke with a start to find an Indian standing over him. He grabbed his gun, but he soon made friends with the Indian.

William married Martha Allphin, but she died shortly after. He was terribly broken up over her. Then he married her good friend, Hester Elizabeth Ray. To this union were born eleven children.

In August, 1883, the family migrated to Arizona. At the time they had nine children. The baby was three months old. Her name was Elizabeth. The journey was long and tiresome. The two oldest boys, John and William, drove teams. They had three covered wagons. Sister Ollie, eleven years old, rode a horse bareback and herded the loose stock. The road was only a trail, rough and rocky. Going down the steep hills they would tie heavy logs behind the wagons to hold them back, and keep them from running over the horses. Sometimes they tied logs to their wagons to float them across the deeper rivers. The journey was dangerous and there were many savage Indians to beware of. They endured many hardships, but they arrived in Pima, Nov. 25, 1883. Enroute at the Colorado River they had caught up with the W.W. Crockett family, and the two families traveled together.

The Damrons lived in a tent in Pima for the next six months. Then William built an adobe house with a dirt roof, in Central. There he and his daughter, Mary, taught school. Then the family moved to Thatcher where William built a Mercantile Store and Post Office. (The old building still stands in 1953.)

At this store and Post Office, the stage coaches always stopped. They carried passengers, mail, Wells-Fargo express, and large sums of money. It was always an impressive sight to see the coach slide up to the store with its armed messenger beside the driver. He always rode ready as an additional protector for money, mail and passengers.

In 1888 William was elected County Treasurer, and again in 1890. Then in 1892, he was elected Probate Judge, and again in 1896. He was loved and respected by all who knew him, and he was lovingly called Uncle Billie. He took an active part in all public affairs, standing firm in his duties that looked to the bettering of conditions of the poorer classes. His interest in public affairs and his honorable method of conducting his business endeared him to the people. They loved and trusted him. And although political machinery then as now, was controlled largely by ambitious politicians, he with little effort found his name on the ballot to be voted for, because his name was an asset to the Party ticket. He was always elected with a big majority. He never was defeated. His name was again on the ticket to be voted in November following his demise in October.

He died 2 Oct. 1898. He was mourned by people far and near. They had lost a friend worthy of their love and esteem and their trust. He had served the public well both in politics and in his church. He was buried in the Thatcher cemetery.

WILLIAM WALLACE DAMRON, JR.

By Maud Damron Schnepf

William Wallace Damron, Jr. was born Nov. 13, 1868, at Fillmore, Utah. He was the son of William Wallace Damron and Hester Elizabeth Ray. The third in a family of eleven children, he was soon called "Babe" and the name stayed with him all his life. When he was just a little boy his father gave him and his brother, John, each a hatchet. They had fun chopping on trees and logs with their little hatchets until one day Babe told John he couldn't chop on a certain log, as he claimed it, and he spread his little hands across the log. But John chopped away cutting off the pointer finger and seriously injuring the next two. But the doctor managed to save them. Babe went through life with just a stub for a pointer finger on his right hand.

When Babe was fourteen, his family migrated to Arizona. They had three covered wagons with teams, and nine children, the baby being about three months old. A family who had intended to travel with them, left a few days ahead and met with disaster. The Indians were on the war path and the whole family were killed except two little girls and their brother. The little girls were carried away by the Indians and were raised among the Indians. The young boy managed to escape by feigning dead. He later rescued his sisters, after they were grown women.

The Damrons made the trip to Arizona in three months. Babe and John drove teams along with their father. The trip was long and tiresome, and they endured many hardships. They arrived in Pima in November, 1883, where they lived in a tent for six months.

Then the father built a store and post office building in Thatcher. All supplies were hauled in from Bowie by freight wagons. The father was a very busy man and his boys did most of the freighting. One day Babe was taking a big load of provisions home when he saw some Indians coming toward him. He was very badly frightened, but he made up his mind they would not take his wagon without a fight. He crouched down in the wagon bed and made ready, and about that time some soldiers came over the hill. He then learned the Indians were scouts working with the soldiers. The Indians pointed and laughed because he was so scared.

When Babe was twenty he married Mary Elizabeth Garner. They built a little frame shack on the banks of the Gila River and homesteaded a small piece of land. It was pretty hard going. Babe went to Wilcox and cut hay for the government every time he had an opportunity. It was about the only cash they had. Their first child was born, and Elizabeth nearly lost her life.

Babe built a home in Thatcher near his father's store, and four more children were added to the family. Babe freighted supplies to Globe and had an interest in a store there. Then he and five others built a store in Thatcher. They called it the Big Six. They later all sold out to W.W. Pace, one of the Six. Babe moved his family to Clifton, a thriving mining town in eastern Arizona. There he went into the transfer and storage business. It was located in what they called Chase Creek, a crooked narrow street lined with a few stores and many saloons. His house was located some distance from the street and was up on a slope. It overlooked the corral. On one side next the street was a large barn, used for storage and hay and grain for the horses. From the barn to the house was a row of stables, where the horses were kept. On the other side was the buggy shed. He had many buggies and surries to rent out. He operated a stage coach from Clifton to Solomonville. Hy Claridge was his regular stage coach driver. He rented saddle horses and had the only hearse, which was drawn by two beautiful black horses. He hauled supplies to the stores and barrels of whisky to the saloons. About the time he had things going pretty good, there was some competition moved in. Babe knew there was not enough business for them both so he set out to do something about it. He met all trains and hauled all the baggage free. He hauled supplies to the stores and saloons for free. This went on until he was nearly starved out, but he survived the other outfit and they moved out. Then he had it all to himself.

One day Clifton had a flood. Torrents of water rushed down the streets, flooding into the stores and houses. A Jewish family operated a clothing store across the street from the corral. Babe heard the cries of the two women and he helped them to safety. A baker and his wife took refuge in the big ovens that were high enough from the swirling water but the wife had forgotten her diamond rings. She rushed down into the house to get them. They found her body three days later buried in sand. Sil and sand washed in around a row of box cars so deep you could step upon them with no effort, at all. A small house floated down the San Francisco River. When it hit the bridge, it knocked off the top and one could see the furniture in the rooms.

A Chinese business man married a pretty blond white girl. She was able to get a very sizeable roll of greenbacks from him before nightfall. She asked Babe to get her out of town, but he wanted nothing to do with her. Hy Claridge offered to do it. He took her to Solomonville. The poor Chinaman walked the streets of Clifton for weeks looking for her. You could almost knock his eyes off with a stick. He never found his bride. It was a costly experience for him.

Babe helped to build the town jail. It was a big cave in a solid rock mountain, with a good iron-barred door for light and ventilation.

Elizabeth took her boys to Thatcher to send them to the Gila Academy, and shortly after she left, Babe met with a serious accident. He was leading a colt behind his saddle horse. The rope got under the horse's tail and he started to buck. The reins broke and Babe went high in the air. He came down on a rock in the river bed. Elizabeth took him to doctors every place, but none seemed to do anything for him. He was finally operated on in the Salt Lake City hospital. They could not find the trouble. He had turned so yellow all over and his skin itched unmercifully. He scratched himself with corn cobs until the blood stood out in tiny drops all over him. He suffered for a year. Six weeks after the operation, he passed on. The doctors asked permission to go in and find what had been the trouble. They found the little passage that carried the gall had been broken when he fell on the rock and the gall was going into the blood stream. He died Aug. 6, 1909, at the age of forty.

Babe Damron was an honest, upright business man. His word was as good as his note. He loved his family dearly. He was taken away just as he was beginning to realize success in a business way. He had had a rough time getting started in Clifton and he did not live long enough to enjoy his success. He was buried in Thatcher beside his father. Many relatives and friends mourned his passing.

(Note by H.F.S. William Wallace Damron, Sr. was one of the early settlers of southern Utah and Damron Valley was named for him, which is between St. George and Pine Valley. It is sometimes spelled Diamond Valley in recent years, also. Joseph Milton Moody wrote Nov. 25, 1953: "All the Damrons I have known were all honest, industrious, good neighbors and well liked when they lived in this country.

The Diamond Valley was named after Uncle Billy Damron as he ran his sheep there for a long time, and it was called Damron Valley. It has since been named Diamond Valley. It is the valley of the black lava you saw. There is a wash in the Bull Valley district in this county called Moody Wash, named after my father and Uncle William Moody. They ran their cattle there for a long time and it still goes by the name of Moody Wash and empties into the Santa Clara Creek. I do not know of any Damrons now in this county. Milton Damron was in California the last I heard of him. He is about my age. We are going to California for the holidays. I believe I am the oldest hunter in the State of Utah that got his buck this year. I had mine by eight A. M. the first day. I was the only one in the crowd of five that got deer that day--pretty good for a man 83 years old. We are having very nice weather here now, days are just like summer. Have only had a killing frost in the last two weeks." He was the most famous hunter of his day and Forest Ranger of the region.)

Under Dixie Sun, published by the Daughters of the Utah Pioneers, has photograph of most of the old settlers but none of any Damron or Moody, except Dorinda Moody Slade. Page 118 says: "Dameron Valley, a small valley lying north of St. George, between that place and Pine Valley. In 1859, a herd-ground eight miles square was granted by Washington County for one year to Robert D. Covington in Dameron Valley, said grant not to conflict or interfere with the grazing of any other settlement rights. In later years, a few families lived there in the valley on their ranches, but now it is practically abandoned, though it is still used as grazing lands." Page 195 on Pine Valley says: "The cattle were all wintered in the lower warm country chiefly in the vicinity of the Beaver Dam Wash, Damron Valley, the Sand Cove etc.

WILLIAM A. MOODY, ARIZONA PIONEER

William A. Moody was born June 28, 1870, in Dry Valley, Lincoln County, Nevada, the son of William Cresfield Moody and Cynthia Elizabeth Damron. His mother died in nearby Eagle Valley when he was two years of age. In his autobiography Years in the Sheaf, he wrote that Mrs. Lorenzo Cutler (Mary Louisa Whitmore who rode horseback with the two sisters all across the plains with a wagon train and cattle herds from Tyler, Texas, in 1857) said: "Cinthy Elizabeth and Matilda Damron were two of the most perfect and angelic persons that ever lived. They were intelligent, kind and generous and I loved them both." Cynthia Elizabeth Damron Moody left four motherless boys and a young daughter, Regenia, who took care of them. He wrote further, "My father had come to Dry Valley to fill a wood contract, and to do masonry work for a Pioche Mining Company. He had established a small town named for himself Moodyville, and here I was born... When father's contract with the mining company was terminated, he left Dry Valley for Eagle Valley... My grandfather left Virginia while still a young, unmarried man, and went to Alabama. He was a trader and later owned a plantation and slaves. He met and fell in love with Polly Baldwin . . . When my father was a boy of sixteen, he moved with his family to Texas. They arrived just after the disastrous news of the Battle of the Alamo had gone out to the country. Feeling ran high everywhere, and father promptly enlisted in the army, under General Sam Houston, about March, 1836. When Texas gained her independence soon afterward, my father received a land grant of a Spanish league, because of his citizenship and army service. My grandfather, John Wyatt Moody, became the first Auditor of the Texas Republic. . . I have a high regard for my progenitors as far back as I have record of them. They were predominantly men and women of honor and integrity, God-fearing and sensitive to the needs of their fellow-men. . . They bequeathed to me a noble heritage."

The autobiography tells a fascinating story of pioneer days in Nevada and Eagle Valley where the brothers, George, Thomas Alfonzo and Milton and their sister Regenia, grew up. "The Indians always liked father. He took a kindly interest in them, and they returned his favors by bringing us pine-nuts. The Indians, in fact, were the community's only source of this important food item, which they gathered in forests distant and unknown to us. One winter when the snow was unusually deep, and our supply of flour was exhausted, the Indians came to our rescue with pinenuts. There were only six or seven families living in Eagle Valley." He went to school in a log schoolhouse and his one treasure was a small iron axe which he still has. His father later took the youngest son, William, with his stepmother, Louisa Gillard Williams, who had no children, to Arizona, where they were among the early pioneers, and William A. Moody is at this writing one of the few living pioneers of the states of Nevada and Arizona, these being among the most recently settled states in the Union, Arizona being probably the youngest state. They started on the journey Dec. 26, 1885: "We travelled on to Ft. Apache, meeting Indians often. We did not know whether they were friendly or otherwise, but our guns were always handy. From Ft. Apache we went on to Black River which was swollen high from melting snows... Our horses swam. Along about the first of May we reached the Gila River, about thirty miles west of Pima. Here we made camp, and I walked down the river a short distance and saw about twenty-five beavers... I would be sixteen years old the coming June." On reaching Pima, they found the family of his uncle John Monroe Moody, whose wife, Sarah Matilda Damron, sister of Cynthia Elizabeth, had also died very young, leaving two motherless children, Sarah Margaret Moody and Joseph Milton Moody.

"The village of Thatcher had been recently laid out, or platted into a townsite, by Christopher Layton, who was then stake president. The land was covered with large mesquite trees and brush. A few families had settled there just prior to our arrival, and lived in temporary shanties. There were a very few houses on the townsite and a few scattered ranches nearer the river.... father purchased a lot in Thatcher, and he and I built a temporary house. We set posts into the ground, hauled willows from the river bottom, and wove them in and out around the posts as tightly as possible. Then we plastered the walls with dirt. There were two rooms, with no floors except the ground, which we wet and packed down as solidly as possible. We also built a post and willow fence around our lot, which was about an acre and six-tenths. Soon afterward Father pre-empted one hundred and sixty acres of land about a mile west of town, which he later homesteaded.

"We were pioneers in the development of the valley . . . the land had been ceded to the United States by Mexico through the Gadsden Purchase in 1853. The few white people who had preceded us had built small canals to convey water to the lower lands. At Thatcher the Central Canal was of the highest elevation, but still did not reach to land as high as that of the Thatcher townsite. Later the Union Canal irrigated the whole of the townsite and a few years later the old Montezuma Canal was extended along the foothills above Thatcher and thus brought a considerable amount of new land under cultivation. The higher lands were fairly free of alkalis and proved to be very productive. For a number of years, after our arrival in the Gila Valley there was much malarial fever, but later, after the low lands had been drained and farmed, the malaria seemed mostly to disappear." They planted melons and marketed them at Ft. Grant, the army post established against the Apaches, where also they sold quail, chickens, eggs, turkeys, cows, pigs, fruit, hay and grain.

"During the early period of settlement in the Gila Valley, there was much Indian disturbance. The Apaches, under shrewd, wily Chief Geronimo, were committing depredation right and left, in defiance of the U.S. Government's attempt to subdue them to an innocuous position on the reservation . . . I have been over the road many times, enroute to Clifton, Arizona, and there were numerous monuments along the way marking spots where settlers had been killed from time to time... we were continually on the alert . . . When first we moved onto our farm, occasionally at night our horses would snort. Believing they scented Indians, Auntie, Father and I would grab a gun and a quilt and run down into the brush to hide until all seemed safe . . . A few years later when the Indian called The Kid first defied the government, and with his followers became a desperado, I was driving a wagon along with Hyrum Claridge up the San Carlos River. We saw much excitement among the Indians..." He then tells how an Indian with a gun forbade him to pass but he held his hound in least ready to spring at the Indian's throat at a word and the other Indians asked this one to permit him to go on.

On June 4, 1894, he married Ella Adelia Williams and though he had just established a prosperous shipping business, he left with her on a mission to Samoa in 1894, where she died in childbirth, May 24, 1895, leaving one child, Hazel, b. May 3, 1895, at Fagalii, Island of Upolu, Samoa. She married first Fredrik Hiorth Aaeser in 1919, and 2nd Eric A. Knudsen, son of Valdemar Knudsen and Annie Sinclair, b. 29 July 1872, at Waiawa, Hawaii, res. Kihahuna, Koloa, Kawai, Hawaii.

Upon his return, in 1898, he was Probate Judge of Graham County, Arizona, and was also four times elected County Superintendent of Schools. He then studied law and English at night. On May 17, 1899, he married Sarah E. Blake and they had seven children. His business activities included farming, raising pure bred cattle, merchandising, banking, manufacturing lumber and running an abstract office. "On June 4, 1912, the Governor of Arizona, George W. P. Hunt, appointed him a member of the State Land Commission, which commission had the responsibility of selecting and administering over ten million acres of grant lands given to Arizona with statehood. When the commission form of management was abolished by law he was appointed one of the State Land Appraisers. He was appointed the Superintendent of the State Reformatory which office he held during the year 1918, when a change of political party government ended his term. During this last named period he spent a month in New York attending a school of philanthropy and visiting other reformatories. In the year 1920 he moved with his family to Phoenix, Arizona, and entered into the real estate business. While in Phoenix he was active in church matters and a member of the stake high council. During the depression of 1921 he suffered heavy financial losses... In 1924 he moved with his family to San Diego, California, and . . . engaged in the Real Estate business... In 1928 he took the civil service examination and received an appointment as Deputy Real Estate Commissioner and was stationed at the San Francisco office, but lived in Berkeley." This is quoted from "A Brief Biography" by his wife Sarah Blake Moody, who added, "He is a man of understanding, judgment, sympathy and knowledge, all of which he has poured unstintingly into his life's service. No man is more deserving of the affection and gratitude he has received from those to whom he has dedicated the crowning years of a full, useful and distinguished life."

Upon the death of his second wife, he married Fanny Constance Wessman on April 30, 1932, having no children. She died in 1949 when he was age 79, and in 1949 he went on a mission to the Central Atlantic States, after which he decided to concentrate his remaining years on the genealogical records of the Moody, Damron and allied families, producing The Moody Family Record, and also compiling the section on John Damron and Sarah Elizabeth Shultz in the Dameron-Damron Genealogy. He was the chief organizer of the Moody Family Organization, and it was due chiefly to his efforts that the genealogy work was carried on. On the 13th of July, 1950, he married Amy Gertrude Toye born Feb. 5, 1874, in England and educated at the Young Ladies' College in Birmingham, daughter of Alfred Toye and Jane Browning Toye.

When I visited William A. Moody in 1952, he was age 82, but still a handsome figure of a man, with warm brown eyes, a ready smile, and outgoing personality. He is one of the last of his generation and when he is gone, there will be few left like him. He was the pure product of the old Virginia and Kentucky ancestry which pioneered in the Southwest and gave it the undefineable stamp which novelists try to recapture and usually fail. He gave the impression of being what used to be called a "Southern gentleman," very chivalrous toward women and gentle and kind, but full of purpose and determination to carry out any project he set out upon, and indefatigable in the pursuit of it. He wrote to me that he found it necessary to get up at five o'clock in order to fill his day's schedule. When you realize that his father was born in 1819, and that he and his father were among the pioneers in the new settlements in Nevada and Arizona, it makes American history seem to cover a brief span. On both sides he had Revolutionary ancestry whose forebears were among the early founders of Virginia, and whose descendants were among the founders of several new settlements in their westward migration. They were people of courage and imagination who were equal to anything and knew it. They did not have time to whine and complain and no inclination to do so, as we see in the record of the life of W. A. Moody.

THE ANCESTRY OF CAPT. JOHN DAMRON, BORN 1757

After a long and difficult search, we have at last narrowed down the ancestry of Capt. John Damron b. 1757, and also his record in the Revolution has been established with the D.A.R. in Washington, D.C. Ruth Damron Dorius proved that the company of Capt. Thomas Walker of the 9th Virginia was raised in and around Albemarle County, Va. so this proves that John joined up from Albemarle and was therefore the grandson of Lazarus Dameron of Albemarle. Ruth Burdette of Kentucky proved that Wilson, Charles and John T. Dameron were of the George Dameron family of Albemarle, and as they were with John Damron's family in Illinois and Tennessee, this is convincing proof of the close relationship. The ancestry of John Damron, therefore, is as follows:

I. LAWRENCE DAMERON, who came to Northumberland County, Virginia, before 1652, with his wife Dorothy, their children being Bartholomew, eldest, George, Thomas, Samuel, Lawrence, Jr. and Dorothy who married Josias Gaskins and Samuel Mahan.

II. GEORGE DAMERON, who married Elizabeth Dennis, widow of John Dennis. He inherited the Guarding Point estate in Wicomico Parish, Northumberland County, Virginia. His will was administered by Bartholomew in 1702. His children were: Col. Thomas 1683-1750, of Wicomico; Elizabeth m. Charles Ingram; Lazarus; and George, m. Margaret Taylor, daughter of Lazarus and 2d Thomas Winter.

III. LAZARUS DAMERON, who was the first Dameron to sell his ancestral acres and leave the county in 1725. In 1726 he was in King George County, Va. In 1748 he had a land grant in Albemarle on the north side of the upper James River. His will was proved Feb. 14, 1749, in Albemarle. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Smith, mentioned in her father's will Nov. 20, 1721. Richard Smith was guardian of Samuel Smith, orphan of John Smith, in a record of May 22, 1745, his mother being Hannah Smith. Malachi Burbery or Burborough's will Jan. 9, 1751, mentions "my Aunt Ann Dameron, my cousin George Dameron and my cousin Samuel Smith." The children of Lazarus Dameron were: (Order of birth is not known).

1. Winefred, m. John Thomas and had a son Charles mentioned in the will of Lazarus Dameron 1749, John Thomas and John Dameron being executors, and the witnesses being John Thomas and John Thomas, Jr.

2. Hannah, heir to 200 acres of land on Hardware River, Albemarle, in her brother Richard's will, 1749, to go to Judith if Hannah had no heirs.

3. Richard, d.s.p. 1749. In 1748 he had a land grant next to John Dameron and Benjamin Woodson on Hardware River and Woodson's Creek, Albemarle, Va.

4. Judith married Noble Ladd. Their daughter, Anna Ladd, m. Capt. John Damron b. 1757, a first cousin. The Ladds were Quakers of Albemarle County, Va.

5. John Dameron d. Albemarle Co., Va. 1757, inventory dated May 23, 1757, the appraisers being Benjamin Damrel (the name Dameron was usually spelled Damerel or Damrel by the family of Lazarus Dameron and also by other Damerons in early documents), Amber Porter, Glover Davenport. John's land grant in 1748 adjoined that of his brother Richard and Benjamin Woodson and was on both sides of Woodson's Creek of Hardware River. His son Charles was a Revolutionary soldier, 2d Va. Regt.

6. Perhaps Benjamin Damrel, who signed John Dameron's inventory 1757, Albemarle.

7. Moses Dameron, who inherited his father's plantation, no record of any sale.

8. George Dameron, also spelled Dameril, son of Lazarus and mentioned in his will. He had a land grant in 1748 of 1407 acres on the south side of the Fluvanna (upper James) River, adjoining Michael Thomas and Major Howard. This was cut off into Buckingham Co. in 1761 and ran along the river. The tax lists for 1784 show George Dameron and Michael Dameron in Buckingham.

George Dameron had land on both sides of James River, then called the Fluvanna, and in 1755 had a patent on Hardware River and Briery Creek in Albemarle, 400 acres next to Hugh Morris (Hugh Rice Morris was the uncle of Charles Dameron.) This was "on the north side of Hardware River and on Briery Creek." The Hardware River region at the mouth was cut off into Fluvanna in 1777, while Amherst was formed from Albemarle in 1761 and Nelson from Amherst 1808.

On Aug. 8, 1767, George Damron of Buckingham and Geo. Hilton had an indenture for 300 acres in Albemarle County, Va. (In 1860 Robert B. Damron bought land from Turner in Buckingham, so the family was still there.) Also in 1879 was the will of John Dameron of Buckingham mentioning son John B., daughters, Margaret, Nancy, Mary, Martha; James Damron 1919, wife Clementine C.)

George Dameron's wife was named Anne, and the name was unreadable in a record of Nov. 14, 1749, between Geo. Damron of St. Anns Parish and James Peter, 147 acres of land granted to Geo. Damron by patent bearing date Dec. 1748, in Albemarle Co. on south side Fluvanna River; George appeared in court with wife Anne _____ Dameron who relinquished her right of dower to estate conveyed to James Peter. (Page 137, Book 1.) St. Anns parish may have been on both sides of the river, but we know it was on the south as in 1750 Noble Ladd of St. Anns Parish sold to Peter Jefferson (father of President Thomas Jefferson of Albemarle) a plantation situated in "St. Anns' Parish on South side of James River."

The name of Ann in the above record appeared to be "Tuone" or "Thone". I ^{Jones?} asked Jenine T. Grayson of Charlottesville, who had written a history of Albemarle County not yet published and was referred to me by Ann Waller Reddy, if she could identify this name and she answered that in all her research she had seen only one name like it and that was Thorpe. Mrs. Burdette answered: "I have never seen that name Thone. Could it have been Thorn? I see there were four Thorns in the 1782-85 census in Va., one, Michael, in Fairfax, Valentine and Peter in Hampshire, also Frederick."

Alimae Aiken of Madison College for Girls, Harrisonburg, Va. wrote Dec. 24, 1953: "In Nelson just over the county line I talked with a lady of about sixty years who was a Dameron before marriage. She told me that her oldest sister, seventy-six, lived at a small town close by and that she had a number of family records and that an old Dameron cemetery was in the vicinity but very inaccessible. This was all in the neighborhood of Hardware River. I have talked with the Damerons in Goochland County and find that they came from Brunswick Co. at no early date and I can trace their line straight down from Bartholomew."

The children of George Dameron were the following, not in order of birth:

- (1) Michael, taxed in Buckingham 1784, who may have had sons Page and Dunmore.
- (2) Daniel, who had a substitute in the 6th Va. Regiment in 1777, with George.
- (3) Perhaps Charles in Nelson County, Va. 1810, and other children not traced.
- (4) Perhaps William of Amherst in 1791-1795, m. Susanna Lee, a widow 1787.

(5) George Dameron, who was with Morgan's Riflemen in the Revolution, 1777-1778, 6th Virginia Regiment. He m. Susanah Thomas, daughter of John and Ann Thomas. She m. second, John Peter Bondurant in Lincoln County, Ky. Sept. 28, 1797, and third, Campbell Goode in Adair Co., Ky. Aug. 13, 1813. Order Book 2, p. 56, July, 1801, shows J. P. Bondurant and Susana, his wife, appointed adms. of Geo. Damron, dec'd., Robert Thomas, security, Bond L 800, as found by Ruth Burdette, who also found in Will Book 1, of the same Green County, Ky., the inventory on p. 45, of George Damron, Aug. 13, 1801: 4 slaves, 2 horses, 5 cattle, 23 hogs, farming tools and small amount of household furniture, value L 308.10.6. Mrs. Burdette wrote: "The reason George Damron's inventory is in Green Co. is that his widow married in Lincoln and moved here with her husband soon after, they bringing George Damron's property with them. You see, they moved to Green River which was in Green Co. but they were high up on the river and when Adair was cut off in 1801, they fell in that county. They had not moved very far from Lincoln Co.

The children of George Dameron and Susanah Thomas were: Mickey, Wilson, George W., John T., Robert T., Samuel and Joseph, and some of their descendants still live in Adair County, Ky. The fact that the descendants of Wilson and John T. Damron lived near the John Damron family in Illinois and Tennessee proves the close connection. John T. Damron was probably b. 1790 in Virginia and in 1814 in Adair Co., Ky. he m. Sarah Ann Winneford b. 1795 in Va. In 1857, he m. second, Emily J. Hardin and had by her one son, name unknown to Mrs. Burdette. John T. Damron was in Weakley County, Tenn. 1830, with the Damrons of John's family, and with Charles Damron, son of Wilson Damron of Adair Co., Ky. Also John T. Damron was in Williamson County, Ill. 1840 with 6 males. John T. Damron was candidate for Sheriff of Williamson Co. in Sept. 1839, according to Walter R. Sanders.

Wilson, son of George Dameron and Susanah Thomas, m. in Green County, Ky. Sarah McClain, daughter of Charles McClain, Robt. Thomas, guardian, on Mar. 14, 1800. Wilson was a scout with Daniel Boone and was with a fur company at one time, making an exploration to Yellowstone River, perhaps with Daniel Boone who went there. His son Charles m. Mary Carson and moved to Weakly County, Tenn. where he lived until 1832, then returned to Illinois. He was in Franklin Co., Ill. 1818 census, beside John Damron, Sr. and John Damron, Jr. and Wilson had gone first to Illinois from Kentucky.

This McClain (also spelled McLean and McLane) family is doubtless the same as that of Sarah Elizabeth Shultz b. Adair County, Ky. who m. John Damron, Jr. John R. Shultz m. Susannah McLain b. 1772 in Pennsylvania, and their children were John McLain Shultz b. about 1792, David b. 1794, Charles McLain b. 1796, d. in Missouri, Joseph b. 1798, Sarah Elizabeth b. 18 Apr. 1799, in Adair Co., m. John Damron. Adair Bible records show John McClain Sr. b. Feb. 26, 1776, m. 1800 Polly (Mary) Coffey. He was probably a brother of Susannah who m. J.R. Shultz. (Note: Allen McLane of "McLane's Raiders" was a famous Revolutionary hero in Pennsylvania, when his men supplied Washington's starving soldiers at Valley Forge.)

Ruth Burdette also searched for the McClain and Shultz records. She found in Green Co., Ky. Order Book 2, p. 40, July 21, 1801, land certificates for 100 acres each to Charles McLain, John Shultz, Minitree Monday, Samuel Monday and John McClain. Also in Order Book 2, p. 128, July 16, 1799: John Breeding, David Shultz, Robert Thomas and Michael Lutterl view the best way for a road from Abraham Riffes on Green River to Tucker's old Station, Robert Thomas to build a mill on Sulphur Fork of Russell's Creek. Mrs. Burdette wrote that in Green Co. "There were no Damron, McClain or Shultz deeds. You see that Charles McLain, John Shultz and John McClain all got county grants of land. With their names were the Monday men who also lived on Green River and who came from North Carolina, I happen to know. I saw David Shultz name on a road order too. That path was taken by Adair's first settlers 1789."

IV. GEORGE DAMRON, son of Lazarus Dameron and Elizabeth Smith, or Moses.

V. JOHN DAMRON, b. January 12, 1757, whose will was dated Sept. 5, 1835, in Franklin County, Illinois. At the age of 18 he joined Capt. Thomas Walker's Company as a drummer, 9th Virginia Regiment of militia, which was raised in and around Albemarle County, Va., the home county of Thomas Jefferson and the cradle of Jeffersonian Democracy, which was also the native county of the Ladd family. The 9th Virginia was in the Battle of Cooch's Bridge, Aug. 9, 1777, in the Battle of Brandywine, Sept. 11, 1777, in Pennsylvania, and on Oct. 4, 1777, John Damron was taken prisoner at the Battle of Germantown. He was apparently exchanged with some other prisoners held in Philadelphia, such as James Lewis of the same unit. John Damron was with Morgan's Riflemen, the most famous fighting unit of the Revolution, as his company was nearly all selected as expert riflemen for Morgan's unit. In the winter of 1778 he was sick at Valley Forge during the "terrible winter" when George Washington was there. At White Plains, N.Y., which was Washington's headquarters, he joined up in the Continental line for a two-year stretch, Sept. 8, 1778.

We believe John Damron, after the Revolution, went to the Cumberland Gap region, which was the wilderness road to Kentucky and Tennessee. Annals of Southwest Virginia by Summers, shows in Washington County, Va. Will Book 1, p. 40: Wm. Dorton's will, leaving bequests to wife Eliz. and to children, Wm., Moses, Edward and Sally. Witness, John Damron and Wm. Dorton, Jr. This was found on p. 1344, between two other wills dated Feb. and March, 1780. In the 1780's many Revolutionary soldiers went to Washington County and nearby to fight the Indians and protect the settlers, the first Kentucky settlement being at Harrodsburg, 1774. Among the frontier soldiers here who fought at King's Mountain were: Zach. Isbell, John Jones, John McCormick, Rob. Lucas, James Robertson, Wm. Clark (on the 9th Va. pay roll), James Cooper, Abr. Cox, Edw. Cox, John Cox, Sr. and Jr, Wm. Cox, David Crockett, William Crockett, Thomas Dedman (Richard was on the pay roll) Drury Goodman, John and Joseph Dunham, Rice Durrone, John Moore, Dan, Gideon, Shardick Morris, Jos. and Isaac Wilson, James Stuart. This was taken from Gwathmey's book on the King's Mountain men by Ruth Dorius. George Dameron of Lincoln County, N.C. was also at King's Mountain, and so was Lazarus Dameron who was in Washington Co., Va. and fought under Col. Campbell, the hero of King's Mountain. Mark Whitaker was also in Washington Co. Ruth Damron Dorius said that in the Annals of Southwest Virginia and Tazewell "the names are the same as on the list in the Revolutionary pay rolls and in Illinois--it is amazing."

Capt. John Damron was in Virginia, in 1791, when his son John, Jr. was born, and also in 1799 when his son Moses was born. In 1811, he was in Tennessee, however, as Agnes was born there, place unknown, and in 1815, Oct. 27, Elvira was born in Illinois, so he was there in that year.

"He was a licensed "exhorter" or circuit-rider for the Methodist Episcopal Church, one of the travelling preachers who went from county to county and state to state after the Revolution when this new church broke off from the Church of England in 1784. There is a new book, The Puritan Heritage, by G. M. Stephenson, which describes the development of Methodism. It was a belated Puritan reformation similar to that which the Puritans of Massachusetts brought about under earlier conditions when they founded New England. One of the important revival centers was the Green River area in Kentucky.

According to the tradition John Damron took a flatboat on the Mississippi when he brought his family to Illinois. Ruth Dorius searched every Tennessee county in the 1800 census and found nothing, and also every Kentucky county in the 1810 census and found nothing, hence we do not know where he was before coming to Illinois. As he was a travelling preacher, he could have covered a wide area in his circuit, and revivals were held sometimes only once or twice a year in a given place.

In his book The Puritan Heritage, G. M. Stephensen, 1952, traced the history of Methodism, p. 62 et. seq. It was at the time of the Great Awakening of Jonathan Edwards in America in the year 1740 that a similar movement began in England. He says that until 1784, the year following the formal recognition of American independence "was a lay movement within the Church of England." In Baltimore, 1784, the Methodist Episcopal Church was organized in the U.S. "It was a religion and a church which made a strong appeal to a people moving from frontier to frontier... carried by itinerant preachers in the service of a church whose flexible government was smoothly adjusted to meet the changing conditions... In England, Methodism was the 'poor man's religion.' In America, Methodist ministers preached sermons that were understood by the plain people... Methodist exhorters emphasized the dignity of the human soul. Methodism contained nothing new in doctrine... John Wesley wrote in his Journal, 1788: 'The Methodists alone do not insist on your holding this or that opinion, but they think and let think. Neither do they impose any particular mode of worship.'

Before the Revolution no American bishop had been ordained in the Church of England. Wesley took a stand against the Revolution and finally the name was changed in 1780 to the Protestant Episcopal Church." In 1773 Thomas Rankin and George Shadford, two Methodists from England, landed at Philadelphia and called the first conference. The preachers attending reported 1100 members. They called their places of worship chapels and meeting houses, never churches. Francis Asbury b. in England 1745 was the main force in the new religion. In 1784, he ordained, or rather Wesley did, Richard Whatcoat and Thomas Vasey as presbyters for America, and they took ship. Asbury insisted on separating from the English church.

p. 76: "The rapid growth in membership of the Methodist Church has been attributed to the itinerant ministry and the circuit system. The circuit riders wrote a large chapter in the history of the West. There was a proverbial saying of bitterly cold days: 'There is nothing out today but crows and Methodist preachers.'... The poverty of the itinerant ministers furnishes ample proof of their devotion... Many nights the itinerant had to camp out without fuel or food. His library was the Bible, hymnbook, the Book of Discipline, Peter Cartwright, one of the most colorful circuit riders, admitted that many of them could not conjugate a verb or parse a sentence, and murdered the King's English 'almost every lick.'... During that year, Cartwright received about forty dollars; but many of the preachers did not receive half that amount." They could never get enough for a suit of clothes and wore homespun given by the "sisters." "The camp meeting appeared as a frontier phenomenon in the closing years of the eighteenth century and the early years of the nineteenth. ...It became one of the most important institutions of the frontier; and its technique was even appropriated in political campaigns... Camp meetings were social gathering and emotional outlets; and people came for miles and stayed for days to participate in them... Hundreds would lie for hours and sometimes for days in a state of insensibility... Men and women jerked backward and forward with such rapidity and violence that their bodies would bend so as to bring their heads near the floor, and the hair of the women would crack like the lash of a whip... necks were broken. James Bradley Finley set out to a camp meeting in Kentucky in 1801... The vast sea of human beings--estimated by some to have numbered twenty-five thousand--seemed to be agitated as if by a storm. He counted seven ministers, all preaching at one time, some on stumps, others in wagons." The circuit riders, p. 79, were "men of strong decisive character; their faces were deeply tanned ... Many times they were forced to take shelter in smoking wigwams or in crude unfurnished log cabins and to make beds of gathered leaves." They used expressions like flash in the pan, pull up stakes, "to be a caution," backwoods, canebrakes, corn shucking, dugout, snag, etc. in their sermons which were "of short, pungent words...almost Indian in character."

Capt. John Damron b. 1757 married Anna Ladd, but we are unable to find any record of the marriage. They had thirteen children, and by his second wife, he had six more, a total of 19. According to the family register of the Damrons in Vienna, Illinois, "Anna Damron, his wife, was born Mch. 4, 1765, and died Feb. 8, 1804."

Now who was his second wife? Or he may have had more than two, and could have married Sarah Moore in between. I found in the Marriage Bonds of Campbell County, Va. "John Damron m. Sarah Moore, dau. of William, John Moore, Surety, 12-24-1804," p. 809. This may have taken place in Lynchburg, the trading center for the whole region of the upper James river. It was the logical time for John Damron to remarry to find a mother for his babies, and we also find a "Sary Damron" on his congregation list in Illinois later on, though this might have been Sarah, wife of John Damron, Jr. or Sarah McCormack Damron. The Moore family were close to the Damerons in Amherst and we find William Moore's name next to that of George Damron in the pay bills of the Revolution several times. John Ladd m. Ann W. Moore, in Fluvanna, Va. 1796, and George W. Moore made an affidavit for Charles Dameron (p. 24, part One), etc. We could find nothing in the Campbell County History, Va., though we found in the 1850's Col. Joseph Cabell of Rockingham Co. and Col. Fleming of Augusta Co., and Robert Dameron of Campbell Co. In Charlotte County, which was in the "Cumberland Parish" region Sarah Dameron, Sarah Dameron in 1797 deeded a tract of land with Robt. Ligon, Carrington, etc. apparently a land speculation by a group (Ligon Genealogy, p. 433.) She appears to be a widow.

Nell Crawford Elkins Pearce of W. Memphis, believes that the last wife of John Damron was named Cynthia, possibly of the Thompson family. She wrote: "When this Cynthia Damron died intestate in Johnson County, Ills. July, 1845 (Records in Probate Judge's Office, Box No. 58) the administrators appointed were Stephen Gill and Noah Thompson Damron. Purchasers at sale of the estate, July, 1845:

"Philander Yandel	W. J. Wise	J.W. Oglesby
Wm. Carmicle	James Gill (brother	Isaac Jefferson Damron
Jesse Choat	of Stephen)	Absolom Nichols
Eliza Henderson	J.A. Wilson	James O'Neal
Stephen Gill	Joseph Newton	Sarah Newton
Dan'l E. Hall	Mathew Gray	David McDaniel
David P. Upchurch	Benjamin Choat	Nathan Rusken.

"That 'Sary' at the church with John, Sr. and his family I think was the wife of John, Jr. this date being Sept. 2, 1822. John, Jr. m. Sarah Shultz. This is the only time Sary ever appeared with family in Illinois, according to records I have. In 1827-33 John and his wife, Sarah, were in Weakly County, Tenn. In 1835 he was in Barry Co., Mo. In 1856 he died in Texas. Always with him was Sarah or Sarah Elizabeth. Agnes and Stephen Gill named one of their sons Stephen Thompson Gill. Maybe one Noah Thompson was Cynthia's grandfather. Why did Cynthia name her first son David? I am trying to eliminate all David Ladds, also David Thompsons. My mother was Rebecca Alma Meadows, daughter of Sarah Ann Gill, who was daughter of Stephen Gill and Agnes Damron. Sarah Ann Gill m. Isiah Meadows who was b. 1815 in Kentucky."

Ruth Dorius wrote: "I looked up Milton Ladd in Jackson Co., Ill. 1830 census. He was 40-50 years old, so he could not be Cynthia's father. Her mother could have been a Ladd." This data was sent to me by Walter R. Sanders, 605 N. Walnut Street, Litchfield, Ill. who specializes in finding families in Illinois from Ky. and Tenn. "Milton Ladd: Jackson Co., Ill. 1830 census: 1 male 0-5; 1 male 10-15; 1 male 15-20, 1 male 40-50, 2 females 0-5, 1 female 10-15, 1 female 15-20, 1 female 40-50." He also noted in the 1830 census: John Damron, Franklin Co., Ill. 1 male 5-10, 1 male 30-40, 1 male 70-80, 2 females 10-15, 1 female 50-60.

The children of Capt. John Damron and Anna Ladd were as follows, being doubly descended from Damerons as Anna Ladd's mother was Judith Dameron, sister of John's father. The dates of birth are taken from the Damron family register of Vienna, Ill. The other information was found chiefly by Ruth Damron Dorius and Mariam Damron Cropper.

1. "Joseph Damron, the first son, born 22 December, 1781." He was in the Russell County, Va. census for 1820 with 3 males, 5 females and 7 slaves, found by Ruth Dorius. This is near the Cumberland Gap region and Washington Co. There was a Russell County circuit of the Methodist church and Mrs. Dorius wrote: "I spent hours reading five volumes of Holston Methodist books, nothing indexed, found nothing new, only there was a Russell circuit." This was the Holston River region where the first settlements took place. The Holston is below Clinch River, and the Cumberland.

2. "Solomon Damron, the second son, born 2 October, 1783." He is not mentioned in his father's will, 1835.

3. "Betsey Damron, the first daughter, born 3 March, 1785." She may have been named for Elizabeth Smith, her grandmother. The Gallatin County, Ill. marriage records showed on the same day: "Elizabeth Damron m. Taylor Nelson, 1 May, 1817, and George Damron m. Elizabeth Heap, 1 May, 1817."

4. "Judith Damron, the second daughter, born 4 March, 1787." She was named for Judith Dameron, mother of Anna Ladd.

5. "William Damron, the third son, born 10 February, 1789." William Damron is in the 1830 census of Franklin County, Ill. with 3 males, 4 females, thus: Males ages 5 to 10, two; males 40-50, one; females under 5, three, females from 10 to 15, one; females 20 to 30, one.

6. "John Damron (Jr.), the fourth son, born 19 May, 1791." He married Sarah Elizabeth Shultz and died in Texas in 1856. He was County Judge of Henderson County.

7. "George & Polly Damron, fifth son and third daughter, born 12 March, 1793." Both are mentioned in John Damron, Sr.'s will 1835. On May 1, 1817, George married Elizabeth Heap in Gallatin County, Ill. "George Damron is found in the 1818 Franklin County, Ill. census, and John Damron in the 1820 census of Franklin Co. Your people were not found in Union or Williamson Counties in my files," according to Walter R. Sanders of Litchfield, Ill. In the 1818 index of Washington County, Ill. Ruth Dorius noted George Damron, over 21, with 4 in the house.

8. Polly Damron, twin, above.

9. "Noble Ladd Damron, sixthson, born 16 March, 1795." Noble Damron is in the 1830 census of Franklin County, Ill. with 3 males and 4 females.

10. "Anna Damron, fourth daughter, born 23 December, 1797."

11. "Moses Damron, seventh son, born 6 June, 1799." Ruth Dorius found Moses Damron in Collin County, Texas, 1850 census: Age 50, real estate value $75, born in Va.; Susanna age 44, b. Tenn.; P. Damron age 27 (male), b. Tenn.; Jno. McClain, age 19, b. Tenn.; Wm. Y. Damron, age 16; George, age 11 b. Mo. Moses, age 9, born in Mo.; Sarah age 6, b. Mo. Mark age 2, b. Texas. (Wm. was b. in Tenn, age 16 above.) The wife of Moses appears to be of the McClain family of Adair County, Ky. W. W. Damron's records show that Moses Damron m. Susan McLain and Constantine, Sarah McCormick. Jeslyn Harrison found that Belveritta was the wife of another brother.

12. "Constantine Ladd Damron, eighth son, born 5 May, 1801." Constant Damron is listed in Newton County, Missouri, along with his brothers John Damron and Moses Damron, in 1840, but by 1850 every name had disappeared. John and Moses went to Texas. The 1840 census above says: "Constant Damron 1 male, age 5-10, 1 age 20-30, 1 age 40-50; females, 2 under five, 2 from 5 to 10; 2 from 10-15 (no wife?) The same source listed Moses Damron: 1 male under 5, 2 from 5-10, 1 from 15-20, 1 from 40-50; females two from 5-10, 1 from 10-15, 1 from 30-40. Mrs. McC.Pearce wrote: "I do know that John's son, Constantine Ladd Damron, died at Cape Gireaudeau, Missouri. Think he. d. in 1850, left a will, no children, only name of wife, a very short will." His wife was Sarah McCormick.

We have the record from J.W.Damron of a daughter of Constantine Ladd Damron named SusanEmmaline who lived in Texas until 1857 with her husband William Coldiron, who died while crossing the plains. They had four children, two dying in infancy. She then married Israel Dodge Allphin of Walker County, Texas, and they lived in Pine Valléy. Four of her children were drowned in a sudden flood, the baby being knocked out of her arms, and she died in Jan. 1879, from internal injuries due to being thrown from a horse while driving cattle on horseback. Her children by Israel Dodge Allphin were: Joseph Warren, Susan Emeline, Hyrum, David C., Anna P., Malissa Jane, Leanore, Rebecca P., Emma May, Samuel Taylor.

13. "Hulda Majors Damron, fifth daughter, born 8 November, 1803." This is the spelling of her name from Mrs. George Damron's records of Tucson, Arizona, in which all the dates are spelled out of this family, copied from an original record of J.W. Damron. She must have been named for Huldah Ladd who married the Rev. Majors, the daughter of Noble Ladd and _____ Davis, and sister of Noble Ladd, Jr. who m. Judith Dameron and was the father of Anna Ladd, the wife of John Damron. Hulda Majors Damron married James Addleton in Johnson County, Ill. in 1830.

14. "David Damron, the ninth son, born 5 October, 1807." This is the second family of John Damron, or at least the child of his second wife, as Anna Ladd died in 1804, probably as a result of the birth of Hulda Majors. In the 1830 census of Franklin County, Illinois, we find David Damron with William and John. David had 1 male and 2 females listed. We also find in Union County, Ill. 1870 census: Dameron, David, age 34, farmer, $800 valuation, born in Ill., Louise E., 30 years of age b. Ill.; James C. age 11, b. Mo., Lucinda age 9, b. Mo., David N., age 7 b. Ill., Elenora C. age 5, b. Ill.

In Barry County, Mo. together with John Damron, Jr. b. 1791, we find George Damron. Ruth Dorius found in Goodspeed's History of Barry County, Mo.: "George Damron was administrator of the estate of Jacob Cogle, 1836. George Damron apptd. viewer of new road from Mt. Pleasant to VanBuren, Nov. 1836."

15. "Suckey Damron, the sixth daughter, born 24 April, 1809." On Mrs. George Damron's list is the phrase: "Suckey Damron departed this life on the 9th day of August, 1810."

16. "Agnes Damron, the seventh daughter, born 31 July, 1811." She married Stephen Gill, son of Benegar Gill, a Revolutionary soldier who enlisted in Delaware. Agnes was born in Tennessee according to the census. Her children were: John C., Polly, Benjamin, Monroe, Stephen Thompson, Elizabeth, Sarah Ann and Milton. Sarah Ann Gill m. Isiah Meadows b. 1815 in Ky. and their daughter Rebecca Alma Meadows was the mother of Nell Crawford Elkins Pearce, who helped in the research on the Dameron genealogy, res. 500 Avalon Drive, W. Memphis, Arkansas. Mrs. Pearce believes the mother of Agnes Damron was named Cynthia, possibly a daughter of the Thompson family.

17. "Elvira Damron, the eighth daughter, born 27 October, 1815." She was born in Illinois according to the census. The 1880 census of Johnson County, Ill., at New Burnside had: "Elvira Whiteaker, 64 years, widow, housekeeper (has rheumatism) born Ill., father (born) N.C., mother (born) N.C." The 1860 census of Johnson County, Ill., showed No. 59: "Elvira Whitaker 45, housekeeper, born Ill., Allen 23, farmer, Am., 21, farmer, Mary 19, housekeeper, John 17, farmer, all born in Ill." No. 60 next door was: Mark Whitaker, 27 farmer, b. Ill. John W. 21, farmer, Ill., Dianah, 18, housekeeper, Ohio." Mrs. Chapman's History of Johnson County said Hall Whiteaker and his wife Elvira settled first in Williamson County, and later in Johnson near what is now New Burnside "on the road leading from Cape Girardeau to Shawneetown." Other early settlers were Harper, Choate, Lawrence, Howerton, Damron, Gill, Burton and Ballance. Dr. J.M.C. Damron was among the early settlers of Vienna, son of Charles and Mary Carson Damron and grandson of Wilson Damron.

Elvira Damron m. Hall Whiteaker on Jan. 26, 1832, who d. March 1, 1844. She died March 10, 1888. Their son was Capt. Mark Whiteaker b. Mar. 28, 1833, in Williamson County, Ill. d. Oct. 10, 1925. He was in Company G, 120th Infantry Regt. (Ill.) in the Civil War. He m. on Oct. 24, 1860, Elizabeth Deaton, b. Oct. 5, 1839, in Alabama, d. Feb. 4, 1937. They had eleven children, nine living to be grown. Their daughter Martha Elvira Whiteaker b. Mar. 3, 1866, m. Oscar Eldon Burris b. Dec. 1, 1861, d. March 16, 1932, and they had six children, four still living in 1953. Their son Melvin Reed Burris b. Dec. 11, 1892, m. Rubye Bynum, and their daughter Jeslyn Faye Burris b. Feb. 21, 1919, m. Leo A. Harrison, and has a daughter Jane age 10 in 1953, residing in Springfield, Ill.

Ruth Damron Dorius found Mark Whitaker in Washington County, Va. She also found in the 1830 census of Lincoln County, Tenn. John J. Whitaker age 40-50 and Mark Whitaker age 70-80. In the 1818 census she found in Union County, Ill. Alexander and Thomas Whitaker, and in White Co., Ill. Robert and Benj. Whitaker. In the Lincoln County, Tenn. 1850 census she found Benj. Whitaker age 57, b. Ky., with Susan b. Ga., Benj., Susan, Nathan, Ann, and Martha; also Daniel Whitaker, age 53, b. Ky., Nancy 48 b. Tenn., Drucilla, Elizabeth, Melton B., Malissa, Daniel, Robert, and Caladonia. In the Johnson County, 1860 census, Ill. she found James Whitaker, 39, b. Mississippi, Minerva 42 b. Tenn., Phineas, 16 b. Miss., Sylvester 10, b. Ark.

18. "Malissa Damron, the ninth daughter, born 10 April, 1818." She was born in Franklin County, Ill. Mariam Damron Cropper found her marriage in Benton, Franklin County, Ill. "Malissa Damron md. William Choate 30 April 1836 by David Norman, J.P. p. 1." She also found here John McLain m. Malinda Smith 20 March, 1829, and were still there in 1843. James McLain m. Lydia Smith 4 Nov. 1839. Miliza McClane m. Eli Smith, Oct. 1, 1846.

Ruth Dorius found in the 1860 census, Johnson County, Ill.: No. 34 Absolom Choate age 50, b. Tenn., Lucinda 50, Wm. C. 27, Jackson, 17, Rebecca J., 14, Alexander H., 12, Nancy 8, John McC. 6, C. H. No. 71 was Benjamin Choate age 30, Sarah 28, Mary A. 12, Marion 10, Wm. 6, Amanda 4, Nicholas 2, all born in Ill.

On the 1860 census, Johnson Co., Ill. she also found Burrises from N.C. and Ky.

In the Methodist New Testament dated 1815, owned by Charles T. Damron was a slip of paper with the names unreadable: "Jese Choate bourn Mar 1836, William Choate 1863."

19. "Noah Thompson Damron, the tenth son born 12 December, 1823." He was born in Illinois and married Mary Ann Thornton, b. Dec. 23, 1827. They were married May 14, 1846, and had the following children as sent by Charles Thompson Damron of New Burnside, Illinois.

(1.) 1st son born May 13, 1847, died in infancy, May 17, 1847.

(2.) Isaac Jefferson Damron b. June 17, 1848, moved to Oklahoma and died there. He had children, names unknown. In the 1860 census, Johnson County, Ill. we find listed with No. 59 Elvira Whitaker: "Isaac I. Dameron, 19 born Ill., Jasper S., age 12, born Ill." Other neighbors were Ballances and Thorntons. Wm. J. Damron of Progress, Union County, Ill. wrote in 1917: "My father's name was Jasper W. Damron. He had an uncle name of Jefferson, George W., and David. Also he had a great-uncle by the name of Jefferson." Marion Cropper wrote that "John Cebern and Isaac Jefferson were raised in the home of Elvira Damron Whitaker, as both, parents, Noah Thompson and Mary Ann Thornton died very early." Apparently above Jasper W. Damron was also living with Elvira Whitaker and may have been a son of Noah Thompson Damron.

(3.) John Cebern Damron, born March 7, 1851, died Feb. 1918. He m. Lucinda C. Cook Jan. 3, 1872, and their children were:

Nora Jane Damron b. 15 Nov. 1873.

Charles Thompson Damron b. 16 July 1875, m. Patience M. Parker b. 3-8-1875.

Maudy Luvina Damron b. 2 Apr. 1882.

Frank Norval b. Jan. 26, 1887, d. 6 Dec. 1929, age 41. He m. Mary Murphy 8 Aug. 1912, and they had two children alive at his death, son J.L.

Samantha Alice b. 21 Feb. 1891, m. Lambert and lived in Ozark, Ill., son named J.D.

(4.) Possibly Jasper W. Damron found in the census of 1860 with Isaac J. Damron, living with Elvira Whitaker. He was then age 12. He could have been an orphan cousin, also. The letter from Wm. J. Damron said: "A few years ago a family of Damrons lived in Vienna, Johnson Co., and my folks told me that we were relations however, I never met any of them, and my grandparents told me that by marriage she was related to a family of Whitakers in Johnson Co."

VI. JOHN DAMRON, JR. born May 19, 1791; in Virginia, according to the 1850 census of Henderson County, Texas: "John Damron, age 59, farmer, born Virginia, value of real estate $640, Sarah Damron, age 51, wife, born Kentucky." He was the son of Capt. John Damron and Anna Ladd, and he was executor of his father's will in 1835, where the bequest is written "To my son John I give my large Family Bible."

In Henderson County on the 1850 census we also find: "John S. Damron, age 32, $640, b. Tenn., Sally b. Ind., Nathaniel C., b. Texas, Laury L. b. Texas." He appears to be of the Adair County, Ky. Damron branch.

In the Territorial Census, 1818, Franklin County, Ill. Little Saline, p. 26, we find: "Damern, John S. males over 21 (2); all other whites (9). Damern, John, Jr. free whites over 21 (1); all other whites (4.) This is the father and son. We also find in the 1820 State Census, Franklin Co. p. 55: "Damron, Charles, free whites over 21 (1), all other whites (4). This was the son of Wilson Damron of Ky.

We then find in Newton County, Missouri, 1840 census: "John Damron with 3 persons under five, three from 10-15, one from 20-30, one from 40-50--males; females two under five, one from 5-10, one from 10-15, three from 30-40, one from 40-50. This is John Damron, Jr. and his wife and children, and with them were Moses Damron and Constant Damron. All names disappeared from the 1850 census. Also on the same census 1840 were: Joshua W. Brock, John Pennington, Nathan Richardson, Elijah Pennington. In 1835 Barry Co. included Newton, which was cut off 1838-39.

John Damron, Jr. lived in Virginia as a boy as his brother Moses was born there 1799. He came to Illinois with his father, as they are found together in 1818 in Franklin County. Previous to this his daughter and oldest child Susannah had been born 1816 in Tennessee, and also John Shultz, the second child, but the third, Annie Ladd was b. 1821 in Illinois. Milton in 1823 was born in Weakley County, Tenn. Then in 1835 Tildy was born in Barry County, Mo. John Damron, Jr. died in Texas 1856, and his brother Moses was also there in Collin County, 1850.

John Damron, and Sarah Elizabeth Shultz had ten children. The oldest was Susannah b. 1816 in Tennessee. She married Joshua Brock and had the "first pioneer marriage of Newton County," Missouri, according to Goodspeed's History of Newton County, Mo. "The first pioneer marriage of Newton County was Joshua Brock and bride was a daughter of pioneer Dameron who lived near Sarcoxie on Centre Creek. At Dameron's house they were united by Sq. Vivion and Brock took his wife to his new cabin--all furnished--leaving a merry party to celebrate the event at his father-in-law's." Sarcoxie is now in Jasper County not far from Joplin, and near the Newton county border. Joshua Brock's house was on Shoal Creek, Mt. Pleasant township.

George Dameron was here also in 1836 and viewed the new road from Mt. Pleasant to VanBuren, Nov. 1836. John Shultz was appointed Judge for Tryon township May 19, 1835. In Barry Co., Mo. John R. Shultz was Justice of the Peace and performed marriages in 1837-38-39, but none after that. He was the father of Sarah Elizabeth Shultz.

John Damron, Jr. was the Judge of his county in Texas--Chief Justice of Henderson County. Ruth Dorius found a reference in Memorials and Biographical History of Texas (1893, Lewis Publ. Co.), though there was nothing in the index.

"At house of Wm. Ware on Tuesday, 4 Aug. 1846--present and presiding was Hon. John Damron. John Damron, Chief Justice, Wm. Peters, James Naudain and Peter Hill, commissioners. B. Shankle, Sheriff, and Albert G. Kimbell, Clerk.

In October, 1847, the precincts were laid off. Buffalo was the first County seat. "On July 13, 1848, Mr. Damron declared permanent the new site of Centerville--to be the county seat, as it rec'd the largest number of votes." The three main settlements at Henderson were: Caney, Turkey and Buffalo Creeks. John Damron's neighbors were: Jacob Scott, M.D. Blue, Whiteheads, Wm. Ware, A. M. Cobb, Fanchers, Daniels, James Boggs, A. J. Hunter, John Pearson. Also in the county were the family of Ratliff (in Ill. 1818), and two families of Ball.

"John Damron lived in the upper part, or what is now the two offspring counties to the north, near Trinity river," Ruth Dorius found.

Annabel Walker wrote: Milton Wesley Damron "and his parents were members of the Mercer Colony who settled on the Trinity River in Texas, Dec. 20, 1844. Mercer was a man hired by the government to colonize Texas. These pioneer families obtained grants of land, 640 acres to heads of families." She also wrote: "Both John Damron, Jr. and my great-grandfather John Pennington and their families came with Mercer's group. I am trying to find out if they came together. I have written to the Land Office to see if I can get a list of names that John Pennington's group came with--there were 109 of them."

John Damron, Jr. m. Sarah Elizabeth Shultz, b. Apr. 17, 1799, in Adair County, Ky. died about 1861, daughter of John Rudishill Shultz b. 1769 in N.C. who d. 1855, and Susannah McLain b. 1772 in Pennsylvania. His father George Shultz b. 12-3-1730, was the son of Jon Christian Shultz, Moravian minister, b. July 15, 1703, at Riehen in the County of Basel, Switzerland, who was one of the first settlers of the Moravian colony in Winston-Salem, N.C. who died in Bethania, N.C. He arrived in Pa. 1732.

Where did John Damron, Jr. marry Sarah Elizabeth Shultz? Their first child was born in Tennessee, and also John Damron, Sr. was in Tennessee in 1811. Mariam Cropper found in a Shultz deed in Adair Co., Ky. 1810 that "John Shultz of Tennessee" sold land. We also have a reference that John Shultz did road work in Giles County, Tenn., which adjoins Maury County. The 1820 census of Maury showed Jehosophat Ladd, Paley McClain, Abel Wilson, John and James Gill, Elijah Richardson, Sam'l Wilson, Joseph Gill, Richardson Gill etc. This Jehosophat Ladd must be the one in Fluvanna to whom John Ladd made a deed in Book 1, 1777-1783. He would be closely related to Anna Ladd. The Milton Ladd of Illinois Ruth Dorius believes to be the son of Amos and Amos sold his Albemarle land and moved to Wilkes Co., N.C. The Wilkes Co., N.C. records show Milton Ladd m. Mary Reynolds 24 Jan. 1811, Elisha Reynolds, wit. Mary Ladd was in the 1840 Illinois Census, age 50-60 years.

The children of John Damron, Jr. and Sarah Elizabeth Shultz were:

1. Susannah b. 1816 in Tennessee, m. Joshua Brock who was b. about 1811 in Missouri, according to Mariam Cropper's records. They were married in Newton Co., Mo.--the first pioneer wedding of the county. The 1840 census of Newton County, Mo. showed Joshua W. Brock, one male under five, one from 10-15, one from 15-20, one from 20-30, one from 60-70, one female from 10-15, one female 40-50. This is on the same list as Moses, John and Constant Damron. I also found him in Ellis County, Texas, Navaroo District, 1850: "Joshua Brock, age 40, farmer, b. Ky., with 1 person over 20 who could not read nor write; Susanna Brock, age 32, b. Tenn. Joseph F. Brock, age 13, b. Missouri, Spencer P. Brock, age 11, b. Mo., John R. Brock, age 8, b. Mo., Elisha Brock, age 2, b. Texas." They lived on Grove Creek near Bristol. (See Ellis County Early Settlers.)

2. John Shultz Damron b. Sept. 14, 1818, in Tennessee, m. June 6, 1847, Sally Daugherty in Texas, who d. 1911 in Los Angeles, Calif. He d. Feb. 1905, at Santa Ana, Calif. They were among the pioneers of southern California, chiefly engaging in the cattle business in the Imperial Valley and in orange groves. They arrived in California Dec. 17, 1865, and settled near Redlands. They had ten children: Nathaniel Case or Cass, Laura Louisa who m. John Colman Bedford 1870; John Randolph, m. Emily Wilshire, whose son, George Damron, is president of the Damron Family Organization, 4428 Cahuenga Boulevard, N. Hollywood, Calif.; Nancy E. m. Henry S. Pankey, Joseph W. m. Mollie Walker; Amanda S., m. John T. Smith; Andrew Jackson; m. Sally Smith; Milton W., m. Mary E. Dyche; William Nathaniel d. 1870; Charles L., m. Reumah Measor.

3. Annie Ladd b. Mar. 21, 1821, m. Benjamin LaRue and Elza Stockton. She was a pioneer in southern California when her brother John arrived.

4. Milton Wesley Damron, b. May 10, 1824, in Weakley County, Tenn. With his parents he was one of the Mercer Colony on the Trinity River in Texas 1844. I found him in the 1870 Texas census, Bell County: "Damron, M.W. age 46, farmer, $5,000 valuation, b. Tenn., Sarah, age 38, b. Mo., Eliza 14 b. Tex., Martha 10, b. Texas." In 1846 he m. Sarah Pennington in Travis County, Texas, and they had only three children, all girls: Sarah b. 1850, Bell County, Texas, died young; Louisa Cathrine b. Aug. 16, 1856, Bell County, m. J.H. Aiken, Martha Salado b. Nov. 30, 1860, on the Damron farm in Salado, Texas, m. John Richardson in 1878, July 4; his daughter, Annabel Richardson Walker, 718 K. Street, Hoquiam, Washington, helped with the genealogical research, and established the Revolutionary record of John Damron, Sr.

5. Laura Louisa Damron b. 1828 in Weakley County, Tenn. m. Zachariah Moore.

6. George Washington Damron b. 1830 in Weakley County, Tenn. died of a heart attack while working in a cornfield in Kanosh. He m. Susanna Stewart and is listed with his wife in the 1870 census.

7. William Wallace Damron, seventh child of John Damron, Jr. and Sarah Elizabeth Shultz, was b. March 23, 1833, in Weakley County, Tenn. d. Oct. 2, 1898, in Thatcher, Arizona, being one of the early pioneers in this region. He was Probate Judge and County Treasurer "an old-time Jeffersonian Democrat and his counsel is sought in all party matters," according to the Graham County Bulletin 1896. His first wife, Martha Jane Allphin whom he married May 9, 1861, died without children. He m. Second Hester Elizabeth Ray b. 25 March, 1844, in Carroll County, Miss. d. 24 Sept. 1924, Thatcher, Arizona, and they had eleven children: Mary Matilda m. Martin Martensen; John Milton m. Emma Zimmerman (Naylor); Ellen m. Harry Clifford White; Hester Elizabeth m. James Edmond Young; Ray d. 1886; George A., m. Flossie Letta Jones and second Christa Lillis Wilkins, who has helped with the genealogical research, as well as Elizabeth Damron Young.

8. Sarah Matilda Damron b. Jan. 8, 1835, Barry County, Mo., died Aug. 16, 1877. On Dec. 20, 1857, she married John Monroe Moody and they had four children, but two died young, Helen Matilda b. Jan. 25, 1862, d. Nov. 23, 1864, in Pine Valley, and Monroe Damron Moody b. Nov. 26, 1864, d. Aug. 1, 1866. Joseph Milton Moody b. July 15, 1870, was still deer hunting age 83 in 1953. He was the most famous hunter of his day and Forest Ranger. He is of the old Kit Carson-Daniel Boone tradition, and his bravery and skill with the rifle show his descent from a soldier with Morgan's Riflemen, Capt. John Damron, who were the picked sharpshooters of the Revolution. Capt. John Damron was his grandfather, and his paternal grandfather was Thomas Moody, also a Revolutionary soldier who joined as a fifer age 17 in Lunenburg County, Virginia. As a boy he lived with his sister and her husband, Solon Foster, Jr. and managed the latter's stock ranch in Arizona which was forty miles by sixty miles and ran to the rim of Grand Canyon. Sarah Margaret Moody was b. April 8, 1859, and d. Jan. 14, 1938, in Inglewood, Calif., while living with her daughter, Ruth Foster Engilman. Sarah Margaret m. 1st Solon Foster, Jr. b. He was also of an old colonial family, descendant of Christopher Foster who came over with the Puritan migration in 1635, on the "Abigail", and was one of the first English settlers in what is now New York State but was then under Connecticut, Southampton, L.I. Among others of his ancestors were three of the seven men who made the first settlement in Connecticut, at Wethersfield, Jonas Wood, John Strickland and Thurston Raynor, 1635, before Thomas Hooker arrived with his company. Sarah Margaret Moody m. second on Dec. 31, 1896, Dr. Frederic Clift b. Aug. 1, 1847, Cornwall, England, by whom she had two children, Clive Hollocombe and Vyvyan Botreaux Clift. 9. Cynthia Elizabeth Damron b. Cynthia Elizabeth Damron and William Cresfield Moody had five children: (1) George b. 7 Feb. 1860, d. 21 Feb. 1950; Victoria Regenia b. 12 July 1863, d. & Dec. 1950 m. The Ladd family holds reunions in Richmond, Virginia, and the President of the organization is Thomas Mifflin Ladd, 5616 Crenshaw Road, Richmond 27, Va. Mrs. W. H. Ferguson, Jr., 7342 Hermitage Road, Richmond 28, Va. is an officer. This organization includes all the descendants of John Ladd of Lower Norfolk County, Va. On Aug. 6, 1953, Thomas Mifflin Ladd III sent me a photograph of his ancestor Thomas Mifflin Ladd taken age 21 in 1821, he being born May 5, 1800. He said: "The amount that I have got together, the publisher says would be a little less than a hundred pages. That's where I stopped as I didn't, or couldn't afford to have it done. But I'm going to continue to collect data for my own amusement and for the benefit of my family who may some day have it published. A great deal of my data is collected from old ledgers, account books that have been collecting dust in an old secretary since before the Revolution, and letters nearly as old. From them, I have been able to do biographical sketches of those long deceased. We had an old Bible at the old Ladd home that the records of births, marriages and deaths for about 200 years were in. Warren Ladd, who compiled the 'Ladd Family' in 1890 got a great deal of his information on the Virginia Ladds from the old Bible and my grandmother who could tell me my ancestors almost all the way to John the immigrant who settled here in 1653. The old Bible has since been burned and a store of papers destroyed for lack of sentiment and knowledge of their value.

"I have an abstract copy of the will of Lancaster Lovett, father of Bathsheba Lovett (wife of John Ladd, the immigrant) whose mother was Ann Lovett. The will of Lancaster Lovett date Oct. 17, 1672, can be seen in the original deed book, "E" page 143, in the Norfolk County C. H. in Portsmouth, Va. Ruth Dorius acquainted me first with the Damron family. I had the pleasure of meeting her at the Ladd reunion. I think she is a wonderful person, and just as pretty. We liked her husband, too, and I called on each of them for a talk at the reunion. They were liked by all of us. We did have a grand time at the reunion. There were about 160 or more present. The invocation was by our former Rector, L. Carter Harrison, one of the oldest families in Virginia, who had been our spiritual guidance for about 30 years. At the meeting, a third cousin whom I'd never seen brought me an old Quaker book printed in 1700's. It was mostly testimonials of the Friends of the Society. In it was one by William Ladd of Virginia. The testimonial in this old Quaker book sort of puts a kink in what I have of William Ladd, born at about the place where John was granted a tract of land in Henrico Co., Va. July 24, 1667, his father and mother were John and Mary Ladd, both born in "Old England." It is possible that Mary died, John went to Lower Norfolk County, Lynnhaven Parish, where he met and married Bathsheba Lovett. If so, we are not descended from the Lovett family. On the other hand, this testimonial was "sent in to the publisher of this book by friends from Virginia." It is possibly a mistake by the friends who sent it-- but it starts something.

"On my mother's side, I have a mixture of Kings, Hills, Winstons and Fontaines. I'm a direct descendant of Peter Fontaine who was rector, first at the Jamestown Church, then for more than 40 years at Westover Church, near Westover, Charles City County. Then too, I have no picture of myself here at all as our effects are in Norfolk, we are only here for the summer. I took this picture of 'gramp' from a painting."

The admiration seems to be mutual as Ruth Dorius wrote: "Thomas Ladd sent me a newspaper clipping with his pix. I sent it to Nell. He is a tall, dark, handsome thing." She also wrote: "I think Noble Ladd in N.C. was married twice. I think he and the one in Albemarle 1750 are the same. Moses was Lazarus oldest son. At time of his will Judith was not married. There could be almost 20 years difference in the ages of Moses and Judith, also of Noble and Judith."

"Was the Ladd farm which Peter Jefferson bought one of the President's plantations Where was Shadwell? I have looked through four books on Jefferson. They each state that President Jefferson owned about 5,000 acres in Albemarle and there is a reference to a farm in Bedford Co. All the other references are to Monticello (small mountain) and Shadwell. Peter Jefferson, the president's father, bought about 1,000 acres on the Rivanna River but wishing a better site for a home he bought of William Randolph the Shadwell tract of 400 acres where his distinguished son was born. This Shadwell tract must have joined the first purchase mentioned. Included in this tract was the small mountain or Monticello. Thomas completed his home at Monticello on the top of this mountain about 1772. Shadwell is about five miles from Charlottesville. It is close to both Monticello and Ash Lawn the home of President Monroe. President Jefferson owned twice the amount of land that he inherited from his father. No mention is made of other tracts owned nor of that which he inherited. Peter Jefferson had seven children who inherited his property." A.A.

^{OF?}
The Daily Progress, p. 14, has a picture of "Moses Schuyler Ladd, who celebrated his 83d birthday Nov. 11, has served Grace Episcopal Church, Cismont, as sexton for a little more than 59 years. He took the job in 1895." Boyce Loving writes: "Not only has he been sexton for 60 years; he has been a member of the vestry for the past 30 years, and a member of the church since 'before 1885.' Moses Ladd is an amazing man, not only because of the length of his service to the church. Now in his 84th year, he uses glasses only for reading, his hearing is little impaired, and he is alert mentally. Also, he walks with the spryness of a man 30 years his junior. His memory is astounding. With no hesitancy he can reel off dates of happenings at the church. Ladd was asked by the late John Armstrong Chaloner to witness the signature to the latter's will because Chaloner said he wanted a 'close-mouthed' man to do the witnessing. Chaloner took Ladd to New York for the occasion...Born near Campbell, Ladd has lived in the Cobham, Cismet neighborhood all his life, although he said he always went to Louisa to pick out his wives. His first wife died in 1942 and he married the present Mrs. Ladd in 1943--both were from Louisa. He and the first Mrs. Ladd had ten children, five still are living...The Ladds, including Moses, have been in this area for quite a spell. According to Moses, Peter Jefferson, father of Thomas, purchased land from an ancestor of his, one Noble Ladd. Noble Ladd had inherited the land from a predecessor who received it as a grant from Governor Berkley, probably about 1640-1650...An indication of the youthfulness of our subject is the fact that he still sets wooden box traps for rabbits. This year he hasn't had much luck, having caught only five of the wild cottontails thus far. He says it has been his experience that one doesn't catch many rabbits during the Christmas season. At the time..he was unhitching a pair of horses from a wagon."

"Gramp's' Old Geography Recalls Growing Nation," by Thomas Mifflin Ladd, in the local paper, shows a photograph of a page of the book with the date 1809, and one of its owner, which he studied when 9 years old. "Gramp" was an earlier Thomas Mifflin Ladd, born in Richmond, May 5, 1800. He was the son of Thomas Ladd and Ann Bell, daughter of Nathan Bell, owner of Bell Tavern. In the early 1800s, the elder Ladd was master commissioner of Richmond. Being of a Quaker family, young Thomas received his early education in Quaker schools. He became a civil engineer, and for about 20 years before his death in 1867, was city engineer or city surveyor, the title of those days, for Richmond. He married Lucy E. Cowardin, a sister of James Andrew Cowardin, founder of the Richmond Dispatch.

"The United States was very small when the volume went to press, scarcely one-fourth the size it is today. In 1800, the population was 5,305,666; the length of the nation 1,250 miles, the breadth, 1,940 miles...Lewis and Clarke had completed their expedition to the West Coast, but not in time to get the story in this old geography...On the first page, in large capital letters, is written 'Geography Made Easy.'"

The article describes part of the book which tells of water shortage in New York City, which sold from wells for 3 pence a hogshead, "for cleaning the teeth nothing was better than a twisted off twig of dogwood or birch." Slaves in New York were 2,868. "The population of Brooklyn was 2,387 whites and 1,479 slaves. The houses are generally of brick, and the roofs tiled...The most magnificent edifice in the city is Federal Hall, situated at the head of Broad Street."

MILTON LADD OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS

On July 8, 1939, the Adjutant General's Office, of the War Department, ORD: JJW, wrote to Mrs. McCallister Pearce: "I am directed by the Secretary of War to state that the records show that one Milton Ladd served in the Black Hawk War as 1st sergeant in Captain Jenkins' Company, Illinois Volunteer Militia. He was enrolled June 16, 1832, for 90 days, and was honorably discharged and mustered out with the company August 10, 1832. The records indicate that he was from Jackson County."

On Nov. 18, 1940, she received a Reference Report from the Illinois Historical Library, on Milton Ladd: "No information on Milton Ladd was found in the material on Methodist ministers in this library. The second volume of Rev. James Leaton's History of Methodism in Illinois has never been published. The manuscript is in the possession of the Library of Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, Illinois. The following information on the Ladd family may be of interest to you. Milton Ladd was Assistant enrolling and engrossing clerk of the House of Representatives of the first General Assembly of Illinois, which met at Kaskaskia, 5 Oct. 1818. He was a member of the Senate from Johnson County in the second Illinois General Assembly, which met at Vandalia, 4 Dec. 1820. (Illinois Blue Book, 1907, p. 294, 295.) The History of Alexander, Union and Pulaski Counties, Illinois, (Chicago, 1883), p. 314-5, contains a sketch of Judge J. M. Davdidge of Olmsted, Illinois. His first wife was Nancy Ladd, daughter of Milton Ladd. She was born in Johnson County 29 Feb. 1824, married in that county in 1840, and died in Pulaski County 21 Sep. 1877. She had five children, Mary, James, Charles, Cornelia and Nancy. This was all that could be found, in addition to what has been sent you previously."

Another page of notes said: "Milton Ladd was in Johnson County, Illinois early 1819 or before was a preacher, Methodist, also a surveyor. His mother was a daughter of Elisha Reynolds; 1820, surveyed the road from Vienna to Saline; 1821 was post master, Vienna, Ills.; 1831-32 was in Black Hawk War. Elisha Reynolds was his grandfather and was born 1754 in N.C. He was a Rev. soldier, enlisted 1777 in N.C., was pensioned 1832-36, his wife being Judith Edings. In 1806 I find him in Johnson County, Illinois. He was a soldier in the War of 1812. In 1887 he and his wife were living in Goreville Township, Johnson County, Ills. Note: Elisha seemed to have been the first Ladd in this county.)"

Another page of notes by Mrs. Pearce said: "MILTON LADD was found first in Johnson Co., Ills. He was not in Saline Co. (report from Co.) In 1810 or about he was one of the first settlers of Johnson Co., Ills. In 1819 was a bondsman for John S. Graves for building of jail at Vienna. In 1819 he was on jury, Johnson Co. In 1820, was a surveyor in Johnson Co., also kept a tavern this date, and was a member of the Senate until about 1824. In 1821 was post master at Vienna. In 1824 was still in Senate. In 1831 was in Black Hawk War. In 1832 was still in this War. In 1887 Elisha Ladd was in Mexican War. This was perhaps a son of Milton Ladd, or bro. Mary Ladd's will prob. 1-5-1845. Was she wife of Milton?"

Another page of pencilled notes said: "A Noble Ladd lived in Surry Co., N.C. 1771. Constant Ladd was here, ref. N.C. Col. & State Rec. V. 25, p. 14. In 1774 a Mrs. Ladd was in Halifax Co., N.C. Joseph Dameron, Camden Co., N.C. drew a pension.

THE SHULTZ GENEALOGY

Ruth Damron Dorius is the researcher who has tracked down the Shultz family and although we do not have the proofs as yet on all of it, I will try to make a genealogy sheet for this family as follows:

I. JON CHRISTIAN SHULTZ, minister, aged 30 years, Swiss-German, on Sept. 25, 1732, left the Palatine in Germany in the ship Loyal Judith of London, from the port of Rotterdam, Master, Robt. Turpin. (See Early German Immigrants to Pennsylvania.) He was born 1703 in Basle, Switzerland, and went to North Carolina in 1769 to the Moravian settlement at what is now Winston-Salem. He died 1788 in Bethania, N.C., a small town between Salem and Germantown (where the Ladds were). (See North Carolina Moravian History by V.T. Reichel, appendix "First Settlers." In the History of North Carolina Cemeteries, Bethania, N.C. are listed Johannes Schultze born 7-5-1703, died 7-11-1788. "Old Father J. Christian Shultz had son Geo. (wife Maria)--Fries' History of N.C. Christian Schutze, wife Ann Dorothy were in Salisbury township, Penn., Dec. 1754. In the cemetery is also listed George Shultz b. 12-3-1730, died 9-9-1789, and on the same day Maria Schulz b. 4-21-1744, d. 9-9-1789. These must be the parents of John Rudisill Shultz, our ancestor.

II. GEORGE SHULTZ b. 12-3-1730, died 9-9-1789, on the same day as his wife Maria, b. 4-21-1744, d. 9-9-1789, in Bethania, N.C. He was probably born in the Palatine two years before his parents left there for Pennsylvania. His wife was named Maria.

III. JOHN RUDISILL OR RUDISHILL SHULTZ born 1769 in North Carolina, the year his father arrived in the Moravian settlement, if he came with the grandfather. (It was originally stated that he was born in Pennsylvania in 1769, which might have been before they left for N.C. I have not seen any proof of where he was born. He died 1855. His wife was Susannah McLain b. 1772 in Pennsylvania. His mother was undoubtedly named Rudishill of the Pennsylvania family of that name. (Note: since writing above noted that Mrs. Dorius found John Rudishill Shultz in the 1850 Census in Henderson County, Texas "John R. Shultz, 81 b. N.C." This census lists: "John Damron, 59, farmer, $640, b. Virginia; wife Sarah 51, b. Ky., Geo. W. 20 b. Tenn. Wm. W. b. Tenn.; Sarah M. 14, b. Mo., Cynthia E. 12, b. Mo.; Joseph Warren 9, b. Mo." From this we see him in the household with the John Damron, Jr. family as an old man of 81, listed as "coop-farmer." In 1779 in York County, Pa. taxables was listed Jacob Rudisill, Corodus Township, together with Lawrence Shultz and Valentine Schultz. In Heideberg Township also was Jacob Rudisill and Henry Shultz; also in York township John Shultz was ex'r for Conrad Holtzbaum. (Frank Mitch 11 Arnold, 3032 Washington Boulevard, Chicago, Ill. was looking for data on Jonas Rudisill, Sr. d. 1799 and his wife Maria Elizabeth Moul(d), m. 1754, both of York County, Pa.) Mrs. Cropper found Rudisells in Lincoln County, N.C. but no Damerons nor Ladds--Henry, Philip Wirey, Michael.

In Barry County, Missouri, where John Damron's youngest children were born, we find John Shultz appointed Judge for Tryon township May 19, 1835. John R. Shultz was Justice of the Peace and performed marriages from 1837-38-39 but none afterward.

McLain is a Scottish name. Ruth found Paley McClain in Maury Co., Tenn. 1820, with Jehosophat Ladd, Richardson Gill, Abel Wilson etc. In Weakley County, Tenn. where John Damron, Jr. lived for a time, were in the Deeds, 1827-33, John M. McLain, along with the following Damrons: Charles, George, John, John T., Moses and William. Also there were Schultz: Charles M., David, Jacob. In the 1820 census in Washington D.C. for Adair County, Ky. I found Richard Shultz and John McLain. Ephraim McLain was in Rowan Co., N.C. Sept. 20, 1775.

In naming their children, John Damron, Jr. and Sarah Elizabeth Shultz, apparently named Susannah for the McLains, and probably William Wallace for the famous Scottish hero of "Scottish Chiefs", Sarah Matilda and Laura Louisa seem to be Shultz names. The wife of Bishop Henry A. Shultz who served with him in his ministry was named Rebecca Matilda (Bagge) Shultz b. 1808, near Salem, N.C. d. with still-born child 1849, age 41. They were in Pennsylvania and after 1844 in Bethlehem. Perhaps the Matilda was named for her, as no doubt Henry A. Shultz was a close relative, perhaps a brother of John R. Shultz. He later became High Commissioner in Moravian, which was a high honor. As to the name Cynthia, we are not sure who the Cynthia Damron is who was buried beside John Damron, Sr., in Ill. She might be the wife of one of his sons, and John Jr. may have named a daughter for her if she died young and childless, which was customary.

In the 1820 Census of Adair County, Kentucky, were John Shultz in the 35-45 age group or over (our John would be 51), with 5 males and 2 females. Near him were listed the Damrons: Joseph 2 males, 5 females; John, George, Robert. In 1830 were listed John Damron with 9 males and 2 females, George 30-40, Joseph 30-40 Samuel 30-40 (one female here 60-70 yrs.--b. about 1761?) There were also in Adair County, Ky. 1850 census: Samuel Dameron b. N.C., Wilson, Sanderson, John, George; also John S. b. 1799 in Va., with Judith Winnefred age 89 b. Va.

The records of W.W. Damron show the children of John Rudishill Shultz and Susannah McLain were:

1. John McLain Shultz b. about 1792.
2. David Shultz b. 1794.
3. Charles McLain b. 1796, d. in Missouri, m. Mary _____.
4. Joseph b. 1798, m. Cynthia _____.
5. Sarah Elizabeth b. 18 April, 1799, in Adair County, Ky. m. John Damron.

(We may speculate that the Cynthia who married Joseph Shultz might later have married a Damron in Illinois and been buried there; and that Cynthia Elizabeth was named for her by Elizabeth Shultz Damron. In any case, this Cynthia is a mystery, as also is Belviritta and one or two others in Illinois.) John McLain would appear to be the name of the father of Susannah and may have been the one in 1820 Census of Adair County, Ky.

IV. SARAH ELIZABETH SHULTZ b. 18 April, 1799, in Adair County, Kentucky, m. John Damron, Jr. and had ten children, the first, Susannah being b. 1816 in Tennessee. We have the record of Susannah's marriage with the "first pioneer groom of Newton County, Mo." Joshua Brock. They were married at John Damron's house near Sarcoxie on Center Creek by Sq. Vivion and went to their new furnished cabin afterward, leaving a merry party celebrating the event at John Damron's. After her husband died, Sarah Elizabeth Shultz Damron left Texas with her children in 1857 and crossed the plains to Utah, where she died about 1861 at Charleston and is buried at Heber City, according to Sarah Margaret Moody. Now where did she marry John Damron, Jr.? Did he make a trip to see some cousins in Adair County, Ky. and meet her there? There were McLains and Shultz families in Benton, Franklin County, Ill. In 1853 A.D.L. Shultz gave a note to Crawford there, John McLain m. Malinda Smith 20 Mar. 1829 and was still there in 1843. (See p. 11-b, PART TWO.) James McLain m. Lydia Smith 4 Nov. 1839, p. 100. Miliza McClane m. Eli Smith Oct. 1, 1846 etc. Therefore the McLains and Shultz families may have migrated to Illinois where Elizabeth might have married John Damron, Jr. about 1815. Elvira was b. in Franklin County, Ill. 27 Oct. 1815, so John Sr. was there at this time--but might he not have been in Kentucky a little earlier? He was in Tennessee 1811. However, John R. Shultz was in Kentucky in 1820.

John R. Shultz was living in Adair County, Ky. in 1779, when Sarah Elizabeth was born there April 18, who married John Damron, Jr. Ruth P. Burdette, a genealogist of Adair County, Ky., in Columbia searched for the Damron and Shultz families in this region but found only the following. She noted: The Richard you found in the census was Stults not Shultz. I am sending all I have on the McClains. The Bible record I am sending is of some of the name who came from N.C. with the Coffey family. I do not know if they were related to this Charles McClain or not. I was so sorry not to find more about the Shultzes. It was strange to me the people they married came from two separate parts of the county. The Baises and Robinsons lived in the lower part of the county and the Philippses lived in the upper corner, near the Damrons. I have no idea why I couldn't find more deeds of theirs. So often early deeds were not recorded. When I try to find when a family left here, often there is no deed recorded where they sold land. Don't see how the titles ever kept straight. I do want to write a history of Adair Co. None has ever been published. I am sure the State Historical Society would publish it. I have a tremendous file on the people of this section." Mrs. Burdette said also: "I did the Adair Co. research for the book Sam Clemens of Hannibal. I was too new in the business to ask for enough credit. It was very entertaining. Of course, just a little was used in the book. Mrs. Bolin and I found the old marriage bonds in the court house that had not been touched for 50 years. In them was the bond of Samuel Clemens parents. The marriage was not on record anywhere at the time. That is the only record. Thank you very much for the Dameron book... I had no idea it would be so huge. It is a wonderful book and I appreciate the work that went into the compiling of it."

Mrs. Burdette found only two Shultz deeds in Adair Co., Ky:

"1822, E- 675, Jacob Shults from Sperry 8 A. Butler's Fork. (Butler's Fork is in the lower part of the county, Green River in the northern part.)

"1810, B-431, John Shults to John Hammonds 100 A. Green River.

THE McLAIN (McCLAIN, McLANE) FAMILY

Susannah McLain born 1772, married John Rudisill or Rudishill Shultz b. 1769 in North Carolina. She was b. in Pennsylvania, and according to the W.W. Damron records, their children were: John McLain Shultz b. about 1792; David Shultz b. 1794; Charles McLain b. 1796, d. in Missouri, m. Mary _____; Joseph b. 1798, m. Cynthia _____; Sarah Elizabeth b. 18 April, 1799, in Adair County, Ky. m. John Damron, Jr. b. 1791 in Virginia.

I may note here that Allen McLane or McClain was the commander of "McLane's Raiders" in the Revolution in Pennsylvania, and through his men kept the Valley Forge army alive during the hard winter. "That dashing young captain Allen McLane took his wife's household and table linen and had it cut up to make breeches for his cavalymen. Picturesque they were, riding through temperature of ten above zero. McLane's raiders . . . (attacked) the wagons that carried farm supplies to the British at Philadelphia . . . The farmers in the neighborhood of Philadelphia, most of whom were Quakers, brought Howe a large part of his meat and provisions. They might have done the same for Washington if he had been able to pay them in anything but those worthless Continentals." (A Short History of the Revolution, J. H. Preston.

Ruth Burdette, genealogist of Columbia, Ky. in Adair Co. sent the following copied from the McClain family Bible owned by Miss Arline Young, Columbia, Ky.:

They lived North and a little way across the north fork of the Obine River... The McDaniels and McLeans lived on the north side of the said river from us. They were kin-folks too. THE MORAVIAN SCHULTZ FAMILY OF NORTH CAROLINA

I. JOHANNES SCHULZ (old spelling SCHULTHEISS), founder of this family, was born July 15, 1703, in Riehen, a village of the canton Basel, Switzerland, and died near Bethania, N.C. July 11, 1788, according to his tombstone in the Bethania cemetery No. 54. On Jan. 16, 1730, he married Eva Soldner, who came from Riehen, canton Basel. On August 1, 1955, Alice Mary Aiken received a letter from Douglas L. Rights, Archivist, Moravian Archives, Box 68 Salem Station, Winston-Salem, N.C. as follows:

"Enclosed are memoirs of Johannes Schulz, Georg Schulz and Maria Schulz, in photostat. Items from Records of the Moravians and church books give notice of purchase of land by J. Schulz, of Georg Schulze's land, of baptism of Christian Thomas Schulz with his father's name Johannes and mother's name Christine (maiden name Zimmerman), and of wife of Christian Thomas, Christina Mücke. It seems that the family line runs: JOHANNES, GEORG, JOHANNES, AND CHRISTIAN THOMAS SCHULZ.

"To save expense of photostat, I am sending printed map with circle enclosing area of Schulz land. There is also here the memoir of Eva Schulz, wife of the first settler of the family, Johannes. The expense for the photostats is $8.50. I hope this will be what you want for your family records and you can let me know if there is more you wish supplied."

"RECORDS OF THE MORAVIANS IN NORTH CAROLINA, Volume II, page 613.

(1752-1775). "J. Schulz has bought 400 acres in the south-west corner of lot 28, in the 9th deed; is to pay L 80: Penns. or L 85:6:8, N.C.; has paid L 34:4:6, NC."

Same volume, page 1343: "George Schulze is listed as owner of lot No. 50, corresponding to the lot No. 28 bought by J. Schulz. Lot No. 50 is shown marked on map in same position as on other map."

BETHANIA CHURCH RECORD BOOK, page 113: Baptism Register. "No. 197. Born 31 March 1805--Baptized 7 April 1805. CHRISTIAN THOMAS, little son of the married Brother and Sister Johannes Schulz, farmer near Bethania, and Christine, maiden name Zimmermann. Witnesses were: (1) The married Brother Christian Hege. (2) The married brother Johann Heinrich Schulz. (3) The married Sister Johanna Hege, born Diez. 4. The married Sister Elizabeth Schulz, born Krieger. The baptism was performed by Christian Thomas Pfohl, Pastor loci."

The ancestry of this family is therefore as follows:

The following photostats from the Moravian Archives in Winston-Salem, N.C. were translated from the German upon the request of Alice Mary Aiken:

"PERSONAL ITEMS REGARDING BROTHER JOHANNES SCHULTHEISS (OTHERWISE SCHULZ). 1788 (3). From his account of his experiences in these times, the following memoirs have been gathered. He was born July 15th, 1703, in the village of Richter, in Canton Basel. In his fourth year he became very nervous because of a punishment inflicted by his mother for disobedience. She took an opportunity at a moment where foliage was being burnt to make him strongly aware that disobedient children would be thrown into a much greater fire out of which they could not escape, neither could they die. He took this so keenly to heart that from then on he was very uneasy. He lost his mother early but he was able to care for her all through her eight weeks of illness, but shed many tears thereby. In the year 1730, the 16th January, he married Eva Aldner, who passed away one year ago. This marriage God blessed with three children. During all this time he was very disheartened about himself and the state of his soul. His greatest difficulty lay in the fact that he could not reveal his need and soul-anxiety to anyone. In 1739 he became acquainted with a group of revivalists. The opportunity for this came about when some others wished to persuade him to accompany them to a saloon. He resolved very quickly against that. He fled as fast as he could and hastened to the house where revival meetings were held. He knocked on the door and told them of his purpose, namely to be converted with his whole heart. Now he began for the first time to understand himself. This brought him into such anxiety that it often occurred to him to take his own life. Then he thought, "With that you would do no honor to Jesus, nor would that please Him, because then unconverted people would say, 'There it is evident what comes of their meetings. It results in insanity and leads to suicide.'"

"Once when he again became so fearful and could find no way out he thought he heard some call out to him, 'Don't overdo it! Your sins are forgiven; hold fast on Jesus, who has atoned for your sins and has paid all your indebtedness.' This impressed him so deeply that suddenly he lost all fear, and from then on, he could bring everything that caused him anxiety, from within or from without, to the Lord. Once, when by his work in the vineyards he became tired, hungry, and thirsty, he began to think it unfair, that others had life so easy, while he, by his hard work, could not allay his thirst, even with a drink of sour wine or milk. As he felt himself growing angry, he thought: "Did not your Savior have to suffer still greater thirst? And He was on the Cross. Your lot is not nearly so hard!" This thought made him ashamed, so that he took a piece of his hard bread, went to a spring and dipped the bread into the water, then thanked God for what he had. It often happened that he and his family had nothing at all to eat, and some, whom he knew had fruit in store, denied him any on credit. He then turned in prayer to his Lord for help, and Behold, people, from whom he least expected, brought bread, flour and peas, so that the whole family had enough for four weeks.

"In the year 1749 he moved with his family to Pennsylvania, but, because he could obtain no good land there cheaply, he resolved to move to Schomoko. However, when he began arrangements, he saw in a dream an old man with a long white beard who said, "Do not move to Schomoko, nor across the Susquehanna for it will not go well with you there. Remain with the Brethren." This was repeated three nights running. Afterwards he understood that this dream was not without substance, for shortly after, war broke out with the Indians, 1755. He would definitely have been their prisoner. Now because life was very difficult for him in Pennsylv. not only because of poor land but because his neighbors tried to persuade him, he resolved to move to Carolina and came in May 1769 here to the Wachau. Here things were easier for him than heretofore, for which he often expressed his gratitude to the Lord under tears. In regard to his conduct among us during these years, we can witness that he had a simple, childlike faith in the Lord. If he noticed anything that seemed wrong in the conduct of others, he would become deeply agitated and would express himself now and then. Otherwise, he was helpful and friendly toward everyone and was everywhere loved and honored. Although for some years walking was difficult for him, he still did not lightly neglect the church meetings for he said, "I always take home with me something that is useful to me during the week."

"In April, 1784, he became so seriously ill that it was believed that this time he would not survive; he expressed that he had always thought he would be taken in late autumn, but if the dear Lord called him home now, it would please him better. Then he said, "I promise to be true to my Savior, nothing shall sever me from Him." This illness, however, was of long duration so that he was bedfast for four years. His hip became swollen right to the bone, which might have been caused by a former cold infection. This was a severe school of patience for him and for those who had to care for him. The Lord had perhaps His own wise plan therewith. He now became humbler, nothing more than a poor sinner saved by grace, free from oddities and self-righteousness, without honor, comforted only by the spilt blood and death of Jesus. "Oh," he sighed, "Let me never forget how much it cost to save me." He made use of his time to read Bible tracts and some beautiful verse which delighted him. Now and then he was visited by brethren, who would read to him. For this he was most grateful and wished it might occur oftener. Also he appreciated deeply the devoted care of his nurse, and hoped that the Lord would reward her and bless her in body and soul.

"On the 5th of Aug. Bro. Beck visited him for the last time. He was already much weakened, but could still speak. Some few verses were sung and he was especially pleased with the verse, "Therefore is the Lord my salvation," and by the last line he exclaimed quite audibly, "If only I can be found in Jesu." In this attitude he awaited the blessed moment of departure, since as a poor sinner he "would see the Lover of souls in person and kiss His wounds." It happened in the morning at 4 o'clock when he quietly passed away to Him. He had reached 85 years less 4 days. His marriage was blessed with three children, of whom one son, with whom he stayed, is still living. Of this son's family he lived to see six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Of the latter one has preceded him in death."

Book 1, 1752-77, printed Moravian Records, p. 391 has this item: "June 5. Three families arrived from Pennsylvania, the older and younger Schulz Brethren from Hebron, with their wives, and the two small children of the younger couple, and Christian Conrad with his wife, also a single man by the name of Feiser. After resting a few hours Br. and Sr. Conrad went on to their farm four miles from Bethabara on the west line of Wachovia (which his father, Jacob Conrad, had bought the preceding year, and on which a cabin had been erected on the 19th of the past month, by men from the South Fork.) June 12th the Schulzes decided to buy 500 acres below the bridge over the Dorothea."

(Note: Dr. Rights told us the Dorothea flowed from Bethabara to Muddy Creek, but it seems to be the same stream. V. 3, 1776-79, has a map showing the "List of Land Owners in 1779 and earlier, in Wachovia." It shows No. 50 for George Schulz, which is in the forks of Muddy River. He was between 49 on the north (John Shaub, Jr.), and 52 on the south (Joseph Leinbach), which was right at the forks. He joined 51 (Will Volk) on the east. Above 51 was 48 (John Jacob Kapp). 48 joined 47 on the east, and not far above this was the town of Bethabara. 47 was Bethabara Mill land on the stream. Bethania was on the other stream in a fork up above 49. No. 57 was John Conrad and No. 60 Silvester Thompson. See p. 1343, Vol. 3-4-5, for map. Dr. Rights finally decided the Dorothea and the Muddy Creek were the same stream.

The printed Moravian Archives, V. 4, p. 1923, lists in Bethania George Schulz, 1730, and Johannes Schulz 1703. P. 1619 has: "Bethabara Diary, 1780. May 21, Br. Stauber was here for the service, and on his way home stopped to see old Br. Schulze. He had hardly started on his way again when something stung his horse, which began to kick, and he was thrown, hurting himself badly on the hand and one arm, though nothing seems to be broken."

"THE MARRIED BROTHER GEORG SCHULZ (GEORGE SCHULTZ), who passed away in peace on 7th Sept. 1789, wrote nothing of his life experiences in this generation. Thus only the following information can be reported: He was born on the 3rd Dec. 1730 in the village of Riehen near Basel. He was brought up in the Reformed religion. Because his parents, Johannes and Eva Schultzens, were both converted, and attended the meetings of the converted in their village, he therefore enjoyed a good and careful upbringing, whereby he did not remain untouched by the knowledge of the Savior's mercy and grace. In 1749 in his 19th year, he emigrated with his parents to Pennsylvania. Since they at first dwelt in Gocalico, and finally in Lebanon, where they became connected with the Brethren congregation, our departed brother had also the opportunity to hear the gospel-story of the atonement for sinners through the death of Jesus. This had a strong effect so that he began to worry about his soul's welfare and sought forgiveness for his sins by the Lord, who granted him grace. In 1759 he was accepted by the Societaet, and in 1761, March 14th, he married Maria Huberin (Huber) who was also a member. In 1766 he and his wife were taken into the church as members. In August 1767 they were accepted together to partake of the Holy Communion. 1769 on the 16th of May he came with his parents and his young family here to the Wachau (Wachovia) and built three miles from here to the south. (From Bethania).

"Further report concerning him is that he possessed an honest, open nature, did not use many words, but what he said came out short and round, which seemed strange sometimes to others, but one could notice that he spoke according to his understanding. All those that knew him liked him because of it. He could not express himself about his feelings, only that he considered himself as a sinner, and was unworthy of the mercy that was shown him and yet longed for more gratification. So he lived joyfully until three years ago when something happened that he could not participate in, and he had to lose our church associations and the holy communion fellowship, because he thought he was right. However, he could not rest until he understood and, as a sinner, pleaded to be accepted again. To his great joy last year he and his wife were readmitted and, shortly afterwards, allowed to partake of the holy communion. This brought happiness and gratitude. Since then he has been in joyful attitude toward the Lord.

"At the end of August this year, his wife and son and, two days later, he himself, became seriously ill with a high fever, wherewith he was so badly attacked that he took to his bed. During the first days he was discouraged and sighed, if only the Lord would have pity on him and heal him so that he could take care of the seeding. But he was willing to abide by the Lord's will. The medicines used availed nothing and he became weaker and weaker. From now on he was visited and, on 6th September, as he was found to be very weak, a funeral liturgy was held while those present wept. The Lord's blessing was felt and peace was with him. After this he gently passed away. His age was 59 years less 3 months. He left behind him 2 sons and 4 daughters. Two daughters were married and he lived to see three grandchildren, one of which passed on before him in death." (Translated from the German.)

Another memoir translated verbally by Dr. Rights gave the same information but said: "He built three miles from Bethania. Previously, he had been very poor but was well provided in inner things till three years ago when he withdraw awhile and then came back in. At the end of August this year his wife and youngest son were admitted. He was sick with fever and on the 7th of Sept. at 10 o'clock in the morning, at the age of 59 years 3 months, he fell asleep. There were seven children, two sons and four daughters survived him. He had three grandchildren, two surviving him."

The catalogue in the Museum offices says both George and his wife Maria died at Bethania and their graves are arranged by choir. Maria Shulz is in the married women's choir. Dr. Rights wrote that the Records of the Moravians, V. III, p. 1343, has "George Shulze is listed as owner of lot No. 50, corresponding to the lot No. 28 bought by J. Schulz. Lot No. 50 is shown marked on map in same position as on other."

"(2) (4) THE MARRIED SISTER MARIA SCHUTZENS (SCHULZ), maiden name Huberin, was born 21st April in Lebanon, Pennsylvania, 1744. During her youth she had the opportunity to become acquainted with the Church of the Brethren which brought her blessing. She learnt to know herself as a poor sinner, turned to her Savior and experienced His compassion. In 1760 she was received into the Societaet. In 1761 on the 14th of March she was married to her late husband Georg Schulz in Lebanon. In 1766 she, together with her husband, was present with the congregation for the Holy Communion. In 1769, she moved here to Wachau (Wachovia), where she arrived safely on the 16th of May and settled on a site three miles from here, where she experienced the Lord's blessing. She was immediately recognized as communion sister. She enjoyed a happy family life with her late husband, which was blessed with 2 sons and 5 daughters. One daughter passed away in Pennsylvania. Two daughters are married. They belong to this church as communion sisters. Two sons and 2 daughters are still at home, of these the oldest is a communion member. On the 22 August this year, she was obliged to lie down because of a high fever. Two days afterwards, her husband was also ill. Then also one of the sons. Her husband passed away before she also was taken away peacefully. At first it appeared not to be serious with her illness, but after 8 days she became very ill, so that she was mostly unconscious, but lay patiently quiet. When her husband passed away she seemed to take little notice, but soon after she expressed herself, saying she would soon follow him and they would celebrate the wedding song-festival, which she had always had in mind, together with the Lord. She became now weaker and weaker. Finally arthritis* set in and that certainly hastened her end. She received, on the 8th, the final blessing and on the 9th in the evening around 5 o'clock she fell gently asleep in the Lord.

"We can witness that our sister was a forgiven sinner and was true to her Savior. Three years ago she was misled against the will of the Lord to do something that lost her the association with the church. She, however, could not rest in such circumstances and begged for re-admittance. And now for a year she has been in the congregation and has participated in the Holy Communion. She was a true mother who brought up her children well. For her husband she was in every respect a true helpmeet, especially had she a gift that she used well to help him in the outdoor work. Yes, one can say that, because of her industrious aid, much depended on her arrangements. In every way she loved her husband who in turn loved her dearly. She gave him the utmost respect, and so they enjoyed life with one another until the end. Her age was 45 years and 4 months." *Arthritis is also translated "cramps."

On the same page is an obituary of a boy eleven years age, baptized by Brother Ernest, who died 1778: "He had acquired a bad habit of eating glue or soot from the stove. His mother had earnestly tried to break this habit, but it had become almost a disease with him. He lost his natural complexion as he practised his bad habit secretly. This may have caused him to become ill. Shortly before, on Sept. 21, his mother discovered that he again had been eating soot. Very soon after he suffered from cramps and lost the power of speech. On the 23d the Lord had pity on him." His name was Johannes Seiler.

Another memoir on Maria Huber Schulz translated verbally by Dr. Rights said: "Three years ago they were led astray and lost to the congregation, but they were not at peace and were received back again in the congregation. She had dropsy and died 9th Sept. 1789, two days after her husband, at five o'clock, age 45 years, 4 months, 19 days." Her memoir is No. 61 and her husband's No. 60. Her grave in Bethania cemetery is also No. 61. George's grave is not found yet.

There is also in the archives a memoir of Eva Soldener who married Johannes Schulz, which should be translated. She came from Canton Riehen, Basel, Switzerland. Others who came from Basel were Spoenhauer, also Muttents b. 1726, who was in York County, Pa., arriving 1749.

There are eight volumes of Moravian Records published by the State. Vol. 1 is 1752-1771, V. 2 is 1752-1775. They can be bought for $1 per volume but some are not available. There are two Shultz names in Vol 1. Vol. 2 has an item on J. Shultz. Frank Horton of the Information Headquarters told us there were people in the region as early as the 1730's but it was 1753 when the first settlers arrived at Bethabara from Bethlehem, Pa. The Bethania records have not been translated as yet by Dr. Rights, Archivist.

V. 4, p. 1614, printed Moravian Records, has an item in the Bethabara Diary, 1780, that taxes must be paid to the sheriff in Bethania. "Jan. 10. This morning it began to snow. Feb. 11. Johannes Krause was here asking for the baptism of his child, so Br. Lorenz went thither today, and held a service in his house. The child received the name Andrews; sponsors were GEORGE AND MARIA SCHULZ... About 50 persons were present, half of them children, for the schoolmaster of that neighborhood came bringing the school."

V. 4, p. 1512 has: "The first engagement for the American people was the battle of Ramsour's Mill, June 20, 1780, near the south fork of the Catawba River in North Carolina. The real turning of the tide of their future came in October, 1780, at King's Mountain, N.C. where Ferguson and his men were defeated. North Carolina troops suffered severely in the disaster of 1780. Washington had sent all North Carolinians of the Continental Line to the support of Charleston, and when that city was forced to surrender all of the men who had not been killed were captured."

Page 1517 says: There was a Congress in Wachovia in 1780.

Page 1513: "The continuance of the war unrest during this year has often encircled us with danger and difficulty... particularly during a night attack of light horse on Br. & Sr. Fritz in the English School-House... Bethabara... during Sept., Oct. & Nov. when as many as 2,000 men were quartered there at different times, and had to be supplied." Page 1515: "Attempts were made to class us among the hated Tories." They seemed to be pacifists.

Vol. 5, 1784-1792 has: July 17, 1788. "July 11, 1788. I went by Bethania to the old 85 years old John Schulz. He was called to the Lord. Readmitted brother and sister Schulz and Mr. Schulz to the congregation." . . . "Oct. 6, Jacob Schulz came from Chriensbrum and brought letters from Pennsylvania." P. 2255: "July 5, 1785: I visited the old Father Johann Schutz, who has been bedridden for more than four years... July 11, George Schultz announced that his old father had passed away peacefully this morning about 4 o'clock." P. 2106: "By request I visited old Br. Shulz who has been confined to his bed for a year and a day." (Also from the Bethania Diary.)

The Bethania Diary, 1785, says: "April 25, 1785. We made our first visits to certain members and friends living outside the town... from there to Andreas Volks... back to Shultz... one of the Shultz children showed us the way to the Shallowford road... to John Krause... Andreas Volk... Casper Stoltz." P. 2031 has: "Gottlieb Rank's father asking Maria Schulz for his son Gottlieb, the Lord approved." 1784: "Married July 29, wedding of Gottlob Ranke and A. Maria Schulz, love feast in afternoon. P. 3639 Vol. 8 has Anna Maria Schulz. It also has Rev. Samuel Renatus Hubner, but no Rudisill.

The Catalogue of Salem, Bethabara and Bethania, 1794, p. 146 says: "Jacob Stoltz born April 12, 1760, in Pennsylvania, and his wife EVA born SCHULZ Nov. 6, 1766, Lebanon, Pa. Reformed. Received her 1782, him 1783, Bethania. They were married in Bethania 1786 and had three sons and one daughter who was a Miller. Jacob died 1798, May 31, and left Eva a widow." (Note: Frank Horton said they used to use a wedding ring as one was made by Vogler in 1818 for his wife, and they had a religious ceremony. In New England only a civil ceremony was allowed.)

Mrs. David Walker sent 20 inscriptions and said "I don't guess I found them all for the stones were so worn we could not make out the names on some of them." Those listed elsewhere are not repeated below, such as Eva, Johannes, Maria, Christian T., J. Jacob, Edwin T., Sybella, Catharine A., Christine (Mickey), William Augustus, Rufus S., Susanna (Ziglor).

Christian Shultz b. Mar. 10, 1782, d. Dec. 16, 1829.

Ellen S. Shultz b. Aug. 11, 1855, d. June 15, 1880.

Alice Mary Aiken and I made a trip in June to North Carolina and Virginia, 1954, and we copied down others additional stones. The stones are small square flat stones laid flat, and are all uniform in rows. The married women are in one "choir" and the unmarried in another, the children in another, while the men are also separated. It is a very beautiful cemetery with old cedars and red cardinal birds. Mrs. Walker says they take care of 16 Shultz graves, and all the graves are decorated each year, which is a famous sight in Winston-Salem and nearby, as is also the Easter sunrise ceremony. No. 1 is Barb. Freum nat. 1696, dec. 1768.

No. 27 is Eva Schultz nat. Dec. 1705 ob. May 7, 1779.

May Shultz born Jan. 16, 1805, d. July 6, 1885.

John Shulz b. Nov. 16, 1772, d. Dec. 2nd 1846 or 1840, not clear.

In the Moravian Archives, Winston-Salem, Dr. Rights showed us a very big old Bible printed 1765 in Neuremburg, given to them by J. Weston Clinard, 563 9th St., N.W., Hickory, N.C. The line is Gottfried¹ Samuel² Jacob³ Shultz. "Records of Jacob and Elenora Shultz and Childrens Age":

"Jacob Shultz was born 1792 the 20 January.

Elenora Shultz was born 1797 the 13 October.

Sandford Benjamin Shultz was born 1815 the 2d June.

Maria Louisa Shultz was born 1817 the 6 May.

Romolus Augustus Shultz was born 1819 the 11 August.

Edmund James Shultz was born 1812 4th of August.

Lewis Theodore Shultz was born 1824 the 14th July.

Gideon Samuel Shultz was born 1827 the 6 May.

Martha Rebecca Shultz was born 1829 8th December.

Caroline Susen Shultz was born 1832 the 4th May.

Charlotte Elizabeth Shultz was born 1834 the 6th September.

Charles Frederick Shultz was born Oct. 1, 1837.

Jacob Shultz died 15 July 1848."

Gottfried¹ Shultz appears to have been born 1750 at Nazareth, Pa. or that may have been the date of his death. Jacob was the son of Samuel, the shoemaker in the village of Salem, whose little shop still remains on the main street. I took a picture of it. In the Boys' School room at the Museum is a stunning primitive painting of his two children, a boy named Parmenio Thomas Shulz and a girl named Antoinette Shultz b. about 1816. (These names occur in the Bethania graveyard.)

Dr. Rights said the Reformed Church was not the same as the Moravians in Germany. He said the Moravians bought 100,000 acres of land in N.C. for Wachovia, which means "Green Meadows," the name was taken from the estate of Count Zinzendorf who helped the Moravians to revive their religion.

Dr. Douglas L. Rights, Archivist, Moravian Archives, Box 68, Salem Station, Winston-Salem, N.C. has charge of the files which contain lists of births, deaths and memoirs kept in German. These can be ordered either in translation or by photostat. He told us there are 12 Moravian churches now in Winston-Salem and 700 in his own church of which he is minister. He says there are 7,000 Moravians in the city, and 15,000 in the Southern States.

Mrs. David Walker's old farm still goes down to Muddy Creek. The original farm was granted to her ancestors between Muddy Creek and Mill Creek. She formerly had the original grant for the land but it has not been returned from a lawyer to whom she gave it to look over. This grant would prove the ancestry. She said it was granted by an Earl in handwriting. She says all the old houses are torn down but hers and one lived in by her cousin Ed. We saw this old log house with a fine brick chimney and view. It sits in a blackberry patch and is used for storing hay. It is close to her house. She said her grandfather's place was near Muddy Creek but it is so grown up you cannot walk there now. She said there were three or four old log houses but the last one was torn down five or six years ago, except the one mentioned above of Ed. Mrs. Walker says she remembers the old bridge over the stream. Mrs. Susan Blakely, 858 Madison Avenue, Winston-Salem, N.C. is the daughter of John Henry Shultz of Muddy Creek and granddaughter of Thomas Christian Shultz. Mrs. Heinz now owns the John Henry Shultz place.

Maria Huber, who married George Schultz, may be of the family of President Herbert Hoover, which came from Pennsylvania to N.C. and was a German Quaker family. He probably has the genealogy of this family and would send information on it.

Mrs. Walker says her Shultz family had blue eyes and most were tall, and not so thin. All were Moravians. They raised corn and wheat and cotton and the land was fertile, all being farmers. She does not know her kin in Winston-Salem and said the Bishop in Bethania was a Shultz. She said her father could speak Dutch. All the grant has been sold but her piece of 90 acres and that of Lily who has 20 acres. They grow corn, oats, hay and watermelons. The old house of Mrs. Walker has batten doors, wood panels, exposed beams. It is on Shattalon Road. They use a tractor now, not horses. Her sister, Mrs. Laura M. (A.C.) Matsinger, is at 1058 East Polo Road, RFD, Western Salem, N.C.

The Bethania church is a fine building, quiet and lovely, with deep arched windows, each dedicated to some person. A note says the Old Father's Shultz potter's shop was next to the church, but does not say which town. The earliest two-story house in Salem belonged to a Shultz--it was unusual to build a two-story house then.

In Germanton at an old store we were told that the Treasurer of the Court House in Winston-Salem was a Shultz born near Germanton, but no Shultz lives there now and no Ladds, but they formerly lived two miles back. This was W.N. Shultz, 23 Vantage Drive, Winston-Salem, N.C. This is a very forlorn little town now.

The following seems to be of Haywood County, N.C. Grantees: W.E. Shultz--to W.G.B. Barrett Book N. p. 20, Chat. Mtg. 12--1875. Also an item Chaney M. Shults, & Rufus--Grantee G.W. Messer, deed, Book 35, p. 220, 25 acres, Jonathan Ts. 1907.

The above proves the following relationships:

I. JACOB SHUTS (SHULTZ), who lived in a mansion house on the South Fork of Muddy Creek, and whose land was divided before 1822 by the heirs as follows:

1. Charles Shutt.
2. Magdalene who married John Kele or Kell.
3. John Shutt of Stokes Co. N.C.
4. Christ. Shutt.
5. Frederick Shult of Stokes Co. who made deed 1823 for land on both sides of South Fork of Muddy Creek. He probably married Sally Hess Dec. 4, 1804.
6. Probably Samuel Shutt.

Vol. 5, 1784-1792, Moravian Records has an item: "Oct. 6, Jacob Schulze came from Chriansbrum and brought letters from Pennsylvania." V. 5, p. 2255, has an item: "July 5, 1785, I visited the old Father Johann Schutz, who has been bedridden for more than four years." Is he the same man as "old Br. Shulz," who was Johannes Shulz?

Mrs. Jewell also received a letter 1951 from Mrs. Wesley Waldrop, 1602 Miller Avenue, Murry, Ky., saying, "My husband's great-grandfather was Alexander Dameron Jackson. His mother was a Dameron from Virginia. Do you have a Dameron that married a Jackson?" She likewise sent me the following from Leo L. Holz, 417 Lewis Street, Los Angeles, and it seems that he worked on the Joseph Dameron line of Missouri etc., and made the errors which got into the DAR records, which I have noted in my section on the Caswell County, N.C., and Missouri Damerons. His letters follow, which show that the Huguenot story must have originated here also:

Feb. 15, 1939: "A few years back I put in considerable time trying to straighten out the records of the Dameron Family, and to that end I drew up several charts at various times and sent them to different members or relatives of the Dameron family, hoping to eventually get data which would straighten out my records. To some extent I accomplished something, though nothing to compare with my expectations. I had been working on several different families, and on some I got better results, so have put most of my time since then on those families. Also I had to modify my ideas on the Damerons in a few instances, so I do not even know whether the data you have seen accords with the latest information on the Damerons.

"All available data seems to show that there is but the one Dameron family in this country, which of course simplifies the search in that one extent, that we can know that every Dameron is a member of the family, and hence a relative in some degree.

"I completed the line on which I was working about four years ago, by the method mentioned above, as I eventually contacted a Mrs. Galbraith in Kansas City, Mo., who sent me a sheaf of data from her Family Bible which supplies the missing links in the chain. But on other branches of the family I have done very little since then.

"There are many families in the country who present quite an interesting Family History, and of course, all families here are derived from previous European families, although the connection in many instances is difficult if not impossible to trace. The Dameron Family is of French Huguenot origin. They left France during the Huguenot persecution and went to Suffolk, England, where John Dameron (1482-1548) founded the family which eventually sent pioneers to this country. The first American colonist was Lawrence Dameron who founded the Northumberland Damerons in 1652. So far as I have been able to discover, this Northumberland family is the progenitor of all the Damerons here, although the later branch which remained in that county is the one generally referred to as the Northumberland Damerons.

"Too often in genealogy, the names of female members of the family are slighted, and sometimes not even mentioned, as the tendency was to consider that inasmuch as the girls would marry and take another name, then their records would be included in the genealogy of that family. I have tried as far as possible to keep the female lines intact.

"One great aid to you may be in the records of the D.A.R. They publish a volume at frequent intervals (a few months apart) giving the names of the new members of the D.A.R. In the back of each volume is indexed the names of these members; and in a separate index is given the 'Honor Roll' that is, the names of those Revolutionary heroes from whom these moderns claim to be descended. Reference then to the name where it appears in the body of the book will show the complete line of descent claimed. There were two of these Revolutionary Damerons, at least; Christopher and Joseph. Oh yes, there is also a Bartholomew, and possibly others.

"You say you hope to eventually prepare a complete Dameron genealogy? I must say you are ambitious, and I wish you all the luck in the world; and furthermore I am willing to cooperate with you to the best of my ability. But I wonder if you realize what you are undertaking? Genealogy is a fascinating hobby, with the redeeming feature that it is a very useful and interesting one. But it calls for patience and perseverance. So if you want to compile a genealogy, don't expect to complete it this year, or next, or the next, but make up your mind that you will work on it until every detailed part has been carefully followed out. The essential requirement is this: don't give up if you seem to be checkmated; some solution will eventually present itself. And don't try to see how soon you can get it done; but do be sure about how accurately it is done. Don't guess at anything; or assume for instance that because an ancestor named John Smith was born about 1727 in Richmond County, Va., that he is necessarily the John Smith you find in some other genealogy born 1728 in the same county. They may be the same, but even chances they are not. I speak from experience. That is why I wish to know just what Dameron genealogy of my preparation you have seen. I made the error in the early days of assuming too much, and later had to correct my charts when the correct data presented itself.

"I have been working now for five years or more on two other families: Exline and Penrod. On the former I have had the best results. This family came to Pennsylvania in 1727; is the only family of the name in the country (the spelling Axline is a variation)... my present records include some six thousand names. The Penrod Family is also the only family of the name in this country; settled in Pennsylvania in 1772, and was more prolific than the Exline Family, so my work is slower with it. The Exline genealogy is almost ready to publish; the Penrod family will take a couple years more work. The Dameron Family has been here nearly a century longer than either of the two mentioned, and has also been very prolific, so if you stop short of ten thousand names your records will not be very complete. Try looking up the name Dameron in the city directories of the various large cities; these directories are to be found in any large library. Will be glad to hear from you for any further data, and will be glad to help you get started and also help gather the data."

Another letter from Leo Holz was Apr. 26, 1940, but he did not answer the reply of Aurelia Jewell: "The fact of the matter is that Dameron data is very scarce, but principally it is so conflicting. If the early generations could have thought of some name other than Christopher, Bartholomew, Thomas, George and Joseph, it would have helped us immensely. You were interested in the identity of a Nancy Dameron, and as I told you in my letter I had found none in the records anywhere near the necessary age. But I just last week found one of that name, though the date is still a little uncertain. You said she was born somewhat earlier than 1800. The one I found was born between 1757 and 1765. Will this be too early?"

"Her father was Joseph Dameron and her mother Elizabeth Waddy, who were married in February 1757, she was also of Dameron descent. This father, Joseph, I have not been able to identify yet for sure, but this is her mother's ancestry:

"Elizabeth Waddy: b. abt. 1737, dau. of John Waddy and Elizabeth Dameron b. abt. 1710.

"Elizabeth Dameron: dau. of George Dameron 1685-1720 and Margaret Taylor.

"George Dameron: son of George Dameron 1648-1698 and Elizabeth Dennis.

"George Dameron, son of Lawrence Dameron 1595-1660, and Dorothy _____."

He wanted "any data on any Joseph Dameron" or "any Christopher Dameron."

The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm blanket I had been sitting under. I looked up at the sky, which was a pale, overcast grey. The air felt heavy, like it was holding its breath. I took a deep breath, trying to get used to the new environment. The silence around me was a bit unsettling, but I knew I had to get on with it. I started walking towards the building, my footsteps echoing on the wet pavement. The building was a large, imposing structure with many windows, some of which were already lit up. I felt a sense of anticipation as I approached the entrance. The door was slightly ajar, and I could see a glimpse of the interior. It was a modern, well-lit space with a high ceiling and large windows. I took a moment to look around, trying to get my bearings. The atmosphere was professional and serious, but I also felt a sense of relief. I knew this was my chance to shine, and I was determined to make the most of it.

As I walked further into the building, I noticed that the temperature was just what I needed. It was a comfortable surprise. I saw several people working at their desks, some looking up at me as I passed. I felt a bit self-conscious, but I knew I had to act confident. I continued walking, my mind racing with thoughts of the tasks ahead of me. I reached my desk, which was a small, cluttered space with a computer monitor and some papers. I took a moment to organize my thoughts and then started working. The work was challenging, but I was determined to succeed. I knew this was my chance to prove myself, and I was not going to let it slip through my fingers. I focused on the task at hand, ignoring the occasional distractions. The hours passed quickly, and I felt a sense of accomplishment as I completed each task. I knew I was capable of more, and I was determined to show it. The day ended with a sense of satisfaction, knowing that I had made a good start. I looked back at the building, feeling a sense of pride in what I had achieved. I knew this was just the beginning, and I was ready for whatever came next.

The next day, I was back at work, and I felt even more determined. I had learned a lot from the first day, and I was ready to take on whatever challenges came my way. I started working on a new project, which was a bit more complex than the first one. I knew I would need to be careful and pay attention to detail. I took my time, making sure I understood every step of the process. I felt a sense of focus and concentration as I worked. The project was challenging, but I was determined to see it through. I knew this was my chance to really shine, and I was not going to let it slip through my fingers. I focused on the task at hand, ignoring the occasional distractions. The hours passed quickly, and I felt a sense of accomplishment as I completed each task. I knew I was capable of more, and I was determined to show it. The day ended with a sense of satisfaction, knowing that I had made a good start. I looked back at the building, feeling a sense of pride in what I had achieved. I knew this was just the beginning, and I was ready for whatever came next.

Over the next few days, I continued to work hard, and I felt a sense of progress. I was starting to get the hang of things, and I was beginning to feel like I belonged. I knew this was my chance to shine, and I was determined to make the most of it. I focused on the task at hand, ignoring the occasional distractions. The hours passed quickly, and I felt a sense of accomplishment as I completed each task. I knew I was capable of more, and I was determined to show it. The day ended with a sense of satisfaction, knowing that I had made a good start. I looked back at the building, feeling a sense of pride in what I had achieved. I knew this was just the beginning, and I was ready for whatever came next.

THE FAMILY RECORDS OF LOUISE H. DAMERON AND MRS. O.A. KEACH

^{W42N?}
Louise H. Dameron wrote: "Mrs. Keach wrote me at one time that she had always intended to write a Dameron genealogy. If you knew the address, some of her family might have records or maybe they gave them to an Historical Society in Wichita, Kans. I did not rate pictures of the family. My father died when I was a baby and was one of the younger members of the family. I do have a copy of a silhouette of Edward-Porteous Dameron, M.D. and a group of my father and his brothers, there were five. Have had none of myself in years. My list of children and dates were taken from the bible of Nancy Ann Ball Dameron. The McCormack family have it. They are descendants of Mary Waddy Dameron, "Molly"--gr.father's will. The list was sent me by an old lady Miss Ella McCormack. I sent her a copy of Mrs. Keach's records. She wrote me: "Many of the names are familiar to me, having heard mother and grandmother speak of them. A Miss Lunsford visited grandmother when mother was small. She was a cousin. Aunt Louisa married her cousin Walter G. Carter. Grandmother used to tell me what a wonderful man your grandfather was (Edward Porteous Dameron). How he performed miracles of healing for those days. She did not know how to wash a pocket handkerchief when she was married but her father, Thomas Ball, gave her a number of colored people to work for her. She also said that when the regular minister failed to appear our grandfather was called onto preach the sermon."

^{RURAL?}
"Lawrence Carter Dameron, Towers Hotel, Brooklyn, N.Y. was the cousin who paid for doing the genealogy. Betty Peters Curtis and Marguerite Peters Stanford in 1951 lived in Edmonds, Washington, Route D. Box 3024. Their father, Albert Peters, lives in Hard River, Oregon. Their mother, who died some time ago was my cousin, the Dameron descendant. Albert Peters has married again. Lawrence above has no family but his sister has. I do not have her address. Bruce Dameron 141 1/2 South Osprey Avenue, is here in Sarasota, Fla. with his wife. He teaches at the high school. I do not know him but he is a most popular person at school."

"I am sending you some pictures to see what these Damerons look like. I think we all look more or less alike--long and thin. I have a lovely miniature of my father done from this photograph. Aunt "Lizzie" (Eliz. Kennedy-Dameron Thomas) really raised my father and named him. Mother was devoted to her. My father's mother had died."

"About a year ago I destroyed everything I could, personal things that no one else would be interested in. The consequence is I have no pictures now. I have a good many Downman records but find no Nicholls Downman among them. Robert Downman married Elizabeth Porteous, dau. of Robert and Eliz. Jennings Porteous. Their dau. Mildred m. Thomas Ball. I have the records back to the original William Downman. Did you realize that Ana Taylor, wife of Geo. Ball, Jr. was a sister of Elizabeth, who m. John Dameron. John Thent Dameron, son of Thomas and Ann Ball did not marry. We have no ancestor of the name Thent. "Violet Banks" was the name of Edward Porteous' home in Virginia. I wonder if that is where A.V.D. Pierpont lives. Posey Co. is in Indiana and not Ills. Page 33 you have Bar. and wife Mary deed to Richard Condiff, land in Lancaster Co. "Messuage" means a dwelling house and adjoining land. It was used in old English wills which I have read. Will Sir Edward Barkham 14 Jan. 1632 "an annuity of L 6-135-4d. out of the messuage called the Flower de Luce." Thomas L. Dameron m. Dec. 5, 1850, Campbell Co., Ky. Susan Kiser. Have known Miss Marshall Kiser all my life, and he must be one of her family but I do not know him. She went to Hawaii and married a sugar man there. You have certainly done a tremendous job on the Dameron family. It is awfully nice to have the photographs, makes the record much more interesting. I have been working on a Parker family for cousins. Have Ky. and Ind. records up to James^o, son. We are tracing James^o, Jr. He was b. N.Y. 1803-1850 census. Have written almost every town in Connecticut, I think. Do not know his mother's name or date of marriage & where they were m. nor who the Miss Belknap was who married Elijah on the date of that marriage."

SIR THOMAS LUNSFORD, NOTED CAVALIER

Sir Thomas Lunsford was one of the most trusted followers of King Charles I during the war between the Cavaliers and Roundheads, and there are a number of references to him in the contemporary documents of the period. He had red-hair and a fiery temper, and was said to have a twin brother, Sir Herbert, who died 1665.

The Dictionary of National Biography has this item about Sir Thomas Lunsford, referring to Addit. Ms. 5702, p. 119, and State Papers, Dom. 24, July, 1632, and 3 July, 1635, for his family, which was of Framfield in Sussex. "The son early showed a wild and impetuous temperament. He was charged in the Star-chamber with killing deer in the grounds of his relative, Sir Thomas Pelham, on 27 June 1632, and ordered to pay a fine of 1,000 L. to the king and 750 L. to Pelham. In August, 1633, he committed a murderous assault upon Pelham, and was sent, by warrant from the council (16 Aug. 1633), to Newgate, whence he contrived to escape in October 1634, although 'so lame that he can only go in a coach'. (Ellis, Original Letters, 3rd ser. iv. 204.) He passed over to the continent, entered the French service, and in April, 1636, was raising a regiment in Picardy (State Papers, Dom. 4 April, 1636.) In his absence the cause of the Attorney-General v. Thomas Lunsford the elder and others for conspiracy to take the life of Sir Thomas Pelham was tried in the Star-chamber in June 1637. The son Thomas was fined 5,000 L. to the king and 3,000 to Pelham, and for failing to appear to receive judgment he was outlawed. Two years later he returned to England, received the king's pardon and theremission of his fine (24 April 1639, 'at our Court at York'), and joined the king's army against the Scots. For Charles's Scottish expedition of the following year he commanded a regiment of train-bands raised in Somerset, conducted it from Warwick to Newcastle (June to 3 Aug. 1640), and was at the rout at Newburn. In December 1640, he was again in London, petitioning the commons for leave to stay in town, as his presence was required both by the two houses and by business of his own. A year later all England was alarmed by the news of his appointment to the lieutenancy of the Tower. The warrant for his installation was issued by Charles at Whitehall, 22 Dec. 1641, and the commission for administering the oaths on the following day. On the same day, 23 Dec. the common council of London presented a petition to the commons against his appointment. The lower house at once sought a conference with the lords. In this conference they described Lunsford as an outlaw, a non-attender at church during the three-quarters of a year he was in the king's army, and a ruined and desperate character. Among other libels circulated at the time was the rumour that he was a cannibal and in the habit of eating children. (cf. Butler, Hudibras, pt. iii, c. ii, l. 4; Notes and Queries, 4th ser. xi, 171.) The lords declined to join in an address for his removal, and accordingly the commons proceeded singly (24 Dec.) to vote him unfit to be lieutenant. Their petition to Charles was supported 'in so menacing a manner by the lord mayor that Charles gave way. On 26 Dec. the keys were given to Sir John Byron, and Lunsford had to content himself with the honour of knighthood (conferred 28 Dec. 1641), and according to some accounts, a pension of 500 L. a year. (Commons' Journals, ii, 355-8; Lords' Journals, iv. 487). He was subsequently called before the commons for examination, 27 Dec., and on leaving the house engaged in a free fight in Westminster Hall.

"According to Clarendon, Digby, after designing the attack on the five members, had recommended Lunsford for the post at the Tower because he stood in immediate need of a man 'who might be trusted.' When Charles finally left Whitehall (10 Jan. 1642), he was escorted by Lunsford, who two days later was reported to be at Kingston with a large force, and with the intention of marching against Portsmouth. The commons in alarm ordered his arrest, and on the 13th he was captured at Billingbear, Berkshire, the mansion of the Nevilles, his wife's family. On 2 Feb. he was admitted to bail, and before June was at liberty. On 1 July he was with Charles at York, and on the 29th took part in an armed demonstration against Hull. On 19 Aug. 1642, he received a commission to raise a thousand foot in Yorkshire, and on the following day was appointed governor of Sherborne Castle, Dorset, by the Marquis of Hertford, with whom he retired a month later, 23 Sept., into Glamorganshire. He was present at Edgehill, 23 Oct. 1642, and made prisoner (a contemporary tract, 'The Examination of Colonel Lunsford,' dated 19 Nov. 1642, says 'at Kineton;' cf. Rous, Diary, Camd. Soc. p. 126.) He was imprisoned in Warwick Castle, and charges of treason were brought against him. (The Examination.) Lunsford remained prisoner in Warwick Castle until early in May 1644. On 6 May he arrived at Oxford (Dugdale, Diary, p. 66.) He was immediately put in command of a regiment, and is stated to have been selected by Charles to assist, with four others, Sir Arthur Aston in the government of Oxford. He then took service under Prince Rupert and became governor of Monmouth; Sir Nicholas Throckmorton afterwards accused him of losing Monmouth basely. He seems, however, to have resigned the governorship to his brother Herbert, previous to 7 July 1645. He suffered on 9 June, 1645, a total defeat from the Shrewsbury forces at Stoke Castle. About the time of the royalist defeat at Naseby he received, according to Lloyd, a commission from the king to consolidate the Welsh forces, but in December 1645, he was made prisoner at the capture of Hereford by Colonels Birch and Morgan. The commons subsequently ordered him to be removed prisoner to the Tower on a charge of treason. (commons' Journals, iv. 414.) While there he wrote his 'Answer to a Letter,' 21 June 1647 (cf. Gent. Mag. 1836, ii, 149.) He remained in the Tower till 1 Oct. 1647, when he was removed 'to the prison of Peter House,' Lord Petre's house in Aldersgate Street (Commons' Journals, v. 322,) and in the following year he was again at large. In December 1648, he was at Amsterdam, ready to cross to England (see Hist. Mss. Comm. 4th Rep. p. 275, where he is described as a red-haired man, and lame in his left leg), but he appears to have soon relinquished the Stuart cause as hopeless. On 7 Aug. 1649, he received a pass for himself, wife, and children to go to Virginia. According to the pedigree, (Harl. Ms. 892), 'he sould all and went to Virginia, and there he married his third wife.' He died probably in Virginia in 1653 (see order of the Middlesex quarter sessions dated 11 Jan. 1653-4, requiring Sir John Thorowgood, the second husband of Dame Elizabeth Nevil, grandmother of Lunsford's children by his second wife, to support them.) He was buried in Williamsburgh graveyard in Virginia (Notes and Queries, 1st ser. ix. 373). On 13 June 1691 the will was proved of a Thomas Lunsford who describes himself (in January 1688) as a baronet of Tooting Graveney, Surrey. He may have been a (bastard) son of Sir Thomas (P.C.C. 102, Vere.)

"By his wife called Lady Elizabeth Lunsford, alias Thomas, who survived him, he appears to have had three sons, Daniel, Richard, and John. Lunsford was married three times, first to Anne Hudson of Peckham, Surrey--she was buried at Down Hatherley, Gloucestershire, 28 Nov. 1638; and secondly, in 1640, to Katherine, daughter of Sir Henry Neville of Billingbear, who died in 1649, leaving three daughters. A third wife he married in Virginia. An engraved portrait of Lunsford appears in Warburton's 'Prince Rupert' and in a single folio sheet in the British Museum. Lunsford seems to have been created a baronet by Charles, but the patent was never passed."

The D.N.B. also contains a sketch of "Lunsford, Sir Herbert (fl. 1640-1665), stated to be a twin brother of Sir Thomas, was said, like him, to have been bred in the Dutch and German wars, and was concerned with him in the outrage on Pelham in 1633. At the muster at York in 1640, he was captain in his brother's regiment, and was present at the battle of Edgehill. In February, 1643, he distinguished himself at Rupert's capture of Cirencester. He was then made governor of Malmesbury, but was taken prisoner when Waller captured that place, 23 March, 1643 (Bibliotheca Glocestrensis, p. 173.) He was knighted on 6 July, 1645 (Walkley, Et. of Dukes, etc.) having at the time succeeded his brother in the government of Monmouth. In October of the same year, he yielded up Monmouth to Colonel Morgan, governor of Gloucester. (Phillips, Civil War in Wales, ii. 280). He subsequently passed over to France, where in 1658, he was temporarily in command of three regiments. He returned to England evidently some time after the Restoration, he presented a petition to Charles in 1665 (Cal. State Papers, 1664-5, pp. 68, 430), and was in command of a company of foot in 1667 (ib. 1667, p. 55). He married Margaret, daughter of Sir Thomas Engham, bart. of Goodnestone, Kent, and left issue (Gent. Mag. 1836, ii. 154.)"

The Dictionary of National Biography also has a sketch of another Lunsford brother:

"Lunsford, Henry (1611-1643), second brother of Sir Thomas, was born at Framfield in Sussex, and baptised there 29 Sept. 1611. He held the rank of lieutenant-colonel in Sir Thomas's regiment at York in 1640, and was at Nottingham at the raising of the standard in July 1642. He was engaged in the action near Sherborne Castle, and subsequently at the battle of Edgehill in the same year, and was killed at the siege of Bristol, 25 July, 1643 (Clarendon, Rebellion, vii. 121, n; Mercurius Aulicus, 27 July, 1643.)"

* * * * *

Sir Thomas Lunsford, 1610-1653, Lieutenant of the Tower, was of Sussex. His mother was Katherine Fludd. His father's family fortunes were decayed.

The Coppedge family traced its descent from Knights of the Garter through the Lunsfords etc. as follows:

- I. Hugh de Stafford, K.G.
- II. Margaret de Stafford m. Ralph de Nevill, Earl of Westmoreland. K.G.
- III. Philippa Nevill m. Thomas de Dacre, descended from Sir James Douglas.
- IV. Thomas de Dacre m. Elizabeth Bowes (related to Queen Elizabeth of England.)
- V. Joan Dacre m. Sir Richard Fynes, Lord Dacre of the South.
- VI. Sir Thomas Fynes. (Fynes is also spelled Fiennes.)
- VII. William Lunsford m. Margaret Fynes.
- VIII. John Lunsford m. Mary Sackville.
- IX. Sir John Lunsford m. Barbara Lewknor.
- X. Thomas Lunsford m. Katherine Fludd, dau. of Queen Elizabeth's Treasurer of War.
- XI. Sir Thomas Lunsford m. Catherine Neville.

The greatest and most ancient noble families of England were those in the North--the Percys, Nevilles, Cliffords (earls of Cumberland), and Dacres, leaders of the Catholic faction. Ralph Neville of Raby was the most famous 1364-1425. The Nevilles were rivals of the Percys, and lived in Durham. Ralph Neville is in Shakespeare's Henry V. They were Earls of Westmoreland, with castles at Appleby, Brough, Brougham and Kendal. They continued to be Jacobite Stuart supporters. The senior line of Neville was extinct on the death of the earl in 1601, but there were male descendants of the first earl remaining, a younger line.

There were very few Cavalier refugees in Virginia. Tyler, July, 1926, has an article which says: "the land grants show that a whole train of people came in the company of Sir Thomas Lunsford, Major Mainwaring Hammond, Col. Philip Honeywood, Col. Guy Molesworth, and other cavalier officers. Some...established families in Virginia, such as Sir Thomas Lunsford, Sir Gray Skipwith, Nathaniel Bacon Sr., William Bassett, Thomas Batte, Lancelot Bathurst, Henry Benskin, Major John Brodnax, Roger Mallory, William Randolph, and John and Lawrence Washington." However, another source says about 350 cavaliers came at the time of the king's defeat.

Note: These indices are made separately for each section of the manuscript, for

 Appendices. As pages are added from time to time as new research is done, the last ones added may not have been indexed unless specially noted.

THE DAMERON-DAMRON GENEALOGY--CORRECTIONS, Feb. 1954

PART ONE: Chart B, which follows p. 12-d. Run a line over to the left from William to Lawrence, who was given land in Mattapony. Julia Old proved William was the son of Lawrence and not of Bartholomew, his brother, W. 1735, as now given in error.

Chart A. Cut Charles from under George Dameron and put him under John d. 1757. I have proved he was son of Charles not of George. Also cut the question mark beside George, as it is proved he was the son of George. Put a question mark beside "Moses, in Rowan, N.C. 1753?" We are not sure of this at all.

II. BARTHOLOMEW DAMERON 1645-1708. (Cut line "Thomas Dameron etc.)

III. LAWRENCE DAMERON.

IV. WILLIAM DAMERON. Cut line "We have no proof in documents, etc." Then change No. IV to V, and V. to VI. on the page.

PART TWO : Page 44-A. Next to last paragraph, cut all after "in which case I would think...who named his first son Joseph b. 1781" except to leave in the sentence, "I believe this Joseph was in Botetourt County, Va. in Capt. Pryor's Company of militia, 1782.

Page 27-d change title to GEORGE BALL DAMERON, not William. Also p. 7-a 9th line from top, "This Joseph was the brother of George Ball Dameron" not father.

PART THREE: p. 13, 10th line from bottom, change the word "sons" to "children" then add to the same paragraph at end: Thomas Alfonzo Moody b. 16 Jan. 1866, d. 9th Nov. 1945. Same page, last line, is Richard Stults, not Shultz.

Page 21-b, 21st line from bottom, change "and died 25 Dec. 1903," to "and was married 25 Dec. 1902." (Note: The Arizona Republic, Phoenix, Jan. 7, 1953, had an article: "Wed 50 Years, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Damron, Thatcher, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at open house in their home. The couple were married Dec. 25, 1902, in Thatcher. They have 7 children, 25 grandchildren and 6 great-grandchildren."

page 19-b. Miss Aiken wrote to change the name of the church in letter of last paragraph from Wicomico to Yeocomico, saying: "I found out later that this very old church was Yeocomico not Wicomico. I also visited Wicomico Church near Mila and a man told me that the original Wicomico Church was not standing and showed me the spot nearby on which he said the original stood."

PART ONE: p. 23-e. Put a note at the bottom. Drury was the son of Dunmore Dameron, so the above was a wrong guess. See section on Dunmore Dameron later.

THE DAMERON-DAMRON GENEALOGY;

CORRECTIONS TO BE MADE IN THE MANUSCRIPT

1. PART THREE, page 4, is not yet written as we do not have the ancestry of Capt. John Damron as yet. Will send this as a supplement when we discover this. We have the same line complete through Judith Dameron, dau. of Lazarus, son of George of Northumberland Co., Va., however, as their daughter Anna Ladd m. Capt. John Damron b. 1757.
2. PART THREE, page 12, 3d par. Mrs. Dorius says John R. Shultz was b. N.C. not Pennsylvania, proved in 1850 census in Texas, where he was found with John, Dameron, Jr. "81 yrs. coop-farmer."
3. PART THREE. Mrs. Dorius also says George Washington Damron was not a bachelor but married Susanna Stewart and is listed 1870 census with his wife. Page 13.
4. PART THREE: Page 13, first par. Milton W. Damron married Sarah Pennington, not Pendleton.
5. PART ONE: Page 13, 6th paragraph. This is Margaret Taylor, cut word Elizabeth.
6. PART ONE: Page 27-c, on Note near end of page, 3d line, change date 1863-1834 to 1763-1834.
7. PART ONE: Chart C. Cut the Christopher listed as son of Christopher and Sarah Ball Dameron. Then on page 41, cut item "2. Christopher, not mentioned in his father's will," etc. Through an error in transcribing notes, a Deed of Gift dated March 9, 1762, rec. May 10, 1762, was believed to be a will, Northumberland County, Va. Book 6, p. 31. Christopher Dameron gave "unto his son Joseph Dameron one mulatto and three negroes. Wit. Barth. Dameron, John Dameron, Rodham Lunsford." This would be Christopher of Will 1764, and this Joseph the son of his wife Sarah Ball Damron. Mrs. Cornelius noted: "This Joseph Damron m. Patience Coppedge 1762, no month or day given due to the partial destruction of the marriage bond. Christopher Dameron did not own any land."
8. PART ONE: Page 51-a is a chart and the next page should be 51-aa "The Thomas Dameron of Kentucky." The original pages 51-a and 51-b were changed to the corrected genealogy which gives this Barth. as son of John, not of Christopher.
9. PART TWO: Page 7-a begins "I have lived upwards of thirty years," and page 7-a should be 7-b; the present 7-b should be page 8.
- PART THREE: Page 11-a JOHNSON COUNTY, ILL. should be 11-c.
10. PART TWO: 47-c, which begins "Texas, Jasper County," should be 47-e. This was a type error. The correct 47-c begins "Annabel Walker sent the following..."
11. ANY PAGES CAN BE INSERTED BY CUTTING THE INSIDE EDGE OFF and glueing it into the book, after it is bound. Supplementary pages can thus be added from time to time. If you wish to receive supplementary material, please write to me and let me know.
